Doubled Soviet Jet Buildup in Cuba Spotted by Flights

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Special — Russia is again baffling U. S. Intelligence authorities with some strange military moves in Communist-ruled Cuba.

In recent weeks, the Soviet have quietly doubled their jet fighters and fighter - bombers on the island while at the same time withdrawing around 3,000 combat troops.

The latest U-2 photographs, showing increased numbers of Russian planes on or near Cuban airfields, have forced U.S. intelligence experts to raise their estimates from 150 to "more than 300" Soviet planes in Cuba.

In sharp contrast to this sinister build-up, U.S. aerial surveillance of Russian troop camps and departing ships has caused the intelligence experts to reduce their estimates of Soviet military personnel on the island from 11,000 in July to "approximately 8,000" by the end of October.

This new CIA estimate, which is being hotly challenged by Army and Navy intelligence, reports that 14,000 Russian troops have left Cuba since last year's missile crisis.

At the peak of the U.S.-Soviet confrontation, CIA put the Soviet troop strength in Cuba at 22,000. The Defense Intelligence Agency estimated the Russians at between 25,000 and 32,000.

With the Central Intelligence Agency again in undisputed command of all U.S. intelligence on Cuba, the DIA now takes the cautious position that it is impossible to estimate the number of Soviet troops still there. The reason: Lack of hard intelligence from inside Cuba.

To add to these conflicting estimates, reliable Cuban refugees are warning that most of the Russian troops have not left the island but have only taken off their uniform. The refugees' most recent estimate is 18,000.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The ZIP code plan which the Post Office Department inaugurated last July is merely a giant rehearsal for the public and will not be in use for at least two years, according to Postmaster Otto Buescher of Columbia, Mo.

Space Age Boom Possible In Colorado, Meeting Told

Colorado's potential future as a home for booming, space age growth industries depends on its willingness to build "communities of technical scholars," a leader of one of the nation's most successful science and industry centers told the University-Industry Liaison Conference here today.

Dr. Frederick E. Terman, vice president and provost of Stanford University, likened the concentrations of science-oriented industry around such schools as Stanford and MIT to the medieval "communities of scholars" which frequently became great universities like Heidelberg, Oxford, and Cambridge.

"The modern version, a community of technical scholars, is still embryonic," he said. "It has developed in the last 20 years or so.

"It consists of a university which has strong programs in engineering and science, surrounded by companies emphasizing research and development. It operates under conditions that allow continual interaction among all the groups and individuals involved.

"This is the 20th and 21st century form of the honored and ancient community of scholars, and a new and distinctive force in our society. It is becoming one of the great economic forces for the future development of our economy.

"New industrial parks are being established in the vicinity of universities in many different places around the nation. Every university with a sound program in engineering and sci-

Alderman Is Mistaken For Partridge

SHERBROOKE, Que. (AP)— When is a partridge a partridge and a duck a duck?

If you want the answer to that one you'd better not ask hunters in the Eastern Townships, 100 miles southeast of Montreal.

So far this season one hunter has taken a shot at an alderman from Asbestos, Que., saying he thought he was a partridge.

On two other occasions, pilots found pellets fired from shotguns had hit their planes while they were flying over areas infested with duck hunters.

Educator Sees Greater Role for Junior Colleges

The junior college will play an increasingly important role in America's educational system. Dr. Joseph Smiley, president of the University of Colorado, told school administrators Monday at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Dr. Smiley said he is convinced that a "first-rate junior college-type facility" is what Denver needs, rather than a costly university which would "duplicate facilities" of Denver University, CU, Colorado State University and the School of Mines.

The junior college, Dr. Smiley said, would offer "the first two years of traditional courses in liberal arts subjects and a two-year terminal program of technical and vocational courses."

"He told a joint meeting of the Colorado Association of School Boards and the Colorado Association of School Administrators that there is also "an urgent need for a separate two-year technological institute to meet the demand for highly-skilled technicians to assist research scientists and engineers."

He said post-high school educational opportunities to enrich

Newcomer Firm Officials Plead Fifth Amendment

Two officials of the bankrupt Joe Newcomer Finance Company pleaded the Fifth Amendment Monday at a hearing on a proposed reorganization of the firm.

Royce Hill, vice president and Mrs. Ruth Piland, secretary, refused to answer questions at the hearing in Denver ordered by U.S. District Judge William E. Doyle.

Hill and Mrs. Piland said they were refusing to answer questions regarding the firm's financial condition on the grounds of self-incrimination under the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution.

Joe Newcomer, missing head of the finance company, was absent from the hearing. Fred Betz Sr. of Lamar, trustee, said Newcomer's whereabouts are unknown since his disappearance last April.

Betz said creditors have until Jan. 2, 1964, to submit plans for reorganization. The deadline for submitting claims, which now total more than $3 million, is Dec. 5.

Betz has until March 2 to offer his proposal for reorganization.

Also at the hearing Monday were representatives of two creditors' committees, the Securities and Exchange Commission, Frederick E. Forehand, the company's assistant vice president, and the firm's lawyers, Hugh Crawford of Colorado Springs and Richard Luxford of Littleton

DENVER (UPI)— A subcommittee of Gov John Love's Local Affairs Commission Saturday killed a proposed one-year moratorium on all annexations involving Denver. The Metropolitan Affairs Subcommittee, headed by Gale C. Sellens, defeated the proposal on a 16-8 vote. Sen. Roy McVicker, D-Wheat Ridge, had proposed the moratorium.

Chenoweth Blasts Race To Moon as 'Wasteful'

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Rep J Edgar Chenoweth Monday declared we were "racing ourselves to the moon" and condemned the wasteful spending of money to get a "glorified tourist" on the moon by 1970.

He also rapped the federal government for apparently attempting to assume control of all U S. research and development in the technological field.

The veteran congressman was one of a host of speakers at Monday's opening session of the University-Industry Liaison Conference at the Broadmoor Hotel which winds up today.

David Packard, president of Hewlett-Packard Co., told a luncheon meeting that "lifelong education" would be needed to keep pace with the rapidly growing "technological revolution."

Dr. J. Herbert Hollomon told a dinner Monday night that in planning its industrial future in the technological society, Colorado should exploit the areas in which it already has achieved excellence.

Chenoweth urged the U. S. slow down in the so-called race for the moon in return for a sound program which would give mankind "all the practical benefits that were promised at the beginning of this great new adventure."

"I think we are concentrating on sending our astronaut to the moon as a glorified tourist, to look around for a few moments . . .and then climb back in his space ship to return to earth

Mrs. Nhu May Return to U.S. For Longer Stay

By DORIS KLEIN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An aide says Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, heartened by a number of sympathetic messages from Americans, is considering returning to the United States after a reunion with her three younger children in Rome.

Mrs. Nhu, originally scheduled to leave today for Rome, postponed her trip 24 hours in order to receive telephonic assurances that her children are in Rome before she leaves the United States.

More than 3,000 telegrams and messages have poured into Mrs. Nhu's hotel suite since the military coup Friday which overthrew the regime of her brother-in-law, Ngo Linh Diem, the aide said.

Most of the messages were sympathetic, he added.

Col. William K. Fliscu of New York City, a former Secret Service officer who has accompanied Mrs. Nhu on her U.S. tour, said many of the messages mentioned her personal loss while others supported her anti-Communist stand.

Mrs. Nhu's husband, Ngo Dinh Nhu, Diem's political adviser, was killed in the coup—or committed suicide—along with his brother.

Mrs. Nhu had feared her three younger children, ages 15, 11, and 4 had been killed in the bombardment of the presidential palace.

31 Whooping Cranes Reach Texas Refuge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirty-one whooping cranes, 24 adults and seven young, have arrived at the Aransas Wildlife Refuge on the Texas coast.

The cranes are the last of their species. Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, in announcing Monday the number returning to Aransas, said the count of young birds—highest since the winter of 1958-59 — was "heartening news."

Last spring 28 adult cranes left the refuge for summer nesting grounds in Canada. There were hopes that the four missing adults still might show up after the 2,500-mile flight from Canada.

Rocky Expected To Announce GOP Candidacy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is expected to formally declare Thursday that he is a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Informed sources say only an unforeseen development could force him to postpone the announcement. But in case of postponement, an alternate date —probably Nov. 12 — is being kept open.

Rockefeller's long - expected announcement will be made in Albany.

Rockefeller backers in New Hampshire announced Monday they would open a Rockefeller-for-president headquarters in Concord, the state's capital, Friday. New Hampshire will hold the first of 1964's presidential preference primaries March 10. Rockefeller is expected to enter it.

Well - posted sources said Thursday was chosen for the formal announcement of candidacy in the hope it would win prominence in newspapers and broadcasts.

It was pointed out, however, that if there were signs that public interest might be monopolized Thursday by national or international developments, the announcement could be postponed.

Rescuers Face Crucial Stage in Mining Shaft

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP) —Boring of a shaft to rescue 11 men trapped since Oct. 21 in a flooded iron mine entered the crucial stage today.

"Let's keep our fingers crossed that everything goes okay," said Rudolf Stein, manager of the mine in which the men are imprisoned 196 feet below the surface.

With 60 feet to go, drilling was halted while workmen lined the shaft with concrete. A seven-inch supply shaft was being drilled alongside the rescue hole Beams and aluminum bars were to be sent through it so the men could brace the ceiling of the abandoned gallery in which they took refuge when the mine was flooded.

Forty-three men were trapped in the mine when a nearby dam broke. Eighty-six escaped when the flood hit, and three others were rescued last Friday

Thirty men had been given up for dead but a test boring located 11 of them Sunday. This fired rescuers to bore at two other points in hopes of finding the 19 miners still missing.

If all goes well, the rescue may be completed Wednesday.

"The men are not too excited and they have told us that they are confident of being rescued," said Dr. Heinrich Kellner, a physician in touch with the trapped men.

One of the two exploratory boring broke through to an air bubble 240 feet below late Monday night. After exhaustive checks, mine officials announced that there was no life in the air pocket.

Completion of the other test boring was expected today, but a mine spokesman said: "We have the smallest hopes of finding survivors there."

$54.7 Million Wagered at State Tracks

DENVER (AP) — More than $54.7 million was wagered on horses and greyhound races in Colorado this year, about $370,000 less than in 1962.

The Colorado Racing Commission said the state picked up $2,758,819 as its 5 per cent share of the gross betting handle at each track. The six tracks carved up more than twice that amount on the basis of 10 per cent of the handle plus breakage — the odd cents left after paying each bet in round figures.

Horse racing at Brush and Denver and quarter horse competition at Denver showed higher wagering totals than last year.

The Pueblo and Colorado Springs dog tracks also were ahead of 1962, while at the Denver and Cloverleaf greyhound tracks, the handle fell below last year's. Cloverleaf is near Loveland.

Springs Man Becomes 15th Hunting Death in State

A Colorado Springs man became the state's 15th victim of the big game season here.

Ivan M Henderson, 49, 5 W Costilla St., was found Monday shot to death beside his car.

Sheriff Ralph Baker of Glenwood Springs said it appeared Henderson's 30-30 rifle discharged while he was putting it in or taking it out of his car.

The car was parked a short distance off U.S. 6-40 about 11 miles west of Glenwood Springs.

The body was discovered by a group of Missouri hunters.

Coroner Jack Farnum said Henderson, who died within a few minutes, apparently shot himself Sunday. The bullet struck him in the side.

Five other hunters have died of gunshot wounds this season; another died of shock following surgery for a wound. Five died of heart attacks and three of asphyxiation.

Uneasy Truce Prevails in Sahara Desert

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

FIGUIG, Morocco (AP)—An uneasy truce prevailed along the disputed Moroccan-Algerian frontier today after three days of heavy shelling at this Moroccan oasis.

Both Morocco and Algeria reported Monday that fighting had stopped along the entire Sahara front for the first time since the undeclared war over disputed mineral-rich territory broke out Oct. 8.

"We hope the cease-fire will last," said Moroccan area administrator Driss Ouenzra. "If they attack again, we will fight back."

A Mali-Ethiopian team was established by the Bamako conference last week to supervise the cease-fire between Algeria and Morocco.

Vatican Council Plans Debate on Decentralizing

By LOUIS CASSELS

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council today took up a "declaration of independence" for bishops — proposals for a sweeping decentralization of authority in the Catholic Church

Awaiting the council fathers, as they returned to work after a four-day recess, was a document which is likely to stir sharp controversy in the debates.

It asserts that bishops should be allowed to run their own dioceses without undue interference from the Vatican bureaucracy.

The document does not use quite such blunt language, of course. It speaks instead of the

Women and Children Escape Snowstorm Death

EAST PORTAL, Colo. (AP)— Death brushed close to three women and four children before they were rescued Monday from their snowbound car on wind-swept Corona Pass where they were trapped 21 hours.

Help came after the children's father, Hans Farwig, 29, struggled through waist-deep snowdrifts at the start of an arduous 10-mile hike to a railroad where he stopped a passing freight train.

Farwig's station wagon stalled Sunday afternoon in snow near the summit of the 11,500-foot route, also known as Rollins Pass, that was formerly a railroad track bed. The road in north-central Colorado is not maintained in the winter.

Farwig, Denver auto dealer, had taken the group on a motor trip from Denver, intending to drive over the pass to Winter Park.

With him were his wife, Corina, 22; their children, Janet, 6, Sonia, 5, Yojana, 3, and James, 2; Mrs. Farwig's mother, Mrs. Mari Lopez, 58, and Rosario Pradel, a family friend.

Overnight temperatures were below zero.

Shortly after 7 a.m., Farwig left the car, which had been almost covered by high winds blowing snow over it, in a search for help.

Reaching lower elevations, Farwig hiked unimpeded to the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad and waved down a passing freight train.

"I stepped in front of the train to make sure it would stop," he said later.

The trainmen radioed for help. Rescue parties were organized at Central City and Boulder.

A road grader driven by Francis Cieloha and carrying Paul Galvan, a railroad maintenance foreman, plowed within a mile of the stalled car.

Galvan trudged through the snow and was the first to reach the stranded women and children.

Approaching the car, Galvan said, "I was afraid. I thought maybe all of them were frozen. I didn't hear any noise.

"When I opened the door, which I could hardly get open because of the snow, one of the women said, 'Thank God we've got help.' "

Galvan and others led the women and children on the mile walk to waiting automobiles driven there by rescuers.

They were taken to East Portal where they were fed before returning to Denver.

Space Age Boom Possible In Colorado, Meeting Told

Colorado's potential future as a home for booming, space age growth industries depends on its willingness to build "communities of technical scholars," a leader of one of the nation's most successful science and industry centers told the University-Industry Liaison Conference here today.

Dr. Frederick E. Terman, vice president and provost of Stanford University, likened the concentrations of science-oriented industry around such schools as Stanford and MIT to the medieval "communities of scholars" which frequently became great universities like Heidelberg, Oxford, and Cambridge.

"The modern version, a community of technical scholars, is still embryonic," he said. "It has developed in the last 20 years or so.

"It consists of a university which has strong programs in engineering and science, surrounded by companies emphasizing research and development. It operates under conditions that allow continual interaction among all the groups and individuals involved.

Educator Sees Greater Role for Junior Colleges

The junior college will play an increasingly important role in America's educational system, Dr. Joseph Smiley, president of the University of Colorado, told school administrators Monday at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Dr. Smiley said he is convinced that a "first-rate junior college-type facility" is what Denver needs, rather than a costly university which would "duplicate facilities" of Denver University, CU, Colorado State University and the School of Mines.

The junior college, Dr. Smiley said, would offer "the first two years of traditional courses in liberal arts subjects and a two-year terminal program of technical and vocational courses."

He told a joint meeting of the Colorado Association of School Boards and the Colorado Association of School Administrators that there is also "an urgent need for a separate two-year technological institute to meet the demand for highly-skilled technicians to assist research scientists and engineers."

Newcomer Firm Officials Plead Fifth Amendment

Two officials of the bankrupt Joe Newcomer Finance Company pleaded the Fifth Amendment Monday at a hearing on a proposed reorganization of the firm.

Royce Hill, vice president and Mrs. Ruth Piland, secretary, refused to answer questions at the hearing in Denver ordered by U.S. District Judge William E. Doyle.

Hill and Mrs. Piland said they were refusing to answer questions regarding the firm's financial condition on the grounds of self-incrimination under the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution.

Joe Newcomer, missing head of the finance company, was absent from the hearing. Fred Betz Sr. of Lamar, trustee, said Newcomer's whereabouts are unknown since his disappearance last April.

Betz said creditors have until Jan. 2, 1964, to submit plans for reorganization. The deadline for submitting claims, which now total more than $3 million, is Dec. 5.

Betz has until March 2 to offer his proposal for reorganization.

Also at the hearing Monday were representatives of two creditors' committees, the Securities and Exchange Commission, Frederick E. Forehand, the company's assistant vice president, and the firm's lawyers, Hugh Crawford of Colorado Springs and Richard Luxford of Littleton.

MORATORIUM KILLED

DENVER (UPI) — A subcommittee of Gov. John Love's Local Affairs Commission Saturday killed a proposed one-year moratorium on all annexations involving Denver. The Metropolitan Affairs Subcommittee, headed by Gale C. Sellens, defeated the proposal on a 16-8 vote. Sen. Roy McVicker, D-Wheat Ridge, had proposed the moratorium.

Chenoweth Blasts Race To Moon as 'Wasteful'

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth Monday declared we were "racing ourselves to the moon" and condemned the wasteful spending of money to get a "glorified tourist" on the moon by 1970.

He also rapped the federal government for apparently attempting to assume control of all U. S. research and development in the technological field.

The veteran congressman was one of a host of speakers at Monday's opening session of the University-Industry Liaison Conference at the Broadmoor Hotel which winds up today.

David Packard, president of Hewlett-Packard Co., told a luncheon meeting that "lifelong education" would be needed to keep pace with the rapidly growing "technological revolution."

Dr. J. Herbert Hollomon told a dinner Monday night that in planning its industrial future in the technological society, Colorado should exploit the areas in which it already has achieved excellence.

Chenoweth urged the U. S. slow down in the so-called race for the moon in return for a sound program which would give mankind "all the practical benefits that were promised at the beginning of this great new adventure."

"I think we are concentrating on sending our astronaut to the moon as a glorified tourist, to look around for a few moments . . .and then climb back in his space ship to return to earth

Mrs. Nhu May Return to U.S. For Longer Stay

By DORIS KLEIN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An aide says Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, heartened by a number of sympathetic messages from Americans, is considering returning to the United States after a reunion with her three younger children in Rome.

Mrs. Nhu, originally scheduled to leave today for Rome, postponed her trip 24 hours in order to receive telephonic assurances that her children are in Rome before she leaves the United States.

More than 3,000 telegrams and messages have poured into Mrs. Nhu's hotel suite since the military coup Friday which overthrew the regime of her brother-in-law, Ngo Linh Diem, the aide said.

Most of the messages were sympathetic, he added.

Col. William K. Fliscu of New York City, a former Secret Service officer who has accompanied Mrs. Nhu on her U.S. tour, said many of the messages mentioned her personal loss while others supported her anti-Communist stand.

Mrs. Nhu's husband, Ngo Dinh Nhu, Diem's political adviser, was killed in the coup—or committed suicide—along with his brother.

Mrs. Nhu had feared her three younger children, ages 15, 11, and 4 had been killed in the bombardment of the presidential palace.

31 Whooping Cranes Reach Texas Refuge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirty-one whooping cranes, 24 adults and seven young, have arrived at the Aransas Wildlife Refuge on the Texas coast.

The cranes are the last of their species. Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, in announcing Monday the number returning to Aransas, said the count of young birds—highest since the winter of 1958-59 — was "heartening news."

Last spring 28 adult cranes left the refuge for summer nesting grounds in Canada. There were hopes that the four missing adults still might show up after the 2,500-mile flight from Canada.

Rescuers Face Crucial Stage in Mining Shaft

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP)—Boring of a shaft to rescue 11 men trapped since Oct. 21 in a flooded iron mine entered the crucial stage today.

"Let's keep our fingers crossed that everything goes okay," said Rudolf Stein, manager of the mine in which the men are imprisoned 196 feet below the surface.

With 60 feet to go, drilling was halted while workmen lined the shaft with concrete. A seven-inch supply shaft was being drilled alongside the rescue hole. Beams and aluminum bars were to be sent through it so the men could brace the ceiling of the abandoned gallery in which they took refuge when the mine was flooded.

Forty-three men were trapped in the mine when a nearby dam broke. Eighty-six escaped when the flood hit, and three others were rescued last Friday.

Thirty men had been given up for dead but a test boring located 11 of them Sunday. This fired rescuers to bore at two other points in hopes of finding the 19 miners still missing.

If all goes well, the rescue may be completed Wednesday.

"The men are not too excited and they have told us that they are confident of being rescued," said Dr. Heinrich Kellner, a physician in touch with the trapped men.

One of the two exploratory boring broke through to an air bubble 240 feet below late Monday night. After exhaustive checks, mine officials announced that there was no life in the air pocket.

Completion of the other test boring was expected today, but a mine spokesman said: "We have the smallest hopes of finding survivors there."

Rocky Expected To Announce GOP Candidacy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is expected to formally declare Thursday that he is a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Informed sources say only an unforeseen development could force him to postpone the announcement. But in case of postponement, an alternate date —probably Nov. 12 — is being kept open.

Rockefeller's long - expected announcement will be made in Albany.

Rockefeller backers in New Hampshire announced Monday they would open a Rockefeller-for-president headquarters in Concord, the state's capital, Friday. New Hampshire will hold the first of 1964's presidential preference primaries March 10. Rockefeller is expected to enter it.

Well - posted sources said Thursday was chosen for the formal announcement of candidacy in the hope it would win prominence in newspapers and broadcasts.

It was pointed out, however, that if there were signs that public interest might be monopolized Thursday by national or international developments, the announcement could be postponed.

$54.7 Million Wagered at State Tracks

DENVER (AP) — More than $54.7 million was wagered on horses and greyhound races in Colorado this year, about $370,000 less than in 1962.

The Colorado Racing Commission said the state picked up $2,758,819 as its 5 per cent share of the gross betting handle at each track. The six tracks carved up more than twice that amount on the basis of 10 per cent of the handle plus breakage — the odd cents left after paying each bet in round figures.

Horse racing at Brush and Denver and quarter horse competition at Denver showed higher wagering totals than last year.

The Pueblo and Colorado Springs dog tracks also were ahead of 1962, while at the Denver and Cloverleaf greyhound tracks, the handle fell below last year's. Cloverleaf is near Loveland.

Springs Man Becomes 15th Hunting Death in State

A Colorado Springs man became the state's 15th victim of the big game season here.

Ivan M. Henderson, 49, 5 W. Costilla St., was found Monday shot to death beside his car.

Sheriff Ralph Baker of Glenwood Springs said it appeared Henderson's 30-30 rifle discharged while he was putting it in or taking it out of his car.

The car was parked a short distance off U.S. 6-40 about 11 miles west of Glenwood Springs.

The body was discovered by a group of Missouri hunters.

Coroner Jack Farnum said Henderson, who died within a few minutes, apparently shot himself Sunday. The bullet struck him in the side.

Five other hunters have died of gunshot wounds this season; another died of shock following surgery for a wound. Five died of heart attacks and three of asphyxiation.

Uneasy Truce Prevails in Sahara Desert

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

FIGUIG, Morocco (AP)—An uneasy truce prevailed along the disputed Moroccan-Algerian frontier today after three days of heavy shelling at this Moroccan oasis.

Both Morocco and Algeria reported Monday that fighting had stopped along the entire Sahara front for the first time since the undeclared war over disputed mineral-rich territory broke out Oct. 8.

"We hope the cease-fire will last," said Moroccan area administrator Driss Ouenzra. "If they attack again, we will fight back."

A Mali-Ethiopian team was established by the Bamako conference last week to supervise the cease-fire between Algeria and Morocco.

Vatican Council Plans Debate on Decentralizing

By LOUIS CASSELS

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council today took up a "declaration of independence" for bishops — proposals for a sweeping decentralization of authority in the Catholic Church.

Awaiting the council fathers, as they returned to work after a four-day recess, was a document which is likely to stir sharp controversy in the debates.

It asserts that bishops should be allowed to run their own dioceses without undue interference from the Vatican bureaucracy.

The document does not use quite such blunt language, of course. It speaks instead of the

Women and Children Escape Snowstorm Death

EAST PORTAL, Colo. (AP)—Death brushed close to three women and four children before they were rescued Monday from their snowbound car on wind-swept Corona Pass where they were trapped 21 hours.

Help came after the children's father, Hans Farwig, 29, struggled through waist-deep snowdrifts at the start of an arduous 10-mile hike to a railroad where he stopped a passing freight train.

Farwig's station wagon stalled Sunday afternoon in snow near the summit of the 11,500-foot route, also known as Rollins Pass, that was formerly a railroad track bed. The road in north-central Colorado is not maintained in the winter.

Farwig, Denver auto dealer, had taken the group on a motor trip from Denver, intending to drive over the pass to Winter Park.

With him were his wife, Corina, 22; their children, Janet, 6, Sonia, 5, Yojana, 3, and James, 2; Mrs. Farwig's mother, Mrs. Mari Lopez, 58, and Rosario Pradel, a family friend.

Overnight temperatures were below zero.

Shortly after 7 a.m., Farwig left the car, which had been almost covered by high winds blowing snow over it, in a search for help.

Reaching lower elevations, Farwig hiked unimpeded to the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad and waved down a passing freight train.

"I stepped in front of the train to make sure it would stop," he said later.

The trainmen radioed for help. Rescue parties were organized at Central City and Boulder.

A road grader driven by Francis Cieloha and carrying Paul Galvan, a railroad maintenance foreman, plowed within a mile of the stalled car.

Galvan trudged through the snow and was the first to reach the stranded women and children.

Approaching the car, Galvan said, "I was afraid. I thought maybe all of them were frozen. I didn't hear any noise.

"When I opened the door, which I could hardly get open because of the snow, one of the women said, 'Thank God we've got help.'"

Galvan and others led the women and children on the mile walk to waiting automobiles driven there by rescuers.

They were taken to East Portal where they were fed before returning to Denver.

Doubled Soviet Jet Buildup in Cuba Spotted by Flights

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Special — Russia is again baffling U. S. Intelligence authorities with some strange military moves in Communist-ruled Cuba.

In recent weeks, the Soviet have quietly doubled their jet fighters and fighter-bombers on the island while at the same time withdrawing around 3,000 combat troops.

The latest U-2 photographs, showing increased numbers of Russian planes on or near Cuban airfields, have forced U.S. intelligence experts to raise their estimates from 150 to "more than 300" Soviet planes in Cuba.

In sharp contrast to this sinister build-up, U.S. aerial surveillance of Russian troop camps and departing ships has caused the intelligence experts to reduce their estimates of Soviet military personnel on the island from 11,000 in July to "approximately 8,000" by the end of October.

This new CIA estimate, which is being hotly challenged by Army and Navy intelligence, reports that 14,000 Russian troops have left Cuba since last year's missile crisis.

At the peak of the U.S.-Soviet confrontation, CIA put the Soviet troop strength in Cuba at 22,000. The Defense Intelligence Agency estimated the Russians at between 25,000 and 32,000.

With the Central Intelligence Agency again in undisputed command of all U.S. intelligence on Cuba, the DIA now takes the cautious position that it is impossible to estimate the number of Soviet troops still there. The reason: Lack of hard intelligence from inside Cuba.

To add to these conflicting estimates, reliable Cuban refugees are warning that most of the Russian troops have not left the island but have only taken off their uniform. The refugees' most recent estimate is 18,000.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The ZIP code plan which the Post Office Department inaugurated last July is merely a giant rehearsal for the public and will not be in use for at least two years, according to Postmaster Otto Buescher of Columbia, Mo.

The Post Office does not have the equipment to automate the sorting of mail and will not have it for another two years or so, Buescher said.

He explained: "The public is being prepared. People are slow in getting used to it, so the Post Office is starting now. It wants them to be ready when it is ready to go into full-scale automation."

Forty-three men were trapped in the mine when a nearby dam broke. Eighty-six escaped when the flood hit, and three others were rescued last Friday.

Thirty men had been given up for dead but a test boring located 11 of them Sunday. This fired rescuers to bore at two other points in hopes of finding the 19 miners still missing.

If all goes well, the rescue may be completed Wednesday.

"The men are not too excited and they have told us that they are confident of being rescued," said Dr. Heinrich Kellner, a physician in touch with the trapped men.

One of the two exploratory boring broke through to an air bubble 240 feet below late Monday night. After exhaustive checks, mine officials announced that there was no life in the air pocket.

Completion of the other test boring was expected today, but a mine spokesman said: "We have the smallest hopes of finding survivors there."

Rocky Expected To Announce GOP Candidacy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is expected to formally declare Thursday that he is a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Informed sources say only an unforeseen development could force him to postpone the announcement. But in case of postponement, an alternate date—probably Nov. 12 — is being kept open.

Rockefeller's long-expected announcement will be made in Albany.

Rockefeller backers in New Hampshire announced Monday they would open a Rockefeller-for-president headquarters in Concord, the state's capital, Friday. New Hampshire will hold the first of 1964's presidential preference primaries March 10. Rockefeller is expected to enter it.

Well-posted sources said Thursday was chosen for the formal announcement of candidacy in the hope it would win prominence in newspapers and broadcasts.

It was pointed out, however, that if there were signs that public interest might be monopolized Thursday by national or international developments, the announcement could be postponed.

$54.7 Million Wagered at State Tracks

DENVER (AP) — More than $54.7 million was wagered on horses and greyhound races in Colorado this year, about $370,000 less than in 1962.

The Colorado Racing Commission said the state picked up $2,758,819 as its 5 per cent share of the gross betting handle at each track. The six tracks carved up more than twice that amount on the basis of 10 per cent of the handle plus breakage — the odd cents left after paying each bet in round figures.

Horse racing at Brush and Denver and quarter horse competition at Denver showed higher wagering totals than last year.

The Pueblo and Colorado Springs dog tracks also were ahead of 1962, while at the Denver and Cloverleaf greyhound tracks, the handle fell below last year's. Cloverleaf is near Loveland.

Springs Man Becomes 15th Hunting Death in State

A Colorado Springs man became the state's 15th victim of the big game season here.

Ivan M. Henderson, 49, 5 W. Costilla St., was found Monday shot to death beside his car.

Sheriff Ralph Baker of Glenwood Springs said it appeared Henderson's 30-30 rifle discharged while he was putting it in or taking it out of his car.

The car was parked a short distance off U.S. 6-40 about 11 miles west of Glenwood Springs.

The body was discovered by a group of Missouri hunters.

Coroner Jack Farnum said Henderson, who died within a few minutes, apparently shot himself Sunday. The bullet struck him in the side.

Five other hunters have died of gunshot wounds this season; another died of shock following surgery for a wound. Five died of heart attacks and three of asphyxiation.

Uneasy Truce Prevails in Sahara Desert

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

FIGUIG, Morocco (AP)—An uneasy truce prevailed along the disputed Moroccan-Algerian frontier today after three days of heavy shelling at this Moroccan oasis.

Both Morocco and Algeria reported Monday that fighting had stopped along the entire Sahara front for the first time since the undeclared war over disputed mineral-rich territory broke out Oct. 8.

"We hope the cease-fire will last," said Moroccan area administrator Driss Ouenzra. "If they attack again, we will fight back."

A Mali-Ethiopian team was established by the Bamako conference last week to supervise the cease-fire between Algeria and Morocco.

Vatican Council Plans Debate on Decentralizing

By LOUIS CASSELS

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council today took up a "declaration of independence" for bishops — proposals for a sweeping decentralization of authority in the Catholic Church.

Awaiting the council fathers, as they returned to work after a four-day recess, was a document which is likely to stir sharp controversy in the debates.

It asserts that bishops should be allowed to run their own dioceses without undue interference from the Vatican bureaucracy.

The document does not use quite such blunt language, of course. It speaks instead of the

Women and Children Escape Snowstorm Death

EAST PORTAL, Colo. (AP)—Death brushed close to three women and four children before they were rescued Monday from their snowbound car on windswept Corona Pass where they were trapped 21 hours.

Help came after the children's father, Hans Farwig, 29, struggled through waist-deep snowdrifts at the start of an arduous 10-mile hike to a railroad where he stopped a passing freight train.

Farwig's station wagon stalled Sunday afternoon in snow near the summit of the 11,500-foot route, also known as Rollins Pass, that was formerly a railroad track bed. The road in north-central Colorado is not maintained in the winter.

Farwig, Denver auto dealer, had taken the group on a motor trip from Denver, intending to drive over the pass to Winter Park.

With him were his wife, Corina, 22; their children, Janet, 6, Sonia, 5, Yojana, 3, and James, 2; Mrs. Farwig's mother, Mrs. Mari Lopez, 58, and Rosario Pradel, a family friend.

Overnight temperatures were below zero.

Shortly after 7 a.m., Farwig left the car, which had been almost covered by high winds blowing snow over it, in a search for help.

Reaching lower elevations, Farwig hiked unimpeded to the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad and waved down a passing freight train.

"I stepped in front of the train to make sure it would stop," he said later.

The trainmen radioed for help.

Rescue parties were organized at Central City and Boulder.

A road grader driven by Francis Cieloha and carrying Paul Galvan, a railroad maintenance foreman, plowed within a mile of the stalled car.

Galvan trudged through the snow and was the first to reach the stranded women and children.

Approaching the car, Galvan said, "I was afraid. I thought maybe all of them were frozen. I didn't hear any noise.

"When I opened the door, which I could hardly get open because of the snow, one of the women said, 'Thank God we've got help.'"

Galvan and others led the women and children on the mile walk to waiting automobiles driven there by rescuers.

They were taken to East Portal where they were fed before returning to Denver.

Chorus Master Has Big Chore In Production

One of the biggest and most thankless jobs in opera production is that of chorus master, ably held locally by Rolf Zinger. Zinger besides being chorus master in the up-coming "La Traviata", will sing the supporting role of Giuseppe in the opera. "La Traviata" will open the first of three performances at 8 30 Thursday night at the Fine Arts Center theatre.

School District 11 benefits from Zinger's talents daily as he is chairman of the vocal music department of Horace Mann Junior High School. He has been teaching five years in District 11 as well as operating his own piano studio at 2023 Chelton Road.

Before that, Zinger was director of music in the La Veta, Colorado public schools. In all, he has had more that fourteen years experience teaching piano, organ and choir directing in Colorado Springs, La Veta and Geneva, New York.

Zinger is a graduate of the High School of Music and Art, New York City, and of State Teachers College, in West Chester, Pa.

Members of the chorus who work with Zinger are: sopranos Joan Bearzi, Florence Bryant Mary Guy, Mary Lee Ketchem, Arline Kushnir, Jacqueline Pettigrew, Aurdrey Scott, and Dorothy Wagner; altos: Ruth Moon, Eileene Philpott, Rita Spencer, Jean Teason, Marsha Moyer, Margaret Wallace; tenors: Ed Spencer, Joe Thompson, Crawford Scott, Bob Ramsay, Ken Smith, Bruce Scott, Rolf Zinger; bass-baritones: Dave Wagner, Dick Scott Rick Rogers, H. Dean Moon, and Dick Armstrong.

Tickets are available at the C. S. Opera Association box office at 519 North Tejon daily this week between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Orders can be placed by calling 634-6820. Single seats are $3 each.

Season tickets are still available at $8 each and will admit holder to "La Traviata" and succeeding operas which are "Down in the Valley" and "The Devil and Daniel Webster" in February and "The Student Prince" in April.

Pioneers Museum Gets More Visitors

The number of persons going thru the city's Pioneers Museum, 25 W. Kiowa St., is running ahead of last year's record high.

Miss Dorothy Smith, curator, said so far this year there have been 16,892 visitors to the museum, which is 100 more than that recorded for the same period in 1962.

This year's October attendance was 910 as compared with 840 for November of last year.

The 1962 record attendance exceeded 18,000, which was about 50 per cent greater than in any previous year. A two-story addition was built at the museum two years ago.

The museum is a free attraction located just across the street from St. Mary's Catholic Church and just west of the Colorado Springs Public Library.

Chorus Master Has Big Chore In Production

One of the biggest and most thankless jobs in opera production is that of chorus master, ably held locally by Rolf Zinger. Zinger, besides being chorus master in the up-coming "La Traviata", will sing the supporting role of Giuseppe in the opera. "La Traviata" will open the first of three performances at 8:30 Thursday night at the Fine Arts Center theatre.

School District 11 benefits from Zinger's talents daily as he is chairman of the vocal music department of Horace Mann Junior High School. He has been teaching five years in District 11 as well as operating his own piano studio at 2023 Chelton Road.

Before that, Zinger was director of music in the La Veta, Colorado public schools. In all, he has had more that fourteen years experience teaching piano, organ and choir directing in Colorado Springs, La Veta and Geneva, New York.

Zinger is a graduate of the High School of Music and Art, New York City, and of State Teachers College, in West Chester, Pa.

Members of the chorus who work with Zinger are: sopranos: Joan Bearzi, Florence Bryant, Mary Guy, Mary Lee Ketchem, Arline Kushnir, Jacqueline Pettigrew, Aurdrey Scott, and Dorothy Wagner; altos: Ruth Moon, Eileene Philpott, Rita Spencer, Jean Teason, Marsha Moyer, Margaret Wallace; tenors: Ed Spencer, Joe Thompson, Crawford Scott, Bob Ramsay, Ken Smith, Bruce Scott, Rolf Zinger; bass-baritones: Dave Wagner, Dick Scott, Rick Rogers, H. Dean Moon, and Dick Armstrong.

Tickets are available at the C. S. Opera Association box office at 519 North Tejon daily this week between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Orders can be placed by calling 634-6820. Single seats are $3 each.

Season tickets are still available at $8 each and will admit holder to "La Traviata" and succeeding operas which are "Down in the Valley" and "The Devil and Daniel Webster" in February and "The Student Prince" in April.

Pioneers Museum Gets More Visitors

The number of persons going thru the city's Pioneers Museum, 25 W. Kiowa St., is running ahead of last year's record high.

Miss Dorothy Smith, curator, said so far this year there have been 16,892 visitors to the museum, which is 100 more than that recorded for the same period in 1962.

This year's October attendance was 910 as compared with 840 for November of last year.

The 1962 record attendance exceeded 18,000, which was about 50 per cent greater than in any previous year. A two-story addition was built at the museum two years ago.

The museum is a free attraction located just across the street from St. Mary's Catholic Church and just west of the Colorado Springs Public Library.

Three Seconds Spent on School Day's Roll Call

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — When classes begin each morning at nearby Redwood public elementary school, it takes the teacher, Ruth Bellini, approximately three seconds to call the roll.

For Mrs. Bellini, roll call is a simple matter of putting a check mark next to the name of each of her students—all three of them.

Mrs. Bellini is the only teacher and Michael, Kirt, and Keith Morrissey are her only students.

The school, with one of the smallest student bodies in the United States, is located behind the East Oakland hills in the rugged, isolated Redwood Canyon. In recent years, the 40-year-old stucco building has housed as many as 20 students.

But because few families now live in the area, the student body has dropped to the three Morrissey brothers, whose father moved to the canyon so that his children could be near their two horses.

"It's individual teaching, really," said Mrs. Bellini, who has been at Redwood for 18 years.

Keith, 6, is in the first grade; Kirt, 7, is in the second, and Michael, 9, is in the fourth. They take all the subjects required by California law.

They have a full-size playground with swings, a small basketball court, tether-ball and other equipment.

The day begins with a salute to the flag and the singing of the national anthem. There is a 10 o'clock recess, a regular lunch hour and a physical training period.

Each morning, Mrs. Bellini picks up the three boys at their home and at the close of the day she drops them off again.

A small shadow of sadness hangs over Redwood these days. State law requires schools to have a minimum average of six students. Unless Redwood's enrollment doubles in the very near future, the 10-year-old school will be forced to close.

"It'll be a sad parting," said Mrs. Bellini. "I've been here for so long I feel like a fixture."

Beverly Hills Actors Battle Freeway Plan

By DIAL TORGERSON

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actor Clifton Webb gazed at his sprawling, Mediterranean-pink adobe mansion, and wondered what it would look like with a freeway running over the top of it.

Said Webb: "No one ever thought it could happen here."

But it could, and it might.

In all this city's Mediterranean-pink mansions—not to mention the glass-walled moderns, the French provincials and the Williamsburg colonials—there is a name to conjure fear.

The Beverly Hills Freeway.

The state has two freeways—one of which happened years ago to Hollywood, and the other which happened recently to West Los Angeles. It wants to link them so people can get from West Los Angeles to Hollywood.

To connect them, freeway builders announced that they planned the Beverly Hills Freeway — multiple lanes speeding traffic swiftly and smoothly through the soverign city of Beverly Hills.

Then came a howl of complaints.

Rosaland Russell and Lucille Ball went to protest meetings. Novelist Irving Stone wrote fund-raising letters for the freeway fighters. The anti-freeway Beverly Hills Improvement Association raised $60,000 almost instantly.

Residents of the hill section of Beverly Hills — which is, truly, one of the nation's loveliest residential areas — have decided unanimously that the best place for the freeway is a mile south, under Santa Monica Boulevard.

As Rosalind Russell explains it:

"It's called cut and cover, I believe. They cut out the space, put the freeway in it, and cover it over. And there would be no offramps, or onramps. Sort of like a tunnel, you might say."

Exactly like a tunnel, to be precise.

The Beverly Hills Improvement Association wants this cut-and-cover freeway tunneled through the business part of the city, from which neither fume nor commuter could presumably escape.

"There's no question but what a freeway is needed," said Miss Russell. "But they would not have to have offramps. It would only go through Beverly Hills for a mile and a quarter. People could get off before Beverly Hills, or afterward. That way Beverly Hills could be left intact."

The exact route through Beverly Hills won't be selected until perhaps January, and the freeway itself probably won't be built for 10 years.

The state plans, of course, to pay for any property condemned. The homes in the hillside area, where the proposed route runs, would cost an estimated $250,000 each.

Meantime, the state has to send delegates to each protest meeting to listen to the opinions of people who fear a freeway would harm Beverly Hills.

Mortuary Sued for $200,000 in Damages

DENVER (AP) — Frank D. Branson of Hydro, Okla., and his wife, Marguerite, filed a suit in U.S. District Court today against a Hotchkiss, Colo., mortuary, asking $200,000 damages.

The suit names Harry Taylor and James M. Taylor, doing business as Taylor's Mortuary.

The Bransons' son, Eldon Branson, about 42, was found dead near Hotchkiss Aug. 22, 1962.

The suit said that the Taylors promised to prepare the son's body for shipment home and to arrange for transportation to Oklahoma.

Instead the mortuary repudiated the agreement, the suit said, and Branson was buried at Hotchkiss.

The parents contend in the suit they were not given sufficient time to attend the funeral. Later, Branson's body was removed to Oklahoma for burial.

Cary Grant Will Learn How to Cook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Cary Grant has decided to learn how to cook.

"Maybe if I learn how to cook, somebody'll marry me if I play my cards wrong," he said lightly.

"I once got a Boy Scout merit badge for cooking. But about all I remember now is that you have to cook things longer at a mountain altitude.

"If a man really goes into it, he makes a better cook than a woman. Take Danny Kaye—he's fantastic. My cook is rather jealous of his ability."

As a first step in acquiring culinary skill, Grant is having a modern electric kitchen installed in his hilltop home north of Beverly Hills.

The ageless movie actor, who recently completed his 61st starring film, was in a merry mood.

The evening before had been notable. The Theater Owners of America had presented Cary with their "Star of the Year" award. Two young ladies also had followed him into the men's washroom to kiss him—an impromptu award for which he had no prepared speech or ready ad lib.

Now, the morning after, as he dressed for a luncheon date, Cary pranced around his hotel suite as gay as a college sophomore.

As he went under the shower, he sang "Mother Machree" in a bathroom baritone that would never win him a Metropolitan Opera audition. He emerged a few moments later clad in a white towel.

Time is scattering more and more gray hairs on his head, but he still has the youthful build of a pro football halfback—lean, tanned and muscular.

Asked if he could touch his knuckles to the floor, Cary said he'd never tried, then bent easily down several times and knuckled the living room rug without strain.

"I don't take any regular exercise—I just move around," he said. "And I ride a lot. You can meditate well on a horse.

"I'm credited with living on a strict diet, but I really don't. I just try to please my stomach. I eat whatever I want whenever I want — but sometimes I go two days without eating at all."

As he completed his dressing chore, Cary gave tidbits of information about himself:

"I don't believe in luck. People make their own lige by setting up their own problems.

"My biggest failing? Talking when I should be listening, I suppose."

Smiling and now faultlessly attired, he left for his luncheon date, looking as much like a matinee idol as he did 25 years ago—still charming and cheerful at 59.

Girl With Artificial Leg Beats Down Boy

WEYMOUTH, England (AP)—Katie Dartnel-Smith got tired of a boy teasing her for having an artificial leg.

Exasperated, the 13-year-old girl whipped off the aluminum limb and socked him over the head with it.

Said Katie:

"I just got fed up with him calling me peg-leg. Wouldn't you? I didn't really hit him very hard—but it was hard enough to let him know I'm not helpless."

Born a cripple, Katie lost her right leg when she was 3.

A small shadow of sadness hangs over Redwood these days. State law requires schools to have a minimum average of six students. Unless Redwood's enrollment doubles in the very near future, the 10-year-old school will be forced to close.

"It'll be a sad parting," said Mrs. Bellini. "I've been here for so long I feel like a fixture."

Beverly Hills Actors Battle Freeway Plan

By DIAL TORGERSON

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actor Clifton Webb gazed at his sprawling, Mediterranean-pink adobe mansion, and wondered what it would look like with a freeway running over the top of it.

Said Webb: "No one ever thought it could happen here."

But it could, and it might.

In all this city's Mediterranean-pink mansions—not to mention the glass-walled moderns, the French provincials and the Williamsburg colonials—there is a name to conjure fear.

The Beverly Hills Freeway.

The state has two freeways—one of which happened years ago to Hollywood, and the other which happened recently to West Los Angeles. It wants to link them so people can get from West Los Angeles to Hollywood.

To connect them, freeway builders announced that they planned the Beverly Hills Freeway — multiple lanes speeding traffic swiftly and smoothly through the soverign city of Beverly Hills.

Then came a howl of complaints.

Rosaland Russell and Lucille Ball went to protest meetings.

Novelist Irving Stone wrote fund-raising letters for the freeway fighters. The anti-freeway Beverly Hills Improvement Association raised $60,000 almost instantly.

Residents of the hill section of Beverly Hills — which is, truly, one of the nation's loveliest residential areas — have decided unanimously that the best place for the freeway is a mile south, under Santa Monica Boulevard.

As Rosalind Russell explains it:

"It's called cut and cover, I believe. They cut out the space, put the freeway in it, and cover it over. And there would be no offramps, or onramps. Sort of like a tunnel, you might say."

Exactly like a tunnel, to be precise.

The Beverly Hills Improvement Association wants this cut-and-cover freeway tunneled through the business part of the city, from which neither fume nor commuter could presumably escape.

"There's no question but what a freeway is needed," said Miss Russell. "But they would not have to have offramps. It would only go through Beverly Hills for a mile and a quarter. People could get off before Beverly Hills, or afterward. That way Beverly Hills could be left intact."

The exact route through Beverly Hills won't be selected until perhaps January, and the freeway itself probably won't be built for 10 years.

The state plans, of course, to pay for any property condemned. The homes in the hillside area, where the proposed route runs, would cost an estimated $250,000 each.

Meantime, the state has to send delegates to each protest meeting to listen to the opinions of people who fear a freeway would harm Beverly Hills.

Mortuary Sued for $200,000 in Damages

DENVER (AP) — Frank D. Branson of Hydro, Okla., and his wife, Marguerite, filed a suit in U.S. District Court today against a Hotchkiss, Colo., mortuary, asking $200,000 damages.

The suit names Harry Taylor and James M. Taylor, doing business as Taylor's Mortuary.

The Bransons' son, Eldon Branson, about 42, was found dead near Hotchkiss Aug. 22, 1962.

The suit said that the Taylors promised to prepare the son's body for shipment home and to arrange for transportation to Oklahoma.

Instead the mortuary repudiated the agreement, the suit said, and Branson was buried at Hotchkiss.

The parents contend in the suit they were not given sufficient time to attend the funeral. Later, Branson's body was removed to Oklahoma for burial.

Cary Grant Will Learn How to Cook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Cary Grant has decided to learn how to cook.

"Maybe if I learn how to cook, somebody'll marry me if I play my cards wrong," he said lightly.

"I once got a Boy Scout merit badge for cooking. But about all I remember now is that you have to cook things longer at a mountain altitude.

"If a man really goes into it, he makes a better cook than a woman. Take Danny Kaye—he's fantastic. My cook is rather jealous of his ability."

As a first step in acquiring culinary skill, Grant is having a modern electric kitchen installed in his hilltop home north of Beverly Hills.

The ageless movie actor, who recently completed his 61st starring film, was in a merry mood.

The evening before had been notable. The Theater Owners of America had presented Cary with their "Star of the Year" award. Two young ladies also had followed him into the men's washroom to kiss him—an impromptu award for which he had no prepared speech or ready ad lib.

Now, the morning after, as he dressed for a luncheon date, Cary pranced around his hotel suite as gay as a college sophomore.

As he went under the shower, he sang "Mother Machree" in a bathroom baritone that would never win him a Metropolitan Opera audition. He emerged a few moments later clad in a white towel.

Time is scattering more and more gray hairs on his head, but he still has the youthful build of a pro football halfback—lean, tanned and muscular.

Asked if he could touch his knuckles to the floor, Cary said he'd never tried, then bent easily down several times and knuckled the living room rug without strain.

"I don't take any regular exercise—I just move around," he said. "And I ride a lot. You can meditate well on a horse.

"I'm credited with living on a strict diet, but I really don't. I just try to please my stomach. I eat whatever I want whenever I want — but sometimes I go two days without eating at all."

As he completed his dressing chore, Cary gave tidbits of information about himself:

"I don't believe in luck. People make their own lige by setting up their own problems.

"My biggest failing? Talking when I should be listening, I suppose."

Smiling and now faultlessly attired, he left for his luncheon date, looking as much like a matinee idol as he did 25 years ago—still charming and cheerful at 59.

Girl With Artificial Leg Beats Down Boy

WEYMOUTH, England (AP) —Katie Dartnel-Smith got tired of a boy teasing her for having an artificial leg.

Exasperated, the 13-year-old girl whipped off the aluminum limb and socked him over the head with it.

Said Katie:

"I just got fed up with him calling me peg-leg. Wouldn't you? I didn't really hit him very hard—but it was hard enough to let him know I'm not helpless."

Born a cripple, Katie lost her right leg when she was 3.

Mrs. Nhu May Return to U.S. For Longer Stay

ernment, through the U.S. State Department, informed Mrs. Nhu her children were safe.

Mrs. Nhu disclosed Monday the contents of a telegram she had sent Secretary of State Dean Rusk the day before asking that she be permitted to return to Saigon to take care of her husband and her three children. As an alternative she suggested that the State Department send the children to Rome via Los Angeles.

Instead, Mrs. Nhu received a telegram from the State Department late Monday telling her the children were being flown to Rome, via Bangkok, Thailand.

Mrs. Nhu had one important guest at her suite Monday—her father.

It was the first meeting between Mrs. Nhu and Tran Van Chuong, 65, since she arrived in the United States.

The father, former Vietnamese ambassador to the U.S., and daughter had long been at odds over authoritarian policies of the Ngo Dinh ruling family.

After spending approximately 45 minutes with his daughter, Tran Van Chong said: "There was no need of reconciliation because as soon as I learned the tragic events my heart was very near my daughter."

He declined to say who contacted whom first.

$25 Fine Levied On Illegal Hunting Charge

Floyd Marquez, 20, of 330 E. Las Animas St. paid a $25 penalty assessment ticket issued by the State Game and Fish Department for illegal hunting, the sheriff's office reported Monday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, Marquez was found by John S. Bock of 3221 W. Colorado Ave. Bock told the deputy that he heard shooting on his property half a mile south of his house Saturday. Upon investigation he found Marquez and brought him back to his house.

Bock told Barry Monday that anyone found hunting on his property would be prosecuted within the full extent of the law.

need for harmonious relationships between bishops and the Roman Curia. But it clearly reflects the resentment of many Catholic bishops against the necessity of consulting Rome on even minor matters of administration — and sometimes waiting months for an answer.

The key principle which the document would establish is that bishops, while remaining under the over-all jurisdiction of the Pope, "shall have all the faculties which the proper and expeditious exercise of their ordinary and immediate power demands."

Canon lawyers pointed out that this amounts to a "declaration of independence" for bishops, assuring them of far greater autonomy in routine administration of their dioceses than they have had in the past.

The point is driven home by another section of the doctrine, which emphasizes that the various congregations, offices and tribunals of the Roman Curia, while acting in the name of the Pope, should be "at the service of the bishops."

This polite, seemingly innocuous terminology actually packs a revolutionary punch, because the curia in the past has tended to boss bishops rather than "serve" them.

Doubled Soviet Buildup Being Reported in Cuba

touched off a new debate in the administration's intelligence community over whether the additional planes represent an offensive threat.

One group of experts, comprised mostly of intelligence officials from the CIA and the State Department, stresses that the new aerial build-up is "defensive," since most of the planes are single-engine MIG-21s, 19s and 17s.

These intelligence experts emphasize that the planes have an out-and-back range of 300 miles, which greatly limits their use as bombers against the U.S.

Another group made up of intelligence experts from the three military services claims that a build up of this size presents an offensive threat.

These Pentagon veterans point out that more than 150 of the Soviet jets could be converted into 900-mile-range nuclear bombers in a matter of hours. This offensive capability could be attained by equipping the MIGs with additional fuel tanks and a new-type A-bomb rack.

THE BIG MYSTERY

Still unsolved is the growing mystery surrounding heavy Soviet construction in the mountainous central region of Cuba.

Cuban refugees say the Russian technicians are building huge underground missile silos, altho no big rockets have so far been sighted in the underground hideaways.

This finding is disputed by the CIA. Its agents report that the Russians are preparing large underground storage facilities with huge cement covers and air vents on top, and not missile silos.

Since neither the refugees nor the CIA have penetrated the silos, it is doubtful that the U.S. will find out what Khrushchev has in store for us until he decides to lift the covers.

As reported in a previous column, CIA pilots are limited to less than a dozen high-level U-2 reconnaissance flights a month, with none passing directly over Cuba. Instead, the U-2s follow the Cuban coastline, staying over international waters and out of range of more than 600 SA-2 missiles that ring the island.

CUBAN FLASHES

Hurricane Flora, which lashed Cuba for five days in October, flooded a number of the underground silos, according to Cuban refugees. This God-directed storm set back the Soviet's construction program by more than six months. . .Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., one of President Kennedy's top aides on Latin American affairs, is urging more contact with the Castro government. He favors giving U.S. surplus farm commodities to Cuba. To push his project, Schlesinger recently cleared the way for four U.S. citizens — all Quakers — to fly to Cuba last week to arrange the distribution of an airlift of relief supplies to Cuban victims of the recent hurricane. The supplies, valued at $30,000, were flown from Philadelphia over the weekend. . .Exile groups are still pressing the White House to help overthrow Haiti's President Francois Duvalier. So far, President Kennedy has been unwilling to use the Central Intelligence Agency to get rid of Duvalier because he is afraid that its participation would leak out. . .President Kennedy's continued non-recognition of the military junta in Honduras is slowly weakening that new regime. U.S.-financed roads, schools and hospital projects are now grinding to a stop.

potential of the individual should include "vocational training to provide skilled workers in industry, commerce and the trades, the ability to make the most of his skills, the knowledge to be able to adapt to new techniques and materials and, very important, a sense of pride in his workmanship.

"The potential for further economic growth in the area will depend heavily upon the availability of highly skilled technicians and trained workers; upon well-prepared administrative personnel in business and government; upon scientists and engineers of the highest calibre; upon good schools; and upon an informed and responsible citizenry," Dr. Smiley said.

The CU president predicted a costly increase in expanded school facilities in Colorado brought on by "burgeoning enrollment."

"The number of high school graduates in Colorado increased from 11,779 in 1953 to 17,296 in 1962, an increase of 46 per cent. In the same period, the enrollment on the home campuses of the eight state colleges and universities in Colorado increased from 14,800 to 30,200, an increase of 104.5 per cent.

"It was predicted in 1954 that enrollments in the eight institutions would total 32,000 by 1969. That figure has been exceeded this fall — six years ahead of schedule. Our new enrollment predictions anticipate the total enrollment of the existing institutions of higher learning in Colorado will be 50,000 by 1971," Dr. Smiley said.

Costs of facilities to take care of the students—teaching staff, libraries, classrooms and laboratories and research equipment —will be met, the president said.

"I have no doubt that the money will be provided because there is no alternative; the educational needs of our youth must be served. Surely free public education for all who can benefit from it is man's most noble experiment," Dr. Smiley said.

Today's luncheon speaker was scheduled to be Natt Burbank, president of the American Association of School Administrators and superintendent of schools in Boulder. He will discuss "Teacher - oBard Superintendent Relations."

Woman, Boy Injured in Car Accident

A woman and a young boy were injured in a two-car accident in the 200 block of N. Weber St. Monday evening, police reported.

Hilde Buckley, 30, of 315 E. Monument St., complained of a pain in her back and was taken to the Ent AFB Dispensary. She was a passenger in a car driven by Joseph Charles Buckley, 28, of the same address.

James Anthoney Newman, 3, suffered a bruise when his head hit the windshield in a car driven by Mary Lee Newman, 58, of 305½ N. Weber St.

Mrs. Newman was ticketed for careless driving after her north bound car hit the Buckley car on the rear, police said.

The Buckley car was stopped for traffic when the accident happened, according to the report.

Forgery Charge To Be Filed, Sheriff Says

A charge of forgery will be charged against Leroy Franklin Matz, also known as Frank Marks, the sheriff's office said this morning.

Matz, 41, of 912 N. Hancock Ave., is a sergeant at Ent Air Force Base and was placed in county jail Monday. According to Deputy Sheriff Woodrow Littrell, Matz opened a checking account at the Central Colorado Bank Oct. 9 with a deposit of $20. Sometime later he paid in two separate checks drawn on out-of-town banks which totaled $475. One check was signed James Mason of Ent and the other Charles Grueth also of Ent.

Littrell said that after the deposits were made Matz wrote checks to the amount of $450. They were all honored but sometime later the out-of-town checks were returned marked "no such account located."

When Matz was picked up, the report says, he admitted depositing the $20 with the Colorado Bank but insists the two out-of-town checks were in payment from two men called Mason and Grueth for a gambling dept.

He also added that Mason and Grueth are employed at Ent but investigation by the sheriff's office have disclosed no such persons work at the Air Force base.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Showers and occasional rain will spread through portions of the north and middle Atlantic states and the Florida peninsula Tuesday night. Showers, heavy at times, are forecast for the Pacific northwest with snow in parts of the north and central Rockies. It will be colder west of the Rockies. Warmer weather is expected in the eastern two-thirds of the nation except for the upper Mississippi valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

A rather dismal weather picture accompanied dawn today over much of the area from the Mississippi Valley eastward.

Cloudy skies prevailed over this area with many sections reporting occasional light rain. In addition, quite a bit of fog was noted from the middle Mississippi Valley into the southern portions of the Great Lakes Region.

A welcome rainfall thru this area was light with less than .10 of an inch being the rule. Some heavier showers in excess of one inch for the past six hours were noted near the Gulf in the vicinity of southeastern Texas.

Elsewhere over the country generally fair weather prevailed thru much of the plains. Over the Rockies and westward to the Pacific coast variable cloudiness was noted thru the morning with scattered showers, mostly light, occurring mainly in the northern mountain areas and thru the Pacific coastal areas as far south as central California.

Below freezing temperatures were noted in upper New England and thru portions of the upper plains and northern Rockies. The 50s were common thru the Gulf States, middle Mississippi Valley and in the far southwestern U. S.

Elsewhere temperatures were running mostly in the 40s.

School Crossing Near Stratton Being Relocated

The school cross walk at Logan Avenue and Van Buren Street controlled by a "stop when flashing" installation has been removed, according to Don L. Smith, city traffic engineer.

He said the cross walk had been relocated to Van Buren Street about 150 feet west of Paseo Road. It is now controlled by a push button, actuated traffic signal coupled with "walk" and "don't walk" pedestrian signals. This location is near Stratton School.

"Changes occasioned by growth of the residential area in this vicinity made the change desirable for reasons of safety and convenience," he said.

Smith also reported that on Wednesday the existing "stop when flashing" installation on Paseo Road adjacent to the east side of Stratton School will be replaced with a push button controlled traffic signal along with "walk" and "don't walk" pedestrian signals.

He said this change was being made as part of the Traffic Engineering Department's program to change all flashing type school signals to the push button actuated type of regular traffic and pedestrian signals.

These changes will be made only where such extensive type of signal is needed. Unwarranted flashers will be removed.

Jay R. Myers, assistant city traffic engineer, will meet with with Stratton School officials to explain the proper use of the new installation, and this procedure will be followed whenever a push button school signal is installed, Smith said.

Grass Fire Brings Out Firemen Monday

A grass fire in the 1300 block LaSalle St. Monday was put out by Company 6 of the Colorado Springs Fire Department, on a 12:55 p.m. alarm.

A short circuit in the wiring caused a fire in the car of Dave Golding, of Chipita Park, while in the 100 block N. Nevada Ave. Monday. A fire alarm was turned in at 12:15 p.m. Company 1 responded and extinguished the fire. The damage to the car was slight.

for a ticket tape parade. . ." Chenoweth said.

He predicted that the U. S. stepped-up program for a moon-shot would meet with more opposition in Congress than ever before in view of the recent Russian announcement that they were out of the race.

"As a matter of fact," Chenoweth said, "some of us seriously question if they were ever in the race; if Russia isn't in the race, then who are we racing? Ourselves?"

He said he believed that the U. S. should be pre-eminent in space but not at the expense of a "technological game of speculation in space at tremendous cost to achieve limited or questionable results."

Chenoweth declared that if the sole purpose of the manned lunar flight is to land an American on the moon for five minutes or five days, "it would be a criminal waste of the taxpayers money."

He uregd that private enterprise seek to divorce itself from dependance on government contracts and step out on its own in the new technological era.

Chenoweth pointed out that 94 per cent of the actual work in Project Mercury, which saw six Americans shot into space was the result of private industry. However he pointed out that since the U. S. entered the sapce race in 1959, NSAS has grown from an agency with 9,000 employes to the present 32,000 employes.

At the same time, government control of research and development in this area has grown to gigantic proportions.

"At present, the federal government is financing 70 to 80 per cent of all the research work down in the U. S.," Chenoweth said. "People are getting concerned. It is not good for the government to take over all the research and control its products."

He said he was working to bring Colorado into a greater eminence in space work and predicted a new day and a new era in the space program for Colorado.

Packard said he felt the technological and educational growth of Colorado would justify his company's confidence in placing a new plant in Colorado Springs.

However, he warned that the so-called "technological revolution" would develop more rapidly than any other era in the past. In order to keep pace with this development, Packard urged lifelong education in the future to insure a sound economy for the United States.

He said that the new technology would destroy established jobs and industries while creating new ones and for this reason urged better, more-rounded lifelong educational programs starting on the elementary level and carrying it thru colleges and universities.

Packard said that Colorado would face the same problems it had in the past — minerals, decline of the steel industry and agriculture, etc. — but said the state was now in a position to compete for industry that it could not compete for before.

He said that in order to attract this industry, the state must continue to provide a favorable climate for the free enterprise system; develop the best educational system it can; continue to provide an attractive living environment and protect its colleges and universities from politics and local selfish interests.

"Your universities are worth more to your state than all of the gold in your mines," Packard said.

Hollomon, assistant secretary of commerce for science and technology and a Nobel Prize winner, urged the state to exploit the areas in which it has already achieved excellence.

He said the atmospheric sciences work at Boulder and the water research being carried out at Ft. Collins were areas in which the state has proven technical ability.

"When we concern ourselves with the science and technology of today," Hollomon said, "we are concerning ourselves with the economy 10-15 years from today."

He urged universities to assume responsibilities for finding ways in which the discoveries of science can be put to practical use.

26 Arraigned in City For Traffic Violations

Twenty six persons were arraigned in Municipal Court Monday on traffic violations.

Judge Allan Asher ordered a warrant for the arrest of Jesus Cariaga be issued when Cariaga failed to appear in court to answer charges of careless driving and reckless driving.

Bond for Cariaga, 25, of Fountain, was set at $50.

Two Ft. Carosn men pleaded guilty to drag racing. They were Joel Waitman, 21, and Gary Tokheim, 20. The judge fined them both $150 but suspended $100 of each fine when the men agreed to give up their driver's licenses for 30 days.

In sentencing the two, Judge Asher said drag racing is one of the most seious traffic violations that can be committed.

Gary Stefines, 18, of 624 N. Tejon St., was fined $100 for careless driving. The judge suspended $50 of the fine when Stefines agreed to give up his license for 45 days.

A signal light violation resulted in a $35 fine for Gordon Miller, 23, of 2411 N. Cascade Ave. Also, Miller's right to drive in the city limits was suspended for one month.

Howard Adams, 25, of Denver, was fined $15 after he pleaded guilty to a backing violation. A charge of injury to city property against Adams was continued until Nov 18.

'No Retreat' Seen in Blockade of U.S. Convoy

day today with no indication of retreat by either side.

The 12-vehicle, 44-man convoy tried to run the blockade just inside East Germany early this morning, but three armored Soviet personnel carriers roared out of nearby woods and blocked their path. Two other Soviet personnel carriers parked behind the convoy, boxing in the Americans.

A Soviet radio command car was parked ahead of the convoy, which was stopped at the Marienborn checkpoint on the western end of the 110-mile superhighway to West Berlin.

The blockade—the third involving Allied convoys in less than a month — caused grave concern in Washington.

Again it centered on the issue of who is to make the rules for Allied military convoy travel on the autobahn. The Russians demanded a head count of U.S. soldiers on the vehicles, and the Americans refused.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk summoned Georgi M. Kornienko, acting Soviet charge d'affaires in Washington, Monday and demanded the convoy be released. Informants said Kornienko explained he had no word from his government on the incident.

The U.S. Army's Berlin garrison postponed a training exercise scheduled to start Monday for 24 hours. The Army insisted the troops were not placed on the alert, but Army officials presumably felt it was wiser to keep the men in their barracks in readiness.

U.S. officials in Washington at first minimized the incident but later one high official said it had taken on "serious dimensions."

"Intensive consultations" between the United States, Britain and France were reported. The official said that the longer the blockade lasts, the graver the danger of a serious confrontation becomes.

The convoy was stopped at 8:01 a.m. Monday after the Soviet officer in charge of the checkpoint, a Lt. Col. Spiridinov, demanded that 15 passengers in three of the trucks dismount and be counted.

The convoy commander, Lt. John Lamb of North Augusta, N.C., refused, in accordance with an Allied statement sent to the Russians Oct. 29 regarding procedures Allied convoys will follow when traveling to and from Berlin.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russian blockade of a U.S. Army convoy on the road to Berlin is viewed here today with more concern as each hour passes. U.S. officials expressed fear it could grow into a serious confrontation.

Earlier, officials stressed that the incident was not causing too much concern.

The convoy, delayed since Monday at the autobahn checkpoint, tried at midnight to break through to West Berlin but was cut off by five Soviet armored personnel carriers and sedans.

The situation has taken "serious dimensions," said a high-ranking official in Washington, and he revealed that "intensive consultations" were under way between the United States, Great Britain and France.

When two American convoys were suddenly stopped by the Russians last month — jarring the cold war truce that followed negotiation of the limited nuclear test ban treaty—many U.S. officials blamed the incidents on a "local misunderstanding."

Then and now, the question was over Russian demands that the troops in the convoy dismount and be counted before passing through the checkpoint on the autobahn which links Berlin with West Germany.

So there would be no future misunderstandings, the United States spelled out for Moscow its policy on the matter, administration officials said.

Washington informed the Kremlin that if a convoy carried more than 30 passengers—excluding drivers and co-drivers—it would allow the passengers to be counted—but not if there were fewer than 30 passengers.

This, the Western Powers told Russia, had been the practice since the Soviets began taking head counts in 1961.

The Russian reaction was slow in coming but it came Monday when a Soviet officer at the checkpoint warned that the Russians, not the Western Allies, will write the rules for the autobahn.

This remark, more than the incident itself, induced Secretary of State Dean Rusk to summon Georgi M. Kornienko, acting head of the Soviet Embassy, Monday morning, officials said.

The secretary was understood to have told the Russian that he interprets the incident on the autobahn and the Soviet officer's remark as proof of a Soviet attempt to change processing practices which existed over a period of years.

Kornienko, informants said, replied he had no word from his government on the incident.

Space Age Boom Possible In Colorado, Meeting Told

ence, including at least some graduate work of merit, is a potential center for growth industries."

That is the key to the formation of a technical community, he added, and it calls for top quality faculty members. It is better to pay a high salary for one "outstanding" professor than to hire "good" professors at normal salaries. Good men will usually take less money to work with the outstanding man anyway, he pointed out.

"An outstanding faculty member will attract outstanding students. Under his incluence they will be trained to make important contributions. Furthermore, he will be able to obtain the required research support from the government, another essential ingredient of the technical community."

Dr. Terman warned against thinking of government contracts and grants as "aid to education."

Government agencies supporting research and development are "mission oriented," he said. They prefer to spend their money where it will bring the best return for fulfilling the agency's mission — delivering research results of importance to the nation.

"A natural result is that government money tends to flow where there is strength in universities," he said. "It serves no purpose to have the research done by third or fourth-rate men if first-rate faculty men can be found in some college, large or small, who are interested in doing it."

Dr. Terman noted that Colorado already has a good start in the stiff nation-wide competition to deveiop technical communities.

"Colorado should focus attention on one, two, or at most three centers where you can mobilize a high level of academic strength," he told the conferees. "You cannot build them all over the state. To get anywhere in the severe national competition that exists you must have high quality performers, and you can only manage to create a very few of these.

"What counts is the quality of those few members of the faculty who represent education and research leadership in engineering and science.

"This is a great state," Dr. Terman said. "You are strategically located geographically. You can offer attractive living conditions. You have the necessary population base, the required financial and intellectual resources.

"You have outstanding technical scholars, including some members of the National Academy of Sciences. You have government grants, and you already have the framework of a good program of graduate education.

"You can participate importantly in the future development of this country's science-oriented growth industries provided you give further support to the things that count.

"You must be willing to make the financial investment required for a strong educational program in science and engineering, and give it the continuing care and wise attention needed to exploit the values you are creating."

Mrs. Nhu May Return to U.S. For Longer Stay

ernment, through the U.S. State Department, informed Mrs. Nhu her children were safe.

Mrs. Nhu disclosed Monday the contents of a telegram she had sent Secretary of State Dean Rusk the day before asking that she be permitted to return to Saigon to take care of her husband and her three children. As an alternative she suggested that the State Department send the children to Rome via Los Angeles.

Instead, Mrs. Nhu received a telegram from the State Department late Monday telling her the children were being flown to Rome, via Bangkok, Thailand.

Mrs. Nhu had one important guest at her suite Monday—her father.

It was the first meeting between Mrs. Nhu and Tran Van Chuong, 65, since she arrived in the United States.

The father, former Vietnamese ambassador to the U.S., and daughter had long been at odds over authoritarian policies of the Ngo Dinh ruling family.

After spending approximately 45 minutes with his daughter, Tran Van Chong said: "There was no need of reconciliation because as soon as I learned the tragic events my heart was very near my daughter."

He declined to say who contacted whom first.

$25 Fine Levied On Illegal Hunting Charge

Floyd Marquez, 20, of 330 E. Las Animas St. paid a $25 penalty assessment ticket issued by the State Game and Fish Department for illegal hunting, the sheriff's office reported Monday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, Marquez was found by John S. Bock of 3221 W. Colorado Ave. Bock told the deputy that he heard shooting on his property half a mile south of his house Saturday. Upon investigation he found Marquez and brought him back to his house.

Bock told Barry Monday that anyone found hunting on his property would be prosecuted within the full extent of the law.

Vandals Punch Holes in Side Of New House

Two cases of malicious mischief were reported to the sheriff's department this morning.

The first happened at 814 Cresta Rd. where Ray Dorr Cons of 1664 Dorchester Dr. is building a new house. Numerous holes had been punched thru the side of the building and two strips of construction material ripped up. Deputy Sheriff Bob Walters said damage was estimated at $25.

The second incident occurred at 2915 Wood Ave. when the rear plastic on a jeep belonging to Frank Cash also of 2915 Wood Ave. was cut out, Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman said. Damage amounts of $10.

need for harmonious relationships between bishops and the Roman Curia. But it clearly reflects the resentment of many Catholic bishops against the necessity of consulting Rome on even minor matters of administration — and sometimes waiting months for an answer.

The key principle which the document would establish is that bishops, while remaining under the over-all jurisdiction of the Pope, "shall have all the faculties which the proper and expeditious exercise of their ordinary and immediate power demands."

Canon lawyers pointed out that this amounts to a "declaration of independence" for bishops, assuring them of far greater autonomy in routine administration of their dioceses than they have had in the past.

The point is driven home by another section of the doctrine, which emphasizes that the various congregations, offices and tribunals of the Roman Curia, while acting in the name of the Pope, should be "at the service of the bishops."

This polite, seemingly innocuous terminology actually packs a revolutionary punch, because the curia in the past has tended to boss bishops rather than "serve" them.

Doubled Soviet Buildup Being Reported in Cuba

touched off a new debate in the administration's intelligence community over whether the additional planes represent an offensive threat.

One group of experts, comprised mostly of intelligence officials from the CIA and the State Department, stresses that the new aerial build-up is "defensive," since most of the planes are single-engine MIG-21s, 19s and 17s.

These intelligence experts emphasize that the planes have an out-and-back range of 300 miles, which greatly limits their use as bombers against the U.S.

Another group, made up of intelligence experts from the three military services, claims that a build-up of this size presents an "offensive" threat.

These Pentagon veterans point out that more than 150 of the Soviet jets could be converted into 900-mile-range nuclear bombers in a matter of hours. This offensive capability could be attained by equipping the MIGs with additional fuel tanks and a new-type A-bomb rack.

THE BIG MYSTERY

Still unsolved is the growing mystery surrounding heavy Soviet construction in the mountainous central region of Cuba.

Cuban refugees say the Russian technicians are building huge underground missile silos, altho no big rockets have so far been sighted in the underground hideaways.

This finding is disputed by the CIA. Its agents report that the Russians are preparing large underground storage facilities with huge cement covers and air vents on top, and not missile silos.

Since neither the refugees nor the CIA have penetrated the silos, it is doubtful that the U.S. will find out what Khrushchev has in store for us until he decides to lift the covers.

As reported in a previous column, CIA pilots are limited to less than a dozen high-level U-2 reconnaissance flights a month, with none passing directly over Cuba. Instead, the U-2s follow the Cuban coastline, staying over international waters and out of range of more than 600 SA-2 missiles that ring the island.

CUBAN FLASHES

Hurricane Flora, which lashed Cuba for five days in October, flooded a number of the underground silos, according to Cuban refugees. This God - directed storm set back the Soviet's construction program by more than six months. . .Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., one of President Kennedy's top aides on Latin American affairs, is urging more contact with the Castro government. He favors giving U.S. surplus farm commodities to Cuba. To push his project, Schlesinger recently cleared the way for four U.S. citizens — all Quakers — to fly to Cuba last week to arrange the distribution of an airlift of relief supplies to Cuban victims of the recent hurricane. The supplies, valued at $30,000, were flown from Philadelphia over the weekend. . .Exile groups are still pressing the White House to help overthrow Haiti's President Francois Duvalier. So far, President Kennedy has been unwilling to use the Central Intelligence Agency to get rid of Duvalier because he is afraid that its participation would leak out. . .President Kennedy's continued non-recognition of the military junta in Honduras is slowly weakening that new regime. U.S.-financed roads, schools and hospital projects are now grinding to a stop.

Educator Sees Greater Role for Junior Colleges

potential of the individual should include "vocational training to provide skilled workers in industry, commerce and the trades, the ability to make the most of his skills, the knowledge to be able to adapt to new techniques and materials and, very important, a sense of pride in his workmanship.

"The potential for further economic growth in the area will depend heavily upon the availability of highly skilled technicians and trained workers; upon well-prepared administrative personnel in business and government; upon scientists and engineers of the highest calibre; upon good schools; and upon an informed and responsible citizenry," Dr. Smiley said.

The CU president predicted a costly increase in expanded school facilities in Colorado brought on by "burgeoning enrollment."

"The number of high school graduates in Colorado increased from 11,779 in 1953 to 17,296 in 1962, an increase of 46 per cent. In the same period, the enrollment on the home campuses of the eight state colleges and universities in Colorado increased from 14,800 to 30,200, an increase of 104.5 per cent.

"It was predicted in 1954 that enrollments in the eight institutions would total 32,000 by 1969. That figure has been exceeded this fall — six years ahead of schedule. Our new enrollment predictions anticipate the total enrollment of the existing institutions of higher learning in Colorado will be 50,000 by 1971," Dr. Smiley said.

Costs of facilities to take care of the students—teaching staff, libraries, classrooms and laboratories and research equipment—will be met, the president said.

"I have no doubt that the money will be provided because there is no alternative; the educational needs of our youth must be served. Surely free public education for all who can benefit from it is man's most noble experiment," Dr. Smiley said.

Today's luncheon speaker was scheduled to be Natt Burbank, president of the American Association of School Administrators and superintendent of schools in Boulder. He will discuss "Teacher - oBard Superintendent Relations."

Woman, Boy Injured in Car Accident

A woman and a young boy were injured in a two-car accident in the 200 block of N. Weber St. Monday evening, police reported.

Hilde Buckley, 30, of 315 E. Monument St., complained of a pain in her back and was taken to the Ent AFB Dispensary. She was a passenger in a car driven by Joseph Charles Buckley, 28, of the same address.

James Anthoney Newman, 3, suffered a bruise when his head hit the windshield in a car driven by Mary Lee Newman, 58, of 305½ N. Weber St.

Mrs. Newman was ticketed for careless driving after her north bound car hit the Buckley car on the rear, police said.

The Buckley car was stopped for traffic when the accident happened, according to the report.

Forgery Charge To Be Filed, Sheriff Says

A charge of forgery will be charged against Leroy Franklin Matz, also known as Frank Marks, the sheriff's office said this morning.

Matz, 41, of 912 N. Hancock Ave., is a sergeant at Ent Air Force Base and was placed in county jail Monday. According to Deputy Sheriff Woodrow Littreil, Matz opened a checking account at the Central Colorado Bank Oct. 9 with a deposit of $20. Sometime later he paid in two separate checks drawn on out-of-town banks which totaled $475. One check was signed James Mason of Ent and the other Charles Grueth also of Ent.

Littrell said that after the deposits were made Matz wrote checks to the amount of $450. They were all honored but sometime later the out-of-town checks were returned marked "no such account located."

When Matz was picked up, the report says, he admitted depositing the $20 with the Colorado Bank but insists the two out-of-town checks were in payment from two men called Mason and Grueth for a gambling dept.

He also added that Mason and Grueth are employed at Ent but investigation by the sheriff's office have disclosed no such persons work at the Air Force base.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Showers and occasional rain will spread through portions of the north and middle Atlantic states and the Florida peninsula Tuesday night. Showers, heavy at times, are forecast for the Pacific northwest with snow in parts of the north and central Rockies. It will be colder west of the Rockies. Warmer weather is expected in the eastern two-thirds of the nation except for the upper Mississippi valley.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

A rather dismal weather picture accompanied dawn today over much of the area from the Mississippi Valley eastward.

Cloudy skies prevailed over this area with many sections reporting occasional light rain. In addition, quite a bit of fog was noted from the middle Mississippi Valley into the southern portions of the Great Lakes Region.

A welcome rainfall thru this area was light with less than .10 of an inch being the rule. Some heavier showers in excess of one inch for the past six hours were noted near the Gulf in the vicinity of southeastern Texas.

Elsewhere over the country generally fair weather prevailed thru much of the plains. Over the Rockies and westward to the Pacific coast variable cloudiness was noted thru the morning with scattered showers, mostly light, occurring mainly in the northern mountain areas and thru the Pacific coastal areas as far south as central California.

Below freezing temperatures were noted in upper New England and thru portions of the upper plains and northern Rockies. The 50s were common thru the Gulf States, middle Mississippi Valley and in the far southwestern U. S.

Elsewhere temperatures were running mostly in the 40s.

School Crossing Near Stratton Being Relocated

The school cross walk at Logan Avenue and Van Buren Street controlled by a "stop when flashing" installation has been removed, according to Don L. Smith, city traffic engineer.

He said the cross walk had been relocated to Van Buren Street about 150 feet west of Paseo Road. It is now controlled by a push button, actuated traffic signal coupled with "walk" and "don't walk" pedestrian signals. This location is near Stratton School.

"Changes occasioned by growth of the residential area in this vicinity made the change desirable for reasons of safety and convenience," he said.

Smith also reported that on Wednesday the existing "stop when flashing" installation on Paseo Road adjacent to the east side of Stratton School will be replaced with a push button controlled traffic signal along with "walk" and "don't walk" pedestrian signals.

He said this change was being made as part of the Traffic Engineering Department's program to change all flashing type school signals to the push button actuated type of regular traffic and pedestrian signals.

These changes will be made only where such extensive type of signal is needed. Unwarranted flashers will be removed.

Jay R. Myers, assistant city traffic engineer, will meet with with Stratton School officials to explain the proper use of the new installation, and this procedure will be followed whenever a push button school signal is installed, Smith said.

Grass Fire Brings Out Firemen Monday

A grass fire in the 1300 block LaSalle St. Monday was put out by Company 6 of the Colorado Springs Fire Department, on a 12:55 p.m. alarm.

A short circuit in the wiring caused a fire in the car of Dave Golding, of Chipita Park, while in the 100 block N. Nevada Ave. Monday. A fire alarm was turned in at 12:15 p.m. Company 1 responded and extinguished the fire. The damage to the car was slight.

Chenoweth Blasts Race To Moon as 'Wasteful'

for a ticket tape parade. . .," Chenoweth said.

He predicted that the U. S. stepped-up program for a moon-shot would meet with more opposition in Congress than ever before in view of the recent Russian announcement that they were out of the race.

"As a matter of fact," Chenoweth said, "some of us seriously question if they were ever in the race; if Russia isn't in the race, then who are we racing? Ourselves?"

He said he believed that the U. S. should be pre-eminent in space but not at the expense of a "technological game of speculation in space at tremendous cost to achieve limited or questionable results."

Chenoweth declared that if the sole purpose of the manned lunar flight is to land an American on the moon for five minutes or five days, "it would be a criminal waste of the taxpayers money."

He uregd that private enterprise seek to divorce itself from dependance on government contracts and step out on its own in the new technological era.

Chenoweth pointed out that 94 per cent of the actual work in Project Mercury, which saw six Americans shot into space was the result of private industry. However he pointed out that since the U. S. entered the sapce race in 1959, NSAS has grown from an agency with 9,000 employes to the present 32,000 employes.

At the same time, government control of research and development in this area has grown to gigantic proportions.

"At present, the federal government is financing 70 to 80 per cent of all the research work down in the U. S.," Chenoweth said. "People are getting concerned. It is not good for the government to take over all the research and control its products."

He said he was working to bring Colorado into a greater eminence in space work and predicted a new day and a new era in the space program for Colorado.

Packard said he felt the technological and educational growth of Colorado would justify his company's confidence in placing a new plant in Colorado Springs.

However, he warned that the so-called "technological revolution" would develop more rapidly than any other era in the past. In order to keep pace with this development, Packard urged lifelong education in the future to insure a sound economy for the United States.

He said that the new technology would destroy established jobs and industries while creating new ones and for this reason urged better, more-rounded lifelong educational programs starting on the elementary level and carrying it thru colleges and universities.

Packard said that Colorado would face the same problems it had in the past — minerals, decline of the steel industry and agriculture, etc. — but said the state was now in a position to compete for industry that it could not compete for before.

He said that in order to attract this industry, the state must continue to provide a favorable climate for the free enterprise system; develop the best educational system it can; continue to provide an attractive living environment and protect its colleges and universities from politics and local selfish interests.

"Your universities are worth more to your state than all of the gold in your mines," Packard said.

Hollomon, assistant secretary of commerce for science and technology and a Nobel Prize winner, urged the state to exploit the areas in which it has already achieved excellence.

He said the atmospheric sciences work at Boulder and the water research being carried out at Ft. Collins were areas in which the state has proven technical ability.

"When we concern ourselves with the science and technology of today," Hollomon said, "we are concerning ourselves with the economy 10-15 years from today."

He urged universities to assume responsibilities for finding ways in which the discoveries of science can be put to practical use.

26 Arraigned in City For Traffic Violations

Twenty six persons were arraigned in Municipal Court Monday on traffic violations.

Judge Allan Asher ordered a warrant for the arrest of Jesus Cariaga be issued when Cariaga failed to appear in court to answer charges of careless driving and reckless driving.

Bond for Cariaga, 25, of Fountain, was set at $50.

Two Ft. Carosn men pleaded guilty to drag racing. They were Joel Waitman, 21, and Gary Tokheim, 20. The judge fined them both $150 but suspended $100 of each fine when the men agreed to give up their driver's licenses for 30 days.

In sentencing the two, Judge Asher said drag racing is one of the most seious traffic violations that can be committed.

Gary Stefines, 18, of 624 N. Tejon St., was fined $100 for careless driving. The judge suspended $50 of the fine when Stefines agreed to give up his license for 45 days.

A signal light violation resulted in a $35 fine for Gordon Miller, 23, of 2411 N. Cascade Ave. Also, Miller's right to drive in the city limits was suspended for one month.

Howard Adams, 25, of Denver, was fined $15 after he pleaded guilty to a backing violation. A charge of injury to city property against Adams was continued until Nov. 18.

Mahlon Saunders, 20, of 1003 N. 18th St., pleaded guilty to careless driving and not guilty to a charge of reckless driving. The judge continued the case until Nov. 14 for taking of testimony on the reckless driving charge and sentencing on the careless driving charge.

Fines and sentences imposed on other traffic violators follow:

Curtis Koncar, 18, 109 Lawrence St., $35, speeding; George McKitrick, 19, 2021 Ontario Dr., $35, speeding; Irene Poe, 41, 402 LaSalle St., $35, speeding; Helen Colwell, 70, 1944 Mid Rd., $15, moving a parked vehicle (A charge of injury to city property against Mrs. Colwell was continued until Nov. 18); Olga Jackson, 27, 520 Rio Grande St., $15, speeding; Alva Shockley, 67, 2729 W. Cucharras St., $25 stop sign violation; Maria Fest, 44, 831 Bryce Dr., $10, speeding; John Willard, 17, 1619 N. Nevada Ave., $5, muffler violation.

Also fined were Robert Herrera, 51, 2414 W. Kiowa St., $15 on a school signal violation and another $15 for careless driving; William Johnson, 41, 1811 W. Bijou St., $10, careless driving (an injury to city property charge against him was continued until Nov. 18); Max Oetjens, 22, PO Box 6214, Crestview Acres, $15, careless driving.

Eight persons pleaded not guilty to violations and their cases were continued.

Continued until Nov. 19 were the cases of Chas Gogler, 34, [illegible] Broadmoor, who is charged with a careless driving; Ann Phillips, 44, 151 Holmes Dr., improper turning; George Clarke, 53, 3221 W. Colorado Ave., obstructing traffic.

The judge granted a continuance until Nov. 29 to Richard Demark, 34, of 110 W. Tyler St., who is charged with a signal light violation. The case of Gladys Mitchell, 38, of 1611 N. Franklin St. was continued until Nov. 12. She pleaded not guilty Nov. 12. She pleaded not guilty to taking the right of way at a stop sign.

Also continued was the case against Hugh Whiteman, 19, of 60 N. Yampa St., who is charged with reckless driving, a stop sign violation and a signal light violation.

William Buckley, 33, of Ent AFB, pleaded not guilty to interfering with a motor vehicle and possessing a concealed weapon. Buckley requested a jury trial and his case was continued until Nov. 12.

'No Retreat' Seen in Blockade of U.S. Convoy

day today with no indication of retreat by either side.

The 12-vehicle, 44-man convoy tried to run the blockade just inside East Germany early this morning, but three armored Soviet personnel carriers roared out of nearby woods and blocked their path. Two other Soviet personnel carriers parked behind the convoy, boxing in the Americans.

A Soviet radio command car was parked ahead of the convoy, which was stopped at the Marienborn checkpoint on the western end of the 110-mile superhighway to West Berlin.

The blockade—the third involving Allied convoys in less than a month — caused grave concern in Washington.

Again it centered on the issue of who is to make the rules for Allied military convoy travel on the autobahn. The Russians demanded a head count of U.S. soldiers on the vehicles, and the Americans refused.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk summoned Georgi M. Kornienko, acting Soviet charge d'affaires in Washington, Monday and demanded the convoy be released. Informants said Kornienko explained he had no word from his government on the incident.

The U.S. Army's Berlin garrison postponed a training exercise scheduled to start Monday for 24 hours. The Army insisted the troops were not placed on the alert, but Army officials presumably felt it was wiser to keep the men in their barracks in readiness.

U.S. officials in Washington at first minimized the incident but later one high official said it had taken on "serious dimensions."

"Intensive consultations" between the United States, Britain and France were reported. The official said that the longer the blockade lasts, the graver the danger of a serious confrontation becomes.

The convoy was stopped at 8:01 a.m. Monday after the Soviet officer in charge of the checkpoint, a Lt. Col. Spiridinov, demanded that 15 passengers in three of the trucks dismount and be counted.

The convoy commander, Lt. John Lamb of North Augusta, N.C., refused, in accordance with an Allied statement sent to the Russians Oct. 29 regarding procedures Allied convoys will follow when traveling to and from Berlin.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russian blockade of a U.S. Army convoy on the road to Berlin is viewed here today with more concern as each hour passes. U.S. officials expressed fear it could grow into a serious confrontation.

Earlier, officials stressed that the incident was not causing too much concern.

The convoy, delayed since Monday at the autobahn checkpoint, tried at midnight to break through to West Berlin but was cut off by five Soviet armored personnel carriers and sedans.

The situation has taken "serious dimensions," said a high-ranking official in Washington, and he revealed that "intensive consultations" were under way between the United States, Great Britain and France.

When two American convoys were suddenly stopped by the Russians last month — jarring the cold war truce that followed negotiation of the limited nuclear test ban treaty—many U.S. officials blamed the incidents on a "local misunderstanding."

Then and now, the question was over Russian demands that the troops in the convoy dismount and be counted before passing through the checkpoint on the autobahn which links Berlin with West Germany.

So there would be no future misunderstandings, the United States spelled out for Moscow its policy on the matter, administration officials said.

Washington informed the Kremlin that if a convoy carried more than 30 passengers—excluding drivers and co-drivers—it would allow the passengers to be counted—but not if there were fewer than 30 passengers.

This, the Western Powers told Russia, had been the practice since the Soviets began taking head counts in 1961.

The Russian reaction was slow in coming but it came Monday when a Soviet officer at the checkpoint warned that the Russians, not the Western Allies, will write the rules for the autobahn.

This remark, more than the incident itself, induced Secretary of State Dean Rusk to summon Georgi M. Kornienko, acting head of the Soviet Embassy, Monday morning, officials said.

The secretary was understood to have told the Russian that he interprets the incident on the autobahn and the Soviet officer's remark as proof of a Soviet attempt to change processing practices which existed over a period of years.

Kornienko, informants said, replied he had no word from his government on the incident.

Space Age Boom Possible In Colorado, Meeting Told

ence, including at least some graduate work of merit, is a potential center for growth industries."

That is the key to the formation of a technical community, he added, and it calls for top quality faculty members. It is better to pay a high salary for one "outstanding" professor than to hire "good" professors at normal salaries. Good men will usually take less money to work with the outstanding man anyway, he pointed out.

"An outstanding faculty member will attract outstanding students. Under his incluence they will be trained to make important contributions. Furthermore, he will be able to obtain the required research support from the government, another essential ingredient of the technical community."

Dr. Terman warned against thinking of government contracts and grants as "aid to education."

Government agencies supporting research and development are "mission oriented," he said. They prefer to spend their money where it will bring the best return for fulfilling the agency's mission — delivering research results of importance to the nation.

"A natural result is that government money tends to flow where there is strength in universities," he said. "It serves no purpose to have the research done by third or fourth-rate men if first-rate faculty men can be found in some college, large or small, who are interested in doing it."

Dr. Terman noted that Colorado already has a good start in the stiff nation-wide competition to develop technical communities.

"Colorado should focus attention on one, two, or at most three centers where you can mobilize a high level of academic strength," he told the conferees. "You cannot build them all over the state. To get anywhere in the severe national competition that exists you must have high quality performers, and you can only manage to create a very few of these.

"What counts is the quality of those few members of the faculty who represent education and research leadership in engineering and science.

"This is a great state," Dr. Terman said. "You are strategically located geographically. You can offer attractive living conditions. You have the necessary population base, the required financial and intellectual resources.

"You have outstanding technical scholars, including some members of the National Academy of Sciences. You have government grants, and you already have the framework of a good program of graduate education.

"You can participate importantly in the future development of this country's science-oriented growth industries provided you give further support to the things that count.

"You must be willing to make the financial investment required for a strong educational program in science and engineering, and give it the continuing care and wise attention needed to exploit the values you are creating."

Mrs. Nhu May Return to U.S. For Longer Stay

ernment, through the U.S. State Department, informed Mrs. Nhu her children were safe.

Mrs. Nhu disclosed Monday the contents of a telegram she had sent Secretary of State Dean Rusk the day before asking that she be permitted to return to Saigon to take care of her husband and her three children. As an alternative she suggested that the State Department send the children to Rome via Los Angeles.

Instead, Mrs. Nhu received a telegram from the State Department late Monday telling her the children were being flown to Rome, via Bangkok, Thailand.

Mrs. Nhu had one important guest at her suite Monday—her father.

It was the first meeting between Mrs. Nhu and Tran Van Chuong, 65, since she arrived in the United States.

The father, former Vietnamese ambassador to the U.S., and daughter had long been at odds over authoritarian policies of the Ngo Dinh ruling family.

After spending approximately 45 minutes with his daughter, Tran Van Chong said: "There was no need of reconciliation because as soon as I learned the tragic events my heart was very near my daughter."

He declined to say who contacted whom first.

$25 Fine Levied On Illegal Hunting Charge

Floyd Marquez, 20, of 330 E. Las Animas St. paid a $25 penalty assessment ticket issued by the State Game and Fish Department for illegal hunting, the sheriff's office reported Monday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, Marquez was found by John S. Bock of 3221 W. Colorado Ave. Bock told the deputy that he heard shooting on his property half a mile south of his house Saturday. Upon investigation he found Marquez and brought him back to his house.

Bock told Barry Monday that anyone found hunting on his property would be prosecuted within the full extent of the law.

Vandals Punch Holes in Side Of New House

Two cases of malicious mischief were reported to the sheriff's department this morning.

The first happened at 814 Cresta Rd. where Ray Dorr Cons of 1664 Dorchester Dr. is building a new house. Numerous holes had been punched thru the side of the building and two strips of construction material ripped up. Deputy Sheriff Bob Walters said damage was estimated at $25.

The second incident occurred at 2915 Wood Ave. when the rear plastic on a jeep belonging to Frank Cash also of 2915 Wood Ave. was cut out, Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman said. Damage amounts of $10.

He was a member of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, the El Paso County Sheriff's Posse, the Broadmoor Volunteer Fire Department, Colorado Springs Elks Lodge No. 309, Footprinters International, Pikes Peak Sport Car Club, El Paso Club and other organizations. He served in the U. S. Navy from 1955 to 1959. He was a member of St. Pauls Catholic Church.

Mr Magruder was born in Reno, Nev., Dec. 5, 1935. He attended the Fountain Valley High School, graduating in the class of 1955. On July 20, 1957, in Chicago, Ill, he was married to Mary E. Leaveck, who survives him. He is also survived by four children, Rickery, 5; Mauria, 3½, Martha 2 and Melony, 5 months; a sister, Mrs. Edna Kesall, of Richmond, Va., and a great-aunt, Mrs. Howard S. Vatican Council Plans Debate on Decentralizing need for harmonious relationships between bishops and the Roman Curia. But it clearly reflects the resentment of many Catholic bishops against the necessity of consulting Rome on even minor matters of administration — and sometimes waiting months for an answer.

The key principle which the document would establish is that bishops, while remaining under the over-all jurisdiction of the Pope, "shall have all the faculties which the proper and expeditious exercise of their ordinary and immediate power demands."

Canon lawyers pointed out that this amounts to a "declaration of independence" for bishops, assuring them of far greater autonomy in routine administration of their dioceses than they have had in the past.

The point is driven home by another section of the doctrine, which emphasizes that the various congregations, offices and tribunals of the Roman Curia, while acting in the name of the Pope, should be "at the service of the bishops."

This polite, seemingly innocuous terminology actually packs a revolutionary punch, because the curia in the past has tended to boss bishops rather than "serve" them.

Doubled Soviet Buildup Being Reported in Cuba

touched off a new debate in the administration's intelligence community over whether the additional planes represent an offensive threat.

One group of experts, comprised mostly of intelligence officials from the CIA and the State Department, stresses that the new aerial build-up is "defensive," since most of the planes are single-engine MIG-21s, 19s and 17s.

These intelligence experts emphasize that the planes have an out-and-back range of 300 miles, which greatly limits their use as bombers against the U.S.

Another group, made up of intelligence experts from the three military services, claims that a build-up of this size presents an "offensive" threat.

These Pentagon veterans point out that more than 150 of the Soviet jets could be converted into 900-mile-range nuclear bombers in a matter of hours. This offensive capability could be attained by equipping the MIGs with additional fuel tanks and a new-type A-bomb rack.

THE BIG MYSTERY

Still unsolved is the growing mystery surrounding heavy Soviet construction in the mountainous central region of Cuba.

Cuban refugees say the Russian technicians are building huge underground missile silos, altho no big rockets have so far been sighted in the underground hideaways.

This finding is disputed by the CIA. Its agents report that the Russians are preparing large underground storage facilities with huge cement covers and air vents on top, and not missile silos.

Since neither the refugees nor the CIA have penetrated the silos, it is doubtful that the U.S. will find out what Khrushchev has in store for us until he decides to lift the covers.

As reported in a previous column, CIA pilots are limited to less than a dozen high-level U-2 reconnaissance flights a month, with none passing directly over Cuba. Instead, the U-2s follow the Cuban coastline, staying over international waters and out of range of more than 600 SA-2 missiles that ring the island.

CUBAN FLASHES

Hurricane Flora, which lashed Cuba for five days in October, flooded a number of the underground silos, according to Cuban refugees. This God - directed storm set back the Soviet's construction program by more than six months. . .Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., one of President Kennedy's top aides on Latin American affairs, is urging more contact with the Castro government. He favors giving U.S. surplus farm commodities to Cuba. To push his project, Schlesinger recently cleared the way for four U.S. citizens — all Quakers — to fly to Cuba last week to arrange the distribution of an airlift of relief supplies to Cuban victims of the recent hurricane. The supplies, valued at $30,000, were flown from Philadelphia over the weekend. . .Exile groups are still pressing the White House to help overthrow Haiti's President Francois Duvalier. So far, President Kennedy has been unwilling to use the Central Intelligence Agency to get rid of Duvalier because he is afraid that its participation would leak out. . .President Kennedy's continued non-recognition of the military junta in Honduras is slowly weakening that new regime. U.S.-financed roads, schools and hospital projects are now grinding to a stop.

Forgery Charge To Be Filed, Sheriff Says

A charge of forgery will be charged against Leroy Franklin Matz, also known as Frank Marks, the sheriff's office said this morning.

Matz, 41, of 912 N. Hancock Ave., is a sergeant at Ent Air Force Base and was placed in county jail Monday. According to Deputy Sheriff Woodrow Littreil, Matz opened a checking account at the Central Colorado Bank Oct. 9 with a deposit of $20. Sometime later he paid in two separate checks drawn on out-of-town banks which totaled $475. One check was signed James Mason of Ent and the other Charles Grueth also of Ent.

Littrell said that after the deposits were made Matz wrote checks to the amount of $450. They were all honored but sometime later the out-of-town checks were returned marked "no such account located."

When Matz was picked up, the report says, he admitted depositing the $20 with the Colorado Bank but insists the two out-of-town checks were in payment from two men called Mason and Grueth for a gambling dept.

He also added that Mason and Grueth are employed at Ent but investigation by the sheriff's office have disclosed no such persons work at the Air Force base.

Educator Sees Greater Role for Junior Colleges

potential of the individual should include "vocational training to provide skilled workers in industry, commerce and the trades, the ability to make the most of his skills, the knowledge to be able to adapt to new techniques and materials and, very important, a sense of pride in his workmanship.

"The potential for further economic growth in the area will depend heavily upon the availability of highly skilled technicians and trained workers; upon well-prepared administrative personnel in business and government; upon scientists and engineers of the highest calibre; upon good schools; and upon an informed and responsible citizenry," Dr. Smiley said.

The CU president predicted a costly increase in expanded school facilities in Colorado brought on by "burgeoning enrollment."

"The number of high school graduates in Colorado increased from 11,779 in 1953 to 17,296 in 1962, an increase of 46 per cent. In the same period, the enrollment on the home campuses of the eight state colleges and universities in Colorado increased from 14,800 to 30,200, an increase of 104.5 per cent.

"It was predicted in 1954 that enrollments in the eight institutions would total 32,000 by 1969. That figure has been exceeded this fall — six years ahead of schedule. Our new enrollment predictions anticipate the total enrollment of the existing institutions of higher learning in Colorado will be 50,000 by 1971," Dr. Smiley said.

Costs of facilities to take care of the students—teaching staff, libraries, classrooms and laboratories and research equipment —will be met, the president said.

"I have no doubt that the money will be provided because there is no alternative; the educational needs of our youth must be served. Surely free public education for all who can benefit from it is man's most noble experiment," Dr. Smiley said.

Today's luncheon s peaker was scheduled to be Natt Burbank, president of the American Association of School Administrators and superintendent of schools in Boulder. He will discuss "Teacher - oBard Superintendent Relations."

Woman; Boy Injured in Car Accident

A woman and a young boy were injured in a two-car accident in the 200 block of N. Weber St. Monday evening, police reported.

James Anthoney Newman, 3, suffered a bruise when his head hit the windshield in a car driven by Mary Lee Newman, 58, of 305½ N. Weber St.

Mrs. Newman was ticketed for careless driving after her north bound car hit the Buckley car on the rear, police said.

The Buckley car was stopped for traffic when the accident happened, according to the report.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Showers and occasional rain will spread through portions of the north and middle Atlantic states and the Florida peninsula Tuesday night. Showers, heavy at times, are forecast for the Pacific northwest with snow in parts of the north and central Rockies. It will be colder west of the Rockies. Warmer weather is expected in the eastern two-thirds of the nation except for the upper Mississippi valley.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

A rather dismal weather picture accompanied dawn today over much of the area from the Mississippi Valley eastward.

Cloudy skies prevailed over this area with many sections reporting occasional light rain. In addition, quite a bit of fog was noted from the middle Mississippi Valley into the southern portions of the Great Lakes Region.

A welcome rainfall thru this area was light with less than .10 of an inch being the rule. Some heavier showers in excess of one inch for the past six hours were noted near the Gulf in the vicinity of southeastern Texas.

Elsewhere over the country generally fair weather prevailed thru much of the plains. Over the Rockies and westward to the Pacific coast variable cloudiness was noted thru the morning with scattered showers, mostly light, occurring mainly in the northern mountain areas and thru the Pacific coastal areas as far south as central California.

Below freezing temperatures were noted in upper New England and thru portions of the upper plains and northern Rockies. The 50s were common thru the Gulf States, middle Mississippi Valley and in the far southwestern U. S.

Elsewhere temperatures were running mostly in the 40s.

School Crossing Near Stratton Being Relocated

The school cross walk at Logan Avenue and Van Buren Street controlled by a "stop when flashing" installation has been removed, according to Don L. Smith, city traffic engineer.

He said the cross walk had been relocated to Van Buren Street about 150 feet west of Paseo Road. It is now controlled by a push button, actuated traffic signal coupled with "walk" and "don't walk" pedestrian signals. This location is near Stratton School.

"Changes occasioned by growth of the residential area in this vicinity made the change desirable for reasons of safety and convenience," he said.

Smith also reported that on Wednesday the existing "stop when flashing" installation on Paseo Road adjacent to the east side of Stratton School will be replaced with a push button controlled traffic signal along with "walk" and "don't walk" pedestrian signals.

He said this change was being made as part of the Traffic Engineering Department's program to change all flashing type school signals to the push button actuated type of regular traffic and pedestrian signals.

These changes will be made only where such extensive type of signal is needed. Unwarranted flashers will be removed.

Jay R. Myers, assistant city traffic engineer, will meet with with Stratton School officials to explain the proper use of the new installation, and this procedure will be followed whenever a push button school signal is installed, Smith said.

Grass Fire Brings Out Firemen Monday

A grass fire in the 1300 block LaSalle St. Monday was put out by Company 6 of the Colorado Springs Fire Department, on a 12:55 p.m. alarm.

A short circuit in the wiring caused a fire in the car of Dave Golding, of Chipita Park, while in the 100 block N. Nevada Ave. Monday. A fire alarm was turned in at 12:15 p.m. Company 1 responded and extinguished the fire. The damage to the car was slight.

Chenoweth Blasts Race To Moon as 'Wasteful'

for a ticket tape parade. . .," Chenoweth said.

He predicted that the U. S. stepped-up program for a moon-shot would meet with more opposition in Congress than ever before in view of the recent Russian announcement that they were out of the race.

"As a matter of fact," Chenoweth said, "some of us seriously question if they were ever in the race; if Russia isn't in the race, then who are we racing? Ourselves?"

He said he believed that the U. S. should be pre-eminent in space but not at the expense of a "technological game of speculation in space at tremendous cost to achieve limited or questionable results."

Chenoweth declared that if the sole purpose of the manned lunar flight is to land an American on the moon for five minutes or five days, "it would be a criminal waste of the taxpayers money."

He uregd that private enterprise seek to divorce itself from dependance on government contracts and step out on its own in the new technological era.

Chenoweth pointed out that 94 per cent of the actual work in Project Mercury, which saw six Americans shot into space was the result of private industry. However he pointed out that since the U. S. entered the sapce race in 1959, NSAS has grown from an agency with 9,000 employes to the present 32,000 employes.

At the same time, government control of research and development in this area has grown to gigantic proportions.

"At present, the federal government is financing 70 to 80 per cent of all the research work down in the U. S.," Chenoweth said. "People are getting concerned. It is not good for the government to take over all the research and control its products."

He said he was working to bring Colorado into a greater eminence in space work and predicted a new day and a new era in the space program for Colorado.

Packard said he felt the technological and educational growth of Colorado would justify his company's confidence in placing a new plant in Colorado Springs.

However, he warned that the so-called "technological revolution" would develop more rapidly than any other era in the past. In order to keep pace with this development, Packard urged lifelong education in the future to insure a sound economy for the United States.

He said that the new technology would destroy established jobs and industries while creating new ones and for this reason urged better, more-rounded lifelong educational programs starting on the elementary level and carrying it thru colleges and universities.

Packard said that Colorado would face the same problems it had in the past — minerals, decline of the steel industry and agriculture, etc. — but said the state was now in a position to compete for industry that it could not compete for before.

He said that in order to attract this industry, the state must continue to provide a favorable climate for the free enterprise system; develop the best educational system it can; continue to provide an attractive living environment and protect its colleges and universities from politics and local selfish interests.

"Your universities are worth more to your state than all of the gold in your mines," Packard said.

Hollomon, assistant secretary of commerce for science and technology and a Nobel Prize winner, urged the state to exploit the areas in which it has already achieved excellence.

He said the atmospheric sciences work at Boulder and the water research being carried out at Ft. Collins were areas in which the state has proven technical ability.

"When we concern ourselves with the science and technology of today," Hollomon said, "we are concerning ourselves with the economy 10-15 years from today."

He urged universities to assume responsibilities for finding ways in which the discoveries of science can be put to practical use.

26 Arraigned in City For Traffic Violations

Twenty six persons were arraigned in Municipal Court Monday on traffic violations.

Judge Allan Asher ordered a warrant for the arrest of Jesus Cariaga be issued when Cariaga failed to appear in court to answer charges of careless driving and reckless driving.

Bond for Cariaga, 25, of Fountain, was set at $50.

Two Ft. Carosn men pleaded guilty to drag racing. They were Joel Waitman, 21, and Gary Tokheim, 20. The judge fined them both $150 but suspended $100 of each fine when the men agreed to give up their driver's licenses for 30 days.

In sentencing the two, Judge Asher said drag racing is one of the most seious traffic violations that can be committed.

Gary Stefines, 18, of 624 N. Tejon St., was fined $100 for careless driving. The judge suspended $50 of the fine when Stefines agreed to give up his license for 45 days.

A signal light violation resulted in a $35 fine for Gordon Miller, 23, of 2411 N. Cascade Ave. Also, Miller's right to drive in the city limits was suspended for one month.

Howard Adams, 25, of Denver, was fined $15 after he pleaded guilty to a backing violation. A charge of injury to city property against Adams was continued until Nov. 18.

Mahlon Saunders, 20, of 1003 N. 18th St., pleaded guilty to careless driving and not guilty to a charge of reckless driving. The judge continued the case until Nov. 14 for taking of testimony on the reckless driving charge and sentencing on the careless driving charge.

Fines and sentences imposed on other traffic violators follow:

Curtis Koncar, 18, 109 Lawrence St., $35, speeding; George McKitrick, 19, 2021 Ontario Dr., $35, speeding; Irene Poe, 41, 402 LaSalle St., $35, speeding; Helen Colwell, 70, 1944 Mid Rd., $15, moving a parked vehicle (A charge of injury to city property against Mrs. Colwell was continued until Nov. 18); Olga Jackson, 27, 520 Rio Grande St., $15, speeding; Alva Shockley, 67, 2729 W. Bijou St., $10, careless driving (an injury to city property charge against him was continued until Nov. 18); Max Oetjens, 33, PO Box 4214, Crestview Acres, $15, careless driving.

Eight persons pleaded not guilty to violations and their cases were continued.

Continued until Nov. 19 were the cases of Chas. Gugler, 50, and [illegible] who is charged with a careless driving; Ann Phillips, 44, 151 Holmes Dr., improper turning; George Clarke, 53, 3221 W. Colorado Ave., obstructing traffic.

The judge granted a continuance until Nov. 20 to Richard Demark, 34, of 132 W. Tyler St., who is charged with a signal light violation. The case of Gladys Mitchell, 50, of 1612 N. Franklin St. was continued until Nov. 15. She pleaded not guilty to taking the right of way at a stop sign.

Also continued was the case against Hugh Whiteman, 19, of 488 N. Yampa St. who is charged with reckless driving, a stop sign violation and a signal light violation.

William Buckley, 23, of Ent AFB, pleaded not guilty to interfering with a motor vehicle and possessing a concealed weapon. Buckley requested a jury trial and his case was continued until Nov. 12.

Again it centered on the issue of who is to make the rules for Allied military convoy travel on the autobahn. The Russians demanded a head count of U.S. soldiers on the vehicles, and the Americans refused.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk summoned Georgi M. Kornienko, acting Soviet charge d'affaires in Washington, Monday and demanded the convoy be released. Informants said Kornienko explained he had no word from his government on the incident.

The U.S. Army's Berlin garrison postponed a training exercise scheduled to start Monday for 24 hours. The Army insisted the troops were not placed on the alert, but Army officials presumably felt it was wiser to keep the men in their barracks in readiness.

U.S. officials in Washington at first minimized the incident but later one high official said it had taken on "serious dimensions."

"Intensive consultations" between the United States, Britain and France were reported. The official said that the longer the blockade lasts, the graver the danger of a serious confrontation becomes.

The convoy was stopped at 8:01 a.m. Monday after the Soviet officer in charge of the checkpoint, a Lt. Col. Spiridinov, demanded that 15 passengers in three of the trucks dismount and be counted.

The convoy commander, Lt. John Lamb of North Augusta, N.C., refused, in accordance with an Allied statement sent to the Russians Oct. 29 regarding procedures Allied convoys will follow when traveling to and from Berlin.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russian blockade of a U.S. Army convoy on the road to Berlin is viewed here today with more concern as each hour passes. U.S. officials expressed fear it could grow into a serious confrontation.

Earlier, officials stressed that the incident was not causing too much concern.

The convoy, delayed since Monday at the autobahn checkpoint, tried at midnight to break through to West Berlin but was cut off by five Soviet armored personnel carriers and sedans.

The situation has taken "serious dimensions," said a high-ranking official in Washington, and he revealed that "intensive consultations" were under way between the United States, Great Britain and France.

When two American convoys were suddenly stopped by the Russians last month — jarring the cold war truce that followed negotiation of the limited nuclear test ban treaty—many U.S. officials blamed the incidents on a "local misunderstanding."

Then and now, the question was over Russian demands that the troops in the convoy dismount and be counted before passing through the checkpoint on the autobahn which links Berlin with West Germany.

So there would be no future misunderstandings, the United States spelled out for Moscow its policy on the matter, administration officials said.

Washington informed the Kremlin that if a convoy carried more than 30 passengers—excluding drivers and co-drivers—it would allow the passengers to be counted—but not if there were fewer than 30 passengers.

This, the Western Powers told Russia, had been the practice since the Soviets began taking head counts in 1961.

The Russian reaction was slow in coming but it came Monday when a Soviet officer at the checkpoint warned that the Russians, not the Western Allies, will write the rules for the autobahn.

This remark, more than the incident itself, induced Secretary of State Dean Rusk to summon Georgi M. Kornienko, acting head of the Soviet Embassy, Monday morning, officials said.

The secretary was understood to have told the Russian that he interprets the incident on the autobahn and the Soviet officer's remark as proof of a Soviet attempt to change processing practices which existed over a period of years.

Kornienko, informants said, replied he had no word from his government on the incident.

Space Age Boom Possible In Colorado, Meeting Told

ence, including at least some graduate work of merit, is a potential center for growth industries."

That is the key to the formation of a technical community, he added, and it calls for top quality faculty members. It is better to pay a high salary for one "outstanding" professor than to hire "good" professors at normal salaries. Good men will usually take less money to work with the outstanding man anyway, he pointed out.

"An outstanding faculty member will attract outstanding students. Under his incluence they will be trained to make important contributions. Furthermore, he will be able to obtain the required research support from the government, another essential ingredient of the technical community."

Dr. Terman warned against thinking of government contracts and grants as "aid to education."

Government agencies supporting research and development are "mission oriented," he said. They prefer to spend their money where it will bring the best return for fulfilling the agency's mission — delivering research results of importance to the nation.

"A natural result is that government money tends to flow where there is strength in universities," he said. "It serves no purpose to have the research done by third or fourth-rate men if first-rate faculty men can be found in some college, large or small, who are interested in doing it."

Dr. Terman noted that Colorado already has a good start in the stiff nation-wide competition to develop technical communities.

"Colorado should focus attention on one, two, or at most three centers where you can mobilize a high level of academic strength," he told the conferees. "You cannot build them all over the state. To get anywhere in the severe national competition that exists you must have high quality performers, and you can only manage to create a very few of these.

"What counts is the quality of those few members of the faculty who represent education and research leadership in engineering and science.

"This is a great state," Dr. Terman said. "You are strategically located geographically. You can offer attractive living conditions. You have the necessary population base, the required financial and intellectual resources.

"You have outstanding technical scholars, including some members of the National Academy of Sciences. You have government grants, and you already have the framework of a good program of graduate education.

"You can participate importantly in the future development of this country's science-oriented growth industries provided you give further support to the things that count.

"You must be willing to make the financial investment required for a strong educational program in science and engineering, and give it the continuing care and wise attention needed to exploit the values you are creating."

Senior Citizen Studies Philosophy

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Adrian C. Kett, a student at Calvin College here, does his homework in philosophy in his room at a home for senior citizens. He is 86 years old.

Kett, a widower and former college employe, attends classes three times a week. He received an A-minus on his first class paper, but says he isn't concerned about getting a degree. Furthering his special interests in life is reward enough, Kett says.

SIMPLIFIED SIGNS

American and Continental European road signs differ in that American — as well as British —signs use words to instruct drivers, while the Continental system uses symbol requiring no knowledge of the language. Women's Fashion Adopts Again Old Sex Appeal

NEW YORK (AP)—It is only sporting to warn America's 19 million bachelors that designer Bill Blass has reinstated sex appeal in women's fashions in time for leap year

The provocative woman was the star of Blass' spring collection previewed by international socialites and fashion reporters Monday

She is a far cry from the past season's lady of style, who has been wearing bowlers, boots, knee socks, turtlenecks and vests

For example, there are flounces of black Chantilly lace over flesh pink, which look more like boudoir costumes than date dresses.

It would be impossible not to attract attention with vivid pastel linen jacket costumes, other bright hues as linings and still others as blouses.

Also good for stares are polka dots, especially bold yellow ones on navy silk sleeveless princess coats and turbans.

Other eye-catcher weapons are the floral prints, soft and wispy on tailored organza jacket costumes. As the show moved along, floor length dinner gowns with tantalizing slashes up the side and ball gowns with yards of fabric in the skirts relied on still bigger and bolder prints.

Mannikins undulated in silks and linen dresses bias-cut to slither across the figure. Sexy sheaths, belted at the middle exploded into curves elsewhere

And the date-bait collection was fussy and feminine with ruffles on necklines, hemlines, cuffs, and all the way down the middle of dresses and blouses.

Cigaret Tax Receipts Up Over 1963

Gross revenue from the city's cigaret tax is running well ahead of last year, according to James O'Leary, deputy city treasurer.

He said the October collection was $7,451 20 to make the total for the first 10 months of the year $113,147.95.

This compares with a 1962 October collection of $6,083.20 and a 10-month total for last year of $68,147 15.

The City Council raised the cigaret tax from 1 to 2cents per pack in December, 1962, in order to keep the property tax levy the same for last year as it was in 1961.

This compares with a 1962 October collection of $6,083.20 and a 10-month total for last year of $68,147.15.

The City Council raised the cigaret tax from 1 to 2cents per pack in December, 1962, in order to keep the property tax levy the same for last year as it was in 1961.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Pro-Liberty Student

Yesterday, we discussed the anti-communist and the anti-socialist positions in an effort to find their similarities and their differences. The matter is important for in a large way most Americans profess to be either anti-communist or anti-socialist.

Thus, if our analysis had been conclusive, which it was not, it should have included just about all Americans who are neither communists nor socialists.

The fact is that most Americans favor either communism or socialism to some degree even tho they customarily reject it by name. The matter is brought to our attention constantly. Hardly a day goes by but what some concerned individual or organization sends us something just published which objects to communism or socialism. Yet, in the very utterances put forth there is an unconscious or a subconscious reconciliation either with group objectives, group ethics, forceful compulsion toward a group goal, or political reliance which feeds the Fabian network.

One of the major problems we encounter regularly is that because we oppose both communism and socialism it is assumed that we must be a part of either the organized anti-communist or organized anti-socialist groups. But this is not true. We object to communism and socialism not because we are [illegible] a group which [illegible] because [illegible] principle.

We are concerned with freedom. Our objection to communism occurs at those places where communism denies and nullifies freedom. Our objection to socialism occurs in the same way. But so does our objection to anti-communism or anti-socialism arise from the same point. We do not favor ANY movement or group which knowingly or unknowingly, by action or by word, opposes freedom.

We are entirely willing to recognize the existence of a conspiracy. As a matter of fact, there are probably dozens of conspiracies in existence at the moment. This old world has probably never had more of them, and surely it has never been without a conspiracy or two on which to fatten itself. Any secret planning arrangement which is calculated to affect the lives and properties of other persons not in on the planning is, by definition, a conspiracy. Conspiratorial actions must be sub-rosa.

Thus, we have a communist conspiracy and an anti-communist conspiracy. We have a socialist conspiracy and an anti-socialist conspiracy. There surely are at least a score of religious conspiracies in which various branches of organized theology conspire as to the best way to attract and hold members; the best way to convince everyone in the world that their particular way is the best.

Each political party in every country is engaged in a conspiracy.

Doubtless, there are racial conspiracies. And certainly there are conspiracies among businessmen as well as among government when secret plans are contrived involving the lives, properties or actions of others.

The advantage, if such it be, to the student or the devotee of liberty is that he refuses to conspire. The student of freedom is not engaged in trying to conspire to set other people free he simply wishes to conduct his affairs in such a way that there will be no excuse for others to take away his freedom.

He will not impose his will on others. He seeks to discourage others from imposing their wills on him by giving them no excuse thru his conduct so that they feel a necessity to "take action" against him.

Sickening 'Cure'

It used to be that we suffered from what were called "social evils." Now we suffer from social remedies.

Forming a Free Society

To have a society of free men, certain conditions would have to be obtained.

Man is a denizen of this earth and is constrained by nature to obey the laws of nature. Some have contended that man can never be really free. To bolster their argument they sometimes point to the fact that were a man to step off a cliff he could not fly like a bird. Therefore, since man cannot fly like a bird and is bound to the earth by certain natural laws, the contention is that man is not free to exercise his full range of choices, and hence is not free.

Actually, man's inability to fly like a bird does not prove that he is not free; it demonstrates that he is not a bird. But man has gone on to demonstrate that by obeying natural laws he can fly better than a bird, over longer distances at higher levels at greater speeds.

Thus, if man chooses to fly he can do so. He merely has to obey the laws of his nature and recognize that he cannot "fly like a bird"; he must fly "like a man."

So, too, with many other arguments respecting man's ability to be free. There are natural laws which proclaim that man IS free. He chooses. He is a decision maker, selecting his course of thought or action from a vast library of possible thoughts and actions. The enemy to freedom is not natural law, but other men.

As a matter of definition, the words freedom and liberty both derive from a single condition which it is the purpose of freedom and liberty to designate. A free man is a man who is "out from under the control" of another man or a group of other men.

If we examine that idea, we discover that freedom is a natural condition. Indeed it applies at once to every man living. He is a free man, by his nature, unless or until some other man prevents him from being free.

Thus, non-freedom is of human derivation. Freedom is natural and automatically exists unless it is denied or abriged by other human beings.

To have a society of free men would require only that some men within the society did not control the other men in the society but, instead, that each man in the society would control himself.

This brings us to the first principle which exists at the root of any understanding respecting freedom. Each man by his own nature, controls his own energy. Nature has not ordained that any man is so endowed that he may NATURALLY control the energy of another. Such natural control of one by another is denied.

True, some men can frighten you, injure you, or even kill you. This does not mean that they are "naturally" controlling you. Rather, it indicates that they are willing to deny their own nature and your own nature in an effort to force you to their control. Such control must always be a matter of artificially induced force.

It can be the force of a threat or fear, invoked and held over you. It can be the appeal to superstition and terror either real or imagined. It can be an actual application of force and violence. But so long as the force that is threatened or imposed is too impotent to prevent the individual from rejecting the control and making up his own mind and acting upon it, then his freedom has not been impaired in fact.

A free society would be that society wherein each man controlled his own energy and in which no man threatened or forced his control over another for any reason whatever.

Almost all invasions of freedom have been invoked by those who believe that men can be forced MORALLY to do the "right" thing. In this sense virtually every invasion of freedom is an effort to COMPEL moral conduct or to PREVENT immoral conduct.

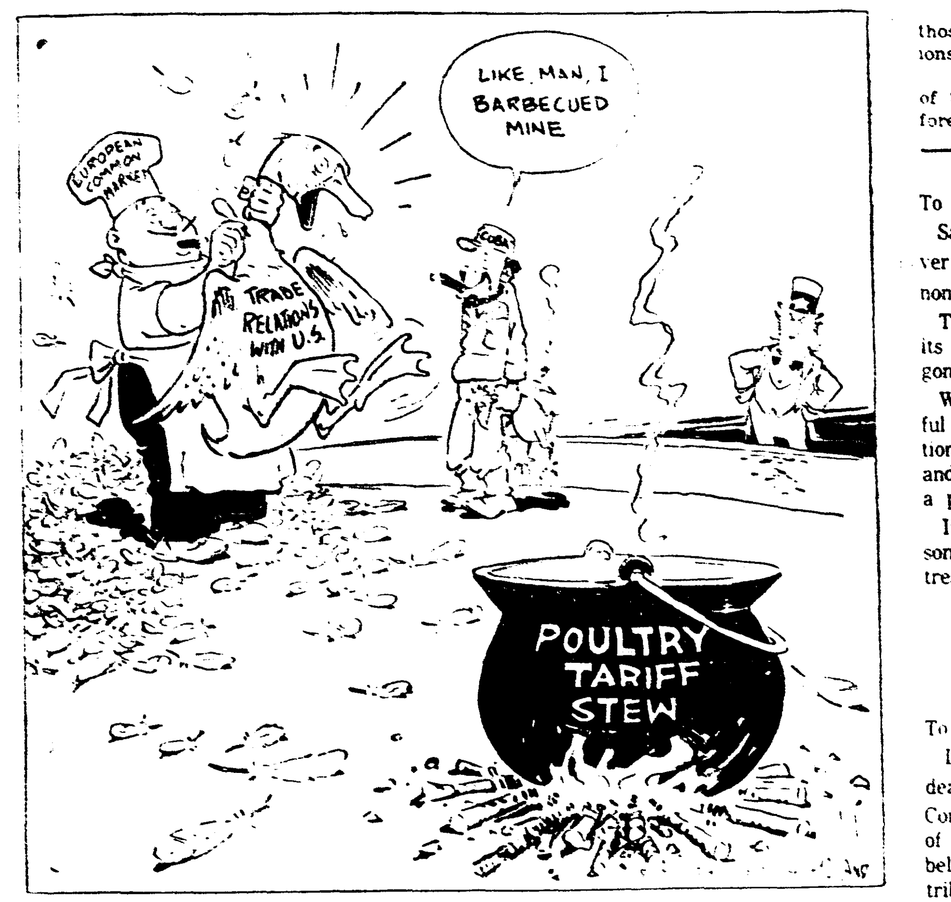
COOKING HIS OWN GOOSE



He Went Away for a While

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

This summer I met a fine young man who lives in Oregon. While deeply involved in political action, he had acquired or was born with a sense of self-responsibility. His belief in his right to be a free man motivated a great deal of his thinking but he was less than satisfied with the course of action he had been following. He went away for awhile to see if he could learn to think for himself and was eminently successful. He did learn to think!

Today he looks around him and wonders, "Where is everybody? I was able to learn to think and understand that my right to be a free man is not a grant from any politician or any form of government. Freedom is my right by virtue of my existence, it's just that simple."

He wrote to tell me he's lonesome. Instead of being able to talk with friends and relatives and acquaintances, he finds it necessary to be quiet, unless a specific question is directed to him. If he answers the question from the strength of his newly acquired knowledge and beliefs, he finds himself shoved into an emotionally unthinking dog house, from which he can only peer and ask, "What's wrong, don't you believe you have a right to be free?"

Yes, Marina, I know a dog house can't think but the dog house I refer to is just an unthinking frame of mind which keeps out logic and even ordinary common sense.

I know how my friend in Oregon feels. I have a few relatives living in various sections of the country and I rarely hear from them these days. Many former acquaintances, still living in Southern California, write only when they think of something they hope will knock over my belief in my right to be a free man. But, I've asked my young friend in Oregon to be patient and to remember what he was doing a year ago and the year before that and right up to the time he began to think for himself. I never let myself forget how deeply I was involved in the same kind of unthinking activities. The fact that my web-foot friend and I sought goals which were and are different from the goals sought by our colleagues does not change the fact that we foolishly believed we could ride to freedom on the back of other human beings. Realization of this kind is never a truly comfortable state of mind until you become accustomed to it. After you begin to recover from the shock, you begin to understand a few of the reasons human beings have permitted themselves to be enslaved since the beginning of time. As a matter of fact, the vast majority of all of the people who today inhabit the face of the earth appear entirely willing and even eager to be the tools and fools of tyrants and "leaders."

Any man or woman who insists upon learning which will lead them to the road to freedom is capable of being alone with their own thoughts. Becoming accustomed to this, is another story and it takes a bit of doing. It's natural to wonder, "Where is everybody?" This reminds me of the first time I ate lobster and looked around the restaurant wondering why other diners were enjoying steaks and and chops and a variety of other foods. For just an instant I wanted to start a crusade for the eating of lobster.

In replying to my young friend's slightly plaintive letter, I forgot to tell him what will happen just about the time he becomes accustomed to being alone with his own thoughts occasionally. Suddenly, almost as if by magic, he will have less time to be alone with his own thoughts. Because of his example, others will wonder what he is doing and why. They will ask questions and many will attempt to defeat his purpose and others will bluntly tell him he's nuts but they will return again and again to find out what he is doing and because of a deep and intuitive desire for freedom.

I am alone in this little office in this ghost town. From my door, I can view the friendly Cerbat Mountains, which bear the scars of many a miner's sharp pick and overworked shovel. My good wife has gone to pick up a few supplies for our larder, the Arizona sun is warm and I am, for awhile, alone with my thoughts and I am not frightened because I know I am doing everything I can to replace the illusion of freedom with reality.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Who's Entitled To Profits

From American Way Features

It is unfortunately true that labor union leaders today are fostering the concept that the worker is entitled to the lion's share of profits — because he "is the only one who produces."

This idea was true in the days before the Industrial Revolution. One man set up his own shop, bought his own raw materials, produced by hand or by crude machine, and handled his own sales of the finished product.

However, labor today is but one phase — and thus but one of the costs — of production. And a man's labor, an essential ingredient of production, is simply a commodity that is bought and sold. In today's industrialized economy, a man with certain skills sells those skills to someone else for what both agree is a fair price. This price is known as "wages." And since the exchange of labor skills for an agreed-upon price is but one of the many costs of production, the transaction between worker and employer is consummated each time the worker exchanges a week's work for a week's pay.

Morally and economically, the worker is no more entitled to a share of "profits" than is the supplier of raw materials who is paid money in exchange for such materials. In either case, an agreement to buy and sell has been fulfilled; and neither the worker nor the outside supplier has any legitimate right to demand a chunk of a company's profits — no matter how astronomical they may appear to those who are unfamiliar with the multiple costs of production.

Perhaps it would help if the average worker understood that "profits" do not constitute "gravy" for management and investors. Profits are the difference between a company's income and its expenditures. Out of such margin must come a portion for reduction of indebtedness. Also out of this profit margin, a certain percentage must be used for the purchase of replacement equipment and for new physical expansion. What is left provides a reasonable return on investment by stockholders — without whom the company would have insufficient capital to operate at all.

TREASURES

To the Editor:

This exquisite place and all its art treasures will soon be gone.

We were told that one powerful man has blocked the acquisition of the Trianon by the city and by Colorado College. What a pity!

It is not yet too late. Can't something be done to save this treasure?

TOM CONNALLY

To the Editor:

In the AP dispatch on the death of former Senator Tom Connally, no mention was made of what millions of Americans believe was his greatest contribution to the protection and safety of his country. I refer to the famous Connally Reservation in U.S. adherence to the World Court.

His reservation provides that the United States has the right to decide whether any case submitted to that court presents a question involving our internal or domestic law, and, if so, our government can prevent the international tribunal from exercising authority over us.

The Connally Reservation passed the Senate by a vote of 52 for and only 14 against. Many attempts by internationalists to repeal it have so far failed.

The United States has only one jurist out of the fifteen on the World Court. Among the other fourteen, Communist and neutralist members predominate.

EDUCATION

To the Editor:

Education can be the result of exposure to, and the retention of, all man's available circumstances, mental, physical, environmental, and hereditary. Moral education is the basis for self-improvement. A person with a highly developed mental capacity may still be a morally uneducated being. Crude behavior or remarks can mark this person as an unacceptable source of enlightenment to others. When such a person is placed in a position of authority strictly on academic or retentive capabilities, it may lead others to reject any information that could otherwise have been beneficial.

Experience will teach the more morally oriented person to indirectly study the behavioral patterns of others and to accept or reject the influence or personal relationships that can evolve from verbal contact with the person or persons involved.

Uneducated authority or leadership in such fields as schools, industries, offices, etc., produces stagnant environments where there should be active and free exchanges of ideas and information.

As long as there are indirect restrictions on anyone's learning process, his self-improvement will lack the fullness that it might have attained. Individualism is important in the person of leadership, as well as the follower, but can be detrimental if the behavior shows a lack of understanding or care for the rights of others.

The person who shows his ignorance in the form of a question may feel like a fool, but the person who shows his ignorance in the form of a statement only proves it. The first will find the answer and will be in a position to benefit, the second will think that he knows it, will ignore all others, and in turn will be ignored.

Question Box

Question No. 365 "Is successful management largely a selling job?"

Answer: We believe it is. In the first place the successful manager must be successful in selling himself the kind of a service that will, in the long run, be beneficial to his customers. That, of course, takes judgment as well as selling talent.

He must also sell his associates to have confidence in themselves and to realize that they are a part of the program of exchanging goods and services. The more useful their services will be, the more they will be able to command the free market value of their services. He must, in the second place, sell them on seeing the necessity of work and concentration.

The next thing is to sell the public that they will get satisfaction out of buying his product for their dollars, which represents their labor. If the management has no selling ability it will be in difficulty.

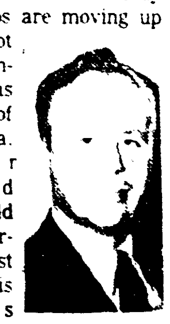
To summarize, he must sell himself on his product and always be trying to improve his product, never being satisfied with the service he is rendering. Then he has to sell his associates that they will get more joy out of life by the pleasure of accomplishment, by the pleasure of being a part of an organization that is rendering a useful service. Then of course he has to sell the general public as to the merits of a long range view of that objective. He mustn't try to sell things on a fly-by-night proposition that might even injure the persons buying the product.

Questions are limited to generalities that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth

To The Point

Morocco and The U.N.

By RUSSELL KIRK



On the borders of Morocco and Algeria, a few men are dying, and troops are moving up. This is not "Moroccan imperialism," as the dictator of Algeria, Ahmed Ben Bella, would have the world believe. During the past fortnight, this columnist has visited all the principal cities of Morocco, and everywhere one finds evidence of restraint and moderation on the part of Moroccans, despite strong provocation.

Here in Tangier, where these lines are written, business goes as usual. The tourist season is just beginning. That is one reason, according to many Moroccans, why Ben Bella chose to raid the frontier posts just now: he envied the Moroccan tourist boom. Next to no tourists visit Algeria today, partly because of the difficulty of getting visas, and partly because they can't be sure they'd emerge with a whole skin. There is no fear or fury. Nevertheless, the surprising[illegible] calm newspapers announce [illegible] Tangier troop units are [illegible] to [illegible] toward [illegible] nearer the Algerian border.

Few newspaper[illegible] writing, have been [illegible] to the amorphous [illegible] ther Algerian or Moroccan sides; the fighting occurs in most remote and dangerous desert country. By commandeering the reporters' aircraft, the Algerian government has cloaked its military operations in secrecy. Only Communist or pro-Communist newspapers are published in Algeria now, and the leading correspondents of European and American newspapers have been expelled from that country.

Apparently the Algerians have much to conceal. On October 21, the Moroccans forced down an Algerian helicopter, over Moroccan territory. In it were four Egyptian officers, three of them colonels. A hot partisan of his fellow-dictator Ben Bella, Nasser of Egypt has commenced interfering in this fight as — on a much larger scale — he has been attempting to annex the Yemen by sending troops to prop up his puppet government there. (October 20 and 21 must have been bad days for Nasser, for he also lost 26 officers in a Russian transport plane which crashed en route to Yemen.)

A few days ago, the Algerians seized the frontier post of Ich, near the Algerian base of Colomb-Bechar. Ich, according to any map, clearly is in Moroccan territory. Yet the Moroccans have not retaliated, merely continuing to hold the more southerly posts of Hassi Beida and Hassi Tinjou which they retook earlier. What accounts for such wonderful Moroccan patience?

The Moroccans are not cowards, and the Moroccan army is at least as battle-ready as the Algerian. But King Hassan II is said to believe that if Morocco hits back strongly at the Algerians, the "Afro-Asian bloc" in the United Nations Organization will condemn Morocco. Thus the aggressor is smiled upon by the U.N. majority, and the injured state must be thankful that the U.N. does not go so far, yet, as to send a "Peace Force," a la Congo, to aid the aggressor.

In Egypt, Nasser could not last three months without American financial aid. (In mild tones, American authorities recently suggested to Nasser that really he ought to stop sending more troops to conquer Yemen, if he wants more American money.) Ben Bella, too, gets American aid. And the U.S. pays nearly 40 per cent of the U.N.'s budget. How long will America continue to curry favor with the least responsible and most belligerent of the petty "new nations?"

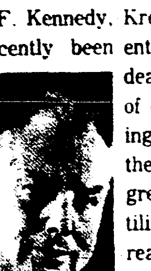
J.F.K. Theme: Peace and Prosperity

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN



Both Nelson Rockefeller, Republican, and John F. Kennedy, Democrat, have recently been zeroing in on New England for their politicking because they know that New Hampshire, with its early primary, will be the first state to show which way the wind is blowing for 1964. In speeches in Maine, New Hampshire and Boston the two seasoned old political pros put the slug on Barry Goldwater for apparently opposite reasons. Rockefeller considers that a Goldwater candidacy would lead to a Republican defeat, thru defections from the Republican standard in the "liberal" Northeast; Kennedy, on the other hand, must be aware that if Rockefeller can lick Goldwater in the convention, the nominally Democratic South may be more willing to vote the traditional Democratic ticket.

Even tho he may consider Goldwater the most difficult touch, however, John F. Kennedy is resting his political fortunes on the gamble that "Peace and Prosperity" will be an irresistible election-year theme no matter whom the Republicans nominate. The Kennedy strategy has driven toward a single goal ever since the President made his placating speech at the American University last spring. Everything that the administration has done since then he has had the linked objectives of wooing Khrushchev to behave like a peaceable man and by thus allaying [illegible] in the outside world, increasing the chances of prolonging domestic prosperity thru [illegible] international trade.

MANEUVERS

After the [illegible] signals to Khrushchev in the [illegible]tume speech came the maneuvering to make the nuclear test ban a reality. Then in rapid succession, came the wheat deal and Tito's visit to the White House. There was also a feeler, put out with some tentativeness, looking to a withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam. And, tho the administration is still officially anti-Castro, the only rebel Cubans who are permitted to prepare for the great day when Fidel and his Barbudos will be bounced out of Havana are those who are willing to submit to U.S.-dictated discipline. This discipline means that they will be allowed to act only in ways that won't seriously displease the Kremlin.

In his New England speeches Kennedy was cautious in sounding his hopes for a long-term run of "Peace and Prosperity." He needs an "out" if Khrushchev should prove uncooperative. But the wooing of the Kremlin will continue. Apparently the U.S. has licensed a deal which put some millions of dollars' worth of potash mining equipment in the hands of the Russians. Potash is an ingredient of any balanced fertilizer, and if Khrushchev is really serious about putting more fertility into his wheat acres, the mining machinery would be a big help in that direction. But, as Republican Congressman Lipscomb of California has pointed out, potash is also used in gunpowder.

Beyond the export of mining equipment to Russia there is the plan to revive the American machine tool industry by granting more and more trade permits to U.S. tool manufacturers.

PREDICTIONS

Increased trade with Russia would not, by itself, mean much to the U.S. economy in terms of significant volume. But it could be the icing on the cake if it were to take hold next summer in time to prevent even a slight downturn in the prosperity index before election day. "Kennedy Prosperity" is safe enough for the rest of 1963, with the annual gross national product driving toward the $600 billion mark. And Kennedy's chief economic adviser, Walter Heller, is predicting that the GNP annual rate for the first quarter of 1964 will be at something better than the $600 billion statistical figure.

If the Kennedy luck holds, can anyone defeat him? Even with Goldwater carrying the South the chances of a Republican victory are problematical.

But the control of events is not in John F. Kennedy's hands. Unemployment persists in crucial pockets to mar the prosperity theme. Would-be dictators are on the prowl thruout Latin America. The British want to pull out of British Guiana even if this means the triumph of the Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan. By the time of the 1964 election there may be a Castro ring surrounding the approaches to the Panama Canal, even relatively prosperous Venezuela is menaced with a Castroite take-over. And Khrushchev, tho he may prefer a Kennedy to a Goldwater, still has to pose as a strong and bumptious man if he is to keep his prestige with the Communist dictatorships in Eastern Europe. His internal necessities may keep him from being helpful to Kennedy in November of 1964.

Yesterday, we discussed the anti-communist and the anti-socialist positions in an effort to find their similarities and their differences. The matter is important for in a large way most Americans profess to be either anti-communist or anti-socialist.

Thus, if our analysis had been conclusive, which it was not, it should have included just about all Americans who are neither communists nor socialists.

The fact is that most Americans favor either communism or socialism to some degree even tho they customarily reject it by name. The matter is brought to our attention constantly. Hardly a day goes by but what some concerned individual or organization sends us something just published which objects to communism or socialism. Yet, in the very utterances put forth there is an unconscious or a subconscious reconciliation either with group objectives, group ethics, forceful compulsion toward a group goal, or political reliance which feeds the Fabian network.

One of the major problems we encounter regularly is that because we oppose both communism and socialism it is assumed that we must be a part of either the organized anti-communist or organized anti-socialist groups. But this is not true. We object to communism and socialism not because we are affiliated with a group which [illegible] but because we [illegible] communism and socialism in principle.

We are concerned with freedom. Our objection to communism occurs at those places where communism denies and nullifies freedom. Our objection to socialism occurs in the same way. But so does our objection to anti-communism or anti-socialism arise from the same point. We do not favor ANY movement or group which knowingly or unknowingly, by action or by word, opposes freedom.

We are entirely willing to recognize the existence of a conspiracy. As a matter of fact, there are probably dozens of conspiracies in existence at the moment. This old world has probably never had more of them, and surely it has never been without a conspiracy or two on which to fatten itself. Any secret planning arrangement which is calculated to affect the lives and properties of other persons not in on the planning is, by definition, a conspiracy. Conspiratorial actions must be sub-rosa.

Thus, we have a communist conspiracy and an anti-communist conspiracy. We have a socialist conspiracy and an anti-socialist conspiracy. There surely are at least a score of religious conspiracies in which various branches of organized theology conspire as to the best way to attract and hold members; the best way to convince everyone in the world that their particular way is the best.

Each political party in every country is engaged in a conspiracy.

Doubtless, there are racial conspiracies. And certainly there are conspiracies among businessmen as well as among government when secret plans are contrived involving the lives, properties or actions of others.

The advantage, if such it be, to the student or the devotee of liberty is that he refuses to conspire. The student of freedom is not engaged in trying to conspire to set other people free; he simply wishes to conduct his affairs in such a way that there will be no excuse for others to take away his freedom.

He will not impose his will on others. He seeks to discourage others from imposing their wills on him by giving them no excuse thru his conduct so that they feel a necessity to "take action" against him.

Sickening 'Cure'

It used to be that we suffered from what were called "social evils." Now we suffer from social remedies.

Forming a Free Society

To have a society of free men, certain conditions would have to be obtained.

Man is a denizen of this earth and is constrained by nature to obey the laws of nature. Some have contended that man can never be really free. To bolster their argument they sometimes point to the fact that were a man to step off a cliff he could not fly like a bird. Therefore, since man cannot fly like a bird and is bound to the earth by certain natural laws, the contention is that man is not free to exercise his full range of choices, and hence is not free.

Actually, man's inability to fly like a bird does not prove that he is not free; it demonstrates that he is not a bird. But man has gone on to demonstrate that by obeying natural laws he can fly better than a bird, over longer distances at higher levels at greater speeds.

Thus, if man chooses to fly he can do so. He merely has to obey the laws of his nature and recognize that he cannot "fly like a bird"; he must fly "like a man."

So, too, with many other arguments respecting man's ability to be free. There are natural laws which proclaim that man IS free. He chooses. He is a decision maker, selecting his course of thought or action from a vast library of possible thoughts and actions. The enemy to freedom is not natural law, but other men.

As a matter of definition, the words freedom and liberty both derive from a single condition which it is the purpose of freedom and liberty to designate. A free man is a man who is "out from under the control" of another man or a group of other men.

If we examine that idea, we discover that freedom is a natural condition, indeed. It applies at once to every man living. He is a free man, by his nature, unless or until some other man prevents him from being free.

Thus, non-freedom is of human derivation. Freedom is natural and automatically exists unless it is denied or abriged by other human beings.

To have a society of free men would require only that some men within the society did not control the other men in the society but, instead, that each man in the society would control himself.

This brings us to the first principle which exists at the root of any understanding respecting freedom. Each man by his own nature, controls his own energy. Nature has not ordained that any man is so endowed that he may NATURALLY control the energy of another. Such natural control of one by another is denied.

True, some men can frighten you, injure you, or even kill you. This does not mean that they are "naturally" controlling you. Rather, it indicates that they are willing to deny their own nature and your own nature in an effort to force you to their control. Such control must always be a matter of artificially induced force.

It can be the force of a threat or fear, invoked and held over you. It can be the appeal to superstition and terror, either real or imagined. It can be an actual application of force and violence. But so long as the force that is threatened or imposed is too impotent to prevent the individual from rejecting the control and making up his own mind and acting upon it, then his freedom has not been impaired in fact.

A free society would be that society wherein each man controlled his own energy and in which no man threatened or forced his control over another for any reason whatever.

Almost all invasions of freedom have been invoked by those who believe that man can be forced MORALLY to do the "right" thing. In this sense, virtually every invasion of freedom is an effort to COMPEL moral conduct or to PREVENT immoral conduct.

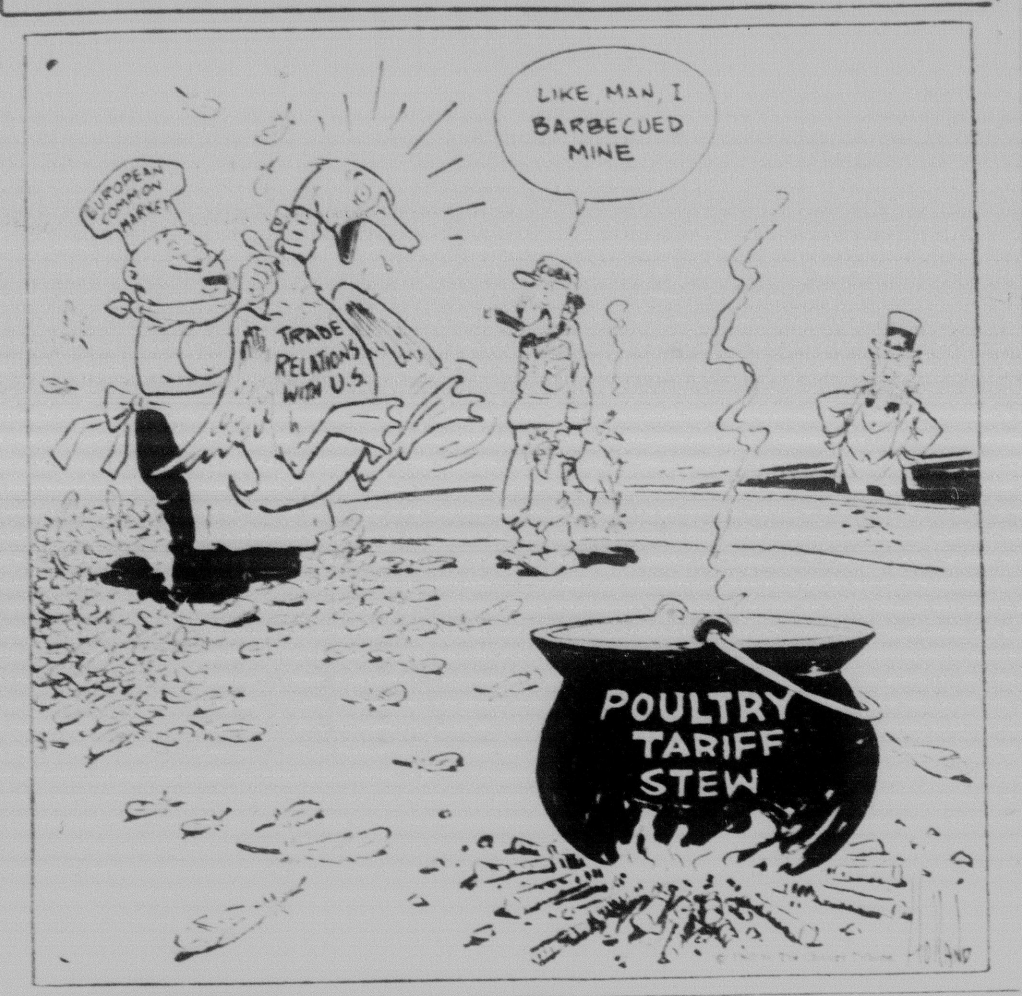
COOKING HIS OWN GOOSE



He Went Away for a While

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

This summer I met a fine young man who lives in Oregon. While deeply involved in political action, he had acquired or was born with a sense of self-responsibility. His belief in his right to be a free man motivated a great deal of his thinking but he was less than satisfied with the course of action he had been following. He went away for awhile to see if he could learn to think for himself and was eminently successful. He did learn to think!

Today he looks around him and wonders, "Where is everybody? I was able to learn to think and understand that my right to be a free man is not a grant from any politician or any form of government. Freedom is my right by virtue of my existence, it's just that simple."

He wrote to tell me he's lonesome. Instead of being able to talk with friends and relatives and acquaintances, he finds it necessary to be quiet, unless a specific question is directed to him. If he answers the question from the strength of his newly acquired knowledge and beliefs, he finds himself shoved into an emotionally unthinking dog house, from which he can only peer and ask, "What's wrong, don't you believe you have a right to be free?"

Yes, Marina. I know a dog house can't think but the dog house I refer to is just an unthinking frame of mind which keeps out logic and even ordinary common sense.

I know how my friend in Oregon feels. I have a few relatives living in various sections of the country and I rarely hear from them these days. Many former acquaintances, still living in Southern California, write only when they think of something they hope will knock over my belief in my right to be a free man. But, I've asked my young friend in Oregon to be patient and to remember what he was doing a year ago and the year before that and right up to the time he began to think for himself. I never let myself forget how deeply I was involved in the same kind of unthinking activities. The fact that my webfoot friend and I sought goals which were and are different from the goals sought by our colleagues does not change the fact that we foolishly believed we could ride to freedom on the back of other human beings. Realization of this kind is never a truly comfortable state of mind until you become accustomed to it. After you begin to recover from the shock, you begin to understand a few of the reasons human beings have permitted themselves to be enslaved since the beginning of time. As a matter of fact, the vast majority of all of the people who today inhabit the face of the earth appear entirely willing and even eager to be the tools and fools of tyrants and "leaders."

Any man or woman who insists upon learning which will lead them to the road to freedom is capable of being alone with their own thoughts. Becoming accustomed to this, is another story and it takes a bit of doing. It's natural to wonder, "Where is everybody?" This reminds me of the first time I ate lobster and looked around the restaurant wondering why other diners were enjoying steaks and and chops and a variety of other foods. For just an instant I wanted to start a crusade for the eating of lobster.

In replying to my young friend's slightly plaintive letter, I forgot to tell him what will happen just about the time he becomes accustomed to being alone with his own thoughts occasionally. Suddenly, almost as if by magic, he will have less time to be alone with his own thoughts. Because of his example, others will wonder what he is doing and why. They will ask questions and many will attempt to defeat his purpose and others will bluntly tell him he's nuts but they will return again and again to find out what he is doing and because of a deep and intuitive desire for freedom.

I am alone in this little office in this ghost town. From my door, I can view the friendly Cerbat Mountains, which bear the scars of many a miner's sharp pick and overworked shovel. My good wife has gone to pick up a few supplies for our larder, the Arizona sun is warm and I am, for awhile, alone with my thoughts and I am not frightened because I know I am doing everything I can to replace the illusion of freedom with reality.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Who's Entitled To Profits

From American Way Features

It is unfortunately true that labor union leaders today are fostering the concept that the worker is entitled to the lion's share of profits — because he "is the only one who produces."

This idea was true in the days before the Industrial Revolution. One man set up his own shop, bought his own raw materials, produced by hand or by crude machine, and handled his own sales of the finished product.

However, labor today is but one phase — and thus but one of the costs — of production. And a man's labor, an essential ingredient of production, is simply a commodity that is bought and sold. In today's industrialized economy, a man with certain skills sells those skills to someone else for what both agree is a fair price. This price is known as "wages." And since the exchange of labor skills for an agreed-upon price is but one of the many costs of production, the transaction between worker and employer is consummated each time the worker exchanges a week's work for a week's pay.

Morally and economically, the worker is no more entitled to a share of "profits" than is the supplier of raw materials who is paid money in exchange for such materials. In either case, an agreement to buy and sell has been fulfilled; and neither the worker nor the outside supplier has any legitimate right to demand a chunk of a company's profits — no matter how astronomical they may appear to those who are unfamiliar with the multiple costs of production.

Perhaps it would help if the average worker understood that "profits" do not constitute "gravy" for management and investors. Profits are the difference between a company's income and its expenditures. Out of such margin must come a portion for reduction of indebtedness. Also out of this profit margin, a certain percentage must be used for the purchase of replacement equipment and for new physical expansion. What is left provides a reasonable return on investment by stockholders — without whom the company would have insufficient capital to operate at all.

TREASURES

To the Editor:

This exquisite place and all its art treasures will soon be gone.

We were told that one powerful man has blocked the acquisition of the Trianon by the city and by Colorado College. What a pity!

It is not yet too late. Can't something be done to save this treasure?

TOM CONNALLY

To the Editor:

In the AP dispatch on the death of former Senator Tom Connally, no mention was made of what millions of Americans believe was his greatest contribution to the protection and safety of his country. I refer to the famous Connally Reservation in U.S. adherence to the World Court.

His reservation provides that the United States has the right to decide whether any case submitted to that court presents a question involving our internal or domestic law, and, if so, our government can prevent the international tribunal from exercising authority over us.

The Connally Reservation passed the Senate by a vote of 52 for and only 14 against. Many attempts by internationalists to repeal it have so far failed.

The United States has only one jurist out of the fifteen on the World Court. Among the other fourteen, Communist and neutralist members predominate.

EDUCATION

To the Editor:

Education can be the result of exposure to, and the retention of, all man's available circumstances, mental, physical, environmental, and hereditary. Moral education is the basis for self-improvement. A person with a highly developed mental capacity may still be a morally uneducated being. Crude behavior or remarks can mark this person as an unacceptable source of enlightenment to others. When such a person is placed in a position of authority strictly on academic or retentive capabilities, it may lead others to reject any information that could otherwise have been beneficial.

Experience will teach the more morally oriented person to indirectly study the behavioral patterns of others and to accept or reject the influence or personal relationships that can evolve from verbal contact with the person or persons involved.

Uneducated authority or leadership in such fields as schools, industries, offices, etc., produces stagnant environments where there should be active and free exchanges of ideas and information.

As long as there are indirect restrictions on anyone's learning process, his self-improvement will lack the fullness that it might have attained. Individualism is important in the person of leadership, as well as the follower, but can be detrimental if the behavior shows a lack of understanding or care for the rights of others.

The person who shows his ignorance in the form of a question may feel like a fool, but the person who shows his ignorance in the form of a statement only proves it. The first will find the answer and will be in a position to benefit, the second will think that he knows it, will ignore all others, and in turn will be ignored.

Question Box

Question No. 365: "Is successful management largely a selling job?"

Answer: We believe it is. In the first place the successful manager must be successful in selling himself the kind of a service that will, in the long run, be beneficial to his customers. That, of course, takes judgment as well as selling talent.

He must also sell his associates to have confidence in themselves and to realize that they are a part of the program of exchanging goods and services. The more useful their services will be, the more they will be able to command the free market value of their services. He must, in the second place, sell them on seeing the necessity of work and concentration.

The next thing is to sell the public that they will get satisfaction out of buying his product for their dollars, which represents their labor. If the management has no selling ability it will be in difficulty.

To summarize, he must sell himself on his product and always be trying to improve his product, never being satisfied with the service he is rendering. Then he has to sell his associates that they will get more joy out of life by the pleasure of accomplishment, by the pleasure of being a part of an organization that is rendering a useful service. Then of course he has to sell the general public as to the merits of a long range view of that objective. He mustn't try to sell things on a fly-by-night proposition that might even injure the persons buying the product.

Questions are limited to gen- that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

To The Point

Morocco and The U.N.

By RUSSELL KIRK

On the borders of Morocco and Algeria, a few men are dying, and troops are moving up. This is not "Moroccan imperialism," as the dictator of Algeria, Ahmed Ben Bella, would have the world believe. During the past fortnight, this columnist has visited all the principal cities of Morocco; and everywhere one finds evidence of restraint and moderation on the part of Moroccans, despite strong provocation.

Here in Tangier, where these lines are written, business goes as usual. The tourist season is just beginning. That is one reason, according to many Moroccans, why Ben Bella chose to raid the frontier posts just now: he envied the Moroccan tourist boom. (Next to no tourists visit Algeria today, partly because of the difficulty of getting visas, and partly because they can't be sure they'd emerge with a whole skin.) There is no fear or fury. Nevertheless, the surprisingly calm newspapers announce that Tangier troop-units are preparing to move toward defensive positions nearer the Algerian border.

Few newspapermen, at this writing, have been able to get to the amorphous front, on either Algerian or Moroccan sides: the fighting occurs in most remote and dangerous desert country. By commandeering the reporters' aircraft, the Algerian government has cloaked its military operations in secrecy. Only Communist or pro-Communist newspapers are published in Algeria now, and the leading correspondents of European and American newspapers have been expelled from that country.

Apparently the Algerians have much to conceal. On October 21, the Moroccans forced down an Algerian helicopter, over Moroccan territory. In it were four Egyptian officers, three of them colonels. A hot partisan of his fellow-dictator Ben Bella, Nasser of Egypt has commenced interfering in this fight as — on a much larger scale — he has been attempting to annex the Yemen by sending troops to prop up his puppet government there. (October 20 and 21 must have been bad days for Nasser, for he also lost 26 officers in a Russian transport plane which crashed en route to Yemen.)

A few days ago, the Algerians seized the frontier post of Ich, near the Algerian base of Colomb-Bechar. Ich, according to any map, clearly is in Moroccan territory. Yet the Moroccans have not retaliated, merely continuing to hold the more southerly posts of Hassi Beida and Hassi Tinjou which they retook earlier. What accounts for such wonderful Moroccan patience?

The Moroccans are not cowards, and the Moroccan army is at least as battle-ready as the Algerian. But King Hassan II is said to believe that if Morocco hits back strongly at the Algerians, the "Afro-Asian bloc" in the United Nations Organization will condemn Morocco. Thus the aggressor is smiled upon by the U.N. majority, and the injured state must be thankful that the U.N. does not go so far, yet, as to send a "Peace Force," a la Congo, to aid the aggressor.

In Egypt, Nasser could not last three months without American financial aid. (In mild tones, American authorities recently suggested to Nasser that really he ought to stop sending more troops to conquer Yemen, if he wants more American money.) Ben Bella, too, gets American aid. And the U.S. pays nearly 40 per cent of the U.N.'s budget. How long will America continue to curry favor with the least responsible and most belligerent of the petty "new nations?"

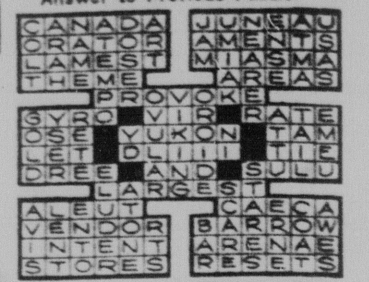
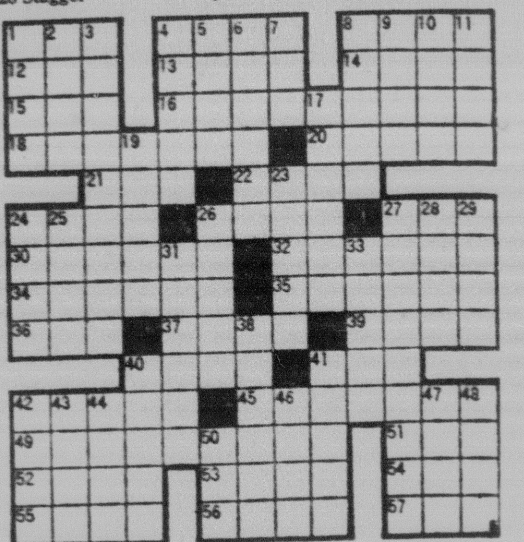
Answer to Previous Puzzle





These Days

J.F.K. Theme: Peace and Prosperity

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Both Nelson Rockefeller, Republican, and John F. Kennedy, Democrat, have recently been zeroing in on New England for their politicking because they know that New Hampshire, with its early primary, will be the first state to show which way the wind is blowing for 1964. In speeches in Maine, New Hampshire and Boston the two seasoned old political pros put the slug on Barry Goldwater for apparently opposite reasons. Rockefeller considers that a Goldwater candidacy would lead to a Republican defeat, thru defections from the Republican standard in the "liberal" Northeast; Kennedy, on the other hand, must be aware that if Rockefeller can lick Goldwater in the convention, the nominally Democratic South may be more willing to vote the traditional Democratic ticket.

Even tho he may consider Goldwater the most difficult touch, however, John F. Kennedy is resting his political fortunes on the gamble that "Peace and Prosperity" will be an irresistible election-year theme no matter whom the Republicans nominate. The Kennedy strategy has driven toward a single goal ever since the President made his placating speech at the American University last spring. Everything that the administration has done since then he has had the linked objectives of wooing Khrushchev to behave like a peaceable man and, by thus allaying tensions in the outside world, increasing the chances of prolonging domestic prosperity thru [illegible] international trade.

MANEUVERS

After the wigwagging signals to Khrushchev in the springtime speech came the maneuvering to make the nuclear test ban a reality. Then, in rapid succession, came the wheat deal and Tito's visit to the White House. There was also a feeler, put out with some tentativeness, looking to a withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam. And, tho the administration is still officially anti-Castro, the only rebel Cubans who are permitted to prepare for the great day when Fidel and his Barbudos will be bounced out of Havana are those who are willing to submit to U.S.-dictated discipline. This discipline means that they will be allowed to act only in ways that won't seriously displease the Kremlin.

In his New England speeches Kennedy was cautious in sounding his hopes for a long-term run of "Peace and Prosperity." He needs an "out" if Khrushchev should prove uncooperative. But the wooing of the Kremlin will continue. Apparently the U.S. has licensed a deal which put some millions of dollars' worth of potash mining equipment in the hands of the Russians. Potash is an ingredient of any balanced fertilizer, and if Khrushchev is really serious about putting more fertility into his wheat acres, the mining machinery would be a big help in that direction. But, as Republican Congressman Lipscomb of California has pointed out, potash is also used in gunpowder.

Beyond the export of mining equipment to Russia there is the plan to revive the American machine tool industry by granting more and more trade permits to U.S. tool manufacturers.

PREDICTIONS

Increased trade with Russia would not, by itself, mean much to the U.S. economy in terms of significant volume. But it could be the icing on the cake if it were to take hold next summer in time to prevent even a slight downturn in the prosperity index before election day. "Kennedy Prosperity" is safe enough for the rest of 1963, with the annual gross national product driving toward the $600 billion mark. And Kennedy's chief economic adviser, Walter Heller, is predicting that the GNP annual rate for the first quarter of 1964 will be at something better than the $600 billion statistical figure.

If the Kennedy luck holds, can anyone defeat him? Even with Goldwater carrying the South the chances of a Republican victory are problematical.

But the control of events is not in John F. Kennedy's hands. Unemployment persists in crucial pockets to mar the prosperity theme. Would-be dictators are on the prowl thruout Latin America. The British want to pull out of British Guiana, even if this means the triumph of the Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan. By the time of the 1964 election there may be a Castro ring surrounding the approaches to the Panama Canal; even relatively prosperous Venezuela is menaced with a Castroite take-over. And Khrushchev, tho he may prefer a Kennedy to a Goldwater, still has to pose as a strong and bumptious man if he is to keep his prestige with the Communist dictatorships in Eastern Europe. His internal necessities may keep him from being helpful to Kennedy in November of 1964.

The Pro-Liberty Student

Yesterday, we discussed the anti-communist and the anti-socialist positions in an effort to find their similarities and their differences. The matter is important for in a large way most Americans profess to be either anti-communist or anti-socialist.

Thus, if our analysis had been conclusive, which it was not, it should have included just about all Americans who are neither communists nor socialists.

The fact is that most Americans favor either communism or socialism to some degree even tho they customarily reject it by name. The matter is brought to our attention constantly. Hardly a day goes by but what some concerned individual or organization sends us something just published which objects to communism or socialism. Yet, in the very utterances put forth there is an unconscious or a subconscious reconciliation either with group objectives, group ethics, forceful compulsion toward a group goal, or political reliance which feeds the Fabian network.

One of the major problems we encounter regularly is that because we oppose both communism and socialism it is assumed that we must be a part of either the organized anti-communist or organized anti-socialist groups. But this is not true. We object to communism and socialism, not because we are affiliated with a group which [illegible], but because we, [illegible], reject communism and socialism on principle.

We are concerned with freedom. Our objection to communism occurs at those places where communism denies and nullifies freedom. Our objection to socialism occurs in the same way. But so does our objection to anti-communism or anti-socialism arise from the same point. We do not favor ANY movement or group which knowingly or unknowingly, by action or by word, opposes freedom.

We are entirely willing to recognize the existence of a conspiracy. As a matter of fact, there are probably dozens of conspiracies in existence at the moment. This old world has probably never had more of them, and surely it has never been without a conspiracy or two on which to fatten itself. Any secret planning arrangement which is calculated to affect the lives and properties of other persons not in on the planning is, by definition, a conspiracy. Conspiratorial actions must be sub-rosa.

Thus, we have a communist conspiracy and an anti-communist conspiracy. We have a socialist conspiracy and an anti-socialist conspiracy. There surely are at least a score of religious conspiracies in which various branches of organized theology conspire as to the best way to attract and hold members; the best way to convince everyone in the world that their particular way is the best.

Each political party in every country is engaged in a conspiracy.

Doubtless, there are racial conspiracies. And certainly there are conspiracies among businessmen as well as among government when secret plans are contrived involving the lives, properties or actions of others.

The advantage, if such it be, to the student or the devotee of liberty is that he refuses to conspire. The student of freedom is not engaged in trying to conspire to set other people free, he simply wishes to conduct his affairs in such a way that there will be no excuse for others to take away his freedom.

He will not impose his will on others. He seeks to discourage others from imposing their wills on him by giving them no excuse thru his conduct so that they feel a necessity to "take action" against him.

Sickening 'Cure'

It used to be that we suffered from what were called "social evils." Now we suffer from social remedies.

Forming a Free Society

To have a society of free men, certain conditions would have to be obtained.

Man is a denizen of this earth and is constrained by nature to obey the laws of nature. Some have contended that man can never be really free. To bolster their argument they sometimes point to the fact that were a man to step off a cliff he could not fly like a bird. Therefore, since man cannot fly like a bird and is bound to the earth by certain natural laws, the contention is that man is not free to exercise his full range of choices, and hence is not free.

Actually, man's inability to fly like a bird does not prove that he is not free; it demonstrates that he is not a bird. But man has gone on to demonstrate that by obeying natural laws he can fly better than a bird, over longer distances at higher levels at greater speeds.

Thus, if man chooses to fly he can do so. He merely has to obey the laws of his nature and recognize that he cannot "fly like a bird"; he must fly "like a man."

So, too, with many other arguments respecting man's ability to be free. There are natural laws which proclaim that man IS free. He chooses. He is a decision maker, selecting his course of thought or action from a vast library of possible thoughts and actions. The enemy to freedom is not natural law, but other men.

As a matter of definition, the words freedom and liberty both derive from a single condition which it is the purpose of freedom and liberty to designate. A free man is a man who is "out from under the control" of another man or a group of other men.

If we examine that idea, we discover that freedom is a natural condition, indeed. It applies at once to every man living. He is a free man, by his nature, unless or until some other man prevents him from being free.

Thus, non-freedom is of human derivation. Freedom is natural and automatically exists unless it is denied or abriged by other human beings.

To have a society of free men would require only that some men within the society did not control the other men in the society but, instead, that each man in the society would control himself.

This brings us to the first principle which exists at the root of any understanding respecting freedom. Each man by his own nature, controls his own energy. Nature has not ordained that any man is so endowed that he may NATURALLY control the energy of another. Such natural control of one by another is denied.

True, some men can frighten you, injure you, or even kill you. This does not mean that they are "naturally" controlling you. Rather, it indicates that they are willing to deny their own nature and your own nature in an effort to force you to their control. Such control must always be a matter of artificially induced force.

It can be the force of a threat or fear, invoked and held over you. It can be the appeal to superstition and terror, either real or imagined. It can be an actual application of force and violence. But so long as the force that is threatened or imposed is too impotent to prevent the individual from rejecting the control and making up his own mind and acting upon it, then his freedom has not been impaired in fact.

A free society would be that society wherein each man controlled his own energy and in which no man threatened or forced his control over another, for any reason whatever.

Almost all invasions of freedom have been invoked by those who believe that men can be forced MORALLY to do the "right" thing. In this sense, virtually every invasion of freedom is an effort to COMPEL moral conduct or to PREVENT immoral conduct.

COOKING HIS OWN GOOSE

He Went Away for a While

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

This summer I met a fine young man who lives in Oregon. While deeply involved in political action, he had acquired or was born with a sense of self - responsibility. His belief in his right to be a free man motivated a great deal of his thinking but he was less than satisfied with the course of action he had been following. He went away for awhile to see if he could learn to think for himself and was eminently successful. He did learn to think!

Today he looks around him and wonders, "Where is everybody? I was able to learn to think and understand that my right to be a free man is not a grant from any politician or any form of government. Freedom is my right by virtue of my existence, it's just that simple."

He wrote to tell me he's lonesome. Instead of being able to talk with friends and relatives and acquaintances, he finds it necessary to be quiet, unless a specific question is directed to him. If he answers the question from the strength of his newly acquired knowledge and beliefs, he finds himself shoved into an emotionally unthinking dog house, from which he can only peer and ask, "What's wrong, don't you believe you have a right to be free?"

Yes, Marina. I know a dog house can't think but the dog house I refer to is just an unthinking frame of mind which keeps out logic and even ordinary common sense.

I know how my friend in Oregon feels. I have a few relatives living in various sections of the country and I rarely hear from them these days. Many former acquaintances, still living in Southern California, write only when they think of something they hope will knock over my belief in my right to be a free man. But, I've asked my young friend in Oregon to be patient and to remember what he was doing a year ago and the year before that and right up to the time he began to think for himself. I never let myself forget how deeply I was involved in the same kind of unthinking activities. The fact that my web-foot friend and I sought goals which were and are different from the goals sought by our colleagues does not change the fact that we foolishly believed we could ride to freedom on the back of other human beings. Realization of this kind is never a truly comfortable state of mind until you become accustomed to it. After you begin to recover from the shock, you begin to understand a few of the reasons human beings have permitted themselves to be enslaved since the beginning of time. As a matter of fact, the vast majority of all of the people who today inhabit the face of the earth appear entirely willing and even eager to be the tools and fools of tyrants and "leaders."

Any man or woman who insists upon learning which will lead them to the road to freedom is capable of being alone with their own thoughts. Becoming accustomed to this, is another story and it takes a bit of doing. It's natural to wonder, "Where is everybody?" This reminds me of the first time I ate lobster and looked around the restaurant wondering why other diners were enjoying steaks and and chops and a variety of other foods. For just an instant I wanted to start a crusade for the eating of lobster.

In replying to my young friend's slightly plaintive letter, I forgot to tell him what will happen just about the time he becomes accustomed to being alone with his own thoughts occasionally. Suddenly, almost as if by magic, he will have less time to be alone with his own thoughts. Because of his example, others will wonder what he is doing and why. They will ask questions and many will attempt to defeat his purpose and others will bluntly tell him he's nuts but they will return again and again to find out what he is doing and because of a deep and intuitive desire for freedom.

I am alone in this little office in this ghost town. From my door, I can view the friendly Cerbat Mountains, which bear the scars of many a miner's sharp pick and overworked shovel. My good wife has gone to pick up a few supplies for our larder, the Arizona sun is warm and I am, for awhile, alone with my thoughts and I am not frightened because I know I am doing everything I can to replace the illusion of freedom with reality.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Who's Entitled To Profits

From American Way Features

It is unfortunately true that labor union leaders today are fostering the concept that the worker is entitled to the lion's share of profits — because he "is the only one who produces."

This idea was true in the days before the Industrial Revolution. One man set up his own shop, bought his own raw materials, produced by hand or by crude machine, and handled his own sales of the finished product.

However, labor today is but one phase — and thus but one of the costs — of production. And a man's labor, an essential ingredient of production, is simply a commodity that is bought and sold. In today's industrialized economy, a man with certain skills sells those skills to someone else for what both agree is a fair price. This price is known as "wages." And since the exchange of labor skills for an agreed-upon price is but one of the many costs of production, the transaction between worker and employer is consummated each time the worker exchanges a week's work for a week's pay.

Morally and economically, the worker is no more entitled to a share of "profits" than is the supplier of raw materials who is paid money in exchange for such materials. In either case, an agreement to buy and sell has been fulfilled; and neither the worker nor the outside supplier has any legitimate right to demand a chunk of a company's profits — no matter how astronomical they may appear to those who are unfamiliar with the multiple costs of production.

Perhaps it would help if the average worker understood that "profits" do not constitute "gravy" for management and investors. Profits are the difference between a company's income and its expenditures. Out of such margin must come a portion for reduction of indebtedness. Also out of this profit margin, a certain percentage must be used for the purchase of replacement equipment and for new physical expansion. What is left provides a reasonable return on investment by stockholders — without whom the company would have insufficient capital to operate at all.

TREASURES

To the Editor:

Sadly a group of fifteen Denver women left the Petite Trianon on Tuesday.

This exquisite place and all its art treasures will soon be gone.

We were told that one powerful man has blocked the acquisition of the Trianon by the city and by Colorado College. What a pity!

It is not yet too late. Can't something be done to save this treasure?

TOM CONNALLY

To the Editor:

In the AP dispatch on the death of former Senator Tom Connally, no mention was made of what millions of Americans believe was his greatest contribution to the protection and safety of his country. I refer to the famous Connally Reservation in U.S. adherence to the World Court.

His reservation provides that the United States has the right to decide whether any case submitted to that court presents a question involving our internal or domestic law, and, if so, our government can prevent the international tribunal from exercising authority over us.

The Connally Reservation passed the Senate by a vote of 52 for and only 14 against. Many attempts by internationalists to repeal it have so far failed.

The United States has only one jurist out of the fifteen on the World Court. Among the other fourteen, Communist and neutralist members predominate.

EDUCATION

To the Editor:

Education can be the result of exposure to, and the retention of, all man's available circumstances, mental, physical, environmental, and hereditary. Moral education is the basis for self-improvement. A person with a highly developed mental capacity may still be a morally uneducated being. Crude behavior or remarks can mark this person as an unacceptable source of enlightenment to others. When such a person is placed in a position of authority strictly on academic or retentive capabilities, it may lead others to reject any information that could otherwise have been beneficial.

Experience will teach the more morally oriented person to indirectly study the behavioral patterns of others and to accept or reject the influence or personal relationships that can evolve from verbal contact with the person or persons involved.

Uneducated authority or leadership in such fields as schools, industries, offices, etc., produces stagnant environments where there should be active and free exchanges of ideas and information.

As long as there are indirect restrictions on anyone's learning process, his self-improvement will lack the fullness that it might have attained. Individualism is important in the person of leadership, as well as the follower, but can be detrimental if the behavior shows a lack of understanding or care for the rights of others.

The person who shows his ignorance in the form of a question may feel like a fool, but the person who shows his ignorance in the form of a statement only proves it. The first will find the answer and will be in a position to benefit, the second will think that he knows it, will ignore all others, and in turn will be ignored.

Question Box

Question No. 365: "Is successful management largely a selling job?"

Answer: We believe it is. In the first place the successful manager must be successful in selling himself the kind of a service that will, in the long run, be beneficial to his customers. That, of course, takes judgment as well as selling talent.

He must also sell his associates to have confidence in themselves and to realize that they are a part of the program of exchanging goods and services. The more useful their services will be, the more they will be able to command the free market value of their services. He must, in the second place, sell them on seeing the necessity of work and concentration.

The next thing is to sell the public that they will get satisfaction out of buying his product for their dollars, which represents their labor. If the management has no selling ability it will be in difficulty.

To summarize, he must sell himself on his product and always be trying to improve his product, never being satisfied with the service he is rendering. Then he has to sell his associates that they will get more joy out of life by the pleasure of accomplishment, by the pleasure of being a part of an organization that is rendering a useful service. Then of course he has to sell the general public as to the merits of a long range view of that objective. He mustn't try to sell things on a fly-by-night proposition that might even injure the persons buying the product.

Questions are limited to gen- that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

To The Point

Morocco and The U.N.

By RUSSELL KIRK

On the borders of Morocco and Algeria, a few men are dying, and troops are moving up. This is not "Moroccan imperialism," as the dictator of Algeria, Ahmed Ben Bella, would have the world believe. During the past fortnight, this columnist has visited all the principal cities of Morocco, and everywhere one finds evidence of restraint and moderation on the part of Moroccans, despite strong provocation.

Here in Tangier, where these lines are written, business goes as usual. The tourist season is just beginning. That is one reason, according to many Moroccans, why Ben Bella chose to raid the frontier posts just now: he envied the Moroccan tourist boom. (Next to no tourists visit Algeria today, partly because of the difficulty of getting visas, and partly because they can't be sure they'd emerge with a whole skin.) There is no fear or fury. Nevertheless, the surprisingly calm newspapers announce that Tangier troop-units are preparing to move toward defensive positions nearer the Algerian border.

Few newspapermen, at this writing, have been able to get to the amorphous front on either Algerian or Moroccan sides; the fighting occurs in most remote and dangerous desert country. By commandeering the reporters' aircraft, the Algerian government has cloaked its military operations in secrecy. Only Communist or pro-Communist newspapers are published in Algeria now, and the leading correspondents of European and American newspapers have been expelled from that country.

Apparently the Algerians have much to conceal. On October 21, the Moroccans forced down an Algerian helicopter, over Moroccan territory. In it were four Egyptian officers, three of them colonels. A hot partisan of his fellow-dictator Ben Bella, Nasser of Egypt has commenced interfering in this fight as — on a much larger scale — he has been attempting to annex the Yemen by sending troops to prop up his puppet government there. (October 20 and 21 must have been bad days for Nasser, for he also lost 26 officers in a Russian transport plane which crashed en route to Yemen.)

A few days ago, the Algerians seized the frontier post of Ich, near the Algerian base of Colomb-Bechar. Ich, according to any map, clearly is in Moroccan territory. Yet the Moroccans have not retaliated, merely continuing to hold the more southerly posts of Hassi Beida and Hassi Tinjou which they retook earlier. What accounts for such wonderful Moroccan patience?

The Moroccans are not cowards, and the Moroccan army is at least as battle-ready as the Algerian. But King Hassan II is said to believe that if Morocco hits back strongly at the Algerians, the "Afro-Asian bloc" in the United Nations Organization will condemn Morocco. Thus the aggressor is smiled upon by the U.N. majority, and the injured state must be thankful that the U.N. does not go so far, yet, as to send a "Peace Force," a la Congo, to aid the aggressor.

In Egypt, Nasser could not last three months without American financial aid. (In mild tones, American authorities recently suggested to Nasser that really he ought to stop sending more troops to conquer Yemen, if he wants more American money.) Ben Bella, too, gets American aid. And the U.S. pays nearly 40 per cent of the U.N.'s budget. How long will America continue to curry favor with the least responsible and most belligerent of the petty "new nations"?

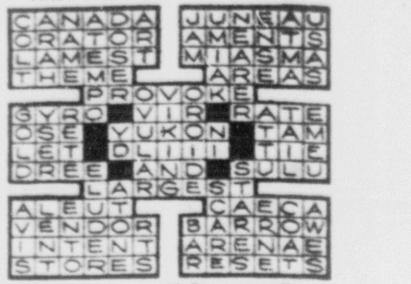
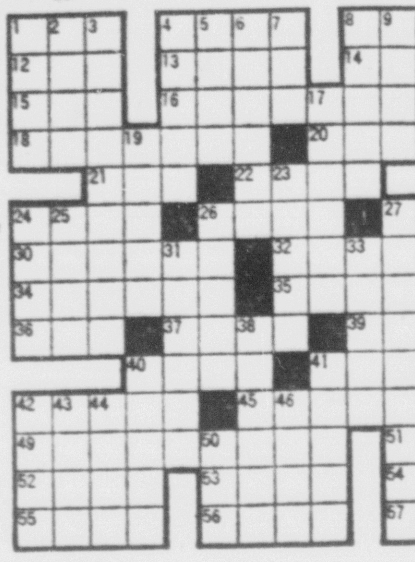
Answer to Previous Puzzle





These Days

J.F.K. Theme: Peace and Prosperity

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Both Nelson Rockefeller, Republican, and John F. Kennedy, Democrat, have recently been zeroing in on New England for their politicking because they know that New Hampshire, with its early primary, will be the first state to show which way the wind is blowing for 1964. In speeches in Maine, New Hampshire and Boston the two seasoned old political pros put the slug on Barry Goldwater for apparently opposite reasons. Rockefeller considers that a Goldwater candidacy would lead to a Republican defeat, thru defections from the Republican standard in the "liberal" Northeast; Kennedy, on the other hand, must be aware that if Rockefeller can lick Goldwater in the convention, the nominally Democratic South may be more willing to vote the traditional Democratic ticket.

Even tho he may consider Goldwater the most difficult touch, however, John F. Kennedy is resting his political fortunes on the gamble that "Peace and Prosperity" will be an irresistible election - year theme no matter whom the Republicans nominate. The Kennedy strategy has driven toward a single goal ever since the President made his placating speech at the American University last spring. Everything that the administration has done since then he has had the linked objectives of wooing Khrushchev to behave like a peaceable man and by thus allaying tensions in the outside world, increasing the chances of promoting domestic prosperity thru expanding international trade.

MANEUVERS

After the wigwagging signals to Khrushchev in the springtime speech came the maneuvering to make the nuclear test ban a reality. Then, in rapid succession, came the wheat deal and Tito's visit to the White House. There was also a feeler, put out with some tentativeness, looking to a withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam. And, tho the administration is still officially anti-Castro, the only rebel Cubans who are permitted to prepare for the great day when Fidel and his Barbudos will be bounced out of Havana are those who are willing to submit to U.S.-dictated discipline. This discipline means that they will be allowed to act only in ways that won't seriously displease the Kremlin.

In his New England speeches Kennedy was cautious in sounding his hopes for a long-term run of "Peace and Prosperity." He needs an "out" if Khrushchev should prove uncooperative. But the wooing of the Kremlin will continue. Apparently the U.S. has licensed a deal which put some millions of dollars' worth of potash mining equipment in the hands of the Russians. Potash is an ingredient of any balanced fertilizer, and if Khrushchev is really serious about putting more fertility into his wheat acres, the mining machinery would be a big help in that direction. But, as Republican Congressman Lipscomb of California has pointed out, potash is also used in gunpowder.

Beyond the export of mining equipment to Russia there is the plan to revive the American machine tool industry by granting more and more trade permits to U.S. tool manufacturers.

PREDICTIONS

Increased trade with Russia would not, by itself, mean much to the U.S. economy in terms of significant volume. But it could be the icing on the cake if it were to take hold next summer in time to prevent even a slight downturn in the prosperity index before election day. "Kennedy Prosperity" is safe enough for the rest of 1963, with the annual gross national product driving toward the $600 billion mark. And Kennedy's chief economic adviser, Walter Heller, is predicting that the GNP annual rate for the first quarter of 1964 will be at something better than the $600 billion statistical figure.

If the Kennedy luck holds, can anyone defeat him? Even with Goldwater carrying the South the chances of a Republican victory are problematical.

But the control of events is not in John F. Kennedy's hands. Unemployment persists in crucial pockets to mar the prosperity theme. Would-be dictators are on the prowl thruout Latin America. The British want to pull out of British Guiana, even if this means the triumph of the Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan. By the time of the 1964 election there may be a Castro ring surrounding the approaches to the Panama Canal, even relatively prosperous Venezuela is menaced with a Castroite take-over. And Khrushchev, tho he may prefer a Kennedy to a Goldwater, still has to pose as a strong and bumptious man if he is to keep his prestige with the Communist dictatorships in Eastern Europe. His internal necessities may keep him from being helpful to Kennedy in November of 1964.

San Francisco Film Festival Said 'Mature'

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The general opinion here is that with its seventh running, the San Francisco Film Festival has reached maturity.

Official support was never so strong; the governor of California attended the premiere for the first time. Hollywood at long last gave its partial benediction, contributing a top film, "The Victors," and a sprinkling of names to give needed glamor.

Talk in the film industry of a full-fledged festival in Hollywood or Washington has become less evident. The reason appears simple: Who is going to pay the bills? The studios no longer have money to lavish on such proposals.

Even San Francisco has had its rough financial waters. Last year the mayor stormed out of a satirical film about a girlie magazine, declaring the city shouldn't support such trash. The city halved its appropriation.

But director Irving Levin, to whom the festival has been a one-man crusade, manages to find the backing to put on the event in first-class style. He has nursed his baby from its opening night in 1957 with 300 in attendance to its present status as an important event of the international film world.

The Soviet delegation reported on American films that have proved popular in their country. One popular new release is "To Be Or Not To Be"—which featured Jack Benny and Carole Lombard in 1941.

Others of more recent vintage that have drawn approval by the Russians: "West Side Story," "The Great Escape," "Judgment At Nuremburg," "The Magnificent Seven," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "The Defiant Ones."

CANINE WIGS

MIAMI (AP) — Go Gie, a male French poodle, may think it's a bit degrading, but his owner, Joan Gilmer, says the wig he wears brings her business. Miss Gilmer, a hairstylist, said people curious on seeing a wig-wearing canine, inquire and many have become customers.

TONGUE-TIED

True tongue-tie is rare yet many physicians are consulted by parents of toddlers who believe the condition exists and that the band beneath the tounge should be snipped. Mothers of youngsters under 2 fear the child's speech will be faulty unless this is done. The same idea prevails when Johnny is 3 or 4 and is slow to talk or fails to speak distinctly. These ideas have been handed down from the past.

By definition, tongue-tie is a condition in which the tip of the tongue cannot be protruded beyond the lower incisor teeth. When protrusion is attempted, the end of the tongue becomes notched as it is held back by a short band of tissue (frenulum) under the tongue. In true tongue-tie the frenulum is absent at birth or contains scar tissue. This abnormality may interfere with the pronunciation of some consonants and with the playing of wind instruments.

But many of the young children mentioned previously do not have the disorder even though they cannot stick out the tongue beyond the lips. Spontaneous cure occurs when the tongue is used more frequently in normal speech. An otherwise healthy, intelligent boy or girl with persistent tongue-tie is most unusual.

On the other hand, when a speech defect persists after age 4, the cause may be traced to weak, incomplete, or uncoordinated tongue movements. These children may have cerebral palsy or congenital brain defects, including mental retardation.

Here the frenulum may be snipped when it appears to be too short because it does not move properly. But surgery does not improve the condition because something is wrong with the speech mechanism. Children with an underdeveloped lower jaw and those who stammer may go through a similar ordeal. The modern physician is aware of these pitfalls and seldom recommends surgery unless these other possibilities are considered first.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Entirely Different

Mrs. K. writes: My 16-year-old daughter has a heart murmur. Her father died of coronary thrombosis. Is there a relationship between these two disorders?

Reply

No. Coronary thrombosis is commoner after age 50 and is caused by hardening of the coronary arteries. Your daughter's murmur may be due to a congenital defect of the heart or to a scarred valve. It also may be a harmless sound and not a sign of cardiac disease.

Thrush

M. H. writes: I have what the doctor calls a monilial infection in my tongue, throat, and chest. Is this a form of allergy?

Reply

No—a fungal infection called thrush. It favors infants and debilitated oldsters. Good oral hygience is helpful in clearing up this condition.

Hypotension

M. O. writes: Is a blood pressure of 100 in a man considered dangerously low?

Reply

No, if you refer to the systolic pressure, and the man otherwise is healthy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypotension.

Running Ear

L. H. writes: Could a bad head cold cause a watery secretion from the ears?

Reply

Yes, provided there were openings in both eardrums as a result of previous infection or blockage of the esutachian tubes. This would be most unlikely.

Politics in Building Deal Charged by Solon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., suggested today that political motives were behind the Administration's request for $16 million for a new federal building at St. Paul, Minn.

He made the suggestion in a radio program taped for broadcast over Colorado stations. What angered him was that the Veterans Administration planned to occupy 35 per cent of the building. The VA recently moved its insurance record center from Denver to St. Paul. The move involved about 500 employes.

Veterans Administrator John S. Gleason testified before Allott's Appropriations Subcommittee last week. The senator questioned him closely about the move. Asked on the program if he were satisfied with the responses, Allott answered: "Emphatically no!"

Public Service Not Entitled To Refund

DENVER (UPI)— The Colorado Supreme Court ruled here in a 5-2 decision that the Public Service Co. of Colorado was not entitled to a refund of about $400,000 in franchise taxes from Denver.

But the high court's opinion, written by Justice O. Otto Moore, also declared that Denver was not entitled to an additional $48,000 from PSC.

Denver District Court had ruled in favor of Denver in both issues.

The main issue was whether PSC was entitled to a refund from Denver of franchise taxes which paid on the basis of a gas rate which the Federal Power Commission later ordered reduced.

The wholesaler in the case, Colorado Interstate Gas Co., refunded the excess charges to PSC, which was ordered by the Colorado Public Utilities Commission to return it to its consumers.

Former Mayor Richard Batterton of Denver was in favor of refunding the money to PSC, but Mayor Thomas Currigan, who was city auditor at the time, opposed the Batterton stand and took the case to court.

Defeat of Kennedy Seen by Gov. Wallace

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. Goerge C. Wallace of Alabama says President Kennedy may be defeated for re-election next year by Southern Democrats angry at administration civil rights policies.

Kennedy "will not carry a single southern state" in 1964, Wallace told a news conference Sunday. He arrived here on a four-day speaking trip and has a talk scheduled at Harvard University tonight.

"No president can be elected without the support of the South," Wallace said.

MORE LEFTIES

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI)— Left-handedness is on the increase among U.S. youngsters. Wesley E. Scott, education consultant to Sheaffer Pen Co., says a recent study disclosed that 11 per cent of elementary school students now write with the left hand, compared with about 9 per cent a few years ago.

When you retire, you are faced with the problem of providing an adequate income during the remaining years of your life.

You could invest your capital in "safe" securities and live off the interest. But you may be forced to dip into capital to supplement the interest these securities provide.

This brings up another, more pressing problem. How do you make sure that you will not outlive your capital?

If you invest in a Manufacturers Life Annuity, you can use your capital safely to increase the income you receive. These annuities scientifically use both capital and interest to provide worry-free income as long as you live. If you are 65 when you buy your annuity, your annual income could be as high as 9.2% of the amount you invest.

Now you can help your dentist save your teeth by fighting gum disease

If you suffer from bleeding, inflamed, sore gums, pyorrhea, loose teeth, bad breath—find out how Water Pik can help you. The World Health Organization calls gum disease (periodontitis or pyorrhea) one of the most serious and widespread diseases affecting mankind.

Dental authorities recognize it as the cause of 14 times more lost teeth than tooth decay, after age 35.

It is so widespread and so serious that, today, one in every four Americans over 45 has already lost all his teeth.

Brushing Alone Is Not Enough

If brushing (although necessary) were enough, the toll would not be so great. But brushing cleans only the broad, flat surfaces of the teeth, not the gums.

And gum disease attacks the gums. Until now, there has been no satisfactory way to keep gums clean, free of bacteria. Even professional care and cleaning has been only temporary.

For with every meal, food particles lodge between teeth, become impacted at the gum line. This debris decays, forms new pockets of infection and the disease cycle is repeated. This can lead to serious problems.

What has been needed for so long is a new way to clean the teeth and gums between visits to dentists. A way to nudge out impacted food, a way to flush out germ-breeding pockets. A step beyond ordinary home dental care to provide more complete oral hygiene.

A New Way To Dental Health

Now, a new invention, the Water Pik appliance, provides that care. Developed after years of research and testing, it cleans and keeps clean the entire oral cavity—all the spaces between the teeth, under and around orthodontic braces, under fixed bridgework and in gum-line pockets—and it is so easy to operate.

It uses a new principle of a pulsating water jet—under pressure—directed between teeth to nudge out food particles no brush can reach. This tiny water jet's pressure can be adjusted—while in use—from a gentle, yet effective stream to a vigorous, forceful jet.

In just 90 seconds, Water Pik sluices a whole quart of water (at any temperature you prefer) into the oral cavity. You can direct this jet easily—insuring cleansing of your entire mouth and gums.

For The First Time—Gum Massage

Just as important, the water jet pulsates. It is automatically turned on and off 20 times each second. This vibrating action is important not only for thorough cleaning, but it also massages the gum tissues, restoring healthy circulation of blood. The gums are thus firmed up, helping to prevent soreness and bleeding.

Water Pik has been demonstrated to scores of dental associations. Thousands of dentists use it themselves and recommend it to their patients. Orthodontists and periodontists call it most helpful to their patients, since it provides the positive cleanliness so necessary for treatment of gum disease.

Now You Can Buy Water Pik

Until now, Water Pik has been available only through dentists' prescriptions, or from dental supply houses. Today, you may buy it at leading drug and department stores.

Water Pik, with all its benefits, is only $39.50. One device, with four jet tips, can protect the average family. Additional tips, 75c each. Water Pik is guaranteed* for one full year and has Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. approval.

You owe it to yourself and to your family to find out more about Water Pik and its priceless benefits. See it at your favorite drug or department store.

San Francisco Film Festival Said 'Mature'

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The general opinion here is that with its seventh running, the San Francisco Film Festival has reached maturity.

Official support was never so strong; the governor of California attended the premiere for the first time. Hollywood at long last gave its partial benediction, contributing a top film, "The Victors," and a sprinkling of names to give needed glamor.

Talk in the film industry of a full - fledged festival in Hollywood or Washington has become less evident. The reason appears simple: Who is going to pay the bills? The studios no longer have money to lavish on such proposals.

Even San Francisco has had its rough financial waters. Last year the mayor stormed out of a satirical film about a girlie magazine, declaring the city shouldn't support such trash. The city halved its appropriation.

But director Irving Levin, to whom the festival has been a one-man crusade, manages to find the backing to put on the event in first-class style. He has nursed his baby from its opening night in 1957 with 300 in attendance to its present status as an important event of the international film world.

The Soviet delegation reported on American films that have proved popular in their country. One popular new release is "To Be Or Not To Be"—which featured Jack Benny and Carole Lombard in 1941.

Others of more recent vintage that have drawn approval by the Russians: "West Side Story," "The Great Escape," "Judgment At Nuremburg," "The Magnificent Seven," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "The Defiant Ones."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

TONGUE-TIED

True tongue-tie is rare yet many physicians are consulted by parents of toddlers who believe the condition exists and that the band beneath the tounge should be snipped. Mothers of youngsters under 2 fear the child's speech will be faulty unless this is done. The same idea prevails when Johnny is 3 or 4 and is slow to talk or fails to speak distinctly. These ideas have been handed down from the past.

By definition, tongue-tie is a condition in which the tip of the tongue cannot be protruded beyond the lower incisor teeth. When protrusion is attempted, the end of the tongue becomes notched as it is held back by a short band of tissue (frenulum) under the tongue. In true tongue-tie the frenulum is absent at birth or contains scar tissue. This abnormality may interfere with the pronunciation of some consonants and with the playing of wind instruments.

But many of the young children mentioned previously do not have the disorder even though they cannot stick out the tongue beyond the lips. Spontaneous cure occurs when the tongue is used more frequently in normal speech. An otherwise healthy, intelligent boy or girl with persistent tongue - tie is most unusual.

On the other hand, when a speech defect persists after age 4, the cause may be traced to weak, incomplete, or uncoordinated tongue movements. These children may have cerebral palsy or congential brain defects, including mental retardation.

Here the frenulum may be snipped when it appears to be too short because it does not move properly. But surgery does not improve the condition because something is wrong with the speech mechanism. Children with an underdeveloped lower jaw and those who stammer may go through a similar ordeal. The modern physician is aware of these pitfalls and seldom recommends surgery unless these other possibilities are considered first.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Politics in Building Deal Charged by Solon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., suggested today that political motives were behind the Administration's request for $16 million for a new federal building at St. Paul, Minn.

He made the suggestion in a radio program taped for broadcast over Colorado stations. What angered him was that the Veterans Administration planned to occupy 35 per cent of the building. The VA recently moved its insurance record center from Denver to St. Paul. The move involved about 500 employes.

Veterans Administrator John S. Gleason testified before Allott's Appropriations Subcommittee last week. The senator questioned him closely about the move. Asked on the program if he were satisfied with the responses, Allott answered: "Emphatically no!"

Public Service Not Entitled To Refund

DENVER (UPI)— The Colorado Supreme Court ruled here in a 5-2 decision that the Public Service Co. of Colorado was not entitled to a refund of about $400,000 in franchise taxes from Denver.

But the high court's opinion, written by Justice O. Otto Moore, also declared that Denver was not entitled to an additional $48,000 from PSC.

Denver District Court had ruled in favor of Denver in both issues.

The main issue was whether PSC was entitled to a refund from Denver of franchise taxes which paid on the basis of a gas rate which the Federal Power Commission later ordered reduced.

The wholesaler in the case, Colorado Interstate Gas Co., refunded the excess charges to PSC, which was ordered by the Colorado Public Utilities Commission to return it to its consumers.

Former Mayor Richard Batterton of Denver was in favor of refunding the money to PSC, but Mayor Thomas Currigan, who was city auditor at the time, opposed the Batterton stand and took the case to court.

Brushing Alone Is Not Enough

If brushing (although necessary) were enough, the toll would not be so great. But brushing cleans only the broad, flat surfaces of the teeth, not the gums.

And gum disease attacks the gums. Until now, there has been no satisfactory way to keep gums clean, free of bacteria. Even professional care and cleaning has been only temporary.

For with every meal, food particles lodge between teeth, become impacted at the gum line. This debris decays, forms new pockets of infection and the disease cycle is repeated. This can lead to serious problems.

What has been needed for so long is a new way to clean the teeth and gums between visits to dentists. A way to nudge out impacted food, a way to flush out germ-breeding pockets. A step beyond ordinary home dental care to provide more complete oral hygiene.

A New Way To Dental Health

Now, a new invention, the Water Pik appliance, provides that care. Developed after years of research and testing, it cleans and keeps clean the entire oral cavity—all the spaces between the teeth, under and around orthodontic braces, under fixed bridgework and in gum-line pockets—and it is so easy to operate.

It uses a new principle of a pulsating water jet—under pressure—directed between teeth to nudge out food particles no brush can reach. This tiny water jet's pressure can be adjusted—while in use—from a gentle, yet effective stream to a vigorous, forceful jet.

In just 90 seconds, Water Pik sluices a whole quart of water (at any temperature you prefer) into the oral cavity. You can direct this jet easily—insuring cleansing of your entire mouth and gums.

For The First Time—Gum Massage

Just as important, the water jet pulsates. It is automatically turned on and off 20 times each second. This vibrating action is important not only for thorough cleaning, but it also massages the gum tissues, restoring healthy circulation of blood. The gums are thus firmed up, helping to prevent soreness and bleeding.

Water Pik has been demonstrated to scores of dental associations. Thousands of dentists use it themselves and recommend it to their patients. Orthodontists and periodontists call it most helpful to their patients, since it provides the positive cleanliness so necessary for treatment of gum disease.

Now You Can Buy Water Pik

Until now, Water Pik has been available only through dentists' prescriptions, or from dental supply houses. Today, you may buy it at leading drug and department stores.

Water Pik, with all its benefits, is only $39.50. One device, with four jet tips, can protect the average family. Additional tips, 75¢ each. Water Pik is guaranteed* for one full year and has Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. approval.

You owe it to yourself and to your family to find out more about Water Pik and its priceless benefits. See it at your favorite drug or department store.

Pilot Clubs Lead Service Groups in Safety Education

Among the classified civic and service organizations for executive business and professional women, Pilot clubs are leaders in safety education activities.

Mrs. Winifred Cobb, president of the Pilot Club of Colorado Springs, announced today that Ruth Cunningham of San Gabriel Valley, Calif. is participating in the National Safety Council meeting in Chicago this week.

The Council is commemorating its Golden Anniversary Year and its leaders report "after 50 years of tremendous progress in every area of accident prevention, we now find ourselves in a sustained period of disheartening reversals. The upward trends in accident losses during recent months make it imperative to see that our efforts are directed more strongly than ever along those paths that will bring the accident toll under control in the years ahead."

Mrs. Barbara B. Matchett of Victoria, Texas, immediate past president of Pilot International, is a member of the executive committee of the Women's National Safety Conference.

She will participate on a panel during the committee's meeting held in conjunction with the National Safety Council meeting.

Miss Cunningham has also been invited by the President's Committee for Traffic Safety to attend a conference for presidents and executive directors of national women's organizations in Denver Nov. 18-20.

Although the bidding in today's hand was a shade on the aggressive side, the final contract of six spades was eminently reasonable. Had the adverse hearts been divided three-two, as is the normal expectancy, declarer would have experienced no difficulty in taking 12 tricks. While the bad break in the suit presented an unexpected complication, it was balanced by a favorable distribution which existed in another side suit, but unfortunately the declarer failed to capitalize on the available opportunity and he went down to defeat.

North's three club response is conventional and asks the notrump bidder to show a four card major if he has one. North was prepared to support either hearts or spades. When the opening bidder has both majors, he shows the higher ranking suit first. When South bid three spades, North elected to make a slam try by overbidding the game in spades, since his hand was worth nine points in support of the suit counting three for the singleton. South had 22 points in high cards plus one for a doubleton. Since his points were of a top drawer quality, including nearly every side control, he chose to accept partner's invitation and contracted for a small slam.

West led the king of diamonds. South played the ace and proceeded to draw trump in two rounds ending up in dummy. He then led a heart and, when East played the nine, declarer permitted him to hold the trick. One heart had to be lost in any case, and South decided to give the opponents their due at once. A heart was returned but, when West showed out, declarer discovered that he must lose another trick in the suit.

Since he lacked the intermediate cards in hearts, declarer had nothing to gain by giving up a trick early. In fact, by so doing, he surrendered the one legitimate opportunity that was available to him. He might just as well have cashed the ace and king after drawing the trumps, in order to learn how the hearts were divided.

When West shows out on the second round, South's only chance is to execute an end play on the opponent who is out of hearts.

Declarer first cashes the top clubs and then ruffs a diamond in dummy. He trumps North's last club and then leads the ten of diamonds. West covers with the jack and South permits him to win the trick as dummy discards a heart. Now, whether West returns a diamond or a club, declarer can dispose of North's last heart as he ruffs in his hand. The only trick that is lost is a diamond.

Fort Welcomes Red Cross Workers at Army Hospital

Two new professional American Red Cross workers at the Ft. Carson U. S. Army Hospital — Miss Geraldine Gilbert and Miss Gail Pope — are happy to be in Colorado on their new assignments.

Miss Gilbert, hospital recreation worker, requested Colorado duty from Fort Riley, Kan. Her 20 years in Red Cross work began with hospital duty in Africa and Italy in World War II. She left kindergarten teaching in Iowa Falls, Iowa, for what grew into a new career.

Her duties since have taken her to Fitzsimons General Hospital, Denver; Brooke Army Medical Center, Texas; Great Lakes Naval Training Depot, Ill.; and two tours at Riley.

She has a degree in vocal music from the Iowa Falls Conservatory and studied at Iowa State Teachers College. She belongs to professional recreation organizations.

Miss Pope is a case aide at the Carson hospital on her first assignment. She worked in the home service department of the Dallas, Texas, Chapter, American Red Cross, as a student from Texas Womens University at Denton.

Her supervisor at Dallas had done military hospital work for Red Cross and suggested that as a career field for this sociology major. Miss Pope was president of the Adelphian Literary Social Club in her senior year and was active in other campus organizations.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Pope, St. Paul, Minn.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The Time Is Not Now!

DEAR ABBY: What advice have you for a 30 - year - old woman who thinks it's time to marry, but doesn't know which man to choose? I've taught school for eight years, and am well-traveled, so I'm not a sheltered country girl. A 42-year-old minister (widower, three children) wants to marry me, but the fish-bowl type of life I'd have to live doesn't appeal to me and, besides, I'm not that goody-goody. A doctor has proposed, but my best friend is married to one and she says it's a dog's life. The most attractive candidate travels, and he'd expect me to travel with him. That's no good for a woman who wants roots! There is also a young professor, but people in education don't make much and I don't want to work after I'm married. Can you help me? —ANNETTE

DEAR ANNETTE: Face it. You haven't met the man you want to marry yet. When (and if you do, you'll find a hundred reasons why you should marry him.

DEAR ABBY: Ron and I have been married only a few months and we are living with his parents until we can afford an apartment of our own. We pay $80 a month for our bedroom, but we have no privacy whatsoever. When I am away at work during the day, they go through every one of my drawers. If they would let me know what they are looking for, I'd be glad to help them find it. I have nothing to hide. There is no excuse for anyone even going into our room as I clean it myself. My husband knows about his parents going through my things, but he says they'll be hurt if we make any accusations. What should I do? —NOTHING TO HIDE

DEAR NOTHING: How about a compromise? Don't ask the folks about the "treasure hunts"—but put a lock on your door and end them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and I suppose I should be the happiest girl in the world, but I'm not. You see, I am going to marry a wonderful young man, but my parents are standing between me and the most important thing in my life — the kind of wedding every girl dreams of! I want a white gown and veil and I want to walk down the aisle. They insist that I get married in a short dress at a private ceremony in the parson's study. Their reason is a very narrow - minded one. When I was only a child (17) I eloped with a boy the same age. I got pregnant right away. It was a big mixed - up mess. My folks had the marriage annulled and I gave the baby up for adoption. It is like it never happened now, Abby. Very few people in this town even know about it, and I think I have earned the right to start a new life. Can you help me convince my parents that they are wrong? —STARTING OVER

DEAR STARTING: Sorry, I can't help you. I think your parents are right.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Two new professional American Red Cross workers at the Ft. Carson U. S. Army Hospital — Miss Geraldine Gilbert and Miss Gail Pope — are happy to be in Colorado on their new assignments.

Miss Gilbert, hospital recreation worker, requested Colorado duty from Fort Riley, Kan. Her 20 years in Red Cross work began with hospital duty in Africa and Italy in World War II. She left kindergarten teaching in Iowa Falls, Iowa, for what grew into a new career.

Her duties since have taken her to Fitzsimons General Hospital, Denver; Brooke Army Medical Center, Texas; Great Lakes Naval Training Depot, Ill.; and two tours at Riley.

She has a degree in vocal music from the Iowa Falls Conservatory and studied at Iowa State Teachers College. She belongs to professional recreation organizations.

Miss Pope is a case aide at the Carson hospital on her first assignment. She worked in the home service department of the Dallas, Texas, Chapter, American Red Cross, as a student from Texas Womens University at Denton.

Her supervisor at Dallas had done military hospital work for Red Cross and suggested that as a career field for this sociology major. Miss Pope was president of the Adelphian Literary Social Club in her senior year and was active in other campus organizations.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Pope, St. Paul, Minn.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The Time Is Not Now!

DEAR ABBY: What advice have you for a 30 - year - old woman who thinks it's time to marry, but doesn't know which man to choose? I've taught school for eight years, and am well-traveled, so I'm not a sheltered country girl. A 42-year-old minister (widower, three children wants to marry me, but the fish-bowl type of life I'd have to live doesn't appeal to me and, besides, I'm not that goody-goody. A doctor has proposed, but my best friend is married to one and she says it's a dog's life. The most attractive candidate travels, and he'd expect me to travel with him. That's no good for a woman who wants roots! There is also a young professor, but people in education don't make much and I don't want to work after I'm married. Can you help me? —ANNETTE

DEAR ANNETTE: Face it. You haven't met the man you want to marry yet. When (and if you do, you'll find a hundred reasons why you should marry him.

DEAR ABBY: Ron and I have been married only a few months and we are living with his parents until we can afford an apartment of our own. We pay $80 a monh for our bedroom, but we have no privacy whatsoever. When I am away at work during the day, they go through every one of my drawers. If they would let me know what they are looking for, I'd be glad to help them find it. I have nothing to hide. There is no excuse for anyone even going into our room as I clean it myself. My husband knows about his parents going through my things, but he says they'll be hurt if we make any accusations. What should I do? —NOTHING TO HIDE

DEAR NOTHING: How about a compromise? Don't ask the folks about the "treasure hunts"—but put a lock on your door and end them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and I suppose I should be the happiest girl in the world, but I'm not. You see, I am going to marry a wonderful young man, but my parents are standing between me and the most important thing in my life — the kind of wedding every girl dreams of! I want a white gown and veil and I want to walk down the aisle. They insist that I get married in a short dress at a private ceremony in the parson's study. Their reason is a very narrow - minded one. When I was only a child (17)) I eloped with a boy the same age. I got pregnant right away. It was a big mixed - up mess. My folks had the marriage annulled and I gave the baby up for adoption. It is like it never happened now, Abby. Very few people in this town even know about it, and I think I have earned the right to start a new life. Can you help me convince my parents that they are wrong? —STARTING OVER

DEAR STARTING: Sorry, I can't help you. I think your parents are right.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Junior League Continues Its Fall Slide Program

Members of the Junior League of Colorado Springs Inc. are giving a series of fall slide lectures to fifth and sixth grade classes in area schools this month. The series began in October.

Ed Wilson of the Audio-Visual Department of the public schools and Mrs. Thomas Bloom, arts chairman of the League, are directing the series, now in its seventh year, which were written to tie in with the children's social studies program.

The sixth grade lecture is entitled "Diego Rivera, One of the Foremost Painters of Mexico," and a lecture on "Paintings of New England" is available to fifth graders.

All four of the lectures, including the spring ones about Fredric Remington and South American architecture, have been recorded on tape by Mrs. John Puffer and are synchronized with slides for more effective presentation.

Junior League volunteers participating in the project are Mrs. James May, Mrs. Robert Padgett, Mrs. Milo Yalich, Mrs. William Henderson, Mrs. Thomas Bloom, Mrs. Milburne Kensinger, Mr. L. W. McCrary, and Miss Rennette Finley.

Pilot Clubs Lead Service Groups in Safety Education

Among the classified civic and service organizations for executive business and professional women, Pilot clubs are leaders in safety education activities.

Mrs. Winifred Cobb, president of the Pilot Club of Colorado Springs, announced today that Ruth Cunningham of San Gabriel Valley, Calif. is participating in the National Safety Council meeting in Chicago this week.

The Council is commemorating its Golden Anniversary Year and its leaders report "after 50 years of tremendous progress in every area of accident prevention, we now find ourselves in a sustained period of disheartening reversals. The upward trends in accident losses during recent months make it imperative to see that our efforts are directed more strongly than ever along those paths that will bring the accident toll under control in the years ahead."

Mrs. Barbara B. Matchett of Victoria, Texas, immediate past president of Pilot International, is a member of the executive committee of the Women's National Safety Conference.

She will participate on a panel during the committee's meeting held in conjunction with the National Safety Council meeting.

Miss Cunningham has also been invited by the President's Committee for Traffic Safety to attend a conference for presidents and executive directors of national women's organizations in Denver Nov. 18-20.

The purpose of the conference is to emphasize the urgent necessity for women's organizations to participate in the Action Program of the President's Committee.

Following this national conference, regional conferences will be held for state officers of national women's organizations and through these meetings Pilot clubs from many of the 50 states will continue active support of state and community safety activities.

Mrs. Ruth Pearson, Pilot International director, and Mrs. Maxine Cech, safety chairman of the local Pilot Club, will represent Pilot International at the President's Committee for State College, Greeley, on Dec. 5. It will be a high school driver education regional workshop.

Club Members Hear Talk on KO Polio Project

Th "Knock-Out Polio" program was the subject of a talk given by Herbert Ellis recently to members of the Night Nukumers.

Hostesses for the meeting, which featured a Halloween motif, were Mrs. Myrtle Schermer, Agnes Watson and Edna Wilkinson. Eugene Lyons was awarded a fall centerpiece.

Bridge winners were Mike Spayd, Bob Dailey, Beryl Funk and Ann Whippo.

John Lamb was introduced as a new member and guests included Mrs. Pearl Huss, Mrs. Elsie Chrostowski and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lough.

The organization's next meeting will be at 6:45 p.m., Nov. 13, at the Acacia Hotel. For reservations, call 633-0553 or 635-5051. All newcomers to the area are invited.

The bidding:

3 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇

Although the bidding in today's hand was a shade on the aggressive side, the final contract of six spades was eminently reasonable. Had the adverse hearts been divided three-two, as is the normal expectancy, declarer would have experienced no difficulty in taking 12 tricks. While the bad break in the suit presented an unexpected complication, it was balanced by a favorable distribution which existed in another side suit, but unfortunately the declarer failed to capitalize on the available opportunity and he went down to defeat.

North's three club response is conventional and asks the notrump bidder to show a four card major if he has one. North was prepared to support either hearts or spades. When the opening bidder has both majors, he shows the higher ranking suit first. When South bid three spades, North elected to make a slam try by overbidding the game in spades, since his hand was worth nine points in support of the suit counting three for the singleton. South had 22 points in high cards plus one for a doubleton. Since his points were of a top drawer quality, including nearly every side control, he chose to accept partner's invitation and contracted for a small slam.

West led the king of diamonds. South played the ace and proceeded to draw trump in two rounds ending up in dummy. He then led a heart and, when East played the nine, declarer permitted him to hold the trick. One heart had to be lost in any case, and South decided to give the opponents their due at once. A heart was returned but, when West showed out, declarer discovered that he must lose another trick in the suit.

Since he lacked the intermediate cards in hearts, declarer had nothing to gain by giving up a trick early. In fact, by so doing, he surrendered the one legitimate opportunity that was available to him. He might just as well have cashed the ace and king after drawing the trumps, in order to learn how the hearts were divided. When West shows out on the second round, South's only chance is to execute an end play on the opponent who is out of hearts.

Declarer first cashes the top clubs and then ruffs a diamond in dummy. He trumps North's last club and then leads the ten of diamonds. West covers with the jack and South permits him to win the trick as dummy discards a heart. Now, whether West returns a diamond or a club, declarer can dispose of North's last heart as he ruffs in his hand. The only trick that is lost is a diamond.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Coffee Friend:

If you are one of those who like that half-cup-o-coffee during the day but hate to keep heating and reheating that coffee pot because it makes the coffee bitter............ try putting the leftover coffee in a Thermos bottle and capping it as soon as breakfast is over.

This will not only save time later but you can wash the coffee pot while you are doing breakfast dishes and get the kitchen clean and completed all at the same time.

Then when you need that half cup-o-coffee, pull the stopper out of the Thermos bottle and pour you a half-cup . . .

This not only saves you turning on the gas or connecting your coffee pot each time and having the coffee get stronger and stronger and more bitter, but it's ready in an instant.

This coffee will keep hot for hours and hours. If you have no vacuum bottle, it might pay to buy a small one.

We have had bachelors write that after preparing breakfast now, they pour the leftover coffee in a Thermos and when they come home from work they just unplug the stopper and have a wonderful cup-o-coffee instantly.

Really a great idea for those of you who are coffee friends. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

It finally dawned on me that I could brush our bed springs with liquid floor wax and eliminate the squeaks. Paste wax will do the same thing and probably allows for a much better job, but I didn't have any.

I suggest that women dip their rag in any paste-type wax and run this around all the metal parts where metal scratches against metal, or metal against wood. —Vera N.

Dear Heloise:

When I buy a pound of bacon, I heat my oven at 350 degrees and while the oven is pre-heating I spread the bacon on a "wire" cake rack—just barely "overlapping" each strip of bacon.

I bake this until most of the grease has baked out. Then I set the wire rack "with" the bacon on a large platter or pan until cool.

When cool, I divide the bacon and lay it on sheets of wax paper and put it back in the refrigerator. It will keep a week or so (if your refrigerator is properly regulated) and never get "tacky" when reheated.

Instead of fatty pieces of bacon, which usually pucker, most of the grease will be gone. This is especially good for those who are on diets. —I. P. B.

Dear Heloise:

When having company to dinner and you want baked canned corn in a hurry .... I take a little saucepan and heat the can of creamed corn on "top" of the stove.

I then take a glass casserole dish and put a dab of butter right in the center of the dish. I do not bother spreading the butter around the casserole.

When the corn has heated in the little saucepan, I pour this on top of the butter in the dish thereby allowing the butter to spread around the casserole, saving a greasy messy job.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Coffee Friend:

If you are one of those who like that half-cup-o-coffee during the day but hate to keep heating and reheating that coffee pot because it makes the coffee bitter .... try putting the leftover coffee in a Thermos bottle and capping it as soon as breakfast is over.

This will not only save time later but you can wash the coffee pot while you are doing breakfast dishes and get the kitchen clean and completed all at the same time.

Then when you need that half cup-o-coffee, pull the stopper out of the Thermos bottle and pour you a half-cup . . .

This not only saves you turning on the gas or connecting your coffee pot each time and having the coffee get stronger and stronger and more bitter, but it's ready in an instant.

This coffee will keep hot for hours and hours. If you have no vacuum bottle, it might pay to buy a small one.

We have had bachelors write that after preparing breakfast now, they pour the leftover coffee in a Thermos and when they come home from work they just unplug the stopper and have a wonderful cup-o-coffee instantly.

Really a great idea for those of you who are coffee friends. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

It finally dawned on me that I could brush our bed springs with liquid floor wax and eliminate the squeaks. Paste wax will do the same thing and probably allows for a much better job, but I didn't have any.

I suggest that women dip their rag in any paste-type wax and run this around all the metal parts where metal scratches against metal, or metal against wood. —Vera N.

Dear Heloise:

When I buy a pound of bacon, I heat my oven at 350 degrees and while the oven is pre-heating I spread the bacon on a "wire" cake rack—just barely "overlapping" each strip of bacon.

I bake this until most of the grease has baked out. Then I set the wire rack "with" the bacon on a large platter or pan until cool.

When cool, I divide the bacon and lay it on sheets of wax paper and put it back in the refrigerator. It will keep a week or so (if your refrigerator is properly regulated) and never get "tacky" when reheated.

Instead of fatty pieces of bacon, which usually pucker, most of the grease will be gone. This is especially good for those who are on diets. —I. P. B.

Dear Heloise:

When having company to dinner and you want baked canned corn in a hurry .... I take a little saucepan and heat the can of creamed corn on "top" of the stove.

I then take a glass casserole dish and put a dab of butter right in the center of the dish. I do not bother spreading the butter around the casserole.

When the corn has heated in the little saucepan, I pour this on top of the butter in the dish thereby allowing the butter to spread around the casserole, saving a greasy messy job.

Place this casserole in your oven and let it bake along with your biscuits and roast (or whatever you may have for dinner that night). This can also be varied by sprinkling the top with breadcrumbs or some type of cereal.

Corn, peas, string beans, etc., can be done the same way. always put a little butter on the top of any casserole dish before baking. The purpose is to save time! —Miss Bean Cruse

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Coffee Friend:

If you are one of those who like that half-cup-o-coffee during the day but hate to keep heating and reheating that coffee pot because it makes the coffee bitter ...... try putting the leftover coffee in a Thermos bottle and capping it as soon as breakfast is over.

This will not only save time later but you can wash the coffee pot while you are doing breakfast dishes and get the kitchen clean and completed all at the same time.

Then when you need that half cup-o-coffee, pull the stopper out of the Thermos bottle and pour you a half-cup . . .

This not only saves you turning on the gas or connecting your coffee pot each time and having the coffee get stronger and stronger and more bitter, but it's ready in an instant.

This coffee will keep hot for hours and hours. If you have no vacuum bottle, it might pay to buy a small one.

We have had bachelors write that after preparing breakfast now, they pour the leftover coffee in a Thermos and when they come home from work they just unplug the stopper and have a wonderful cup-o-coffee instantly.

Really a great idea for those of you who are coffee friends. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

It finally dawned on me that I could brush our bed springs with liquid floor wax and eliminate the squeaks. Paste wax will do the same thing and probably allows for a much better job, but I didn't have any.

I suggest that women dip their rag in any paste-type wax and run this around all the metal parts where metal scratches against metal, or metal against wood. —Vera N.

Dear Heloise:

When I buy a pound of bacon, I heat my oven at 350 degrees and while the oven is pre-heating I spread the bacon on a "wire" cake rack—just barely "overlapping" each strip of bacon.

I bake this until most of the grease has baked out. Then I set the wire rack "with" the bacon on a large platter or pan until cool.

When cool, I divide the bacon and lay it on sheets of wax paper and put it back in the refrigerator. It will keep a week or so (if your refrigerator is properly regulated) and never get "tacky" when reheated.

Instead of fatty pieces of bacon, which usually pucker, most of the grease will be gone. This is especially good for those who are on diets. —I. P. B.

Dear Heloise:

When having company to dinner and you want baked canned corn in a hurry ...... I take a little saucepan and heat the can of creamed corn on "top" of the stove.

I then take a glass casserole dish and put a dab of butter right in the center of the dish. I do not bother spreading the butter around the casserole.

When the corn has heated in the little saucepan, I pour this on top of the butter in the dish thereby allowing the butter to spread around the casserole, saving a greasy messy job.

Place this casserole in your oven and let it bake along with your biscuits and roast (or whatever you may have for dinner that night). This can also be varied by sprinkling the top with breadcrumbs or some type of cereal.

Corn, peas, string beans, etc., can be done the same way. always put a little butter on the top of any casserole dish before baking. The purpose is to save time! —Miss Bean Cruse

Seven College Club Begins Talk With Area HS Girls

Members of the Seven College Conference Club of Colorado Springs began their project Monday of sending representatives to area high schools to talk to girls interested in attending one of the colleges in the conference.

The conference represents the following eastern women's colleges: Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Mount Holyoke, Radcliffe, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley.

The group acts as an information center and discusses the academic requirements, available scholarships and campus life in general of the seven liberal arts colleges.

Meeting with girls at Cheyenne Mountain at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday will be Mrs. Lawrence Hecox, Smith College, and Mrs. James H. Donald, Wellesley College.

Mrs. Richard F. Walker, Vassar College, will talk to girls at Manitou Springs High School at 1:20 p.m. Thursday. At 3 p.m. Thursday Mrs. Frank Tucker and Mrs. Mathew B. Wills, both of Mount Holyoke, will talk to girls at the Air Force Academy High.

Mrs. Donald Robb, Wellesley, and Mrs. Hecox will visit Harrison High School next week.

Widefield was visited Monday by Mrs. John Raushenbush, Vassar, and Mrs. Donald Higginbotham, Smith. Visiting Palmer on Monday were Mrs. John F. Gallagher Jr., Radcliffe, and Mrs. William Hochman, Barnard. Today Mrs. R. P. Van Gytenbeek, Barnard, and Mrs. Peter Gulick, Smith, visited with girls at Wasson High School.

The women will answer any questions from students, their parents and their counselors.

New Type of Whale Added to Marineland

PORTUGUESE BEND, Calif. (AP) — What has large sharp teeth, can jump maybe 15 feet high and is a very fast learner?

A pseudorca, of course.

For those unfamiliar with the lore of deep-sea mammals a pseudorca is a whale and Marineland Oceanarium has one.

Named Swifty, the 11-foot-3 inch specimen was captured Oct. 10 off Marineland and already is showing more learning ability than the pilot whales used in the oceanarium's sea circus.

Marineland officials say the pseudorca is an extremely unusual species in the Western Hemisphere. Siwfty is believed to be the first one caught alive in the open ocean.

She's already leaping up to 9 feet for food and is expected to reach 15 any day now.

Black Forest Group Maps Improved Road Program

A program to work toward improved roads in Black Forest was adopted Monday night by the Black Forest Men's Civic Association at its November meeting.

The group decided to send a letter to the county commissioners outlining what it had in mind. One of the commissioners, Charles Smith, former chairman of the board and now road and bridge commissioner, heard the letter read at the meeting.

Smith was there to speak about roads and discuss some of the problems raised in the letter.

The letter and idea about tackling the road program did not begin with the association, but instead with a Great Decisions discussion group that left its main field of study one night and began discussing what problems the Black Forest community has.

That group decided roads and bridges are a common problem in the area with a chance of being settled.

Bob Clark, 228 W. Burgess Rd., was named by the study group to investigate the general question of roads and bridges and report back.

He did, and when the group looked at what it had in the way of Clark's report, it decided that the problem should be taken to some community-wide organization such as the Men's Civic Association.

As a result, Clark was asked to read the letter prepared by the discussion group at the meeting. After discussion, the letter was adopted by the Men's Civic Association which also adopted a program of following up the suggestions in the letter as much as possible.

Clark also was made a member of the association's road and bridge committee.

Some of the points brought up in the meeting were:

1. Widen some roads in Black Forest so that they were all of uniform width.
2. Establish school bus loading areas.
3. Have more equipment stationed in the area.
4. Improve the all-weather surfacing on the roads that now are asphalt covered.
5. Put asphalt covering on more roads.
6. Put in a four-way stop at the intersection of Shoup Road and Black Forest Road.
7. Eliminate blind spots found at some intersections.
8. Widen the bridge about three miles south of Black Forest on Black Forest Road.

Smith answered some of the points in his talk.

The Commission said that there is about 2,000 miles of road in the county that the county must take care of and about 100 communities of various sizes.

He pointed out that he has not yet been over all the roads in the county himself. He said this is the best way for county officials to learn what various communities want in the way of road and bridge service.

He pointed out that some people in Black Forest want more roads black-topped, while others are content to drive a few miles on rough, gravel roads if they then can be sure of having a good black-topped road on into Colorado Springs, or to Interstate Highway 25.

The commissioner said that the county cannot try to do both and that he was interested in seeing those things done which are most wanted in a community.

He confessed that the county actually has no hard long-range program for roads, and explained that this is mostly a problem of money.

The county, in addition to the 2,000 miles of roads, has 237 bridges.

To maintain those roads and bridges and put in new ones when necessary, as well as buy equipment the county has a budget of about $1,500,000, he said.

Smith said that weather is the biggest problem:

1. If gravel roads are too dry, it does little good to try to smooth them with road maintenance equipment.
2. Heavy rains wash out roads and make necessary expensive rebuilding projects.
3. Heavy snows make considerable work and thus cost a great deal.

"Actually, you don't get much for your money, because the snow would go away sooner or later anyhow, but when we send out crews to do the snow removal, we spend your money — and one thing is certain, we have not improved your roads any," Smith said.

4. He also explained that rains, which are so unpredictable in this country, play havoc with road building and road maintenance schedules.

Concerning four-way stops, Smith said that the National Safety Council as recommended against them because people get mixed up in who should pass thru the intersection first after they have stopped and as a result there are many accidents at such locations.

All four-way stops have been removed from El Paso County roads, Smith explained.

Smith conceded that blind corners are a problem, but pointed out that solving such problems is difficult because the property owners do not want to give up any of their land and the problem cannot be cured unless some earth is moved.

The commissioner cited these figures:

1. The average mill levy in El Paso County is about 70 mills.
2. Of the total, about 13 mills go to the county.
3. The county gets about $2.60 for every $1,000 evaluation of a home, and the average home in the county assessed at a valuation of $4,000.
5. Thus each home in the county pays about $10 a year for roads.

He pointed out that a road grading machines, moving dirt or snow on the road in front of a family home soon uses up the $10 that that home paid into the county road fund thru taxes.

He explained that more work is expected to be done in the Black Forest area next year than was done this year, but said he did not know yet what all will be done.

Smith stressed that the work program would likely follow recommendations made by groups of people rather than by single citizens.

High-Riding Steel Keeps Eye on Slowdown Signs

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry is riding high at the moment but keeping a wary eye on signs of a slowdown in construction and the odds on making recent steel price increases stick.

Steel output is back to the level of mid-July before the summer slump really started, largely as an aftermath to a strike-hedging inventory buildup earlier in the year.

Steel plant expansion and modernization plans indicate confidence is high in the industry and, even more, so is determination to cut costs from using obsolete equipment.

And profits of steel companies have bounded back nicely from the 1962 slump.

Most of this year's boosts in prices — covering some two-thirds of total shipments—have held stoutly enough so far. Steel mills report their customers have accepted them as inevitable in times of rising production and increased labor costs.

And the government hasn't reacted as it did a year ago when a steel-price increase was quickly rescinded after administration protests. Summoning of steel company records by a grand jury recently is now generally accepted as an investigation of antitrust law compliance rather than as a protest against price boosts.

But the strength of the recent increases depends on continued high demand by steel users — auto makers, construction, consumer durable goods.

The auto makers are very busy, and the market there seems assured for the immediate future. Consumer durable goods also have been selling well, and consumers still seem in a buying mood.

Construction also has been pushing higher—until just recently. Some steel executives feel that the trend there may determine their own prospects.

Census Bureau's figures show construction spending down a little in October from September and August. But it is still running at an annual rate of around $66.5 billion.

Steelmen hope it stays that way. But such construction materials as concrete, glass, aluminum and plastics still hold a much larger share of the market steel once dominated than steel officials like.

And that puts a cautious damper on some of the enthusiasm that recent steel profit gains generated.

Polio Vaccine Distribution Dates Set

The Sabin polio vaccine which will be given thruout El Paso County in a medical society community campaign Nov. 17, Jan. 5 and Feb. 16 is the only polio immunization recognized by the Army, it was pointed out at Ft. Carson.

Lt. Col. Martin A. Pfotenhauer, Carson U. S. Army Hospital commander, made this statement in urging all-out support of the civilian community in the county medical society drive to knock-out polio thru Sabin vaccine.

Military personnel and their dependents may take the Sabin sugar-cube dosages any time during regular hours of the immunization clinic at the Ft. Carson hospital. This clinic is open daily from 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Sabin vaccine immunization is required for Army personnel going overseas and is a routine immunization to all babies along with the new measles vaccine.

Col. Pfotenhauer said 61,510 sugar cubes were given to those reporting to special clinics held last spring in addition to those given at the hospital's regular clinics.

While the vaccine is offered daily at Ft. Carson, military and their dependents unable to use this service are urged to participate in the community KO-Polio program.

Local Jaycees Win State Award

The Pikes Peak Pops Concerts this summer have won the State Jaycee Joe Siccardi Award for the Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The award is presented to state Jaycee chapters for producing the outstanding community project during a four-month period in the year.

The local chapter was awarded the honor for the second quarter of 1963. It was presented to Jack Williams, president of the local organization at the fall conference of the state organization held at Sterling Springs.

This marks the first time that the local chapter has won the award which is named for a former state Jaycee president.

Skyway People Vote to Join District 12

Residents of a small section west of Skyway will send their children to the Cheyenne Mountain Schools as the result of a special election held there Monday.

Officials of District 11, which conducted the election, said residents voted to leave District 11 in favor of District 12.

A. C. Erickson, District 11 secretary, said that voting was light in the special election.

He said the proposal to switch school districts was carried by a vote of 14 to 4. Erickson said it was felt that the change will make a better situation for the students involved since most live closer to District 12 schools.

Black Forest Group Maps Improved Road Program

A program to work toward improved roads in Black Forest was adopted Monday night by the Black Forest Men's Civic Association at its November meeting.

The group decided to send a letter to the county commissioners outlining what it had in mind. One of the commissioners, Charles Smith, former chairman of the board and now road and bridge commissioner, heard the letter read at the meeting.

Smith was there to speak about roads and discuss some of the problems raised in the letter.

The letter and idea about tackling the road program did not begin with the association, but instead with a Great Decisions discussion group that left its main field of study one night and began discussing what problems the Black Forest community has.

That group decided roads and bridges are a common problem in the area with a chance of being settled.

Bob Clark, 228 W. Burgess Rd., was named by the study group to investigate the general question of roads and bridges and report back.

He did, and when the group looked at what it had in the way of Clark's report, it decided that the problem should be taken to some community-wide organization such as the Men's Civic Association.

As a result, Clark was asked to read the letter prepared by the discussion group at the meeting. After discussion, the letter was adopted by the Men's Civic Association which also adopted a program of following up the suggestions in the letter as much as possible.

Clark also was made a member of the association's road and bridge committee.

Some of the points brought up in the meeting were:

1. Widen some roads in Black Forest so that they were all of uniform width.

2. Establish school bus loading areas.

3. Have more equipment stationed in the area.

4. Improve the all-weather surfacing on the roads that now are asphalt covered.

5. Put asphalt covering on more roads.

6. Put in a four-way stop at the intersection of Shoup Road and Black Forest Road.

7. Eliminate blind spots found at some intersections.

8. Widen the bridge about three miles south of Black Forest on Black Forest Road.

Smith answered some of the points in his talk.

The Commission said that there is about 2,000 miles of road in the county that the county must take care of and about 100 communities of various sizes.

He pointed out that he has not yet been over all the roads in the county himself. He said this is the best way for county officials to learn what various communities want in the way of road and bridge service.

He pointed out that some people in Black Forest want more roads black-topped, while others are content to drive a few miles on rough, gravel roads if they then can be sure of having a good black-topped road on into Colorado Springs, or to Interstate Highway 25.

The commissioner said that the county cannot try to do both and that he was interested in seeing those things done which are most wanted in a community.

He confessed that the county actually has no hard long-range program for roads, and explained that this is mostly a problem of money.

The county, in addition to the 2,000 miles of roads, has 237 bridges.

To maintain those roads and bridges and put in new ones when necessary, as well as buy equipment the county has a budget of about $1,500,000, he said.

Smith said that weather is the biggest problem:

1. If gravel roads are too dry, it does little good to try to smooth them with road maintenance equipment.

2. Heavy rains wash out roads and make necessary expensive rebuilding projects.

3. Heavy snows make considerable work and thus cost a great deal.

"Actually, you don't get much for your money, because the snow would go away sooner or later anyhow, but when we send out crews to do the snow removal, we spend your money — and one thing is certain, we have not improved your roads any," Smith said.

4. He also explained that rains, which are so unpredictable in this country, play havoc with road building and road maintenance schedules.

Concerning four-way stops, Smith said that the National Safety Council as recommended against them because people get mixed up in who should pass thru the intersection first after they have stopped and as a result there are many accidents at such locations.

All four-way stops have been removed from El Paso County roads, Smith explained.

Smith conceded that blind corners are a problem, but pointed out that solving such problems is difficult because the property owners do not want to give up any of their land and the problem cannot be cured unless some earth is moved.

The commissioner cited these figures:

1. The average mill levy in El Paso County is about 70 mills.

2. Of the total, about 13 mills go to the county.

3. The county gets about $2.60 for every $1,000 evaluation of a home, and the average home in the county assessed at a valuation of $4,000.

5. Thus each home in the county pays about $10 a year for roads.

He pointed out that a road grading machines, moving dirt or snow on the road in front of a family home soon uses up the $10 that that home paid into the county road fund thru taxes.

He explained that more work is expected to be done in the Black Forest area next year than was done this year, but said he did not know yet what all will be done.

Smith stressed that the work program would likely follow recommendations made by groups of people rather than by single citizens.

High-Riding Steel Keeps Eye on Slowdown Signs

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry is riding high at the moment but keeping a wary eye on signs of a slowdown in construction and the odds on making recent steel price increases stick.

Steel output is back to the level of mid-July before the summer slump really started, largely as an aftermath to a strike-hedging inventory buildup earlier in the year.

Steel plant expansion and modernization plans indicate confidence is high in the industry and, even more, so is determination to cut costs from using obsolete equipment.

And profits of steel companies have bounded back nicely from the 1962 slump.

Most of this year's boosts in prices — covering some two-thirds of total shipments—have held stoutly enough so far. Steel mills report their customers have accepted them as inevitable in times of rising production and increased labor costs.

And the government hasn't reacted as it did a year ago when a steel price increase was quickly rescinded after administration protests. Summoning of steel company records by a grand jury recently is now generally accepted as an investigation of antitrust law compliance rather than as a protest against price boosts.

But the strength of the recent increases depends on continued high demand by steel users — auto makers, construction, consumer durable goods.

The auto makers are very busy, and the market there seems assured for the immediate future. Consumer durable goods also have been selling well, and consumers still seem in a buying mood.

Construction also has been pushing higher—until just recently. Some steel executives feel that the trend there may determine their own prospects.

Census Bureau's figures show construction spending down a little in October from September and August. But it is still running at an annual rate of around $66.5 billion.

Steelmen hope it stays that way. But such construction materials as concrete, glass, aluminum and plastics still hold a much larger share of the market steel once dominated than steel officials like.

And that puts a cautious damper on some of the enthusiasm that recent steel profit gains generated.

Polio Vaccine Distribution Dates Set

The Sabin polio vaccine which will be given thruout El Paso County in a medical society community campaign Nov. 17, Jan. 5 and Feb. 16 is the only polio immunization recognized by the Army, it was pointed out at Ft. Carson.

Lt. Col. Martin A. Pfotenhauer, Carson U. S. Army Hospital commander, made this statement in urging all-out support of the civilian community in the county medical society drive to knock-out polio thru Sabin vaccine.

Military personnel and their dependents may take the Sabin sugar-cube dosages any time during regular hours of the immunization clinic at the Ft. Carson hospital. This clinic is open daily from 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Sabin vaccine immunization is required for Army personnel going overseas and is a routine immunization to all babies along with the new measles vaccine.

Col. Pfotenhauer said 61,510 sugar cubes were given to those reporting to special clinics held last spring in addition to those given at the hospital's regular clinics.

While the vaccine is offered daily at Ft. Carson, military and their dependents unable to use this service are urged to participate in the community KO-Polio program.

Skyway People Vote to Join District 12

Residents of a small section west of Skyway will send their children to the Cheyenne Mountain Schools as the result of a special election held there Monday.

Officials of District 11, which conducted the election, said residents voted to leave District 11 in favor of District 12.

A. C. Erickson, District 11 secretary, said that voting was light in the special election.

He said the proposal to switch school districts was carried by a vote of 14 to 4. Erickson said it was felt that the change will make a better situation for the students involved since most live closer to District 12 schools.

Black Forest Group Maps Improved Road Program

A program to work toward improved roads in Black Forest was adopted Monday night by the Black Forest Men's Civic Association at its November meeting.

The group decided to send a letter to the county commissioners outlining what it had in mind. One of the commissioners, Charles Smith, former chairman of the board and now road and bridge commissioner, heard the letter read at the meeting.

Smith was there to speak about roads and discuss some of the problems raised in the letter.

The letter and idea about tackling the road program did not begin with the association, but instead with a Great Decisions discussion group that left its main field of study one night and began discussing what problems the Black Forest community has.

That group decided roads and bridges are a common problem in the area with a chance of being settled.

Bob Clark, 228 W. Burgess Rd., was named by the study group to investigate the general question of roads and bridges and report back.

He did, and when the group looked at what it had in the way of Clark's report, it decided that the problem should be taken to some community-wide organization such as the Men's Civic Association.

As a result, Clark was asked to read the letter prepared by the discussion group at the meeting. After discussion, the letter was adopted by the Men's Civic Association which also adopted a program of following up the suggestions in the letter as much as possible.

Clark also was made a member of the association's road and bridge committee.

Some of the points brought up in the meeting were:

1. Widen some roads in Black Forest so that they were all of uniform width.
2. Establish school bus loading areas.
3. Have more equipment stationed in the area.
4. Improve the all-weather surfacing on the roads that now are asphalt covered.
5. Put asphalt covering on more roads.
6. Put in a four-way stop at the intersection of Shoup Road and Black Forest Road.
7. Eliminate blind spots found at some intersections.
8. Widen the bridge about three miles south of Black Forest on Black Forest Road.

Smith answered some of the points in his talk.

The Commission said that there is about 2,000 miles of road in the county that the county must take care of and about 100 communities of various sizes.

He pointed out that he has not yet been over all the roads in the county himself. He said this is the best way for county officials to learn what various communities want in the way of road and bridge service.

He pointed out that some people in Black Forest want more roads black-topped, while others are content to drive a few miles on rough, gravel roads if they then can be sure of having a good black-topped road on into Colorado Springs, or to Interstate Highway 25.

The commissioner said that the county cannot try to do both and that he was interested in seeing those things done which are most wanted in a community.

He confessed that the county actually has no hard long-range program for roads, and explained that this is mostly a problem of money.

The county, in addition to the 2,000 miles of roads, has 237 bridges.

To maintain those roads and bridges and put in new ones when necessary, as well as buy equipment the county has a budget of about $1,500,000, he said.

Smith said that weather is the biggest problem:

1. If gravel roads are too dry, it does little good to try to smooth them with road maintenance equipment.
2. Heavy rains wash out roads and make necessary expensive rebuilding projects.
3. Heavy snows make considerable work and thus cost a great deal.

"Actually, you don't get much for your money, because the snow would go away sooner or later anyhow, but when we send out crews to do the snow removal, we spend your money — and one thing is certain, we have not improved your roads any," Smith said.

4. He also explained that rains, which are so unpredictable in this country, play havoc with road building and road maintenance schedules.

Concerning four-way stops, Smith said that the National Safety Council as recommended against them because people get mixed up in who should pass thru the intersection first after they have stopped and as a result there are many accidents at such locations.

All four-way stops have been removed from El Paso County roads, Smith explained.

Smith conceded that blind corners are a problem, but pointed out that solving such problems is difficult because the property owners do not want to give up any of their land and the problem cannot be cured unless some earth is moved.

The commissioner cited these figures:

1. The average mill levy in El Paso County is about 70 mills.
2. Of the total, about 13 mills go to the county.
3. The county gets about $2.60 for every $1,000 evaluation of a home, and the average home in the county assessed at a valuation of $4,000.
5. Thus each home in the county pays about $10 a year for roads.

He pointed out that a road grading machines, moving dirt or snow on the road in front of a family home soon uses up the $10 that that home paid into the county road fund thru taxes.

He explained that more work is expected to be done in the Black Forest area next year than was done this year, but said he did not know yet what all will be done.

Smith stressed that the work program would likely follow recommendations made by groups of people rather than by single citizens.

High-Riding Steel Keeps Eye on Slowdown Signs

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry is riding high at the moment but keeping a wary eye on signs of a slowdown in construction and the odds on making recent steel price increases stick.

Steel output is back to the level of mid-July before the summer slump really started, largely as an aftermath to a strike-hedging inventory buildup earlier in the year.

Steel plant expansion and modernization plans indicate confidence is high in the industry and, even more, so is determination to cut costs from using obsolete equipment.

And profits of steel companies have bounded back nicely from the 1962 slump.

Most of this year's boosts in prices — covering some two-thirds of total shipments—have held stoutly enough so far. Steel mills report their customers have accepted them as inevitable in times of rising production and increased labor costs.

And the government hasn't reacted as it did a year ago when a steel price increase was quickly rescinded after administration protests. Summoning of steel company records by a grand jury recently is now generally accepted as an investigation of antitrust law compliance rather than as a protest against price boosts.

But the strength of the recent increases depends on continued high demand by steel users — auto makers, construction, consumer durable goods.

The auto makers are very busy, and the market there seems assured for the immediate future. Consumer durable goods also have been selling well, and consumers still seem in a buying mood.

Construction also has been pushing higher—until just recently. Some steel executives feel that the trend there may determine their own prospects.

Census Bureau's figures show construction spending down a little in October from September and August. But it is still running at an annual rate of around $66.5 billion.

Steelmen hope it stays that way. But such construction materials as concrete, glass, aluminum and plastics still hold a much larger share of the market steel once dominated than steel officials like.

And that puts a cautious damper on some of the enthusiasm that recent steel profit gains generated.

Polio Vaccine Distribution Dates Set

The Sabin polio vaccine which will be given thruout El Paso County in a medical society community campaign Nov. 17, Jan. 5 and Feb. 16 is the only polio immunization recognized by the Army, it was pointed out at Ft. Carson.

Lt. Col. Martin A. Pfotenhauer, Carson U. S. Army Hospital commander, made this statement in urging all-out support of the civilian community in the county medical society drive to knock-out polio thru Sabin vaccine.

Military personnel and their dependents may take the Sabin sugar-cube dosages any time during regular hours of the immunization clinic at the Ft. Carson hospital. This clinic is open daily from 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Sabin vaccine immunization is required for Army personnel going overseas and is a routine immunization to all babies along with the new measles vaccine.

Col. Pfotenhauer said 61,510 sugar cubes were given to those reporting to special clinics held last spring in addition to those given at the hospital's regular clinics.

While the vaccine is offered daily at Ft. Carson, military and their dependents unable to use this service are urged to participate in the community KO-Polio program.

Skyway People Vote to Join District 12

Residents of a small section west of Skyway will send their children to the Cheyenne Mountain Schools as the result of a special election held there Monday.

Officials of District 11, which conducted the election, said residents voted to leave District 11 in favor of District 12.

A. C. Erickson, District 11 secretary, said that voting was light in the special election.

He said the proposal to switch school districts was carried by a vote of 14 to 4. Erickson said it was felt that the change will make a better situation for the students involved since most live closer to District 12 schools.

ONE OF THOSE DAYS

MIAMI (AP) — Tom Myers' shopping center department store had booming business the other day as a result of a series of incidents which brought attention to the store. Myers said he could have done without them.

They included: a boy running through a glass door, police arriving when a shoplifter got away, capture of a second shop-lifter, and finally, arrival of fire-fighting units because of a haze which filled the store. They found the haze caused by hot moist air entering the building and mixing with the dry air conditioned air.

Ideas Sought For Developing Shale Lands

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Department of Interior Monday asked for public suggestions on how to develop shale lands in the West containing an estimated 500 billion barrels of oil.

Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall called for public suggestions in a statement. He said the department needed them for help in "formulation of a program to foster the orderly conservation and development of the vast federally owned oil shale deposits in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

"These oil shale lands are estimated to contain more than 500 billion barrels of oil in place. These federal deposits, together with deposits of other ownerships, are the largest known untapped energy source of the country."

The shale lands were withdrawn from mineral leasing in 1930. Since that time, experiments have been limited to shale from private lands and under a small government research and development program at Rifle, Colo. In 1962, however, Congress authorized the department to lease the Rifle plant for non-federal experimentation. Negotiations for such lease are in progress with the Colorado School of Mines Research Foundation.

Udall said there was "rekindled interest in industry and the public for shale development. He said the department recognized the value of the resource and the need for its development.

"Above all, however," he said, "we recognize the need for the formulation of an orderly and equitable program which the benefits that would flow from conservation and development of the resource can be realized.

"Public discussion and governmental consideration of ways of handling federal oil shale deposits should consider carefully the relationship of oil shale to coal, petroleum, natural gas, hydropower, atomic energy and other sources of energy, both domestically and in relation to international affairs.

"These are matters which the Department of the Interior must discuss with other departments of government, and which should be considered on a policy level by Congress."

NATO Chief Warns Against Red Plotting

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP) —NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker warned today against hopes that Russia's quarrel with Communist China will eventually lead to Soviet alignment with the West.

Addressing NATO's ninth annual parliamentary conference, Stikker told the alliance Moscow and Peking still aim at spreading communism throughout the world, although "communism now speaks with two voices."

However, the former Dutch foreign minister said the rift between the two Communist powers seems likely to continue. He said it is "much more than ideological." China regards Russia as "almost a Western and white nation which is refusing to help China at the sacrifice of its own growth," he said.

Stikker also said nationalism is threatening the Western Alliance in a similar way.

With France apparently in mind, Stikker said some NATO members "hold firmly to the line that they must retain full national control of their armed forces, and that integration beyond a limited degree is not compatible with the exercise of the responsibilities of sovereign governments."

Atlantic partnership and European union are complementary, not competitive ideas, he said.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, NATO's supreme commander in Europe, told the conferees they must maintain NATO forces at full strength to expand the chances of peace.

The American general said the limited nuclear test-ban agreement has not reduced the urgent need for NATO defense.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Five years of research at Michigan State University have indicated that irrigation makes no difference in the yield or the quality of apples. Since the deep root system of apple trees allows them to get moisture even during periods of of dry weather, the university's researchists concluded that "a fruit grower cannot afford to install an irrigation system for apples alone. In fact, using equipment already in operation for other crops may be questionable."

'No Man Is the Equal of Any Other Man' Noted Texas Biochemist Says

No man is the equal of any other man in the view of a leading biochemist from the University of Texas who is speaking at the Freedom School this week.

He is Dr. Roger J. Williams, who has been the director of the Clayton Foundation Biochemical Institute at the University since 1941.

The professor has spent a life time studying, teaching and researching biochemistry, and has thrown in a lot of thought and research on the human side of the problem.

The Freedom School has as a project a phrontistery for the intensive study of freedom which opened this week and will continue thru April. Dr. Williams is one of the professional educators who has been invited to deliver a series of lectures.

In his studies, the professor has concluded that biochemically and every other way every human is different, even tho they may look alike superficially.

He explained in an interview Sunday night at the school that each person is different anatomatically, neurologically, endocrinologically, biochemically, and psychologically.

The professor has been a pioneer in his field, perhaps as much a pioneer as the original Roger Williams of American history, who established in 1636 the Providence Plantations after being forced to leave the Massachusetts Bay Colony. His plantations became the state of Rhode Island.

The professor is the discoverer of pantothenic acid (one of the B vitamins) which is required in the machinery of all oxygen-using organisms.

He also did pioneer work on folic acid, and named it. It is another B vitamin that is used in the treatment of anemias.

At the Clayton Institute, more vitamins and their variants have been discovered than in any other laboratory in the world.

The professor was the first biochemist to be elected president of the American Chemical Society, which now has about 100,000 members and has received the Mead Johnson award of the American Institute of Nutrition.

Williams is a firm believer about the individuality of each person and his belief is backed up with facts acquired during his long career in biochemistry.

He is a good example of his own theory, having a great interest in literature as well as his chosen field of study, and a co-existing interest in people.

Most natural scientists are not expected to make a large impact in the social science fields — in fact many of them are accused of not being interested at all in the human consequences of their work, and thus they are believed to have helped cause a breach between the two areas of scholarly research.

So now did Williams, a natural scientist and a leader in his field, get interested in social science?

He was born in India in 1893 and perhaps picked up an early interest in social betterment from the compassion his parents had for mankind, as they were Baptist missionaries there.

DR. ROGER J. WILLIAMS

After acquiring a bachelor of science degree from the University of Redlands in California, and his M. S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago, he began a teaching career which took him to the University of Oregon, Oregon State University, and the University of Texas.

But it was a walk he took in the northern California mountains with a brother-in-law that started him contemplating the individuality of humans.

He asked his brother-in-law, a social science teacher, "What are the problems of social science?"

He was looking for some logical questions to which answers might be found; the kind that natural scientists like to tackle.

When his brother-in-law wasn't sure what the problems were, Williams began thinking.

I am a human and interested in human beings," he explained, and eventually he came to the conclusion that the weak spot in social science is the failure to understand honest to goodness people.

Naturally, he viewed people from his place in life as a biochemist and investigation showed that no man is the equal biochemically of any other and this for him portended great impact on the social life of humans.

Williams is the kind of a man who can say with a twinkle in his eye, "The proof of the pudding is in the eating and in the subsequent metabolic effects," and mean what he says.

When he looks at the metabolic effects of the pudding, he does not expect the results to be the same in any two people. Because he knows the effect will be different, he prefers to think of people as the study of individual persons, not mankind in general.

A little key to what the professor is talking about is found in a book, "Nutrition in a Nutshell," which tells a reader a lot more about his own nutritional problems than he probably knew before — facts he ought to know — and does it in words that he can understand. In the book Williams points out that each individual has his own nutritional problems.

Two other books may be time bombs planted in the field of social science.

They are "The Human Frontier," and "Free and Unequal," which discuss the biological basis of individual liberty.

The facts that he discussed in those books, that no man is remotely the equal of any other man, and vice versa, regardless of how you look at them, have not yet become popular as Darwin's theories did about 100 years ago and as Einstein's theories are becoming.

When they do, and it may be 10 or 12 years yet, they are quite likely to go off like an exploding bomb.

The hard facts about people that Williams and other biochemists have and are determining are the truth and will have to be faced.

Regardless of a man's political or religious views, the facts are valid and a man will have to face them, said Williams, who pointed out that he is not a student of politics nor active in politics.

What Williams has learned in a life-time of study and reflection about people and each man's individuality will be discussed by him thru the week under the theme "The basis of our love of liberty is biological."

Thieves Break Into Two Cars During Weekend

Two cases of larceny were reported to the sheriff's office Monday.

The first happened on the highway just outside Gate 20, Ft. Carson when a car belonging to Sgt. Joseph Lewis was broken into and a tire, wheel, GI clothing and other items worth a total of $400 stolen.

Deputy Sheriff Don Smith said the vehicle broke down on Saturday and Sgt. Lewis went to get it Sunday and found someone had broken into the trunk.

The second incident took place in the parking lot at the Las Vegas Club.

According to Deputy Sheriff Ray Carey, Barbara Junod of 708 Manitou Blvd. left a guitar worth $55 in a locked car Monday night. When she returned she discovered the door had been forced and the guitar taken. Nothing else was disturbed.

The missing instrument is a German make, Horer, flat box, two-tone blond mahogany and brown with a six point star on the box.

Hatch Company Victim in One of Six Burglaries

A burglary at Hatch and Co., netted thieves a movie camera, two radios and an electric shaver in one of six thefts reported by the Colorado Springs Police Dept., this morning.

Police officers R. D. Anderson and R. C. Ballard said the thieves entered the store, which is located at 28 S. Tejon St., sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning.

Entry was gained by removing an air conditioner from a window. After removing the items from the store, the thieves replaced the damaged air conditioner.

The loss and damage was estimated at over $340, police said.

Anthony Benjamin Cisneros, 517 Yellowstone Rd., told police that clothing, jewelry and a rifle worth a total of $505 were stolen from his home between Oct. 26 and Nov. 3.

Cisneros said he and his wife were out of the state when the theft occurred. There was no sign of forced entry to the home, police said. Officers started investigating the theft after Cisneros reported it Monday evening.

A car was stolen from Delmar Clyde Jones, 2903 Prospect St., Monday evening. The 1960 model car was parked at the rear of Jones' home and was unlocked when the theft occurred.

Thieves who stayed in the Chief Theater after closing time Monday broke into a cigaret machine and a nut machine and stole an unknown amount of change, police said. The theft was discovered by a janitor early this morning.

A strip film projector and a portable phonograph were stolen from the Buena Vista School, 1620 W. Bijou St., between Friday afternoon and Monday morning. The value of the itms, which are owned by School District 11, has not been determined. The principal of the school, Phillip J. VanPelt, reported the theft.

Al Sherman, owner of Sherman's Mobil Service Station, 306 N. Nevada Ave., told officers that $50 in cash was taken from a desk drawer in his station Monday afternoon. Sherman left the station for a few minutes to pick up a sandwich he had ordered and when he returned, he discovered the theft.

Assault Charge Filed Against Local Man

A charge of assault with a deadly weapon was filed in District Court Monday against Robert D. Walker, 25, of the Rodeo Court, 3024 N. Nevada Ave.

According to information the defendant attacked Don L. Page with a .22 caliber pistol, Saturday.

A sheriff's report said Walker is at present on parole out of Kansas City for armed robbery. The report also said Walker became involved in an argument at Rodeo Court with another man and Page, the manager and Buck Jones, assistant manager, went to investigate.

"It was then, according to the report, that Walker produced the pistol and held it to Page's head but Jones managed to wrest it from him.

District Judge Hunter D. Hardeman set bond at $2,500.

Mass Polio Immunization Scheduled Here

If you are under three months of age the K-O Polio Sundays are not for you. But if you are anywhere from three months to 112 there's a sugar cube containing vaccine in your future.

This is the word from Dr. William F. Stone, chairman of the Public Health Committee of the El Paso County Medical Society, which will conduct mass immunizations against polio beginning with type I serum on November 17.

"This is the only mass vaccination program that should ever be needed against this dread disease. Once the entire community is vaccinated with the live Sabin vaccine the threat of polio will be permanently eliminated.

Routine innoculation of infants as they reach three months of age will assure continued protection against polio for the entire community," Dr. Stone said.

Polio clinics will be located in public grade schools in Colorado Springs, Widefield, Harrison, Cheyenne Mountain, Manitou, and Air Academy School Districts; high schools in Fountain, Monument, Ellicott, Falcon, Edison, Miami-Yoder, Woodland Park, Calhan and Cripple Creek. Complete lists will be published Sunday, Nov. 17.

El Paso, Teller, Fremont and Pueblo Counties are among the last in Colorado to condut the mass immunization. World wide, 70 million doses of Sabrin vaccine have been administered proving the safety and effectiveness of the vaccine, Dr. Stone reported.

The local Medical Society is prepared to administer 125,000 doses in each K-O Polio Sunday in El Paso and Teller Counties. Pueblo and Fremont County Societies have similar plans. Residents may pay 25 cents per dose to offset costs of the program. There will be no charge for those who cannot afford the quarter.

'Brick and Mortar' Drive Set for Hospital Campaign

"We have everything but the brick and mortar," Sister Erhada, superintendant of St. Francis Hospital, said describing the well-equipped buildings at 800 East Pikes Peak Avenue.

Tuesday morning a group of young businessmen met to launch a clean-up campaign to provide the "brick and mortar."

"We are facing the same thing all businesses eventually face, obsolescence," Dr. Vernon Bolton, chairman of the planning committee for the Hospital drive said.

The workers who will call on some 100 local businessmen in the closing phase of public solicitation are headed by Milo Yalich, assistant cashier of the Central Colorado Bank and Peter Van Gytenbeek, manager of Kistler Office Supply.

Object of the campaign is a new hospital building and remodeling project for one of the older buildings. The project is in a top priority rating for federal matching funds.

To date over $525,000 has been raised. Of this amount $140,000 came from physicians and $150,000 from the El Pomar Foundation.

The clean-up campaign is expected to yield another $200,000. While this drive, which is seeking five year pledges, will complete the public solicitation, hospital officials will continue to seek support from corporations and foundations.

The new building will cost an estimated $3,250,000. It will be opened to bids in January or February. The community must provide approximately one half of this amount with federal funds making up the difference.

Dr. Bolton explained that maintenance and organization have reached the point in the old building where "it's like throwing water down a rat hole."

Dr. Bolton described the Sisters of St. Francis as "A true charitable organization, dedicated to service almost to their own detriment."

This is the first and only major fund drive ever held for St. Francis since it was built 75 years ago to meet the needs of the railroad employees."

The new hospital will enable the community to keep a step ahead of the need for beds. Dr. Bolton pointed out that the community now needs every hospital bed. The future growth of the community is inevitable making it essential that the hospital is built before the old building is no longer serviceable at all.

Drive officials hope to have the clean-up phase of the campaign completed before November 22 when a meeting of state officials will determine the distribution of Hill Burton funds for the coming year.

NO SUGAR BABY—Dr. Cyrus Partington places two drops of Sabin oral vaccine in his baby's mouth to demonstrate the method to be used in administering the polio serum to infants who are too young to swallow a sugar cube. Little Ellen Catherine is exactly three months old, the minimum age at which the vaccine will be given. There is no maximum age limit. K-O Polio Sunday, November 17, is the day on which the oral serum will be administered to everyone in the Pikes Peak Region who stops at one of the 51 clinic sites.

Argentine Cadets To Visit AFA This Week

Altho separated by more than 5,000 miles, the Air Force academies of Argentina and the U.S. have one very important thing in common — their mission of graduating career officers to serve in the air arms of their countries.

The common goals of the Argentine and U.S. cadets, and the wide differences of the young men from the two service schools, will be vividly underlined Wednesday thru Sunday when 75 South American cadets visit the Air Force Academy.

During their busy stay, Argentine cadets will "room" with their hosts in Vandenberg Hall, the cadet form, and attend classes and athletic training.

The visiting cadets, accompanied by Col. Hugo Martinez Zuviria, commandant of their school, and 15 staff and faculty members, will receive full military honors Wednesday upon their arrival at Harmon Hall.

Officers traveling with the Argentine cadets will receive briefings on the Academy and will meet top officers. They will also be guests of the Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong Jr. at a dinner Thursday night.

Cadet Wing Commander James C. Ingram will officially greet cadet visitors.

In addition to touring Academy facilities, the visitors will tour NORAD Thursday afternoon.

A soccer match between the two schools is tentatively scheduled for Friday afternoon.

Prior to attending Saturday's Academy-UCLA football game, the Argentinians will receive a special "chalk-talk" briefing on the weird and wonderful sport from Maj. Jaime Z. Berdecio, Bolivian Air Force officer assigned to the faculty as Spanish instructor.

Aim of the visit is to repay the extraordinary hospitality afforded Academy cadets during summer field trip stops at the Argentine school.

AFA Cadet Choir To Be Heard on Catholic Program

The Air Force Academy Catholic Cadet Choir will this week record a special presentation of religious music for one of the most widely heard radio programs in the U. S.

Under the direction of Edmund Ladouceur, assistant academy organist and choirmaster, the choir will sing some 10 selections for the Sacred Heart Hour, a program sponsored by the Jesuit Order of the Catholic Church and carried by radio stations in all parts of the U. S. and to military personnel overseas thru the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service.

The Choir will sing the official Air Force hymn, "Lord, Guard and Guide the Men Who Fly," a special arrangement of "Rejoice Ye Pure in Heart" by Ladouceur, "Holy God We Praise Thy Name," a 15th century hymn "O Bone Jesu," and other selections.

Ladouceur will accompany the choir on the Catholic chapel organ.

CC Developing New Approach to Teacher Training

A new approach to teacher training is being developed at Colorado College where candidates for high school certification in German are doing half of their practice teaching in elementary courses at the college.

The program was introduced by Dr. Thomas O. Brandt, professor and chairman of the department of German and Russian at the college. He developed the program in cooperation with the college's education department.

Students seeking high school certification in German at Colorado College spend one semester practice teaching in a Colorado Springs high school and one semester at the college. In each case, they spend two hours a week in the classroom as teachers, or as tutors of small groups, plus additional hours as observers.

Advantages of the system are that the student-teachers spend a part of their practice under the supervision of college professors in the field, and that it provides actual college teaching experience for seniors who may become teaching assistants in graduate school while working toward advanced degrees.

Colorado College offers no major in education. Students seeking certification to become high school or grammar school teachers, must take their major in a regular academic subject.

The emphasis on academic subjects is designed to strengthen the college's teacher training program, which turned out 100 certified teachers in various academic fields during the past year.

The program at present is open only to students majoring in German, and they must be seniors. Students majoring in German at Colorado College are required to take 38 semester credit hours in the language and literature.

Practice teachers are not permitted to teach grammar or to lecture. In class, they conduct conversation and drills and make translations. In addition, they hold discussions with college faculty members, help grade student papers, make out lesson plans, and prepare final reports at the end of the semester.

Two students are practice teaching in freshman German classes this semester at the college. Two others are practice teaching at a local high school. During the second semester those at the college will teach at a high school and those at the high school will teach at the college.

Teaching this semester at Colorado College are Susan Heidel of 3829 Woods Dr. Des Moines, Iowa, and Rebecca Holden of 262 Brookside, Wichita, Kan.

Practice teaching this semester at Wasson High School are Frances K. Fries of 413 Carson, Brush, and Mrs. Donna Singleton of 917 N. Nevada Ave. in Colorado Springs. Mrs. Singleton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hampton of 5920 Dearborn Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.

Mass Polio Immunization Scheduled Here

If you are under three months of age the K-O Polio Sundays are not for you. But if you are anywhere from three months to 112 there's a sugar cube containing vaccine in your future.

This is the word from Dr. William F. Stone, chairman of the Public Health Committee of the El Paso County Medical Society, which will conduct mass immunizations against polio beginning with type I serum on November 17.

"This is the only mass vaccination program that should ever be needed against this dread disease. Once the entire community is vaccinated with the live Sabin vaccine the threat of polio will be permanently eliminated.

Routine innoculation of infants as they reach three months of age will assure continued protection against polio for the entire community." Dr. Stone said.

Polio clinics will be located in public grade schools in Colorado Springs, Widefield, Harrison, Cheyenne Mountain, Manitou, and Air Academy School Districts; high schools in Fountain, Monument, Ellicott, Falcon, Edison, Miami-Yoder, Woodland Park, Calhan and Cripple Creek. Complete lists will be published Sunday, Nov. 17.

El Paso, Teller, Fremont and Pueblo Counties are among the last in Colorado to condut the mass immunization. World wide, 70 million doses of Sabrin vaccine have been administered proving the safety and effectiveness of the vaccine, Dr. Stone reported.

The local Medical Society is prepared to administer 125,000 doses in each K-O Polio Sunday in El Paso and Teller Counties. Pueblo and Fremont County Socities have similar plans. Residents may pay 25 cents per dose to offset costs of the program. There will be no charge for those who cannot afford the quarter.

NO SUGAR BABY—Dr. Cyrus Partington places two drops of Sabin oral vaccine in his baby's mouth to demonstrate the method to be used in administering the polio serum to infants who are too young to swallow a sugar cube. Little Ellen Catherine is exactly three months old, the minimum age at which the vaccine will be given. There is no maximum age limit. K-O Polio Sunday, November 17, is the day on which the oral serum will be administered to everyone in the Pikes Peak Region who stops at one of the 51 clinic sites.

'Brick and Mortar' Drive Set for Hospital Campaign

"We have everything but the brick and mortar," Sister Erhada, superintendant of St. Francis Hospital, said describing the well-equipped buildings at 800 East Pikes Peak Avenue.

Tuesday morning a group of young businessmen met to launch a clean-up campaign to provide the "brick and mortar."

"We are facing the same thing all businesses eventually face, obsolescence," Dr. Vernon Bolton, chairman of the planning committee for the Hospital drive said.

The workers who will call on some 100 local businessmen in the closing phase of public solicitation are headed by Milo Yalich, assistant cashier of the Central Colorado Bank and Peter Van Gytenbeek, manager of Kistler Office Supply.

Object of the campaign is a new hospital building and remodeling project for one of the older buildings. The project is in a top priority rating for federal matching funds.

To date over $525,000 has been raised. Of this amount $140,000 came from physicians and $150,000 from the El Pomar Foundation.

The clean-up campaign is expected to yield another $200,000. While this drive, which is seeking five year pledges, will complete the public solicitation, hospital officials will continue to seek support from corporations and foundations.

The new building will cost an estimated $3,250,000. It will be opened to bids in January or February. The community must provide approximately one half of this amount with federal funds making up the difference.

Dr. Bolton explained that maintenance and organization have reached the point in the old building where "it's like throwing water down a rat hole."

Dr. Bolton described the Sisters of St. Francis as "A true charitable organization, dedicated to service almost to their own detriment."

This is the first and only major fund drive ever held for St. Francis since it was built 75 years ago to meet the needs of the railroad employees."

The new hospital will enable the community to keep a step ahead of the need for beds. Dr. Bolton pointed out that the community now needs every hospital bed. The future growth of the community is inevitable making it essential that the hospital is built before the old building is no longer serviceable at all.

Drive officials hope to have the clean-up phase of the campaign completed before November 22 when a meeting of state officials will determine the distribution of Hill Burton funds for the coming year.

Argentine Cadets To Visit AFA This Week

Altho separated by more than 5,000 miles, the Air Force academies of Argentina and the U.S. have one very important thing in common — their mission of graduating career officers to serve in the air arms of their countries.

The common goals of the Argentine and U.S. cadets, and the wide differences of the young men from the two service schools, will be vividly underlined Wednesday thru Sunday when 75 South American cadets visit the Air Force Academy.

During their busy stay, Argentine cadets will "room" with their hosts in Vandenberg Hall, the cadet form, and attend classes and athletic training.

The visiting cadets, accompanied by Col. Hugo Martinez Zuviria, commandant of their school, and 15 staff and faculty members, will receive full military honors Wednesday upon their arrival at Harmon Hall.

Officers traveling with the Argentine cadets will receive briefings on the Academy and will meet top officers. They will also be guests of the Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong Jr. at a dinner Thursday night.

Cadet Wing Commander James C. Ingram will officially greet cadet visitors.

In addition to touring Academy facilities, the visitors will tour NORAD Thursday afternoon.

A soccer match between the two schools is tentatively scheduled for Friday afternoon.

Prior to attending Saturday's Academy-UCLA football game, the Argentinians will receive a special "chalk-talk" briefing on the weird and wonderful sport from Maj. Jaime Z. Berdecio, Bolivian Air Force officer assigned to the faculty as Spanish instructor.

Aim of the visit is to repay the extraordinary hospitality afforded Academy cadets during summer field trip stops at the Argentine school.

AFA Cadet Choir To Be Heard on Catholic Program

The Air Force Academy Catholic Cadet Choir will this week record a special presentation of religious music for one of the most widely heard radio programs in the U. S.

Under the direction of Edmund Ladouceur, assistant academy organist and choirmaster, the choir will sing some 10 selections for the Sacred Heart Hour, a program sponsored by the Jesuit Order of the Catholic Church and carried by radio stations in all parts of the U. S. and to military personnel overseas thru the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service.

The Choir will sing the official Air Force hymn, "Lord, Guard and Guide the Men Who Fly," a special arrangement of "Rejoice Ye Pure in Heart" by Ladouceur, "Holy God We Praise Thy Name," a 15th century hymn "O Bone Jesu," and other selections.

Ladouceur will accompany the choir on the Catholic chapel organ.

CC Developing New Approach to Teacher Training

A new approach to teacher training is being developed at Colorado College where candidates for high school certification in German are doing half of their practice teaching in elementary courses at the college.

The program was introduced by Dr. Thomas O. Brandt, professor and chairman of the department of German and Russian at the college. He developed the program in cooperation with the college's education department.

Students seeking high school certification in German at Colorado College spend one semester practice teaching in a Colorado Springs high school and one semester at the college. In each case, they spend two hours a week in the classroom as teachers, or as tutors of small groups, plus additional hours as observers.

Advantages of the system are that the student-teachers spend a part of their practice under the supervision of college professors in the field, and that it provides actual college teaching experience for seniors who may become teaching assistants in graduate school while working toward advanced degrees.

Colorado College offers no major in education. Students seeking certification to become high school or grammar school teachers, must take their major in a regular academic subject.

The emphasis on academic subjects is designed to strengthen the college's teacher training program, which turned out 100 certified teachers in various academic fields during the past year.

The program at present is open only to students majoring in German, and they must be seniors. Students majoring in German at Colorado College are required to take 38 semester credit hours in the language and literature.

Practice teachers are not permitted to teach grammar or to lecture. In class, they conduct conversation and drills and make translations. In addition, they hold discussions with college faculty members, help grade student papers, make out lesson plans, and prepare final reports at the end of the semester.

Two students are practice teaching in freshman German classes this semester at the college. Two others are practice teaching at a local high school. During the second semester those at the college will teach at a high school and those at the high school will teach at the college.

Teaching this semester at Colorado College are Susan Heidel of 3829 Woods Dr. Des Moines, Iowa, and Rebecca Holden of 262 Brookside, Wichita, Kan.

Practice teaching this semester at Wasson High School are Frances K. Fries of 413 Carson, Brush, and Mrs. Donna Singleton of 917 N. Nevada Ave. in Colorado Springs. Mrs. Singleton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hampton of 5920 Dearborn Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.

'No Man Is the Equal of Any Other Man' Noted Texas Biochemist Says

No man is the equal of any other man in the view of a leading biochemist from the University of Texas who is speaking at the Freedom School this week.

He is Dr. Roger J. Williams, who has been the director of the Clayton Foundation Biochemical Institute at the University since 1941.

The professor has spent a life time studying, teaching and researching biochemistry, and has thrown in a lot of thought and research on the human side of the problem.

The Freedom School has as a project a phrontistery for the intensive study of freedom which opened this week and will continue thru April. Dr. Williams is one of the professional educators who has been invited to deliver a series of lectures.

In his studies, the professor has concluded that biochemically and every other way every human is different, even tho they may look alike superficially.

He explained in an interview Sunday night at the school that each person is different anatomatically, neurologically, endocrinologically, biochemically, and psychologically.

The professor has been a pioneer in his field, perhaps as much a pioneer as the original Roger Williams of American history, who established in 1636 the Providence Plantations after being forced to leave the Massachusetts Bay Colony. His plantations became the state of Rhode Island.

The professor is the discoverer of pantothenic acid (one of the B vitamins) which is required in the machinery of all oxygen-using organisms.

He also did pioneer work on folic acid, and named it. It is another B vitamin that is used in the treatment of anemias.

At the Clayton Institute, more vitamins and their variants have been discovered than in any other laboratory in the world.

The professor was the first biochemist to be elected president of the American Chemical Society, which now has about 100,000 members and has received the Mead Johnson award of the American Institute of Nutrition.

Williams is a firm believer about the individuality of each person and his belief is backed up with facts acquired during his long career in biochemistry.

He is a good example of his own theory, having a great interest in literature as well as his chosen field of study, and a co-existing interest in people.

Most natural scientists are not expected to make a large impact in the social science fields — in fact many of them are accused of not being interested at all in the human consequences of their work, and thus they are believed to have helped cause a breach between the two areas of scholarly research.

So now did Williams, a natural scientist and a leader in his field, get interested in social science?

He was born in India in 1893 and perhaps picked up an early interest in social betterment from the compassion his parents had for mankind, as they were Baptist missionaries there.

After acquiring a bachelor of science degree from the University of Redlands in California, and his M. S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago, he began a teaching career which took him to the University of Oregon, Oregon State University, and the University of Texas.

But it was a walk he took in the northern California mountains with a brother-in-law that started him contemplating the individuality of humans.

He asked his brother-in-law, a social science teacher, "What are the problems of social science?"

He was looking for some logical questions to which answers might be found; the kind that natural scientists like to tackle.

When his brother-in-law wasn't sure what the problems were, Williams began thinking.

"I am a human and interested in human beings," he explained, and eventually he came to the conclusion that the weak spot in social science is the failure to understand honest to goodness people.

Naturally, he viewed people from his place in life as a biochemist and investigation showed that no man is the equal biochemically of any other and this for him portended great impact on the social life of humans.

Williams is the kind of a man who can say with a twinkle in his eye, "The proof of the pudding is in the eating and in the subsequent metabolic effects," and mean what he says.

When he looks at the metabolic effects of the pudding, he does not expect the results to be the same in any two people. Because he knows the effect will be different, he prefers to think of people as the study of individual persons, not mankind in general.

A little key to what the professor is talking about is found in a book, "Nutrition in a Nutshell," which tells a reader a lot more about his own nutritional problems than he probably knew before — facts he ought to know — and does it in words that he can understand. In the book Williams points out that each individual has his own nutritional problems.

Two other books may be time bombs planted in the field of social science.

They are "The Human Frontier," and "Free and Unequal," which discuss the biological basis of individual liberty.

The facts that he discussed in those books, that no man is remotely the equal of any other man, and vice versa, regardless of how you look at them, have not yet become popular as Darwin's theories did about 100 years ago and as Einstein's theories are becoming.

When they do, and it may be 10 or 12 years yet, they are quite likely to go off like an exploding bomb.

The hard facts about people that Williams and other biochemists have and are determining are the truth and will have to be faced.

Regardless of a man's political or religious views, the facts are valid and a man will have to face them, said Williams, who pointed out that he is not a student of politics nor active in politics.

What Williams has learned in a life-time of study and reflection about people and each man's individuality will be discussed by him thru the week under the theme: "The basis of our love of liberty is biological."

Thieves Break Into Two Cars During Weekend

Two cases of larceny were reported to the sheriff's office Monday.

The first happened on the highway just outside Gate 20, Ft. Carson when a car belonging to Sgt. Joseph Lewis was broken into and a tire, wheel, GI clothing and other items worth a total of $400 stolen.

CC Developing New Approach to Teacher Training

A new approach to teacher training is being developed at Colorado College where candidates for high school certification in German are doing half of their practice teaching in elementary courses at the college.

The program was introduced by Dr. Thomas O. Brandt, professor and chairman of the department of German and Russian at the college. He developed the program in cooperation with the college's education department.

Students seeking high school certification in German at Colorado College spend one semester practice teaching in a Colorado Springs high school and one semester at the college. In each case, they spend two hours a week in the classroom as teachers, or as tutors of small groups, plus additional hours as observers.

Advantages of the system are that the student-teachers spend a part of their practice under the supervision of college professors in the field, and that it provides actual college teaching experience for seniors who may become teaching assistants in graduate school while working toward advanced degrees.

Colorado College offers no major in education. Students seeking certification to become high school or grammar school teachers, must take their major in a regular academic subject.

The emphasis on academic subjects is designed to strengthen the college's teacher training program, which turned out 100 certified teachers in various academic fields during the past year.

The program at present is open only to students majoring in German, and they must be seniors. Students majoring in German at Colorado College are required to take 38 semester credit hours in the language and literature.

Practice teachers are not permitted to teach grammar or to lecture. In class, they conduct conversation and drills and make translations. In addition, they hold discussions with college faculty members, help grade student papers, make out lesson plans, and prepare final reports at the end of the semester.

Two students are practice teaching in freshman German classes this semester at the college. Two others are practice teaching at a local high school. During the second semester those at the college will teach at a high school and those at the high school will teach at the college.

Teaching this semester at Colorado College are Susan Heidel of 3829 Woods Dr. Des Moines, Iowa, and Rebecca Holden of 262 Brookside, Wichita, Kan.

Practice teaching this semester at Wasson High School are Frances K. Fries of 413 Carson, Brush, and Mrs. Donna Singleton of 917 N. Nevada Ave. in Colorado Springs. Mrs. Singleton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hampton of 5920 Dearborn Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.

Local Chess Club Suffers First Defeat Sunday

Guy Burgess, playing the white pieces in a queen's gambit opening, garnered Colorado Springs' only point when he defeated Al Melendez of Denver in forty moves.

Robert Shean, Colorado State Champion, defeated Juan Reid in sixty-one moves by queening a pawn after defending resourcefully with the black pieces in a Pirc opening.

All games were closely contested and were played at the rate of forty-five moves in two hours.

Centennial Seeks Victory To Clinch League Title

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

High-flying Pueblo Centennial attempts to become the South Central League's fifth champion in as many years this Friday night when the swift-stepping Bulldogs meet last-place Pueblo South in a highlight of the final weekend of action in the state's southernmost AAA conference.

The Bulldogs drove the big nail in the coffin of defending champion Wasson last Saturday with a stunning 41-7 victory that was one of the most astounding feats by a SCL club in several seasons. Centennial needs only a tie in its contest with the Colts Friday to clinch the crown. However, if South should spring an upset it would provide Wasson with a chance to finish in a deadlock for first place. To do so the T-Birds would have to whip Pueblo East in their final scheduled game Friday night, and then hope for the South upset.

Considering Centennial's performance last Saturday, that would seem highly unlikely. The Bulldogs fired a stream of jets out of their backfield and took advantage of every break handed them in piling up 41 points in the first half. To underline the significance of that feat, five previous SCL opponents had not been able to score that many points against Wasson—combined.

Other league action was decidedly less spectacular. Palmer, showing effects of the same letdown that infected Wasson following the battle between the two rivals the previous weekend, dropped a 7-0 decision to Trinidad in a nightmarish affair in Colorado Springs. Central, another contender of late, stumbled to a 7-7 tie with Grand Junction on the Western Slope and East blocked a punt to edge South 7-0 in Pueblo.

This weekend, aside from the two games that could possibly affect the championship, Palmer and Central meet in Pueblo Saturday in a contest that will decide third place. In addition Junction travels to Trinidad in a second division battle that could have some effect on the outcome of the final three spots. East could make the most decisive advance with an upset of Wasson. Such a feat would move the Eagles into the first division, displacing the loser of the Palmer-Central game.

Centennial, with an early assist from its visitors, unloaded on the Thunderbirds without letup for the first 30 minutes of action Saturday. Wasson, obviously drugged somewhat from the success of the week before, fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and the Bulldogs recovered. Four plays later they had scored and Gib Funk's T-Birds were never to recover.

The hopped-up Bulldogs followed up that early T.D. with an 80 yard punt return by Luther Nava, a 54 yard return of a fumble by John Scheichl, a 39 yard pass play from Nava to Wayne Woodyard with Nava throwing from a near horizontal position, and a 25 yard sprint by Bob Armijo after Wasson seemingly had the Bulldogs pinned in a fourth down and long yardage situation. The only other touchdown was set up by a pass interception by Centennial's Jerry Pike, who was outstanding all evening.

Palmer tossed away several early chances at touchdowns, then saw one called back due to a clipping penalty midway thru the first quarter. The ultimate blow fell when the Tribe was stopped inches short of the goal on fourth down just before the end of the half. Trinidad then put together a scoring drive in the third quarter with Jim Toupal going in from a yard away and fought off the late bids by the Terrors.

East limited South to a mere 25 yards rushing and turned a second quarter blocked punt into the only score it needed. Bill Meeks' plunge from the one provided the game's winning points just 57 seconds before the halftime buzzer tolled.

Junction dominated the first half and pushed across a touchdown after Bill Huff returned a punt 26 yards to the Central 22 to set it up in the second period. Collier Kear got the tally on an end around play from the 12 but the Wildcats nullified that with an 80 yard march in the third quarter that forced the deadlock.

Liston, Clay Sign Fight Contract Today

By JEFF GRIGSBY
United Press International

DENVER (UPI) — Champion Sonny Liston and challenger Cassius Clay were set to sign today for what was expected to be the richest weight boxing match in history sometime early next year.

Liston, who lives in Denver, and Clay, who drove in from Chicago in a bus festooned with "I'm the greatest" banners, were to sign at the Denver Hilton Hotel.

The signing was scheduled for 4 P.M. EST.

There were little advance specifics. But the fight was expected to be in February at any one of several possible sites.

At San Francisco, Sol Silverman, chairman of a California state committee on boxing safeguards, renewed his charges that the fight would be a "mismatch."

Silverman earlier said he thought Clay was a fine young boxer, but not yet in Liston's class.

Ben Bentley, Liston's Chicago public relations man, in charge of today's events, disagreed.

"When he (Silverman) goes around the country making these surveys to see how boxing can be made safer, that's fine," Bentley said. "But now he's starting to make matches, and I say there are people with a lot more experience and ability in doing that."

Bentley said the fight would be "far from an overmatch." He conceded most people thought Liston would win, "but I think they will be surprised at the kind of fight that will take place."

Silverman and Bentley agreed on one point, however—the fight will make a staggering amount of money.

Silverman estimated it at "about $10 million dollars." Bentley declined to name a figure.

"But it absolutely and beyond a doubt will shatter all records for all heavyweight bouts," he said. "This is the fight that everyone wants to see. The public has demanded this bout."

Clay called at the home of Liston early today and Liston, attired in a gold smoking jacket, took a couple of swings at the brash challenger with a gold-headed cane.

Reporters and photographers along for the well-publicized confrontation got the idea, however, that there was more hokum than hostility in the meeting.

Clay showed up at Liston's home about 1 a.m. and stood on the front lawn and shouted until Liston came to the front door. Liston advanced on Clay with the walking stick, but both men were restrained.

After the photographers had their pictures, Liston went back inside and the confrontation was over.

Cadets Try to Regroup For Invasion by UCLA

After suffering a disappointing 14-10 loss to Army in Chicago's Soldier Field, Coach Ben Martin and his staff will attempt to put the pieces back together this week in time for Saturday's invasion by a hungry UCLA team.

The repair job will be all mental, tho, as the Falcons came out of the hard-hitting Army battle in good physical condition. However, the outcome was a bitter pill for the Falcons to swallow, and the Cadets will have to have a major uplift in spirit to get back on the winning track against the Bruins.

Kick-off for the Saturday AFA-UCLA tilt is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., with the colorful march-on of the Cadet Wing starting at 12:50. A crowd in the neighborhood of 33,000 is expected to be on hand for the sixth meeting of the two squads in what is one of the oldest rivalries in the AFA's short grid history.

The Falcons will be seeking to tie the series standing and their West Coast rivals. Last year, the Falcons turned in a brilliant 17-11 win while playing an underdog role. This Saturday, the tables will probably be switched as UCLA has managed only one win in seven outings, but have tangled with the nation's best nearly every time out. Included in the Bruin setbacks was an 18-12 heartbreaker to unbeaten Illinois. Last week, the Bruins were stunned by California, 25-0, but fumbled away three scoring opportunities in the first half.

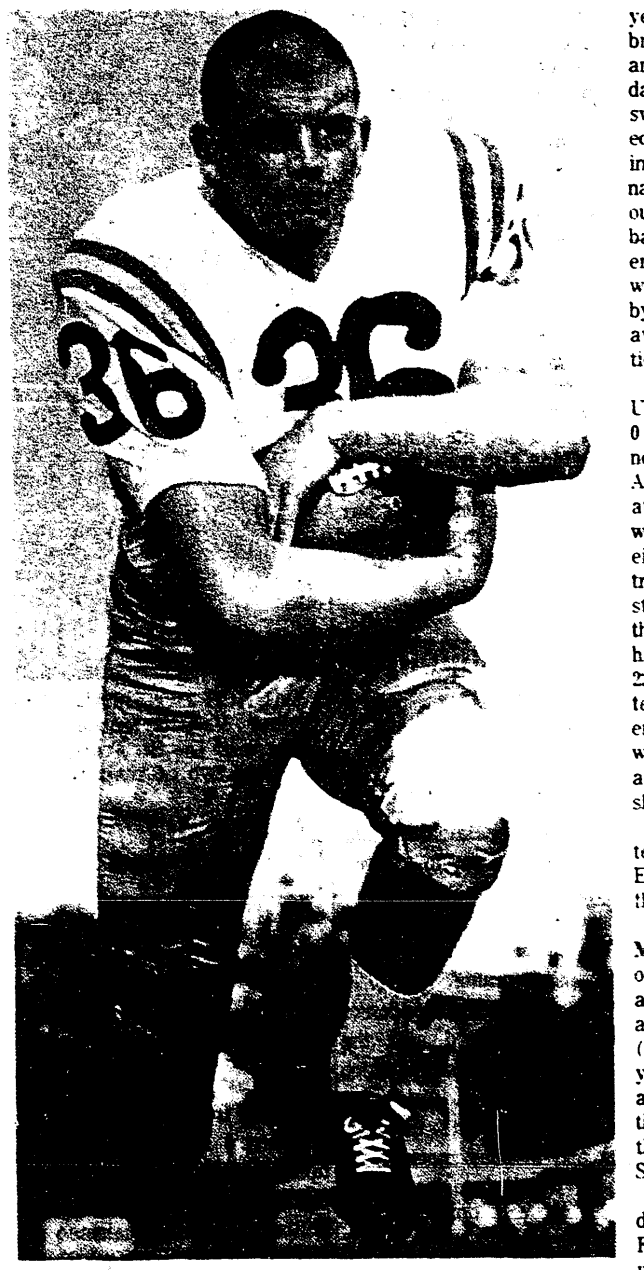
Regarding series history, UCLA shellacked the Cadets 47-0 in 1957, when the undermanned Falcons substituted for an Asian Flu-stricken Florida team at the last moment. The Falcons went to Los Angeles with only eight days of practice and were trounced in a game that still stands on the record books as the worst AFA defeat in history. Other UCLA wins were 22-0 in a rain-soaked 1960 contest, and 19-6 in the 1961 opener. The Cadets posted their wins in 1959 by a 20-7 score, and the above mentioned 17-11 shocker last season.

The winner of Saturday's contest will receive the annual Joe E. Brown Trophy, currently in the possession of the AFA.

Reflecting on the Army loss, Martin offered, "We were just out-muscled. No one has been able to move the ball on them, and we were no exception. (AFA managed only 73 net yards rushing.) The players all agree that the Army line was the "toughest they'd seen, and that we were hit harder last Saturday than ever before."

Even tho the Black Knights dominated the statistics, the Falcons almost pulled out the win as quarterback Terry Isaacson squirmed across the goal line with only 6:28 in the game to put the AFA into a 10-7 lead. However, Army came charging right back and scored the winning tally on a fourth down play with only a minute and a half left in the contest.

Tickets for the Air Force-UCLA encounter have been selling at a rapid pace, according to AFA ticket manager Dick Dadds, altho good seats are still available for UCLA's first Falcon Stadium appearance. Tickets may be purchased at Falcon Stadium, or at the many ticket outlets in Colorado Springs.



STRENGTH AT FULLBACK—Jim Colletto, 191-pound sophomore from Monterey, Calif., has given Coach Bill Barnes unexpected strength at fullback this season as the tough competitor has pushed All-Coast candidate Warren Jackson out of a starting berth with the UCLA Bruins. This Saturday UCLA will be making its first visit to Falcon Stadium to take on the Air Force Academy, and Colletto is expected to be among the starters.

Longhorns Hold Grip On Top Spot

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten, untied Texas is maintaining its tight grip as the nation's No. 1 college football team despite fears by Coach Darrell Royal that the Longhorns may be battling "a complex about those zeroes in the second half."

Texas again drew an overwhelming vote Monday for the top spot in The Associated Press weekly poll, but Royal appeared apprehensive as he spoke in Austin, Tex., about Saturday's game against Baylor, tied with the Longhorns for the Southwest Conference lead.

As for the complex Royal mentioned, it's the fact that Texas has failed to score in the second half in their last three games—won by a total of only 13 points.

Despite the squeakers, Texas gained 45 of the 53 first-place votes of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters for 502 points. Illinois was second with 425 points. The Longhorns defeated SMU 17-12 last Saturday while the Illini crushed Purdue 41-21.

The only major change in the Top Ten was Michigan State's arrival on the scene in the No. 9 spot after a 30-13 walloping of Wisconsin. The Badgers, who had been ranked eighth, dropped from the list.

Mississippi held third, with Navy fourth and Auburn, the only other unbeaten, untied team on the list, in fifth place. Oklahoma was sixth followed by Alabama, Pittsburgh, Michigan State and Ohio State.

With the exception of idle Alabama, all will be in action Saturday and Royal figures his top-ranked Longhorns face a stiff test in Baylor, led by a top passing combination in quarterback Don Trull and flanker Larry Elkins.

Palmer Leads PGA With $128,230

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, currently touring in Australia, are still setting the pace among professional golfers with earnings of $128,230 and $98,990, respectively.

Only Don Finsterwald, in sixth place among the top 18 money-winners, and Mason Rudolph, in seventh place, were able to increase their earnings during last week's Almadea (Calif.) Open.

Mets Give Craig Break; Trade Him to St. Louis

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have good news for you. You've been traded."

Those were the first words Roger Craig heard after Johnny Murphy, the long distance caller from New York, had been assured by the telephone operator he had reached his party.

"I know you will like the club you're going to," said Murphy, who serves as assistant to George Weiss, the New York Mets' president and general manager.

"The first clubs that came to my mind were the Dodgers, Cardinals, Giants and Yankees," Craig recalled as he told how he first learned of Monday's trade which sent him to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for outfielder George Altman and Bill Wakefield, a minor league pitcher.

"I knew I'd be traded," the veteran pitcher said when contacted by telephone at his home in Lakewood, Calif. "I was praying it wouldn't be to another second division club. I felt I suffered enough."

The two seasons he spent with the Mets must have been the most frustrating of Roger's life. He pitched well enough in each of those years to have been a 20-game winner with a contending club. But with the cellar-mired Mets, he was a 20-game loser both years. His combined 15-46 record was misleading. Nine of his 24 defeats last season were by shutouts, four by scores of 1-0.

"This deal should help me mentally as well as physically," said Craig, who will be 33 in March. "The Cards have been the toughest team in the league for me to beat."

Altman, a 30-year-old southpaw swinger, batted only .274 with nine home runs at St. Louis last season. The Cards had expected a great deal more from him after acquiring him from the Chicago Cubs last winter.

Craig was in 46 games last season, starting 36 and completing 14.

"I feel I've never pitched better than last year despite my record," said Craig. "I had better control, better stuff and my arm didn't bother me despite all the work.

"I have no bad feeling toward the Mets. They treated me fine and the fans were wonderful. Those two years with the Mets could be a blessing. I learned to cope with adversity. I think my stay in New York made me a better pitcher because it taught me to bear down harder. There was plenty of opportunity."

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

Scapegoat for Loss??

It could have been predicted before the football season had its first kickoff, but as the final fan was filing out of spacious Soldier Field in Chicago last Saturday there was already mumblings for Ben Martin's blood.

No matter how many times certain people repeated that last weekend's collision between the Air Force Academy and Army was "just another game," it could never be proven to some. As far as they were concerned it wasn't like the other nine on the Air Force schedule — and they were undoubtedly right.

Fans' Handy Target

A coach, of course, is the handiest for the hatchet in any sport. Usually it takes a couple of losing seasons for unhappy alumni or budget-conscious officials to try and solve all problems with one change. But in this case, many thought the entire season was wrapped up in 60 minutes of football on the waterfront of Lake Michigan.

Not wearing a blue uniform myself, I can't place quite that much importance on any inter-service game. But after several conversations on the long trip back from the Windy City on the football special train, I felt like I was in the minority.

This column is not mean for alibi for any team or coach. But it can be used to try and correct what it felt an unjust opinion.

As said before, it was expected that there would be those who would want to drop the ax on Martin should the Air Force lose to Army this season. That they did by a 14-10 count, as everyone knows whether in blue, khaki or the grey flannel of a downtown businessman.

Altho he hasn't been in pads in 18 years since graduation from the Naval Academy, it was Martin's third chance to beat one of the sister academies. The first was the 13-13 tie with Army back in 1959, next was the 35-3 drubbing by Navy the following year, and then came last Saturday's game.

Others have felt this pressure of win or else from some corners. For instance, Dale Hall lasted thru only three losing efforts against Navy until coach Paul Dietzel took over the Black Knights last season. Army and Dietzel have one strike against them from last season's 34-14 loss to the Middies.

To many this over-emphasis on one game may seem silly. But when you consider that in a sense the "alumni" from these schools number well into the millions it's more understandable. Every serviceman or veteran feels he's a part of one of these schools.

Winning the last three games on this year's schedule, of course, would lessen this pressure considerably for Martin. That would give him a 7-3 record or an overall record of 33 wins and 3 ties in 61 games for a .565 percentage—and not bad in an age of weekly big time football.

Just the same there is always plenty of second-guessing from the Monday morning quarterbacks and it was more than plentiful on the "Hangover Special" that carried more than 1,000 fans back from Chicago to Colorado this weekend.

As for the game with Army, it appeared the Air Force was definitely over-matched in physical strength. This has been true in several other games, however, including the victories over Nebraska and Washington.

The trouble is that too many fans are a little tired of hearing that as an excuse. They conceed that Air Force is still a relative neophyte in big time football, but they wonder why the Air Force has to be so ambitious as to be classed as an underdog nearly every time out.

The argument is that if the Air Force finds it impossible to meet muscle with muscle with the rest of the teams they play—or the other service academies—then they should find competition on their own level. It can be explained that because of certain standards it's not easy to find the beef trusts of some civilian schools that offer made-to-order academies and sizable scholarships as payment for playing.

But it's hard to figure for these fans that the same types that play for Army and Navy can't be found at the AFA.

This, of course, is not under absolute control from Martin. Recruiters from the Air Force scour the country each year. They bring back what talent they can. But for their failings, the head coach gets the entire blame from these frontrunners.

To anyone who saw the game, it was pretty obvious that the Falcons were being over-powered from the first quarter on. During the first half the AFA managed only three first downs (one on a pass interference penalty) and gained but 43 yards (none by passing).

Meanwhile, Army was pushing the ball all over the field and could easily have been ahead by three touchdowns at the intermission. The Cadets' muscle was never more evident than on the final touchdown drive as they moved 86 yards (counting the kickoff return) in but a baker's dozen plays.

The Air Force had just scored its only TD of the game and the first line regulars needed a rest badly. Thus the second line was in against Army and there was a weight differential of over 20 pounds per man.

But considering what they were up against, the Falcons certainly did all that could have been expected. In the three times they crossed the 50, out of their own territory and where they could open up the offense, they scored twice.

The ironical part of the game was that had the final gun sounded 90 seconds sooner they would have won.

Then I wonder how many would be thursting for Ben Martin's blood?

Army's New Offensive Poise Threatens Navy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sailors beware! Army's new offensive poise, coupled with its great defensive strength, may prove an unexpectedly dangerous gridiron combination in the Army-Navy classic at Philadelphia, Nov. 30.

Army's poise was displayed magnificently before 76,600 at Chicago's Soldiers Field on Saturday when tailback Ken Waldrop, quarterback Carl Stichweh and their comrades combined for a 65-yard drive and touchdown in the closing minutes for a 14-10 victory over Air Force Academy.

The winning touchdown was scored only 80 seconds before the final gun, after an amazingly cool display of strategy and performance in which only one pass was attempted among the 12 plays.

Although time was running out, neither Stichweh nor his mates gave way to desperation gambling. They ground out yardage on that drive with the cold efficiency of a machine.

Meanwhile, at Notre Dame on Saturday, jolly Roger Staubach and other future admirals from Annapolis exploded their Navy power in the third period for a 35-14 victory over the Irish before 59,362.

That was Navy's sixth victory in seven games this season, the same won and lost figures chalked up by Army, which lost only to Minnesota, 8-24. Navy's lone loss was to Southern Methodist, 28-32.

Navy is now ranked fifth among the top 10 major college teams, below Texas (1), Illinois (2), Mississippi (3) and Alabama (4).

Army is not rated among the top 10. Defensively, however, the Cadets were ranked second in rushing defense in the latest ratings last week and fifth in total defense. Its line averages about 213 pounds.

Because of Coach Wayne Hardin's running-and-passing crew, headed by Staubach, the Navy unquestionably will be favored by at least six points to score their fifth straight victory over the West Pointers in their 64th classic.

However, the sailors never met an Army team quarterbacked by "Rollie" Stichweh, a 185-pound junior from Williston Park, N.J., who played part-time offensive halfback and parttime on defense last season.

Tailback Waldrop, a 198-pound senior from Dallas, Tex., scored both touchdowns against Notre Dame Saturday. He ran back a punt 78 yards to set up his first one. He and Stichweh are key runners, aided by fullback Ray Paske of Buffalo, N.Y. Thus far Waldrop has carried 92 times running; Stichweh, 91 time.

Army's strong defense is illustrated by the 494 yards rushing to which its seven opponents have been held, while the Cadets ran for 1,902, an average of 272 per game. Opponents averaged about 70 yards rushing.

The Cadets have two more games before the classic with Navy. They play Utah and Pittsburgh. And because of what happened last season, Coach Paul Dietzel is concentrating on one game at a time. After seven games in 1962, Army was 6-1; but then the Cadets lost to Oklahoma State, Pittsburgh and Navy.

Centennial Seeks Victory To Clinch League Title

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

High-flying Pueblo Centennial attempts to become the South Central League's fifth champion in as many years this Friday night when the swift-stepping Bulldogs meet last-place Pueblo South in a highlight of the final weekend of action in the state's southernmost AAA conference.

The Bulldogs drove the big nail in the coffin of defending champion Wasson last Saturday with a stunning 41-7 victory that was one of the most astounding feats by a SCL club in several seasons. Centennial needs only a tie in its contest with the Colts Friday to clinch the crown. However, if South should spring an upset it would provide Wasson with a chance to finish in a deadlock for first place. To do so the T-Birds would have to whip Pueblo East in their final scheduled game Friday night, and then hope for the South upset.

Considering Centennial's performance last Saturday, that would seem highly unlikely. The Bulldogs fired a stream of jets out of their backfield and took advantage of every break handed them in piling up 41 points in the first half. To underline the significance of that feat, five previous SCL opponents had not been able to score that many points against Wasson—combined.

Other league action was decidedly less spectacular. Palmer, showing effects of the same letdown that infected Wasson following the battle between the two rivals the previous weekend, dropped a 7-0 decision to Trinidad in a nightmarish affair in Colorado Springs. Central, another contender of late, stumbled to a 7-7 tie with Grand Junction on the Western Slope and East blocked a punt to edge South 7-0 in Pueblo.

This weekend, aside from the two games that could possibly affect the championship, Palmer and Central meet in Pueblo Saturday in a contest that will decide third place. In addition Junction travels to Trinidad in a second division battle that could have some effect on the outcome of the final three spots. East could make the most decisive advance with an upset of Wasson. Such a feat would move the Eagles into the first division, displacing the loser of the Palmer-Central game.

Centennial, with an early assist from its visitors, unloaded on the Thunderbirds without letup for the first 30 minutes of action Saturday. Wasson, obviously drugged somewhat from the success of the week before, fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and the Bulldogs recovered. Four plays later they had scored and Gib Funk's T-Birds were never to recover.

The hopped-up Bulldogs followed up that early T.D. with an 80 yard punt return by Luther Nava, a 54 yard return of a fumble by John Scheichl, a 39 yard pass play from Nava to Wayne Woodyard with Nava throwing from a near horizontal position, and a 25 yard sprint by Bob Armijo after Wasson seemingly had the Bulldogs pinned in a fourth down and long yardage situation. The only other touchdown was set up by a pass interception by Centennial's Jerry Pike, who was outstanding all evening.

Palmer tossed away several early chances at touchdowns, then saw one called back due to a clipping penalty midway thru the first quarter. The ultimate blow fell when the Tribe was stopped inches short of the goal on fourth down just before the end of the half. Trinidad then put together a scoring drive in the third quarter with Jim Toupal going in from a yard away and fought off the late bids by the Terrors.

East limited South to a mere 25 yards rushing and turned a second quarter blocked punt into the only score it needed. Bill Meeks' plunge from the one provided the game's winning points just 57 seconds before the halftime buzzer tolled.

Junction dominated the first half and pushed across a touchdown after Bill Huff returned a punt 26 yards to the Central 22 to set it up in the second period. Collier Kear got the tally on an end around play from the 12 but the Wildcats nullified that with an 80 yard march in the third quarter that forced the deadlock.

Liston, Clay Sign Fight Contract Today

By JEFF GRIGSBY
United Press International

DENVER (UPI) — Champion Sonny Liston and challenger Cassius Clay were set to sign today for what was expected to be the richest weight boxing match in history sometime early next year.

Liston, who lives in Denver, and Clay, who drove in from Chicago in a bus festooned with "I'm the greatest" banners, were to sign at the Denver Hilton Hotel.

The signing was scheduled for 4 P.M. EST.

There were little advance specifics. But the fight was expected to be in February at any one of several possible sites.

At San Francisco, Sol Silverman, chairman of a California state committee on boxing safeguards, renewed his charges that the fight would be a "mismatch."

Silverman earlier said he thought Clay was a fine young boxer, but not yet in Liston's class.

Ben Bentley, Liston's Chicago public relations man, in charge of today's events, disagreed.

"When he (Silverman) goes around the country making these surveys to see how boxing can be made safer, that's fine," Bentley said. "But now he's starting to make matches, and I say there are people with a lot more experience and ability in doing that."

Bentley said the fight would be "far from an overmatch." He conceded most people thought Liston would win, "but I think they will be surprised at the kind of fight that will take place."

Silverman and Bentley agreed on one point, however—the fight will make a staggering amount of money.

Silverman estimated it at "about $10 million dollars." Bentley declined to name a figure.

"But it absolutely and beyond a doubt will shatter all records for all heavyweight bouts," he said. "This is the fight that everyone wants to see. The public has demanded this bout."

Clay called at the home of Liston early today and Liston, attired in a gold smoking jacket, took a couple of swings at the brash challenger with a gold-headed cane.

Reporters and photographers along for the well-publicized confrontation got the idea, however, that there was more hokum than hostility in the meeting.

Clay showed up at Liston's home about 1 a.m. and stood on the front lawn and shouted until Liston came to the front door. Liston advanced on Clay with the walking stick, but both men were restrained.

After the photographers had their pictures, Liston went back inside and the confrontation was over.

Cadets Try to Regroup For Invasion by UCLA

After suffering a disappointing 14-10 loss to Army in Chicago's Soldier Field, Coach Ben Martin and his staff will attempt to put the pieces back together this week in time for Saturday's invasion by a hungry UCLA team.

The repair job will be all mental, tho, as the Falcons came out of the hard-hitting Army battle in good physical condition. However, the outcome was a bitter pill for the Falcons to swallow, and the Cadets will have to have a major uplift in spirit to get back on the winning track against the Bruins.

Kick-off for the Saturday AFA-UCLA tilt is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., with the colorful march-on of the Cadet Wing starting at 12:50. A crowd in the neighborhood of 33,000 is expected to be on hand for the sixth meeting of the two squads in what is one of the oldest rivalries in the AFA's short grid history.

The Falcons will be seeking to tie the series standing and their West Coast rivals. Last year, the Falcons turned in a brilliant 17-11 win while playing an underdog role. This Saturday, the tables will probably be switched as UCLA has managed only one win in seven outings, but have tangled with the nation's best nearly every time out. Included in the Bruin setbacks was an 18-12 heartbreaker to unbeaten Illinois. Last week, the Bruins were stunned by California, 25-0, but fumbled away three scoring opportunities in the first half.

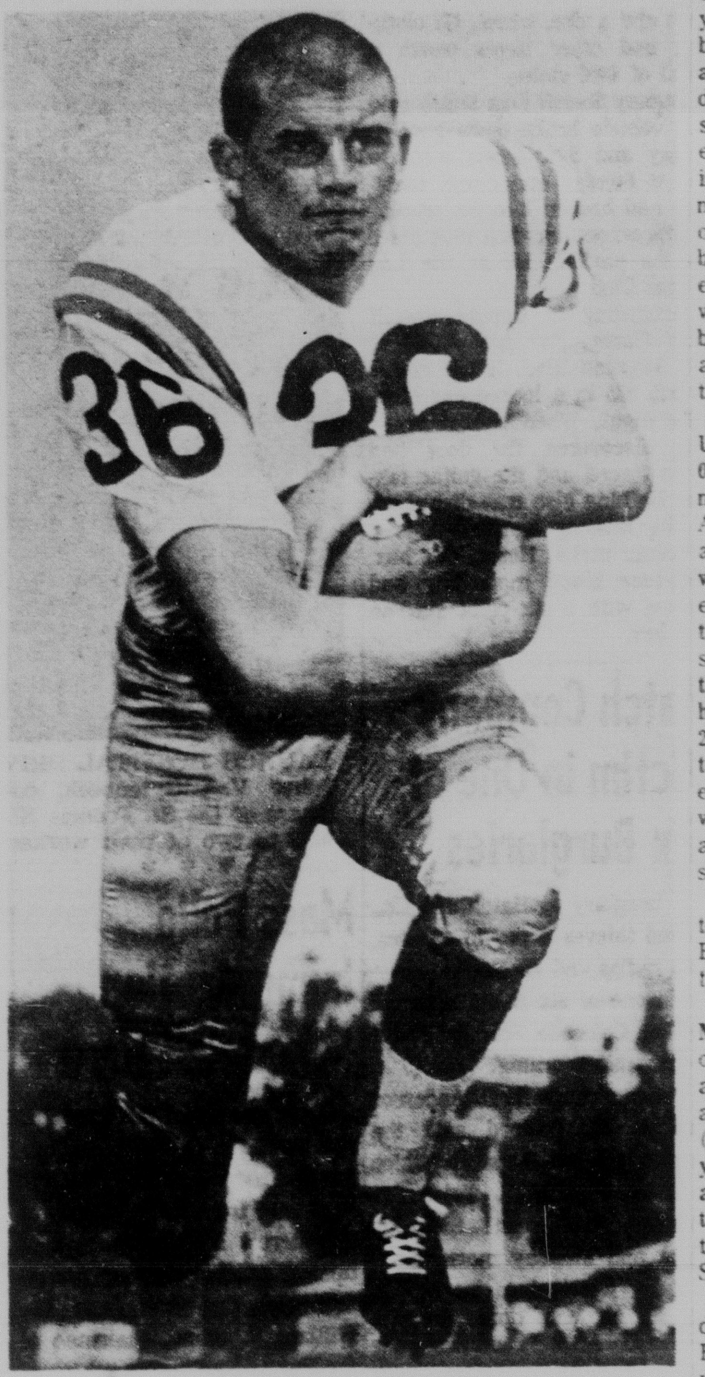
Regarding series history, UCLA shellacked the Cadets 47-0 in 1957, when the undermanned Falcons substituted for an Asian Flu-stricken Florida team at the last moment. The Falcons went to Los Angeles with only eight days of practice and were trounced in a game that still stands on the record books as the worst AFA defeat in history. Other UCLA wins were 22-0 in a rain-soaked 1960 contest, and 19-6 in the 1961 opener. The Cadets posted their wins in 1959 by a 20-7 score, and the above mentioned 17-11 shocker last season.

The winner of Saturday's contest will receive the annual Joe E. Brown Trophy, currently in the possession of the AFA.

Reflecting on the Army loss, Martin offered, "We were just out-muscled. No one has been able to move the ball on them, and we were no exception. (AFA managed only 73 net yards rushing.) The players all agree that the Army line was the "toughest they'd seen, and that we were hit harder last Saturday than ever before."

Even tho the Black Knights dominated the statistics, the Falcons almost pulled out the win as quarterback Terry Isaacson squirmed across the goal line with only 6:28 in the game to put the AFA into a 10-7 lead. However, Army came charging right back and scored the winning tally on a fourth down play with only a minute and a half left in the contest.

Tickets for the Air Force-UCLA encounter have been selling at a rapid pace, according to AFA ticket manager Dick Dadds, altho good seats are still available for UCLA's first Falcon Stadium appearance. Tickets may be purchased at Falcon Stadium, or at the many ticket outlets in Colorado Springs.



STRENGTH AT FULLBACK—Jim Colletto, 191-pound sophomore from Monterey, Calif., has given Coach Bill Barnes unexpected strength at fullback this season as the tough competitor has pushed All-Coast candidate Warren Jackson out of a starting berth with the UCLA Bruins. This Saturday UCLA will be making its first visit to Falcon Stadium to take on the Air Force Academy, and Colletto is expected to be among the starters.

Longhorns Hold Grip On Top Spot

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten, untied Texas is maintaining its tight grip as the nation's No. 1 college football team despite fears by Coach Darrell Royal that the Longhorns may be battling "a complex about those zeroes in the second half."

Texas again drew an overwhelming vote Monday for the top spot in The Associated Press weekly poll, but Royal appeared apprehensive as he spoke in Austin, Tex., about Saturday's game against Baylor, tied with the Longhorns for the Southwest Conference lead.

As for the complex Royal mentioned, it's the fact that Texas has failed to score in the second half in their last three games—won by a total of only 13 points.

Despite the squeakers, Texas gained 45 of the 53 first-place votes of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters for 502 points. Illinois was second with 425 points. The Longhorns defeated SMU 17-12 last Saturday while the Illini crushed Purdue 41-21.

The only major change in the Top Ten was Michigan State's arrival on the scene in the No. 9 spot after a 30-13 walloping of Wisconsin. The Badgers, who had been ranked eighth, dropped from the list.

Mississippi held third, with Navy fourth and Auburn, the only other unbeaten, untied team on the list, in fifth place. Oklahoma was sixth followed by Alabama, Pittsburgh, Michigan State and Ohio State.

With the exception of idle Alabama, all will be in action Saturday and Royal figures his top-ranked Longhorns face a stiff test in Baylor, led by a top passing combination in quarterback Don Trull and flanker Larry Elkins.

Palmer Leads PGA With $128,230

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, currently touring in Australia, are still setting the pace among professional golfers with earnings of $128,230 and $98,990, respectively.

Only Don Finsterwald, in sixth place among the top 18 money-winners, and Mason Rudolph, in seventh place, were able to increase their earnings during last week's Almadea (Calif.) Open.

Mets Give Craig Break; Trade Him to St. Louis

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have good news for you. You've been traded."

Those were the first words Roger Craig heard after Johnny Murphy, the long distance caller from New York, had been assured by the telephone operator he had reached his party.

"I know you will like the club you're going to," said Murphy, who serves as assistant to George Weiss, the New York Mets' president and general manager.

"The first clubs that came to my mind were the Dodgers, Cardinals, Giants and Yankees," Craig recalled as he told how he first learned of Monday's trade which sent him to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for outfielder George Altman and Bill Wakefield, a minor league pitcher.

"I knew I'd be traded," the veteran pitcher said when contacted by telephone at his home in Lakewood, Calif. "I was praying it wouldn't be to another second division club. I felt I suffered enough."

The two seasons he spent with the Mets must have been the most frustrating of Roger's life. He pitched well enough in each of those years to have been a 20-game winner with a contending club. But with the cellar-mired Mets, he was a 20-game loser both years. His combined 15-46 record was misleading. Nine of his 24 defeats last season were by shutouts, four by scores of 1-0.

"This deal should help me mentally as well as physically," said Craig, who will be 33 in March. "The Cards have been the toughest team in the league for me to beat."

Altman, a 30-year-old southpaw swinger, batted only .274 with nine home runs at St. Louis last season. The Cards had expected a great deal more from him after acquiring him from the Chicago Cubs last winter.

Craig was in 46 games last season, starting 36 and completing 14.

"I feel I've never pitched better than last year despite my record," said Craig. "I had better control, better stuff and my arm didn't bother me despite all the work.

"I have no bad feeling toward the Mets. They treated me fine and the fans were wonderful. Those two years with the Mets could be a blessing. I learned to cope with adversity. I think my stay in New York made me a better pitcher because it taught me to bear down harder. There was plenty of opportunity."

Army's New Offensive Poise Threatens Navy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sailors beware! Army's new offensive poise, coupled with its great defensive strength, may prove an unexpectedly dangerous gridiron combination in the Army-Navy classic at Philadelphia, Nov. 30.

Army's poise was displayed magnificently before 76,600 at Chicago's Soldiers Field on Saturday when tailback Ken Waldrop, quarterback Carl Stichweh and their comrades combined for a 65-yard drive and touchdown in the closing minutes for a 14-10 victory over Air Force Academy.

The winning touchdown was scored only 80 seconds before the final gun, after an amazingly cool display of strategy and performance in which only one pass was attempted among the 12 plays.

Although time was running out, neither Stichweh nor his mates gave way to desperation gambling. They ground out yardage on that drive with the cold efficiency of a machine.

Meanwhile, at Notre Dame on Saturday, jolly Roger Staubach and other future admirals from Annapolis exploded their Navy power in the third period for a 35-14 victory over the Irish before 59,362.

That was Navy's sixth victory in seven games this season, the same won and lost figures chalked up by Army, which lost only to Minnesota, 8-24. Navy's lone loss was to Southern Methodist, 28-32.

Navy is now ranked fifth among the top 10 major college teams, below Texas (1), Illinois (2), Mississippi (3) and Alabama (4).

Army is not rated among the top 10. Defensively, however, the Cadets were ranked second in rushing defense in the latest ratings last week and fifth in total defense. Its line averages about 213 pounds.

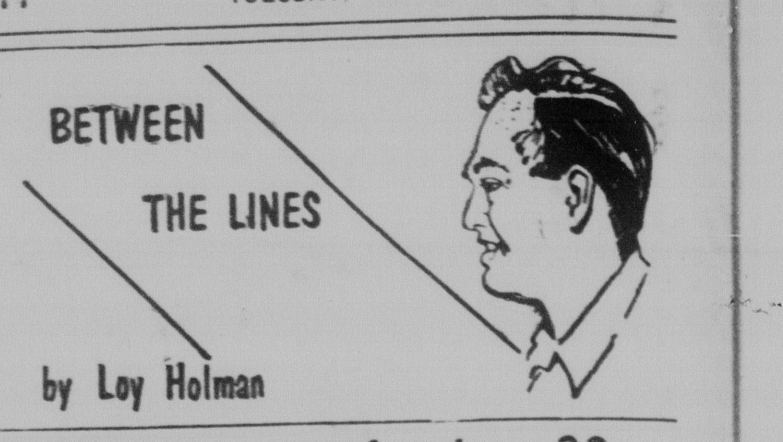
Because of Coach Wayne Hardin's running-and-passing crew, headed by Staubach, the Navy unquestionably will be favored by at least six points to score their fifth straight victory over the West Pointers in their 64th classic.

However, the sailors never met an Army team quarterbacked by "Rollie" Stichweh, a 185-pound junior from Williston Park, N.J., who played parttime offensive halfback and parttime on defense last season.

Tailback Waldrop, a 198-pound senior from Dallas, Tex., scored both touchdowns against Notre Dame Saturday. He ran back a punt 78 yards to set up his first one. He and Stichweh are key runners, aided by fullback Ray Paske of Buffalo, N.Y. Thus far Waldrop has carried 92 times running; Stichweh, 91 time.

Army's strong defense is illustrated by the 494 yards rushing to which its seven opponents have been held, while the Cadets ran for 1,902, an average of 272 per game. Opponents averaged about 70 yards rushing.

The Cadets have two more games before the classic with Navy. They play Utah and Pittsburgh. And because of what happened last season, Coach Paul Dietzel is concentrating on one game at a time. After seven games in 1962, Army was 6-1; but then the Cadets lost to Oklahoma State, Pittsburgh and Navy.



BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

Scapegoat for Loss??

It could have been predicted before the football season had its first kickoff, but as the final fan was filing out of spacious Soldier Field in Chicago last Saturday there was already mumblings for Ben Martin's blood.

No matter how many times certain people repeated that last weekend's collision between the Air Force Academy and Army was "just another game," it could never be proven to some. As far as they were concerned it wasn't like the other nine on the Air Force schedule — and they were undoubtedly right.

A coach, of course, is the handiest for the hatchet in any sport. Usually it takes a couple of losing seasons for unhappy alumni or budget-conscious officials to try and solve all problems with one change. But in this case, many thought the entire season was wrapped up in 60 minutes of football on the waterfront of Lake Michigan.

Not wearing a blue uniform myself, I can't place quite that much importance on any inter-service game. But after several conversations on the long trip back from the Windy City on the football special train, I felt like I was in the minority.

This column is not mean for alibi for any team or coach. But it can be used to try and correct what it felt an unjust opinion.

As said before, it was expected that there would be those who would want to drop the ax on Martin should the Air Force lose to Army this season. That they did by a 14-10 count, as everyone knows whether in blue, khaki or the grey flannel of a downtown businessman.

Altho he hasn't been in pads in 18 years since graduation from the Naval Academy, it was Martin's third chance to beat one of the sister academies. The first was the 13-13 tie with Army back in 1959, next was the 35-3 drubbing by Navy the following year, and then came last Saturday's game.

Others have felt this pressure of win or else from some corners. For instance, Dale Hall lasted thru only three losing efforts against Navy until coach Paul Dietzel took over the Black Knights last season. Army and Dietzel have one strike against them from last season's 34-14 loss to the Middies.

To many this over-emphasis on one game may seem silly. But when you consider that in a sense the "alumni" from these schools number well into the millions it's more understandable. Every serviceman or veteran feels he's a part of one of these schools.

Winning the last three games on this year's schedule, of course, would lessen this pressure considerably for Martin. That would give him a 7-3 record or an overall record of 33 wins and 3 ties in 61 games for a .565 percentage—and not bad in an age of weekly big time football.

Just the same there is always plenty of second-guessing from the Monday morning quarterbacks and it was more than plentiful on the "Hangover Special" that carried more than 1,000 fans back from Chicago to Colorado this weekend.

As for the game with Army, it appeared the Air Force was definitely over-matched in physical strength. This has been true in several other games, however, including the victories over Nebraska and Washington.

The trouble is that too many fans are a little tired of hearing that as an excuse. They concede that Air Force is still a relative neophyte in big time football, but they wonder why the Air Force has to be so ambitious as to be classed as an underdog nearly every time out.

The argument is that if the Air Force finds it impossible to meet muscle with muscle with the rest of the teams they play—or the other service academies—then they should find competition on their own level. It can be explained that because of certain standards it's not easy to find the beef trusts of some civilian schools that offer made-to-order academies and sizable scholarships as payment for playing.

But it's hard to figure for these fans that the same types that play for Army and Navy can't be found at the AFA.

This, of course, is not under absolute control from Martin. Recruiters from the Air Force scour the country each year. They bring back what talent they can. But for their failings, the head coach gets the entire blame from these front-runners.

To anyone who saw the game, it was pretty obvious that the Falcons were being over-powered from the first quarter on. During the first half the AFA managed only three first downs (one on a pass interference penalty) and gained but 43 yards (none by passing).

Meanwhile, Army was pushing the ball all over the field and could easily have been ahead by three touchdowns at the intermission. The Cadets' muscle was never more evident than on the final touchdown drive as they moved 86 yards (counting the kickoff return) in but a baker's dozen plays.

The Air Force had just scored its only TD of the game and the first line regulars needed a rest badly. Thus the second line was in against Army and there was a weight differential of over 20 pounds per man.

But considering what they were up against, the Falcons certainly did all that could have been expected. In the three times they crossed the 50, out of their own territory and where they could open up the offense, they scored twice.

The ironical part of the game was that had the final gun sounded 90 seconds sooner they would have won.

Then I wonder how many would be thursting for Ben Martin's blood?

Centennial Seeks Victory To Clinch League Title

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

High-flying Pueblo Centennial attempts to become the South Central League's fifth champion in as many years this Friday night when the swift-stepping Bulldogs meet last-place Pueblo South in a highlight of the final weekend of action in the state's southernmost AAA conference.

The Bulldogs drove the big nail in the coffin of defending champion Wasson last Saturday with a stunning 41-7 victory that was one of the most astounding feats by a SCL club in several seasons. Centennial needs only a tie in its contest with the Colts Friday to clinch the crown. However, if South should spring an upset it would provide Wasson with a chance to finish in a deadlock for first place. To do so the T-Birds would have to whip Pueblo East in their final scheduled game Friday night, and then hope for the South upset.

Considering Centennial's performance last Saturday, that would seem highly unlikely. The Bulldogs fired a stream of jets out of their backfield and took advantage of every break handed them in piling up 41 points in the first half. To underline the significance of that feat, five previous SCL opponents had not been able to score that many points against Wasson—combined.

Other league action was decidedly less spectacular. Palmer, showing effects of the same letdown that infected Wasson following the battle between the two rivals the previous weekend, dropped a 7-0 decision to Trinidad in a nightmarish affair in Colorado Springs. Central, another contender of late, stumbled to a 7-7 tie with Grand Junction on the Western Slope and East blocked a punt to edge South 7-0 in Pueblo.

This weekend, aside from the two games that could possibly affect the championship, Palmer and Central meet in Pueblo Saturday in a contest that will decide third place. In addition Junction travels to Trinidad in a second division battle that could have some effect on the outcome of the final three spots. East could make the most decisive advance with an upset of Wasson. Such a feat would move the Eagles into the first division, displacing the loser of the Palmer-Central game.

Centennial, with an early assist from its visitors, unloaded on the Thunderbirds without letup for the first 30 minutes of action Saturday. Wasson, obviously drugged somewhat from the success of the week before, fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and the Bulldogs recovered. Four plays later they had scored and Gib Funk's T-Birds were never to recover.

The hopped-up Bulldogs followed up that early T.D. with an 80 yard punt return by Luther Nava, a 54 yard return of a fumble by John Scheichl, a 39 yard pass play from Nava to Wayne Woodyard with Nava throwing from a near horizontal position, and a 25 yard sprint by Bob Armijo after Wasson seemingly had the Bulldogs pinned in a fourth down and long yardage situation. The only other touchdown was set up by a pass interception by Centennial's Jerry Pike, who was outstanding all evening.

Palmer tossed away several early chances at touchdowns, then saw one called back due to a clipping penalty midway thru the first quarter. The ultimate blow fell when the Tribe was stopped inches short of the goal on fourth down just before the end of the half. Trinidad then put together a scoring drive in the third quarter with Jim Toupal going in from a yard away and fought off the late bids by the Terrors.

East limited South to a mere 25 yards rushing and turned a second quarter blocked punt into the only score it needed. Bill Meeks' plunge from the one provided the game's winning points just 57 seconds before the halftime buzzer tolled.

Junction dominated the first half and pushed across a touchdown after Bill Huff returned a punt 26 yards to the Central 22 to set it up in the second period. Collier Kear got the tally on an end around play from the 12 but the Wildcats nullified that with an 80 yard march in the third quarter that forced the deadlock.

Liston, Clay Sign Fight Contract Today

By JEFF GRIGSBY
United Press International

DENVER (UPI) — Champion Sonny Liston and challenger Cassius Clay were set to sign today for what was expected to be the richest weight boxing match in history sometime early next year.

Liston, who lives in Denver, and Clay, who drove in from Chicago in a bus festooned with "I'm the greatest" banners, were to sign at the Denver Hilton Hotel.

The signing was scheduled for 4 P.M. EST.

There were little advance specifics. But the fight was expected to be in February at any one of several possible sites.

At San Francisco, Sol Silverman, chairman of a California state committee on boxing safeguards, renewed his charges that the fight would be a "mismatch."

Silverman earlier said he thought Clay was a fine young boxer, but not yet in Liston's class.

Ben Bentley, Liston's Chicago public relations man, in charge of today's events, disagreed.

"When he (Silverman) goes around the country making these surveys to see how boxing can be made safer, that's fine," Bentley said. "But now he's starting to make matches, and I say there are people with a lot more experience and ability in doing that."

Bentley said the fight would be "far from an overmatch." He conceded most people thought Liston would win, "but I think they will be surprised at the kind of fight that will take place."

Silverman and Bentley agreed on one point, however—the fight will make a staggering amount of money.

Silverman estimated it at "about $10 million dollars." Bentley declined to name a figure.

"But it absolutely and beyond a doubt will shatter all records for all heavyweight bouts," he said. "This is the fight that everyone wants to see. The public has demanded this bout."

Clay called at the home of Liston early today and Liston, attired in a gold smoking jacket, took a couple of swings at the brash challenger with a gold-headed cane.

Reporters and photographers along for the well-publicized confrontation got the idea, however, that there was more hokum than hostility in the meeting.

Clay showed up at Liston's home about 1 a.m. and stood on the front lawn and shouted until Liston came to the front door. Liston advanced on Clay with the walking stick, but both men were restrained.

After the photographers had their pictures, Liston went back inside and the confrontation was over.

Cadets Try to Regroup For Invasion by UCLA

After suffering a disappointing 14-10 loss to Army in Chicago's Soldier Field, Coach Ben Martin and his staff will attempt to put the pieces back together this week in time for Saturday's invasion by a hungry UCLA team.

The repair job will be all mental, tho, as the Falcons came out of the hard-hitting Army battle in good physical condition. However, the outcome was a bitter pill for the Falcons to swallow, and the Cadets will have to have a major uplift in spirit to get back on the winning track against the Bruins.

Kick-off for the Saturday AFA-UCLA tilt is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., with the colorful march-on of the Cadet Wing starting at 12:50. A crowd in the neighborhood of 33,000 is expected to be on hand for the sixth meeting of the two squads in what is one of the oldest rivalries in the AFA's short grid history.

The Falcons will be seeking to tie the series standing and their West Coast rivals. Last year, the Falcons turned in a brilliant 17-11 win while playing an underdog role. This Saturday, the tables will probably be switched as UCLA has managed only one win in seven outings, but have tangled with the nation's best nearly every time out. Included in the Bruin setbacks was an 18-12 heartbreaker to unbeaten Illinois. Last week, the Bruins were stunned by California, 25-0, but fumbled away three scoring opportunities in the first half.

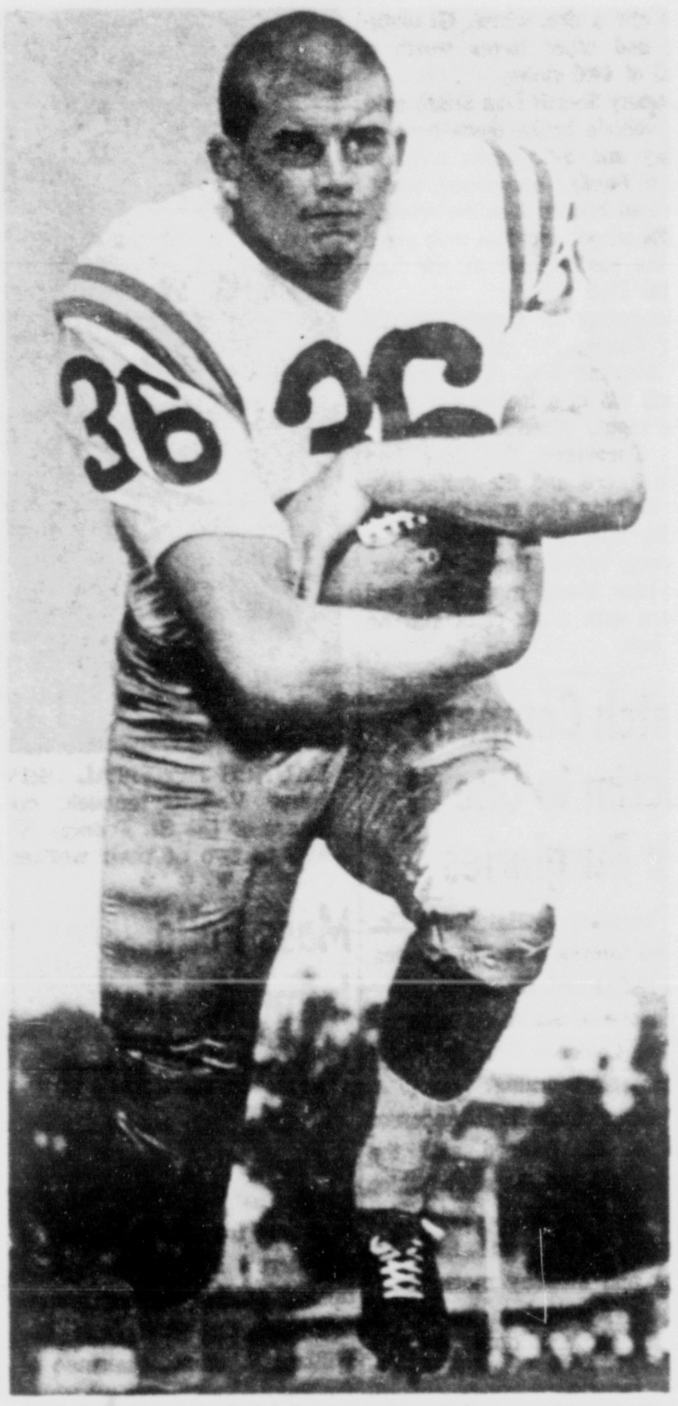
Regarding series history, UCLA shellacked the Cadets 47-0 in 1957, when the undermanned Falcons substituted for an Asian Flu-stricken Florida team at the last moment. The Falcons went to Los Angeles with only eight days of practice and were trounced in a game that still stands on the record books as the worst AFA defeat in history. Other UCLA wins were 22-0 in a rain-soaked 1960 contest, and 19-6 in the 1961 opener. The Cadets posted their wins in 1959 by a 20-7 score, and the above mentioned 17-11 shocker last season.

The winner of Saturday's contest will receive the annual Joe E. Brown Trophy, currently in the possession of the AFA.

Reflecting on the Army loss, Martin offered, "We were just out-muscled. No one has been able to move the ball on them, and we were no exception. (AFA managed only 73 net yards rushing.) The players all agree that the Army line was the "toughest they'd seen, and that we were hit harder last Saturday than ever before."

Even tho the Black Knights dominated the statistics, the Falcons almost pulled out the win as quarterback Terry Isaacson squirmed across the goal line with only 6:28 in the game to put the AFA into a 10-7 lead. However, Army came charging right back and scored the winning tally on a fourth down play with only a minute and a half left in the contest.

Tickets for the Air Force-UCLA encounter have been selling at a rapid pace, according to AFA ticket manager Dick Dadds, altho good seats are still available for UCLA's first Falcon Stadium appearance. Tickets may be purchased at Falcon Stadium, or at the many ticket outlets in Colorado Springs.



STRENGTH AT FULLBACK—Jim Colletto, 191-pound sophomore from Monterey, Calif., has given Coach Bill Barnes unexpected strength at fullback this season as the tough competitor has pushed All-Coast candidate Warren Jackson out of a starting berth with the UCLA Bruins. This Saturday UCLA will be making its first visit to Falcon Stadium to take on the Air Force Academy, and Colletto is expected to be among the starters.

Longhorns Hold Grip On Top Spot

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten, untied Texas is maintaining its tight grip as the nation's No. 1 college football team despite fears by Coach Darrell Royal that the Longhorns may be battling "a complex about those zeroes in the second half."

Texas again drew an overwhelming vote Monday for the top spot in The Associated Press weekly poll, but Royal appeared apprehensive as he spoke in Austin, Tex., about Saturday's game against Baylor, tied with the Longhorns for the Southwest Conference lead.

As for the complex Royal mentioned, it's the fact that Texas has failed to score in the second half in their last three games—won by a total of only 13 points.

Despite the squeakers, Texas gained 45 of the 53 first-place votes of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters for 502 points. Illinois was second with 425 points. The Longhorns defeated SMU 17-12 last Saturday while the Illini crushed Purdue 41-21.

The only major change in the Top Ten was Michigan State's arrival on the scene in the No. 9 spot after a 30-13 walloping of Wisconsin. The Badgers, who had been ranked eighth, dropped from the list.

Mississippi held third, with Navy fourth and Auburn, the only other unbeaten, untied team on the list, in fifth place. Oklahoma was sixth followed by Alabama, Pittsburgh, Michigan State and Ohio State.

With the exception of idle Alabama, all will be in action Saturday and Royal figures his top-ranked Longhorns face a stiff test in Baylor, led by a top passing combination in quarterback Don Trull and flanker Larry Elkins.

Palmer Leads PGA With $128,230

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, currently touring in Australia, are still setting the pace among professional golfers with earnings of $128,230 and $98,990, respectively.

Only Don Finsterwald, in sixth place among the top 18 money-winners, and Mason Rudolph, in seventh place, were able to increase their earnings during last week's Almadea (Calif.) Open.

Mets Give Craig Break; Trade Him to St. Louis

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have good news for you. You've been traded."

Those were the first words Roger Craig heard after Johnny Murphy, the long distance caller from New York, had been assured by the telephone operator he had reached his party.

"I know you will like the club you're going to," said Murphy, who serves as assistant to George Weiss, the New York Mets' president and general manager.

"The first clubs that came to my mind were the Dodgers, Cardinals, Giants and Yankees," Craig recalled as he told how he first learned of Monday's trade which sent him to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for outfielder George Altman and Bill Wakefield, a minor league pitcher.

"I knew I'd be traded," the veteran pitcher said when contacted by telephone at his home in Lakewood, Calif. "I was praying it wouldn't be to another second division club. I felt I suffered enough."

The two seasons he spent with the Mets must have been the most frustrating of Roger's life. He pitched well enough in each of those years to have been a 20-game winner with a contending club. But with the cellar-mired Mets, he was a 20-game loser both years. His combined 15-46 record was misleading. Nine of his 24 defeats last season were by shutouts, four by scores of 1-0.

"This deal should help me mentally as well as physically," said Craig, who will be 33 in March. "The Cards have been the toughest team in the league for me to beat."

Altman, a 30-year-old southpaw swinger, batted only .274 with nine home runs at St. Louis last season. The Cards had expected a great deal more from him after acquiring him from the Chicago Cubs last winter.

Craig was in 46 games last season, starting 36 and completing 14.

"I feel I've never pitched better than last year despite my record," said Craig. "I had better control, better stuff and my arm didn't bother me despite all the work.

"I have no bad feeling toward the Mets. They treated me fine and the fans were wonderful. Those two years with the Mets could be a blessing. I learned to cope with adversity. I think my stay in New York made me a better pitcher because it taught me to bear down harder. There was plenty of opportunity."

BETWEEN THE LINES
by Loy Holman

Scapegoat for Loss??

It could have been predicted before the football season had its first kickoff, but as the final fan was filing out of spacious Soldier Field in Chicago last Saturday there was already mumblings for Ben Martin's blood.

No matter how many times certain people repeated that last weekend's collision between the Air Force Academy and Army was "just another game," it could never be proven to some. As far as they were concerned it wasn't like the other nine on the Air Force schedule — and they were undoubtedly right.

BEN MARTIN
Fans' Handy Target

A coach, of course, is the handiest for the hatchet in any sport. Usually it takes a couple of losing seasons for unhappy alumni or budget-conscious officials to try and solve all problems with one change. But in this case, many thought the entire season was wrapped up in 60 minutes of football on the waterfront of Lake Michigan.

Not wearing a blue uniform myself, I can't place quite that much importance on any inter-service game. But after several conversations on the long trip back from the Windy City on the football special train, I felt like I was in the minority.

This column is not mean for alibi for any team or coach. But it can be used to try and correct what it felt an unjust opinion.

As said before, it was expected that there would be those who would want to drop the ax on Martin should the Air Force lose to Army this season. That they did by a 14-10 count, as everyone knows whether in blue, khaki or the grey flannel of a downtown businessman.

Altho he hasn't been in pads in 18 years since graduation from the Naval Academy, it was Martin's third chance to beat one of the sister academies. The first was the 13-13 tie with Army back in 1959, next was the 35-3 drubbing by Navy the following year, and then came last Saturday's game.

Others have felt this pressure of win or else from some corners. For instance, Dale Hall lasted thru only three losing efforts against Navy until coach Paul Dietzel took over the Black Knights last season. Army and Dietzel have one strike against them from last season's 34-14 loss to the Middies.

To many this over-emphasis on one game may seem silly. But when you consider that in a sense the "alumni" from these schools number well into the millions it's more understandable. Every serviceman or veteran feels he's a part of one of these schools.

Winning the last three games on this year's schedule, of course, would lessen this pressure considerably for Martin. That would give him a 7-3 record or an overall record of 33 wins and 3 ties in 61 games for a .565 percentage—and not bad in an age of weekly big time football.

Just the same there is always plenty of second-guessing from the Monday morning quarterbacks and it was more than plentiful on the "Hangover Special" that carried more than 1,000 fans back from Chicago to Colorado this weekend.

As for the game with Army, it appeared the Air Force was definitely over-matched in physical strength. This has been true in several other games, however, including the victories over Nebraska and Washington.

The trouble is that too many fans are a little tired of hearing that as an excuse. They conceed that Air Force is still a relative neophyte in big time football, but they wonder why the Air Force has to be so ambitious as to be classed as an underdog nearly every time out.

The argument is that if the Air Force finds it impossible to meet muscle with muscle with the rest of the teams they play—or the other service academies—then they should find competition on their own level. It can be explained that because of certain standards it's not easy to find the beef trusts of some civilian schools that offer made-to-order academies and sizable scholarships as payment for playing.

But it's hard to figure for these fans that the same types that play for Army and Navy can't be found at the AFA.

This, of course, is not under absolute control from Martin. Recruiters from the Air Force scour the country each year. They bring back what talent they can. But for their failings, the head coach gets the entire blame from these front-runners.

To anyone who saw the game, it was pretty obvious that the Falcons were being over-powered from the first quarter on. During the first half the AFA managed only three first downs (one on a pass interference penalty) and gained but 43 yards (none by passing).

Meanwhile, Army was pushing the ball all over the field and could easily have been ahead by three touchdowns at the intermission. The Cadets' muscle was never more evident than on the final touchdown drive as they moved 86 yards (counting the kickoff return) in but a baker's dozen plays.

The Air Force had just scored its only TD of the game and the first line regulars needed a rest badly. Thus the second line was in against Army and there was a weight differential of over 20 pounds per man.

But considering what they were up against, the Falcons certainly did all that could have been expected. In the three times they crossed the 50, out of their own territory and where they could open up the offense, they scored twice.

The ironical part of the game was that had the final gun sounded 90 seconds sooner they would have won.

Then I wonder how many would be thursting for Ben Martin's blood?

Army's New Offensive Poise Threatens Navy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sailors beware! Army's new offensive poise, coupled with its great defensive strength, may prove an unexpectedly dangerous gridiron combination in the Army-Navy classic at Philadelphia, Nov. 30.

Army's poise was displayed magnificently before 76,600 at Chicago's Soldiers Field on Saturday when tailback Ken Waldrop, quarterback Carl Stichweh and their comrades combined for a 65-yard drive and touchdown in the closing minutes for a 14-10 victory over Air Force Academy.

The winning touchdown was scored only 80 seconds before the final gun, after an amazingly cool display of strategy and performance in which only one pass was attempted among the 12 plays.

Although time was running out, neither Stichweh nor his mates gave way to desperation gambling. They ground out yardage on that drive with the cold efficiency of a machine.

Meanwhile, at Notre Dame on Saturday, jolly Roger Staubach and other future admirals from Annapolis exploded their Navy power in the third period for a 35-14 victory over the Irish before 59,362.

That was Navy's sixth victory in seven games this season, the same won and lost figures chalked up by Army, which lost only to Minnesota, 8-24. Navy's lone loss was to Southern Methodist, 28-32.

Navy is now ranked fifth among the top 10 major college teams, below Texas (1), Illinois (2), Mississippi (3) and Alabama (4).

Army is not rated among the top 10. Defensively, however, the Cadets were ranked second in rushing defense in the latest ratings last week and fifth in total defense. Its line averages about 213 pounds.

Because of Coach Wayne Hardin's running-and-passing crew, headed by Staubach, the Navy unquestionably will be favored by at least six points to score their fifth straight victory over the West Pointers in their 64th classic.

However, the sailors never met an Army team quarterbacked by "Rollie" Stichweh, a 185-pound junior from Williston Park, N.J., who played parttime offensive halfback and parttime on defense last season.

Tailback Waldrop, a 198-pound senior from Dallas, Tex., scored both touchdowns against Notre Dame Saturday. He ran back a punt 78 yards to set up his first one. He and Stichweh are key runners, aided by fullback Ray Paske of Buffalo, N.Y. Thus far Waldrop has carried 92 times running; Stichweh, 91 time.

Army's strong defense is illustrated by the 494 yards rushing to which its seven opponents have been held, while the Cadets ran for 1,902, an average of 272 per game. Opponents averaged about 70 yards rushing.

The Cadets have two more games before the classic with Navy. They play Utah and Pittsburgh. And because of what happened last season, Coach Paul Dietzel is concentrating on one game at a time. After seven games in 1962, Army was 6-1; but then the Cadets lost to Oklahoma State, Pittsburgh and Navy.

Cheyenne, PPL Champions, Set For Annual Rival Tilt With Bucs

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Eldon Helm's prolific Indians of Cheyenne Mountain, winners of the 1963 Pikes Peak League championship, officially snatched the loop jewels last week with a 27-0 triumph over last year's runner-ups, Florence. This was Cheyenne's final league game.

Helm's charges, in addition to their annual battle with St. Mary's this Saturday are preparing for the State Class AA semi-finals against the winner of the Southwestern League champions on Saturday, Nov. 16. That game will be played across the Western Slope at the site of the Southwestern League champion's home field.

The following Saturday, Nov. 23, the winner of that semi-final encounter will host the victor of the Metropolitan-Southern League game for the state title.

Without the valuable services of ramrod-fullback Greg Cramblit and sepedster halfback Bob Richardson, the Tribe found the Huskies a pesky group, but the corps of reserve backs managed to pull out the Indians' eighth consecutive victory. Prior to the Florence game, the Tribe had averaged 53.1 points per game, while allowing their seven opponents only 4.6 points per game.

Meanwhile, the league's most improved and spirited team from Harrison walloped Manitou, 47-6, behind the surperb running of Panther halfback Lonnie Mayo. Terry MacKey's Panthers, who were rated at the onset of the PPL season as the "dark horse" have developed into a first class club only losing to Cheyenne Mountain, 56-0.

The Panthers' stunning win over the Mustangs also assured the Harrison crew second place in PPL standings. This Saturday the Panthers host winless Leadville to wrap up their slate and the runner-up slot in league standings.

Mayo was a continual menace to the Mustangs as he gathered in 40 points, scoring six touchdowns and four PAT conversions in addition to gaining over 300 yards rushing. The 155-pound senior halfback has accumulated 1,002 yards rushing in seven games, and has picked a total of over 1,300 years in nine games to surpass former Widefield star, Rusty Henninger. In addition, Mayo moved up the individual scoring latter when the Harrison lightweight speed merchant added 40 points to his scoring output to take over second place with 91 total points.

The Tribe's triple-threat quarterback, Gary Graham, took over sole position of the scoring race when the 160-pound senior lugged the pigskin over for two TDs in addition to booting three conversions. Graham has accumulated 93 points in eight game via 10 touchdowns and 33 conversions.

Cramblit viewed last week's game at Florence from the sideline. The 182-pound fullback came down with an infection caused from a cleet shin spiking in practice. But the Cheyenne camp reports that Cramblit will be ready for the inter-city rivalry with St. Mary's of the Denver Parochial League this Saturday at the new Cheyenne Mountain Stadium. Cramblit, in addition to scoring 15 touchdowns, has averaged 100 yards per game rushing.

Starr Holds Ball; Still Can't Play

By GENE W. HINTZ

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—"Let me tell you. It felt real great just holding the ball."

Quarterback Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers was talking about his return to "action" after suffering a broken bone in his throwing hand two weeks ago against the St. Louis Cardinals.

"My hand feels much better I can flex it again." Starr said "But I still have no idea when I'll be able to really play again."

Starr held the ball for Jerry Kramer as the place-kicking guard booted four field goals in four tries and three extra points to aid Green Bay to a 33-14 victory over Pittsburgh, their seventh win in a row this year and their second since Starr, the league's top passer last year, was sidelined.

Replacing Starr at quarterback has been John Roach, who has drawn praise from both Starr and Coach Vince Lombardi.

"John is doing a fine job—just great," said Starr.

"Roach played real well. He called a heady game," said Lombardi after the latest win Sunday.

Lombardi has indicated Starr may be ready to return as a passer when the Packers take on the Chicago Bears at Wrigley Field Nov. 17 in a National Football League Western Division showdown. Both teams are 7-1 this season, with Green Bay's only loss a 10-3 decision to the Bears on opening day.

Starr has started to pass in practice, but most of his time has been spent on exercises along the sidelines and tutoring Roach and Zeke Bratkowski, obtained last week on waivers from the Los Angeles Rams. Bratkowski saw no action last Sunday.

Starr's hand has been in a splint since the injury, and the break seems to have just about healed.

"It's just in getting the flexability back," Lombardi said. "The break heals fast."

Starr's return, limited as it was, gave the entire Green Bay squad—and especially Kramer a lift.

"Having Bart back there really helps," Kramer said. "You can really appreciate having a guy like him holding for you."

Kramer's kicking day Sunday was the best of a two-year career. His field goals covered 23, 36, 12 and 37 yards and with the three extra points raised his scoring total for the year to 71, just one point less than Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, the NFL's leading scorer.

Billy Sumrall, junior tailback, is the lightest player on Mississippi's football team. He scales 170 pounds. The team has four 230-pounders.

MAN VS. BEAST—Victor the nation's most famous wrestling bear and his trainer Tuffy Truesdale are shown working out together. Both will appear tonight at the City Auditorium. Victor will use his 400 pounds against Wildman Bill Fletcher in a special event.

Wrestling Bear Featured In Special Event Tonight

A special event featuring Victor the wrestling bear, will highlight the professional mat card at the City Auditorium tonight, with the first of four matches slated for 8:30 p.m.

Victor, considered the best of wrestling beasts in the past 15 years, is a 400-pound bruin owned by Tuffy Truesdale, a top wrestler himself. The bear has made several public appearances in Colorado in the past and Truesdale has offered anyone $100 if the bear can be beaten.

Victor has been wrestling about six years and has traveled all over the country. At times the animal can be quite vicious, especially when someone teases or aggitates him, and this could be the case tonight.

Meeting Victor will be Wildman Bill Fletcher, a 220-pounder from Seattle who is one of the toughest in the business. This match, naturally, will be for one fall to a finish.

The main event of the evening casts Rocky Smith and Alex Perez against roughians Jose Quintero and Joe Gump in a tag-team match. Smith and Perez combine for 444 pounds, while Quintero and Gump have 455 pounds on their side of the ring.

This match will go for the best two of three falls with an hour time limit.

Smith and Quintero have appeared here before, but it will be the first time for Perez and Gump. Perez comes from Amarillo and likes to stick with rules and regulations, while Gump is straight from the backwoods of Canada and specializes in roughhouse.

The other two matches of the night will see Perez go against Quintero in the opener for one fall over 15 minutes. The semi-main event will match Truesdale against Ricardo Cortez from Juarez, Mex., making his first appearance here this season.

Tickets are available at the City Auditorium box office.

Damage Suit Filed Monday Against Mantle

DALLAS (UPI) — Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees slugger, was charged today with foul dealings with his endorsements and other off-season, money-making activities.

A $200,000 damage suit was filed Monday in behalf of the bankrupt Mickey Mantle Enterprises, Inc., a corporation that originally was to handle all of Mantle's business — except hitting home runs.

The suit charges that the slugger sold his interest in the corporation, then started selling his endorsements of products, personal appearances and other non-baseball activities on his own.

Philip I. Palmer Jr., the trustee, said Mantle signed exclusive rights for use of his name in June, 1956. He sold his 90 per cent interest in the corporation in July, 1960, to Aurora Trading Co. for $90,000. The corporation later went into bankruptcy.

The suit asked that Mantle be ordered to account for all income from outside activities since he sold his interest. Mantle was not available for comment.

Ewbank Moves Up Two Defensive Players

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Weeb Ewbank will hope to give his New York Jets' defensive unit a boost by elevating linebacker Ted Bates and corner back Marshall Starks to starting roles for next Sunday's game against the Houston Oilers.

Ewbank was outspokenly critical of the Jets' pass defense in their 53-7 American Football League loss to San Diego last Saturday.

British 'Team' Defeats Trotters in Mock Game

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—The Harlem Globetrotters, plied with champagne by Prince Philip, clowned their way to defeat in a mock basketball game Monday night against a team of British stage comics and television personalities.

Queen Elizabeth's husband was 12th man (Reserve) for the Lord's Taverners, a sports and social club which raises money for charities.

At halftime, with the Globetrotters leading 20-0, the Prince walked on to the floor in a wine waiter's jacket, wheeling a refreshment trolley.

He handed a silver cup of champagne to each of the Globetrotters. Then he produced an old teapot and poured out cups of tea for the Englishmen.

The Globetrotters flew from the United States specially to give their services without fee for the event, staged during a ball in aid of the British National Playing Fields Association. Some 2,000 watched the game between dancing.

The Taverners had announced in advance that they would win the game, whatever methods were necessary. In the second half the Globetrotetrs goodhumoredly let them get on with it.

Every time a Globetrotter took a shot, someone pulled a string and jerked the basket out of the way.

The Taverners' captain, comedian Richard Hearne, shinnied up the supporting pole of the basket at the other end and popped half a dozen balls into the basket one after another as his teammates handed them up.

The Taverners were declared official winners 26-24.

Huskers Win Over Missouri May Have Cost Claridge

By United Press International

Nebraska's one-point victory over Missouri last weekend may have been a costly one.

Coach Bob Devaney revealed Monday that quarterback Dennis Clarigde aggravated a charley horse in his right thigh in the 13-12 decision. As a result, he may be unable to play Saturday against Kansas.

Nebraska's victory boosted the Cornhuskers into undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight Conference. They have won four games without defeat. But Claridge has been the team's guiding force since last year, when he was named the conference's player of the year.

Without Claridge, the job of quarterback goes to sophomore Fred Duda. Duda ran the team last month in its victory over Kansas State when the same injury kept Claridge on the sideline.

Kansas scout Jack Scofield warned the Jayhawks Monday that Nebraska looked better than Texas, the nation's top ranked team. Scofield saw Texas when he scouted Oklahoma in the Oklahoma - Texas game in Dallas. He saw Nebraska last week.

"Nebraska is the best team I've seen all season," he said. He warned the Jayhawks that Nebraska will outweigh them by 29 pounds per man in the interior line.

Kansas end Jay Roberts, who injured a shoulder last weekend, was placed on the doubtful list for this week's game. But guard Ron Marsh, who was sidelined last week with facial cuts, returned to the lineup.

Oklahoma football coach Bud Wilkinson praised his team for its performance in a 35 - 0 conquest of Colorado last week but warned that the opponent Saturday, Iowa State, will be difficult to stop.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton told his team the same thing about Oklahoma.

Missouri's starting unit practiced for 45 minutes Monday before a rain storm halted practice. Coach Dan Devine said George Seals, a 224-pound end, suffered an ankle sprain last week but may be available to face Colorado Saturday.

Colorado scrimmaged for one hour Monday, and coach Eddie Crowder said his squad would be in its best physical shape in a month when it meets Missouri.

Kansas State and Oklahoma State, the only teams without a victory within the conference, began preparations Monday for non - league games this week.

Kansas State will meet Texas Tech of the Southwest Conference Saturday at Lubbock, Tex., and Oklahoma State will entertain Tulsa of the Missouri Valley Conference in the 45th renewal of their intra - state rivalry.

Invaders Lose Top Defenseman With Bad Ankle

DENVER (UPI)— The Denver Invaders' hopes to get back on top in the Western Hockey League may be temporarily sidelined along with one of their players.

Freddie Hucul, one of Denver's top defensemen and among the best in the league, is out with a twisted ankle.

The Invaders, on top of the league last week, are now tied for third after dropping four straight games, two of them in overtime. They open a tough six-game home stand starting with Portland Friday.

Coach Rudy Pilous said team captain and center Rudy Migay will move to backline duty to replace the injured Hucul.

WAC Lineman, Back of Week

DENVER (AP) — Arizona's Bill Brechler, son of the conference commissioner, is back of the week in the Western Athletic Conference. Teammate John Briscoe won lineman honors.

Brechler, 194 - pound senior from Minneapolis, accounted for 111 yards as the Wildcats' quarterback in their 15-7 upset victory over Wyoming Saturday. He handled the ball 34 times and passed for 76 yards.

Briscow is a junior center on offense and linebacker on defense. The 215-pounder from Indianola, Pa., scored a safety for Arizona when he tackled fullback Wayne Linton in the end zone.

The weekly honors were announced at the Denver office of Paul Brechler, WAC commissioner, from nominations and game reports from member schools.

Set for L. A. Game

CHICAGO (UPI) — Halfback Ronnie Bull, who bruised his leg against Baltimore Sunday, is expected to be back in the lineup next Sunday when the Chicago Bears play Los Angeles. X-rays taken Monday showed that there was no fracture.

Buffs Look to Comeback In Contest With Tigers

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Mashed 35-0 by Oklahoma last Saturday, Colorado's Buffaloes look to a football comeback against Missouri here Saturday.

"I sincerely think Colorado can defeat Missouri," assistant coach Jim McConologue told the Buffalo Roundup Club in Denver Monday.

But McConologue, who scouted Missouri in its loss to Nebraska, didn't detail Colorado's battle plan.

"Missouri's running attack in other years beat you into the ground," McConologue said. "They've gone more this season to passing."

Colorado's morale is high in the face of its 2-won, 5-lost record for the first season under new Coach Eddie Crowder.

Despite the pounding at Oklahoma, the Buffaloes came through in good physical condition.

Halfback Bill Harris, the Buffaloes dependable ball carrier who appeared only briefly against Oklahoma, is recovering from an abdominal muscle strain. Crowder said he expected Buffalo Bill to be ready to go full speed against the Tigers.

Leon Mavity, another hard-running halfback who's been tried at quarterback in several games, will be back in the halfback spot against Missouri. He is expected to add punch to the Buffalo attack.

Kirk Osborn, out the last three games with a bad knee, is back at No. 2 left tackle this week, giving the Buffs needed strength in the line.

Team observers said the players' optimism for the upcoming game with Missouri stemmed from comparative scores of the Iowa State games. Missouri defeated the Cyclones 7-0 on a fourth period pass interception while Colorado lost 19-6 in a closer - than - the - score struggle with Iowa State in the Buffaloes last home game.

Cheyenne, PPL Champions, Set For Annual Rival Tilt With Bucs

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Eldon Helm's prolific Indians of Cheyenne Mountain, winners of the 1963 Pikes Peak League championship, officially snatched the loop jewels last week with a 27-0 triumph over last year's runner-ups, Florence. This was Cheyenne's final league game.

Helm's charges, in addition to their annual battle with St. Mary's this Saturday are preparing for the State Class AA semi-finals against the winner of the Southwestern League champions on Saturday, Nov. 16. That game will be played across the Western Slope at the site of the Southwestern League champion's home field.

The following Saturday, Nov. 23, the winner of that semi-final encounter will host the victor of the Metropolitan-Southern League game for the state title.

Without the valuable services of ramrod-fullback Greg Cramblit and sepedster halfback Bob Richardson, the Tribe found the Huskies a pesky group, but the corps of reserve backs managed to pull out the Indians' eighth consecutive victory. Prior to the Florence game, the Tribe had averaged 53.1 points per game, while allowing their seven opponents only 4.6 points per game.

Meanwhile, the league's most improved and spirited team from Harrison walloped Manitou, 47-6, behind the surperb running of Panther halfback Lonnie Mayo. Terry MacKey's Panthers, who were rated at the onset of the PPL season as the "dark horse" have developed into a first class club only losing to Cheyenne Mountain, 56-0.

The Panthers' stunning win over the Mustangs also assured the Harrison crew second place in PPL standings. This Saturday the Panthers host winless Leadville to wrap up their slate and the runner-up slot in league standings.

Mayo was a continual menace to the Mustangs as he gathered in 40 points, scoring six touchdowns and four PAT conversions in addition to gaining over 300 yards rushing. The 155-pound senior halfback has accumulated 1,002 yards rushing in seven games, and has picked up a total of over 1,300 yards in nine games to surpass former Widefield star, Rusty Henninger. In addition, Mayo moved up the individual scoring ladder when the Harrison lightweight speed merchant added 40 points to his scoring output to take over second place with 91 total points.

The Tribe's triple-threat quarterback, Gary Graham, took over sole position of the scoring race when the 160-pound senior lugged the pigskin over for two TDs in addition to booting three conversions. Graham has accumulated 93 points in eight game via 10 touchdowns and 33 conversions.

Cramblit viewed last week's game at Florence from the sideline. The 182-pound fullback came down with an infection caused from a cleet shin spiking in practice. But the Cheyenne camp reports that Cramblit will be ready for the inter-city rivalry with St. Mary's of the Denver Parochial League this Saturday at the new Cheyenne Mountain Stadium. Cramblit, in addition to scoring 15 touchdowns, has averaged 100 yards per game rushing.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)— "Let me tell you. It felt real great just holding the ball."

Quarterback Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers was talking about his return to "action" after suffering a broken bone in his throwing hand two weeks ago against the St. Louis Cardinals.

"My hand feels much better. I can flex it again," Starr said. "But I still have no idea when I'll be able to really play again."

Starr held the ball for Jerry Kramer as the place - kicking guard booted four field goals in four tries and three extra points to aid Green Bay to a 33-14 victory over Pittsburgh, their seventh win in a row this year and their second since Starr, the league's top passer last year, was sidelined.

Replacing Starr at quarterback has been John Roach, who has drawn praise from both Starr and Coach Vince Lombardi.

"John is doing a fine job—just great," said Starr.

"Roach played real well. He called a heady game," said Lombardi after the latest win Sunday.

Lombardi has indicated Starr may be ready to return as a passer when the Packers take on the Chicago Bears at Wrigley Field Nov. 17 in a National Football League Western Division showdown. Both teams are 7-1 this season, with Green Bay's only loss a 10-3 decision to the Bears on opening day.

Starr has started to pass in practice, but most of his time has been spent on exercises along the sidelines and tutoring Roach and Zeke Bratkowski, obtained last week on waivers from the Los Angeles Rams. Bratkowski saw no action last Sunday.

Starr's hand has been in a splint since the injury, and the break seems to have just about healed.

"It's just in getting the flexability back," Lombardi said. "The break heals fast."

Starr's return, limited as it was, gave the entire Green Bay squad—and especially Kramer a lift.

"Having Bart back there really helps," Kramer said. "You can really appreciate having a guy like him holding for you."

Kramer's kicking day Sunday was the best of a two-year career. His field goals covered 23, 36, 12 and 37 yards and with the three extra points raised his scoring total for the year to 71, just one point less than Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, the NFL's leading scorer.

Billy Sumrall, junior tailback, is the lightest player on Mississippi's football team. He scales 170 pounds. The team has four 230-pounders.

MAN VS. BEAST—Victor the nation's most famous wrestling bear and his trainer Tuffy Truesdale are shown working out together. Both will appear tonight at the City Auditorium. Victor will use his 400 pounds against Wildman Bill Fletcher in a special event.

Wrestling Bear Featured In Special Event Tonight

A special event featuring Victor the wrestling bear, will highlight the professional mat card at the City Auditorium tonight, with the first of four matches slated for 8:30 p.m.

Victor, considered the best of wrestling beasts in the past 15 years, is a 400-pound bruin owned by Tuffy Truesdale, a top wrestler himself. The bear has made several public appearances in Colorado in the past and Truesdale has offered anyone $100 if the bear can be beaten.

Victor has been wrestling about six years and has traveled all over the country. At times the animal can be quite vicious, especially when someone teases or aggitates him, and this could be the case tonight.

Meeting Victor will be Wildman Bill Fletcher, a 220-pounder from Seattle who is one of the toughest in the business. This match, naturally, will be for one fall to a finish.

The main event of the evening casts Rocky Smith and Alex Perez against roughians Jose Quintero and Joe Gump in a tag-team match. Smith and Perez combine for 444 pounds, while Quintero and Gump have 455 pounds on their side of the ring.

This match will go for the best two of three falls with an hour time limit.

Smith and Quintero have appeared here before, but it will be the first time for Perez and Gump. Perez comes from Amarillo and likes to stick with rules and regulations, while Gump is straight from the backwoods of Canada and specializes in roughhouse.

The other two matches of the night will see Perez go against Quintero in the opener for one fall over 15 minutes. The semi-main event will match Truesdale against Ricardo Cortez from Juarez, Mex., making his first appearance here this season.

Tickets are available at the City Auditorium box office.

Damage Suit Filed Monday Against Mantle

DALLAS (UPI) — Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees slugger, was charged today with foul dealings with his endorsements and other off-season, money-making activities.

A $200,000 damage suit was filed Monday in behalf of the bankrupt Mickey Mantle Enterprises, Inc., a corporation that originally was to handle all of Mantle's business — except hitting home runs.

The suit charges that the slugger sold his interest in the corporation, then started selling his endorsements of products, personal appearances and other non-baseball activities on his own.

Philip I. Palmer Jr., the trustee, said Mantle signed exclusive rights for use of his name in June, 1956. He sold his 90 per cent interest in the corporation in July, 1960, to Aurora Trading Co. for $90,000. The corporation later went into bankruptcy.

The suit asked that Mantle be ordered to account for all income from outside activities since he sold his interest. Mantle was not available for comment.

Ewbank Moves Up Two Defensive Players

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Weeb Ewbank will hope to give his New York Jets' defensive unit a boost by elevating linebacker Ted Bates and corner back Marshall Starks to starting roles for next Sunday's game against the Houston Oilers.

Ewbank was outspokenly critical of the Jets' pass defense in their 53-7 American Football League loss to San Diego last Saturday.

British 'Team' Defeats Trotters in Mock Game

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—The Harlem Globetrotters, plied with champagne by Prince Philip, clowned their way to defeat in a mock basketball game Monday night against a team of British stage comics and television personalities.

Queen Elizabeth's husband was 12th man (Reserve) for the Lord's Taverners, a sports and social club which raises money for charities.

At halftime, with the Globetrotters leading 20-0, the Prince walked on to the floor in a wine waiter's jacket, wheeling a refreshment trolley.

He handed a silver cup of champagne to each of the Globetrotters. Then he produced an old teapot and poured out cups of tea for the Englishmen.

The Globetrotters flew from the United States specially to give their services without fee for the event, staged during a ball in aid of the British National Playing Fields Association. Some 2,000 watched the game between dancing.

The Taverners had announced in advance that they would win the game, whatever methods were necessary. In the second half the Globetrotetrs good-humoredly let them get on with it.

Every time a Globetrotter took a shot, someone pulled a string and jerked the basket out of the way.

The Taverners' captain, comedian Richard Hearne, shinnied up the supporting pole of the basket at the other end and popped half a dozen balls into the basket one after another as his teammates handed them up.

The Taverners were declared official winners 26-24.

Huskers Win Over Missouri May Have Cost Claridge

By United Press International

Nebraska's one - point victory over Missouri last weekend may have been a costly one.

Coach Bob Devaney revealed Monday that quarterback Dennis Clarigde aggravated a charley horse in his right thigh in the 13-12 decision. As a result, he may be unable to play Saturday against Kansas.

Nebraska's victory boosted the Cornhuskers into undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight Conference. They have won four games without defeat. But Claridge has been the team's guiding force since last year, when he was named the conference's player of the year.

Without Claridge, the job of quarterback goes to sophomore Fred Duda. Duda ran the team last month in its victory over Kansas State when the same injury kept Claridge on the sideline.

Kansas scout Jack Scofield warned the Jayhawks Monday that Nebraska looked better than Texas, the nation's top ranked team. Scofield saw Texas when he scouted Oklahoma in the Oklahoma - Texas game in Dallas. He saw Nebraska last week.

"Nebraska is the best team I've seen all season," he said. He warned the Jayhawks that Nebraska will outweigh them by 29 pounds per man in the interior line.

Kansas end Jay Roberts, who injured a shoulder last weekend, was placed on the doubtful list for this week's game. But guard Ron Marsh, who was sidelined last week with facial cuts, returned to the lineup.

Oklahoma football coach Bud Wilkinson praised his team for its performance in a 35 - 0 conquest of Colorado last week but warned that the opponent Saturday, Iowa State, will be difficult to stop.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton told his team the same thing about Oklahoma.

Missouri's starting unit practiced for 45 minutes Monday before a rain storm halted practice. Coach Dan Devine said George Seals, a 224 - pound end, suffered an ankle sprain last week but may be available to face Colorado Saturday.

Colorado scrimmaged for one hour Monday, and coach Eddie Crowder said his squad would be in its best physical shape in a month when it meets Missouri.

Kansas State and Oklahoma State, the only teams without a victory within the conference, began preparations Monday for non - league games this week.

Kansas State will meet Texas Tech of the Southwest Conference Saturday at Lubbock, Tex., and Oklahoma State will entertain Tulsa of the Missouri Valley Conference in the 45th renewal of their intra - state rivalry.

Invaders Lose Top Defenseman With Bad Ankle

DENVER (UPI)— The Denver Invaders' hopes to get back on top in the Western Hockey League may be temporarily sidelined along with one of their players.

Freddie Hucul, one of Denver's top defensemen and among the best in the league, is out with a twisted ankle.

The Invaders, on top of the league last week, are now tied for third after dropping four straight games, two of them in overtime. They open a tough six-game home stand starting with Portland Friday.

Coach Rudy Pilous said team captain and center Rudy Migay will move to backline duty to replace the injured Hucul.

WAC Lineman, Back of Week

DENVER (AP) — Arizona's Bill Brechler, son of the conference commissioner, is back of the week in the Western Athletic Conference. Teammate John Briscoe won lineman honors.

Brechler, 194 - pound senior from Minneapolis, accounted for 111 yards as the Wildcats' quarterback in their 15-7 upset victory over Wyoming Saturday. He handled the ball 34 times and passed for 76 yards.

Briscow is a junior center on offense and linebacker on defense. The 215-pounder from Indianola, Pa., scored a safety for Arizona when he tackled fullback Wayne Linton in the end zone.

The weekly honors were announced at the Denver office of Paul Brechler, WAC commissioner, from nominations and game reports from member schools.

Set for L. A. Game

CHICAGO (UPI) — Halfback Ronnie Bull, who bruised his leg against Baltimore Sunday, is expected to be back in the lineup next Sunday when the Chicago Bears play Los Angeles. X-rays taken Monday showed that there was no fracture.

Buffs Look to Comeback In Contest With Tigers

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Mashed 35-0 by Oklahoma last Saturday, Colorado's Buffaloes look to a football comeback against Missouri here Saturday.

"I sincerely think Colorado can defeat Missouri," assistant coach Jim McConologue told the Buffalo Roundup Club in Denver Monday.

But McConologue, who scouted Missouri in its loss to Nebraska, didn't detail Colorado's battle plan.

"Missouri's running attack in other years beat you into the ground," McConologue said. "They've gone more this season to passing."

Colorado's morale is high in the face of its 2-won, 5-lost record for the first season under new Coach Eddie Crowder.

Despite the pounding at Oklahoma, the Buffaloes came through in good physical condition.

Halfback Bill Harris, the Buffaloes dependable ball carrier who appeared only briefly against Oklahoma, is recovering from an abdominal muscle strain. Crowder said he expected Buffalo Bill to be ready to go full speed against the Tigers.

Leon Mavity, another hard-running halfback who's been tried at quarterback in several games, will be back in the halfback spot against Missouri. He is expected to add punch to the Buffalo attack.

Kirk Osborn, out the last three games with a bad knee, is back at No. 2 left tackle this week, giving the Buffs needed strength in the line.

Team observers said the players' optimism for the upcoming game with Missouri stemmed from comparative scores of the Iowa State games. Missouri defeated the Cyclones 7-0 on a fourth period pass interception while Colorado lost 19-6 in a closer - than - the - score struggle with Iowa State in the Buffaloes last home game.

INTRODUCING THE DEPENDABLES FOR '64

We have designs to get you in our power

Our engineers are a wily group of guys who spend most of their time dreaming up ways to win your approval. Take the Dodge Polara 500. You'd be hard-pressed to find a car that's got more going for you. Deeply-padded, contour-formed bucket seats. All-vinyl upholstery. Sill-to-sill carpeting. Padded dash. Center console. And lots of other trimmings. But that's only the half of it.

Perhaps our approach to power will further illustrate the point.

With the Polara 500 you aren't baked in on a certain engine. You can choose from a standard 318 cu. in. V8 up to a street-version of our walloping, all-out 426 cu. in. Ramcharger V8. Compromise? Nope. We just feel that a freedom of choice is the surest road to your approval.

That's our way of doing business—giving you lots of car and lots of satisfaction at a price that's hard to quarrel with.

Your Dodge Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the point.

Cheyenne, PPL Champions, Set For Annual Rival Tilt With Bucs

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Eldon Helm's prolific Indians of Cheyenne Mountain, winners of the 1963 Pikes Peak League championship, officially snatched the loop jewels last week with a 27-0 triumph over last year's runner-ups, Florence. This was Cheyenne's final league game.

Helm's charges, in addition to their annual battle with St. Mary's this Saturday are preparing for the State Class AA semi-finals against the winner of the Southwestern League champions on Saturday, Nov. 16. That game will be played across the Western Slope at the site of the Southwestern League champion's home field.

The following Saturday, Nov. 23, the winner of that semi-final encounter will host the victor of the Metropolitan-Southern League game for the state title.

Without the valuable services of ramrod-fullback Greg Cramblit and sepedster halfback Bob Richardson, the Tribe found the Huskies a pesky group, but the corps of reserve backs managed to pull out the Indians' eighth consecutive victory. Prior to the Florence game, the Tribe had averaged 53.1 points per game, while allowing their seven opponents only 4.6 points per game.

Meanwhile, the league's most improved and spirited team from Harrison walloped Manitou, 47-6, behind the surperb running of Panther halfback Lonnie Mayo. Terry MacKey's Panthers, who were rated at the onset of the PPL season as the "dark horse" have developed into a first class club only losing to Cheyenne Mountain, 56-0.

The Panthers' stunning win over the Mustangs also assured the Harrison crew second place in PPL standings. This Saturday the Panthers host winless Leadville to wrap up their slate and the runner-up slot in league standings.

Mayo was a continual menace to the Mustangs as he gathered in 40 points, scoring six touchdowns and four PAT conversions in addition to gaining over 300 yards rushing. The 155-pound senior halfback has accumulated 1,002 yards rushing in seven games, and has picked a total of over 1,300 years in nine games to surpass former Widefield star, Rusty Henninger. In addition, Mayo moved up the individual scoring latter when the Harrison lightweight speed merchant added 40 points to his scoring output to take over second place with 91 total points.

The Tribe's triple-threat quarterback, Gary Graham, took over sole position of the scoring race when the 160-pound senior lugged the pigskin over for two TDs in addition to booting three conversions. Graham has accumulated 93 points in eight game via 10 touchdowns and 33 conversions.

Cramblit viewed last week's game at Florence from the sideline. The 182-pound fullback came down with an infection caused from a cleet shin spiking in practice. But the Cheyenne camp reports that Cramblit will be ready for the inter-city rivalry with St. Mary's of the Denver Parochial League this Saturday at the new Cheyenne Mountain Stadium. Cramblit, in addition to scoring 15 touchdowns, has averaged 100 yards per game rushing.

Starr Holds Ball; Still Can't Play

By GENE W. HINTZ

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)— "Let me tell you. It felt real great just holding the ball."

Quarterback Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers was talking about his return to "action" after suffering a broken bone in his throwing hand two weeks ago against the St. Louis Cardinals.

"My hand feels much better I can flex it again," Starr said. "But I still have no idea when I'll be able to really play again."

Starr held the ball for Jerry Kramer as the place - kicking guard booted four field goals in four tries and three extra points to aid Green Bay to a 33-14 victory over Pittsburgh, their seventh win in a row this year and their second since Starr, the league's top passer last year, was sidelined.

Replacing Starr at quarterback has been John Roach, who has drawn praise from both Starr and Coach Vince Lombardi.

"John is doing a fine job—just great," said Starr.

"Roach played real well. He called a heady game," said Lombardi after the latest win Sunday.

Lombardi has indicated Starr may be ready to return as a passer when the Packers take on the Chicago Bears at Wrigley Field Nov. 17 in a National Football League Western Division showdown. Both teams are 7-1 this season, with Green Bay's only loss a 10-3 decision to the Bears on opening day.

Starr has started to pass in practice, but most of his time has been spent on exercises along the sidelines and tutoring Roach and Zeke Bratkowski, obtained last week on waivers from the Los Angeles Rams. Bratkowski saw no action last Sunday.

Starr's hand has been in a splint since the injury, and the break seems to have just about healed.

"It's just in getting the flexability back," Lombardi said. "The break heals fast."

Starr's return, limited as it was, gave the entire Green Bay squad—and especially Kramer a lift.

"Having Bart back there really helps," Kramer said. "You can really appreciate having a guy like him holding for you."

Kramer's kicking day Sunday was the best of a two-year career. His field goals covered 23, 36, 12 and 37 yards and with the three extra points raised his scoring total for the year to 71, just one point less than Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, the NFL's leading scorer.

Billy Sumrall, junior tailback, is the lightest player on Mississippi's football team. He scales 170 pounds. The team has four 230-pounders.

Damage Suit Filed Monday Against Mantle

DALLAS (UPI) — Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees slugger, was charged today with foul dealings with his endorsements and other off-season, money-making activities.

A $200,000 damage suit was filed Monday in behalf of the bankrupt Mickey Mantle Enterprises, Inc., a corporation that originally was to handle all of Mantle's business — except hitting home runs.

The suit charges that the slugger sold his interest in the corporation, then started selling his endorsements of products, personal appearances and other non-baseball activities on his own.

Philip I. Palmer Jr., the trustee, said Mantle signed exclusive rights for use of his name in June, 1956. He sold his 90 per cent interest in the corporation in July, 1960, to Aurora Trading Co. for $90,000. The corporation later went into bankruptcy.

The suit asked that Mantle be ordered to account for all income from outside activities since he sold his interest. Mantle was not available for comment.

British 'Team' Defeats Trotters in Mock Game

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—The Harlem Globetrotters, plied with champagne by Prince Philip, clowned their way to defeat in a mock basketball game Monday night against a team of British stage comics and television personalities.

Queen Elizabeth's husband was 12th man (Reserve) for the Lord's Taverners, a sports and social club which raises money for charities.

At halftime, with the Globetrotters leading 20-0, the Prince walked on to the floor in a wine waiter's jacket, wheeling a refreshment trolley.

He handed a silver cup of champagne to each of the Globetrotters. Then he produced an old teapot and poured out cups of tea for the Englishmen.

The Globetrotters flew from the United States specially to give their services without fee for the event, staged during a ball in aid of the British National Playing Fields Association. Some 2,000 watched the game between dancing.

The Taverners had announced in advance that they would win the game, whatever methods were necessary. In the second half the Globetrotetrs good-humoredly let them get on with it.

Every time a Globetrotter took a shot, someone pulled a string and jerked the basket out of the way.

The Taverners' captain, comedian Richard Hearne, shinnied up the supporting pole of the basket at the other end and popped half a dozen balls into the basket one after another as his teammates handed them up.

The Taverners were declared official winners 26-24.

Huskers Win Over Missouri May Have Cost Claridge

By United Press International

Nebraska's one - point victory over Missouri last weekend may have been a costly one.

Coach Bob Devaney revealed Monday that quarterback Dennis Clarigde aggravated a charley horse in his right thigh in the 13-12 decision. As a result, he may be unable to play Saturday against Kansas.

Nebraska's victory boosted the Cornhuskers into undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight Conference. They have won four games without defeat. But Claridge has been the team's guiding force since last year, when he was named the conference's player of the year.

Without Claridge, the job of quarterback goes to sophomore Fred Duda. Duda ran the team last month in its victory over Kansas State when the same injury kept Claridge on the sideline.

Kansas scout Jack Scofield warned the Jayhawks Monday that Nebraska looked better than Texas, the nation's top ranked team. Scofield saw Texas when he scouted Oklahoma in the Oklahoma - Texas game in Dallas. He saw Nebraska last week.

"Nebraska is the best team I've seen all season," he said. He warned the Jayhawks that Nebraska will outweigh them by 29 pounds per man in the interior line.

Kansas end Jay Roberts, who injured a shoulder last weekend, was placed on the doubtful list for this week's game. But guard Ron Marsh, who was sidelined last week with facial cuts, returned to the lineup.

Oklahoma football coach Bud Wilkinson praised his team for its performance in a 35 - 0 conquest of Colorado last week but warned that the opponent Saturday, Iowa State, will be difficult to stop.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton told his team the same thing about Oklahoma.

Missouri's starting unit practiced for 45 minutes Monday before a rain storm halted practice. Coach Dan Devine said George Seals, a 224 - pound end, suffered an ankle sprain last week but may be available to face Colorado Saturday.

Colorado scrimmaged for one hour Monday, and coach Eddie Crowder said his squad would be in its best physical shape in a month when it meets Missouri.

Kansas State and Oklahoma State, the only teams without a victory within the conference, began preparations Monday for non - league games this week.

Kansas State will meet Texas Tech of the Southwest Conference Saturday at Lubbock, Tex., and Oklahoma State will entertain Tulsa of the Missouri Valley Conference in the 45th renewal of their intra - state rivalry.

Invaders Lose Top Defenseman With Bad Ankle

DENVER (UPI)— The Denver Invaders' hopes to get back on top in the Western Hockey League may be temporarily sidelined along with one of their players.

Freddie Hucul, one of Denver's top defensemen and among the best in the league, is out with a twisted ankle.

The Invaders, on top of the league last week, are now tied for third after dropping four straight games, two of them in overtime. They open a tough six-game home stand starting with Portland Friday.

Coach Rudy Pilous said team captain and center Rudy Migay will move to backline duty to replace the injured Hucul.

WAC Lineman, Back of Week

DENVER (AP) — Arizona's Bill Brechler, son of the conference commissioner, is back of the week in the Western Athletic Conference. Teammate John Briscoe won lineman honors.

Brechler, 194 - pound senior from Minneapolis, accounted for 111 yards as the Wildcats' quarterback in their 15-7 upset victory over Wyoming Saturday. He handled the ball 34 times and passed for 76 yards.

Briscow is a junior center on offense and linebacker on defense. The 215-pounder from Indianola, Pa., scored a safety for Arizona when he tackled fullback Wayne Linton in the end zone.

The weekly honors were announced at the Denver office of Paul Brechler, WAC commissioner, from nominations and game reports from member schools.

Set for L. A. Game

CHICAGO (UPI) — Halfback Ronnie Bull, who bruised his leg against Baltimore Sunday, is expected to be back in the lineup next Sunday when the Chicago Bears play Los Angeles. X-rays taken Monday showed that there was no fracture.

Buffs Look to Comeback In Contest With Tigers

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Mashed 35-0 by Oklahoma last Saturday, Colorado's Buffaloes look to a football comeback against Missouri here Saturday.

"I sincerely think Colorado can defeat Missouri," assistant coach Jim McConologue told the Buffalo Roundup Club in Denver Monday.

But McConologue, who scouted Missouri in its loss to Nebraska, didn't detail Colorado's battle plan.

"Missouri's running attack in other years beat you into the ground," McConologue said. "They've gone more this season to passing."

Colorado's morale is high in the face of its 2-won, 5-lost record for the first season under new Coach Eddie Crowder.

Despite the pounding at Oklahoma, the Buffaloes came through in good physical condition.

Halfback Bill Harris, the Buffaloes dependable ball carrier who appeared only briefly against Oklahoma, is recovering from an abdominal muscle strain. Crowder said he expected Buffalo Bill to be ready to go full speed against the Tigers.

Leon Mavity, another hard-running halfback who's been tried at quarterback in several games, will be back in the halfback spot against Missouri. He is expected to add punch to the Buffalo attack.

Kirk Osborn, out the last three games with a bad knee, is back at No. 2 left tackle this week, giving the Buffs needed strength in the line.

Team observers said the players' optimism for the upcoming game with Missouri stemmed from comparative scores of the Iowa State games. Missouri defeated the Cyclones 7-0 on a fourth period pass interception while Colorado lost 19-6 in a closer - than - the - score struggle with Iowa State in the Buffaloes last home game.

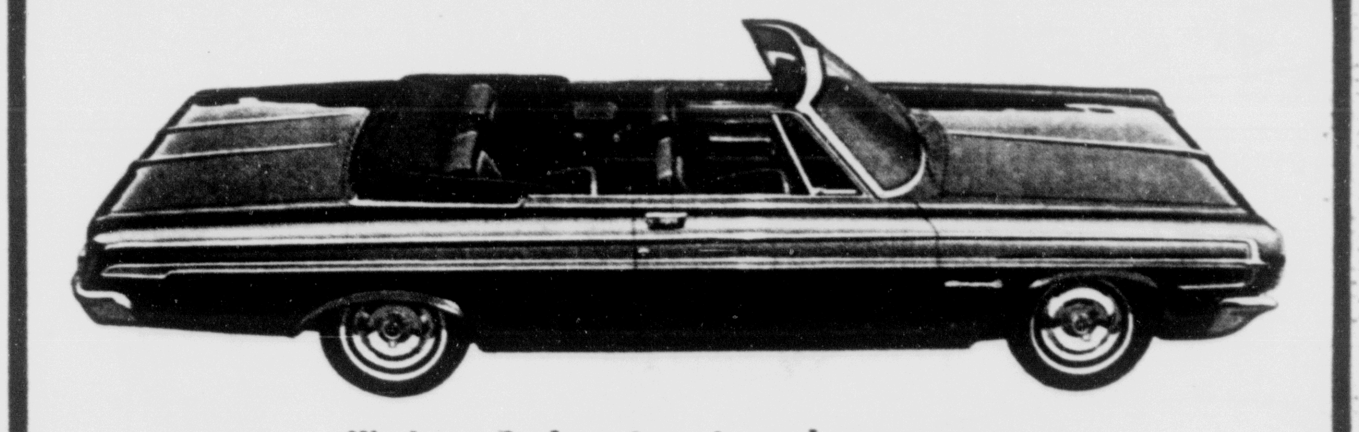
INTRODUCING THE DEPENDABLES FOR '64



Our engineers are a wily group of guys who spend most of their time dreaming up ways to win your approval. Take the Dodge Polara 500. You'd be hard-pressed to find a car that's got more going for you. Deeply-padded, contour-formed bucket seats. All-vinyl upholstery. Sill-to-sill carpeting. Padded dash. Center console. And lots of other trimmings. But that's only the half of it.

Perhaps our approach to power will further illustrate the point.

With the Polara 500 you aren't baked in on a certain engine. You can choose from a standard 318 cu. in. V8 up to a street-version of our walloping, all-out 426 cu. in. Ramcharger V8. Compromise? Nope. We just feel that a freedom of choice is the surest road to your approval.

That's our way of doing business—giving you lots of car and lots of satisfaction at a price that's hard to quarrel with.

Your Dodge Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the point.

VINCENT PRICE GOES TO ENGLAND FOR FILM

HOLLYWOOD. — Vincent Price left for England last week to star in "Mask of the Red Death" for an English-American company. Hazel Court, a big name in English whodunits before she married Don Taylor and moved to Hollywood, co-stars. And Don's going along to direct Eve Arden's TV pilot over there. Vince will stop off in Albuquerque to get a peek at his new grandson. Ladies on the lecture circuit are devastated that he won't be touring this year. But he'll appear with the St. Louis Symphony doing "Peter and the Wolf" and Ogden Nash's treatment of "The Nutcracker Suite."

Gig Young and his wife are expecting a baby. They were married two months ago. Baby arrives in June. She tried to keep this news under wraps by signing into St. John's Hospital under an assumed name.

Wonder if Sophia Loren is really ill? Could be she doesn't want to do "Shot in the Dark." I don't blame her. It's not her dish. Julie Harris played it on Broadway; was perfect as the simple little French servant girl you'd never suspect of committing a murder. There'd be no suspense with Sophia.

Marlon Brando doesn't have a picture coming up, so he'll take off again for Tahiti, his favorite spot. And from there he continues 'round the world. With whom I wouldn't know. He has three homes here: One for ex-wife Anna Kashfi and son; one in a canyon for Movita, who has a second child by him; and a hilltop for himself. But he's rarely in residence.

Sandy Koufax makes his greatest pitch this year for Easter Seals, along with Bob Hope, Sidney Poiter, Lucy, Andy Williams, and little me. Before this, Sandy is getting a big dinner thrown for him at Hillcrest Country Club with Milton Berle as emcee. Unfortunately for the dames, it's stag. Who said we got equal rights?

The first 10 TV shows in the latest Nielsen rating are: Beverly Hillbillies, Bonanza, Lucy, Dick Van Dyke, Andy Griffith, Petticoat Junction, Danny Thomas, Red Skelton, Perry Mason, and Donna Reed. Except Perry and Bonanza, they're all comedy shows. That proves what the American family wants. There's not a downbeat, psychological, sinful, or horror story in the lot.

Carol Burnett will have hefty support on her first show after the baby arrives. Both Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas will assist.

Approximately 8 million families in America own more than one car.

VINCENT PRICE GOES TO ENGLAND FOR FILM

HOLLYWOOD, — Vincent Price left for England last week to star in "Mask of the Red Death" for an English-American company. Hazel Court, a big name in English whodunits before she married Don Taylor and moved to Hollywood, co-stars. And Don's going along to direct Eve Arden's TV pilot over there. Vince will stop off in Albuquerque to get a peek at his new grandson. Ladies on the lecture circuit are devastated that he won't be touring this year. But he'll appear with the St. Louis Symphony doing "Peter and the Wolf" and Ogden Nash's treatment of "The Nutcracker Suite."

Scientists Will Continue To Keep Tab on Fallout

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the treaty barring all but underground nuclear weapons tests, American government scientists still see t need for keeping tabs on radioactive fallout.

For one thing, they want to be alert in the event of a break in the treaty.

Neither do they forsee any let down in the intensive research aimed at getting a better understanding of fallout and its possible — though still unproven — effects on the health of people now living or generations yet unborn.

Of primary interest is the fallout debris still lurking in the stratosphere, or long since fallen to earth, from past tests dating back nearly 20 years.

The fallout still aloft will continue to come down for about another decade, although the peak is believed to have passed just recently.

Vigilance is to be maintained for various reasons, including the possibilities that:

—Signers of the U.S.-British Soviet test-ban treaty might break it.

—France, a non-signer, might conduct enough tests to add significant quantities of fallout to the debris still aloft from past tests of all nations.

—Other nations, notably Red China, might develop nuclear weapons and start testing them.

—Unforeseen, but still conceivable, release of radioactive materials might occur from underground weapons tests still allowable under the treaty.

—Experiments designed to explore the fasibility of using nuclear explosions for peaceful uses, such as building canals and harbors, might release unexpected quantities of fallout.

— Accidents might occur among the growing number of nuclear power plants, and in the course of experiments designed to use nuclear energy in space vehicles.

In addition, the scientists say, there is a need to keep tabs on the fallout still aloft or now on the ground—and to conduct other kinds of radiation research—for these reasons:

1. Despite some 20 years of research, and plenty of controversy among scientists, there still is no firm answer to the question: How great — or how little — is the hazard to health from fallout in the relatively small amounts resulting from bomb tests so far? In fact is there any hazard?

2. There's a constant need to recheck on estimates of the amount of fallout still aloft, and upon predictions about its rate of falling to the earth and its distribution there.

3. There is a constant need of rechecking the accuracy of predictions and theories concerning how much fallout will get into the food chain and how much is getting in, or will get in, the bodies of people.

4. There is a need to develop practical and economic countermeasures for fallout — preferably short of actual condemnation of food contaminated with it — in case authorities ever should deem it necessary to order such countermeasures.

5. There is a need to develop radiation protection guides specifically for fallout, as distinguished from guides available now only for workers in the atomic energy industry. The Federal Radiation Council at the urging of Congress, has promised such fallout guides by June 1964.

But the council scientists stress that even when such guides are at hand, they will not constitute a magic line between radiation that is safe and radiation that is dangerous — anymore than do the guides that are now available for industry.

Rather, they would be designed as guidelines of exposure below which any risk to health might be deemed acceptable—and above which it would be deemed necessary to institute countermeasures even though those countermeasures might be very costly financially and possibly even pose health risks greater than those theoretically posed by fallout. That's why a lot of work is going on to develop safe and practical countermeasures.

As to the uncertainties about health hazards from fallout so far—at least in so far as degree of hazard is concerned — Dr. Paul Tompkins, executive director of the FRC, put it this way in testifying at the recent fallout hearings of the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee:

"We can't prove the presence of deleterious effects. We can not prove the absence. The possibility of deleterious effects is assumed. The existence has not been demonstrated. It is only the possibility which has been assumed."

All scientists are agreed that large amounts of radiation from fallout and other nuclear rays—as would be released in nuclear warfare — would be lethal or at least would cause sickness. They also know that excessive amounts of medical X rays can cause impairment.

But the questions that still plague them are these:

"Is there actual danger to the health of some people now living or to some among generations yet unborn from fallout radiation which so far at least, is much less than that always received by people from natural background radiation, such as cosmic rays?

"And, if one assumes — as we do — that there is such a possible hazard, just how little or how much fallout does it take to cause a disease, defect, or impairment that we can recognize, and can directly link to fallout?"

To date, there has been no proof of any mishap from fallout to anyone in the whole world, with the exception of about 230 natives of Rongelap Island in the Pacific who suffered bodily burns from large quantities of fallout accidentally swept over their island from a nuclear test explosion at Bikini.

DON'T DEPEND ON HEADACHE REMEDIES TO RELIEVE NERVOUS TENSION

When everyday nervous tension drives you half-crazy... don't depend on headache remedies to relieve it... they just WON'T WORK!

Instead get ALVA-TRANQUIL tablets

Unlike aspirin and other ordinary headache remedies that merely relieve pain . . . Alva-Tranquil tablets are specially formulated to relieve common nervous tension. Doctors often prescribe the ingredients used in the exclusive Alva-Tranquil formula. Here's why . . .

Aspirin and other ordinary headache remedies were never intended to relieve nervous tension. Alva-Tranquil Tablets with their effective sedative action, were especially formulated to relieve this simple nervous tension. Dissolve slowly over a long period of time for continuous release of medication so necessary to relieve nervous tension.

So when you feel depressed, jumpy, on edge, get Alva-Tranquil tablets. They're never habit-forming. So safe as directed, you don't need a prescription.

Don't depend on headache remedies to relieve nervous tension. Instead, get Alva-Tranquil® at all Druggists.

Glen Eyrie Tour Slated for TV Viewers

Viewers will be shown thru Glen Eyrie during a Wednesday evening telecast on KKTV Channel 11. The Tudor-style Castle, nestled in Queen's canyon north of the Garden of Gods in Colorado Springs, was built at the turn of the century by General William Jackson Palmer, founder of the city.

In 1953 The Navigators purchased the Glen for use as international headquarters, and are now engaged in restoring the country home to its original beauty.

"Glen Eyrie and The Navigators" will be presented at 7 p.m. Wednesday; and the program will include interviews with Miss Alice Van Diest, whose father was in charge of the construction of the Castle; Rod Sargent, The Navigators executive vice president and other Navigator staff members. Old photographs of the construction during the days of General Palmer will be integrated into the filmed tour of the grounds and the building.

The program is another in a continuing series of public interest programs presented on Project 11 by Channel 11 News. Hal Kennedy is producing and narrating "Glen Eyrie and The Navigators."

During the program Miss Van Diest recalls firsthand some of the parties given at the Glen by General Palmer and recounts some of her father's experiences during the construction of the historical building.

Sargent explains the basic aims of the Navigators and tells the story of the founding of the now world-wide organization.

Kennedy shows viewers thru the suite used by General Palmer on the second floor of the Castle, the bowling alley and old billiard table put in by the General and the dozens of fireplaces installed when the structure was built.

Largest Silver Mine Is Faced by Strike

KELLOG, Idaho (AP) — An executive of the nation's largest silver producing mine here said no talks have been scheduled between company representatives and the United Steelworkers of America to halt a strike at the mine.

Brad Johnson, vice president and manager of the Sunshine Mine, said pickets are expected back at the mine today.

Contracts talks begun Oct. 2 broke down Sunday night when the union refused to accept a company proposal to discontinue free bus service to the mine from surrounding communities. The steelworkers' contract expired last wek.

The mining company offered the nearly 400 miners 9½ cents an hour pay boosts. Union officials said the boost wouldn't compensate for loss of the bus service.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WSHINGTON. — When Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) died suddenly last Aug. 10 it appeared that during his 24 years in Congress he had accumulated little in the way of savings to take care of his widow, Nancy, and their four children.

She was believed to be largely dependent on his $7,000-a-year Senate pension. Now it turns out from probate proceedings in Chattanooga, Tenn., that Kefauver owned about $300,000 in stocks and bonds when he died.

This fact was bound to cause some eyebrow-raising and to disturb many Americans to whom Kefauver was a sort of political idol for his crime busting and other investigations as a senator. Especially since at least $12,000 of these holdings were in stocks of drug firms. At the time of his death, Kefauver was carrying on an intensive investigation of the price structure in the drug industry.

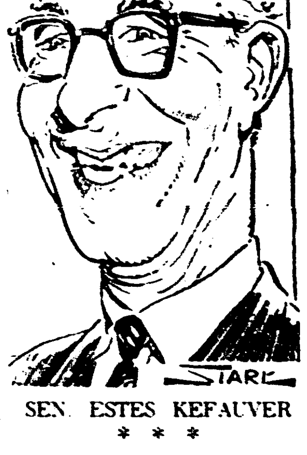
It certainly behooves lawyers representing the family to clarify formally the circumstances surrounding this accumulation of a comfortable fortune. Until they do, there is bound to be conjecture about the senator's conduct in office. This is unfortunate, but it invariably happens when a national political figure, considered poor, dies rich.

An initial effort to find out how Kefauver got so much money in no wise indicates any wrong-doing. Proof of this, however, should be forthcoming from those who know all the financial facts. But what we have already learned deserves to be passed on to anyone wondering where Kefauver got the money.

His friends in Chattanooga are convinced that he made some of his investments while practicing law there in the 1930s. But the bulk of the fortune, according to a longtime family friend here, came from a somewhat eccentric aunt in Madisonville, Tenn., Estes' birthplace.

FAVORITE NEPHEW OF A WEALTHY AUNT

This aunt, Mrs. Charlotte Johns, is now in her 90s. She is the widow of a minister and the sister of Kefauver's father, a farmer.



SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

The senator had been her favorite nephew. She had planned to leave all her money, estimated at a million dollars, to him. During the years when he was in Congress, however, she occasionally bought stocks and bonds in his name. According to this version, it was in this manner that the bulk of his holdings were acquired.

The senator had knowledge of this, it was said. On this basis he could well have been embarrassed by the fact that there were drug firm stocks in his name while he was investigating that particular industry. If so, it appears in hindsight that he would have been politically wise to sell them.

That he did not shows up now in the Tennessee Probate Court file. He owned, when he died, 200 shares of Rexall drug and Chemical worth now about $7,775, as well as 100 shares of Charles Pfizer (drug) Co., valued at $5,000.

LIVED UP TO LAST DOLLAR OF SENATE INCOME

Most intriguing is the general lack of knowledge of his substantial holdings. At one time, shortly after his death, there was an effort among his senate colleagues to raise a fund to help his family.

It was common knowledge in the Senate that Kefauver had lived close to the limit of the income from his office. He picked up a little extra on the lecture platform. His law practice in Chattanooga, once he was in Congress, was not a source of income. He was too busy politicking.

Every time he ran for office, presumably he had to strap himself financially, particularly in 1956 when he ran for vice president on the ticket with Adlai Stevenson.

The fact that Kefauver's big holdings never have leaked out until now is, in a way, typical of the way he often operated.

He was always a strangely silent figure who gave the impression of keeping secrets well within himself, and often for no logical reason.

We think it is only fair to put his finances in this perspective, pending disclosures from those sources which must know the facts. But until this is done, there is bound to be considerable whispering.

In the first place, it would have been impossible for the late senator to have built up such a fortune from his congressional pay alone.

When he came to Congress as a representative in a special election in 1939, his salary was $10,500 a year. It remained that when he went to the Senate in 1954. It was not until 1955 that congressional pay raised to $22,500 a year. That is still the salary. During those 24 years, Kefauver's total accumulated pay as a member of Congress was about $334,000 — little more than the $300,000 in investments he left.

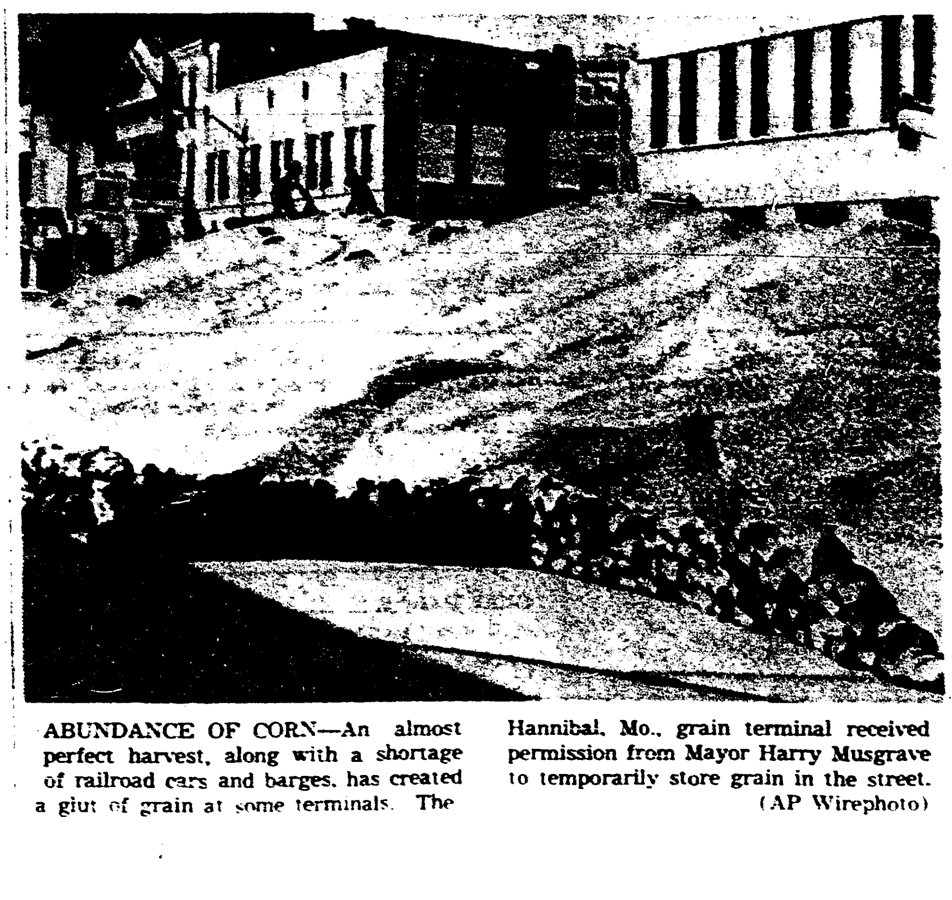
There are valid reasons why full light should be shed now on the Kefauver fortune.

One concerns the Bobby Baker case and the way this Senate Democratic flunky made a fortune on the side. Until congressional employes and members of Congress are required to give annual accounting of their sources of income, there will always be a breath of suspicion when a senator who came to Congress poor, dies rich.

Another concerns the present drive to raise congressional pay by $10,000 to $32,500 a year. The Kefauver case, until it is clarified, is going to suggest to cynics that it is possibe to get rich while struggling along on Congressional pay.

NIX TO NIGHTSHIRTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Newest men's fashions have preserved the "old-fashioned" nightshirt, but not the terminology. Now done with button-down collar and in gingham checks, the new "sleep - shirt" doubles as a sports shirt, robe or "shave-coat" but still loosk like an old-fashioned nightshirt.



ABUNDANCE OF CORN—An almost perfect harvest, along with a shortage of railroad cars and barges, has created a glut of grain at some terminals. The Hannibal, Mo., grain terminal received permission from Mayor Harry Musgrave to temporarily store grain in the street. (AP Wirephoto)

Special JFK Assistant Expected to Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jerome B. Wiesner, special assistant to President Kennedy for science and technology, is expected to resign this winter, the Washington Post said today.

The Post said Wiesner, 48, is expected to return to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He left a position of teacher and research director there to take the White House job in 1961.

Scientists Will Continue To Keep Tab on Fallout

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the treaty barring all but underground nuclear weapons tests, American government scientists still see t need for keeping tabs on radioactive fallout.

For one thing, they want to be alert in the event of a break in the treaty.

Neither do they forsee any let down in the intensive research aimed at getting a better understanding of fallout and its possible — though still unproven — effects on the health of people now living or generations yet unborn.

Of primary interest is the fallout debris still lurking in the stratosphere, or long since fallen to earth, from past tests dating back nearly 20 years.

The fallout still aloft will continue to come down for about another decade, although the peak is believed to have passed just recently.

Vigilance is to be maintained for various reasons, including the possibilities that:

—Signers of the U.S.-British Soviet test-ban treaty might break it.

—France, a non-signer, might conduct enough tests to add significant quantities of fallout to the debris still aloft from past tests of all nations.

—Other nations, notably Red China, might develop nuclear weapons and start testing them.

—Unforeseen, but still conceivable, release of radioactive materials might occur from underground weapons tests still allowable under the treaty.

—Experiments designed to explore the fasibility of using nuclear explosions for peaceful uses, such as building canals and harbors, might release unexpected quantities of fallout.

— Accidents might occur among the growing number of nuclear power plants, and in the course of experiments designed to use nuclear energy in space vehicles.

In addition, the scientists say, there is a need to keep tabs on the fallout still aloft or now on the ground—and to conduct other kinds of radiation research—for these reasons:

1. Despite some 20 years of research, and plenty of controversy among scientists, there still is no firm answer to the question: How great — or how little — is the hazard to health from fallout in the relatively small amounts resulting from bomb tests so far? In fact is there any hazard?

2. There's a constant need to recheck on estimates of the amount of fallout still aloft, and upon predictions about its rate of falling to the earth and its distribution there.

3. There is a constant need of rechecking the accuracy of predictions and theories concerning how much fallout will get into the food chain and how much is getting in, or will get in, the bodies of people.

4. There is a need to develop practical and economic countermeasures for fallout — préferably short of actual condemnation of food contaminated with it — in case authorities ever should deem it necessary to order such countermeasures.

5. There is a need to develop radiation protection guides specifically for fallout, as distinguished from guides available now only for workers in the atomic energy industry. The Federal Radiation Council at the urging of Congress, has promised such fallout guides by June 1964.

But the council scientists stress that even when such guides are at hand, they will not constitute a magic line between radiation that is safe and radiation that is dangerous — anymore than do the guides that are now available for industry.

Rather, they would be designed as guidelines of exposure below which any risk to health might be deemed acceptable—and above which it would be deemed necessary to institute countermeasures even though those countermeasures might be very costly financially and possibly even pose health risks greater than those theoretically posed by fallout. That's why a lot of work is going on to develop safe and practical countermeasures.

As to the uncertainties about health hazards from fallout so far—at least in so far as degree of hazard is concerned — Dr. Paul Tompkins, executive director of the FRC, put it this way in testifying at the recent fallout hearings of the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee:

"We can't prove the presence of deleterious effects. We can not prove the absence. The possibility of deleterious effects is assumed. The existence has not been demonstrated. It is only the possibility which has been assumed."

All scientists are agreed that large amounts of radiation from fallout and other nuclear rays—as would be released in nuclear warfare — would be lethal or at least would cause sickness. They also know that excessive amounts of medical X rays can cause impairment.

But the questions that still plague them are these:

"Is there actual danger to the health of some people now living or to some among generations yet unborn from fallout radiation which so far at least, is much less than that always received by people from natural background radiation, such as cosmic rays?

"And, if one assumes — as we do — that there is such a possible hazard, just how little or how much fallout does it take to cause a disease, defect, or impairment that we can recognize, and can directly link to fallout?"

To date, there has been no proof of any mishap from fallout to anyone in the whole world, with the exception of about 230 natives of Rongelap Island in the Pacific who suffered bodily burns from large quantities of fallout accidentally swept over their island from a nuclear test explosion at Bikini.

Glen Eyrie Tour Slated for TV Viewers

Viewers will be shown thru Glen Eyrie during a Wednesday evening telecast on KKTV Channel 11. The Tudor-style Castle, nestled in Queen's canyon north of the Garden of Gods in Colorado Springs, was built at the turn of the century by General William Jackson Palmer, founder of the city.

In 1953 The Navigators purchased the Glen for use as international headquarters, and are now engaged in restoring the country home to its original beauty.

"Glen Eyrie and The Navigators" will be presented at 7 p.m. Wednesday; and the program will include interviews with Miss Alice Van Diest, whose father was in charge of the construction of the Castle; Rod Sargent, The Navigators executive vice president and other Navigator staff members. Old photographs of the construction during the days of General Palmer will be integrated into the filmed tour of the grounds and the building.

The program is another in a continuing series of public interest programs presented on Project 11 by Channel 11 News. Hal Kennedy is producing and narrating "Glen Eyrie and The Navigators."

During the program Miss Van Diest recalls firsthand some of the parties given at the Glen by General Palmer; and recounts some of her father's experiences during the construction of the historical building.

Sargent explains the basic aims of the Navigators and tells the story of the founding of the now world-wide organization.

Kennedy shows viewers thru the suite used by General Palmer on the second floor of the Castle, the bowling alley and old billiard table put in by the General and the dozens of fireplaces installed when the structure was built.

Largest Silver Mine Is Faced by Strike

KELLOG, Idaho (AP) — An executive of the nation's largest silver producing mine here said no talks have been scheduled between company representatives and the United Steelworkers of America to halt a strike at the mine.

Brad Johnson, vice president and manager of the Sunshine Mine, said pickets are expected back at the mine today.

Contracts talks begun Oct. 2 broke down Sunday night when the union refused to accept a company proposal to discontinue free bus service to the mine from surrounding communities. The steelworkers' contract expired last wek.

The mining company offered the nearly 400 miners 9½ cents an hour pay boosts. Union officials said the boost wouldn't compensate for loss of the bus service.

DON'T DEPEND ON HEADACHE REMEDIES TO RELIEVE NERVOUS TENSION

When everyday nervous tension drives you half-crazy... don't depend on headache remedies to relieve it... they just WON'T WORK!

Instead get ALVA-TRANQUIL tablets

Unlike aspirin and other ordinary headache remedies that merely relieve pain . . . Alva-Tranquil tablets are specially formulated to relieve common nervous tension. Doctors often prescribe the ingredients used in the exclusive Alva-Tranquil formula. Here's why...

Aspirin and other ordinary headache remedies were never intended to relieve nervous tension. Alva-Tranquil Tablets with their effective sedative action, were especially formulated to relieve this simple nervous tension. Dissolve slowly over a long period of time for continuous release of medication so necessary to relieve nervous tension.

So when you feel depressed, jumpy, on edge, get Alva-Tranquil tablets. They're never habit-forming. So safe as directed, you don't need a prescription.

Don't depend on headache remedies to relieve nervous tension. Instead, get Alva-Tranquil* at all Druggists. TM Adv.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WSHINGTON. — When Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) died suddenly last Aug. 10 it appeared that during his 24 years in Congress he had accumulated little in the way of savings to take care of his widow, Nancy, and their four children.

She was believed to be largely dependent on his $7,000-a-year Senate pension. Now it turns out from probate proceedings in Chattanooga, Tenn., that Kefauver owned about $300,000 in stocks and bonds when he died.

This fact was bound to cause some eyebrow-raising and to disturb many Americans to whom Kefauver was a sort of political idol for his crime busting and other investigations as a senator. Especially since at least $12,000 of these holdings were in stocks of drug firms. At the time of his death, Kefauver was carrying on an intensive investigation of the price structure in the drug industry.

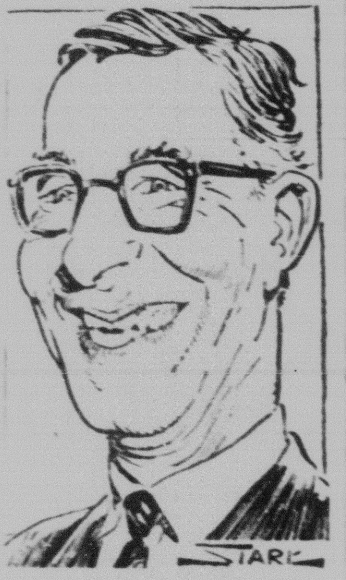
It certainly behooves lawyers representing the family to clarify formally the circumstances surrounding this accumulation of a comfortable fortune. Until they do, there is bound to be conjecture about the senator's conduct in office. This is unfortunate, but it invariably happens when a national political figure, considered poor, dies rich.

An initial effort to find out how Kefauver got so much money in no wise indicates any wrong-doing. Proof of this, however, should be forthcoming from those who know all the financial facts. But what we have already learned deserves to be passed on to anyone wondering where Kefauver got the money.

His friends in Chattanooga are convinced that he made some of his investments while practicing law there in the 1930s. But the bulk of the fortune, according to a longtime family friend here, came from a somewhat eccentric aunt in Madisonville, Tenn., Estes, birthplace.

FAVORITE NEPHEW OF A WEALTHY AUNT

This aunt, Mrs. Charlotte Johns, is now in her 90s. She is the widow of a minister and the sister of Kefauver's father, a farmer.



SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

The senator had been her favorite nephew. She had planned to leave all her money, estimated at a million dollars, to him. During the years when he was in Congress, however, she occasionally bought stocks and bonds in his name. According to this version, it was in this manner that the bulk of his holdings were acquired.

The senator had knowledge of this, it was said. On this basis he could well have been embarrassed by the fact that there were drug firm stocks in his name while he was investigating that particular industry. If so, it appears in hindsight that he would have been politically wise to sell them.

That he did not shows up now in the Tennessee Probate Court file. He owned, when he died, 200 shares of Rexall drug and Chemical worth now about $7,775, as well as 100 shares of Charles Pfizer (drug) Co., valued at $5,000.

LIVED UP TO LAST DOLLAR OF SENATE INCOME

Most intriguing is the general lack of knowledge of his substantial holdings. At one time, shortly after his death, there was an effort among his senate colleagues to raise a fund to help his family.

It was common knowledge in the Senate that Kefauver had lived close to the limit of the income from his office. He picked up a little extra on the lecture platform. His law practice in Chattanooga, once he was in Congress, was not a source of income. He was too busy politicking.

Every time he ran for office, presumably he had to strap himself financially, particularly in 1956 when he ran for vice president on the ticket with Adlai Stevenson.

The fact that Kefauver's big holdings never have leaked out until now is, in a way, typical of the way he often operated.

He was always a strangely silent figure who gave the impression of keeping secrets well within himself, and often for no logical reason.

We think it is only fair to put his finances in this perspective, pending disclosures from those sources which must know the facts. But until this is done, there is bound to be considerable whispering.

In the first place, it would have been impossible for the late senator to have built up such a fortune from his congressional pay alone.

When he came to Congress as a representative in a special election in 1939, his salary was $10,500 a year. It remained that when he went to the Senate in 1954. It was not until 1955 that congressional pay raised to $22,500 a year. That is still the salary. During those 24 years, Kefauver's total accumulated pay as a member of Congress was about $334,000 — little more than the $300,000 in investments he left.

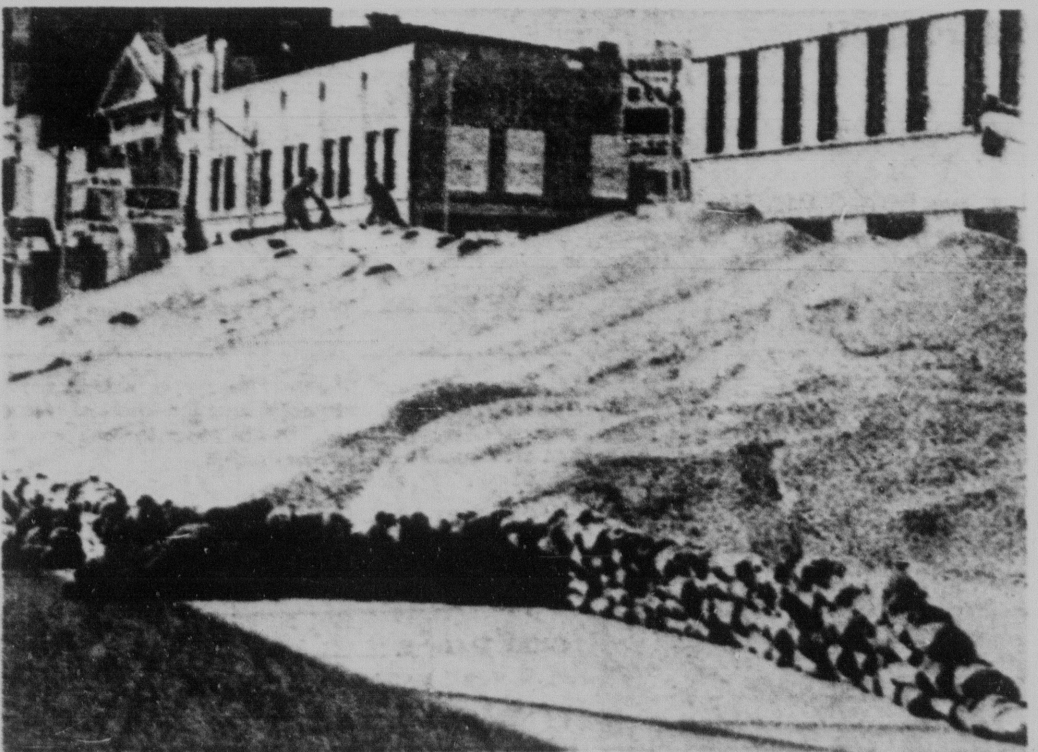
There are valid reasons why full light should be shed now on the Kefauver fortune.

One concerns the Bobby Baker case and the way this Senate Democratic flunky made a fortune on the side. Until congressional employes and members of Congress are required to give annual accounting of their sources of income, there will always be a breath of suspicion when a senator who came to Congress poor, dies rich.

Another concerns the present drive to raise congressional pay by $10,000 to $32,500 a year. The Kefauver case, until it is clarified, is going to suggest to cynics that it is possibe to get rich while struggling along on Congressional pay.

NIX TO NIGHTSHIRTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Newest men's fashions have preserved the "old-fashioned" nightshirt, but not the terminology. Now done with button-down collar and in gingham checks, the new "sleep - shirt" doubles as a sports shirt, robe or "shave-coat" but still loosk like an old-fashioned nightshirt.



ABUNDANCE OF CORN—An almost perfect harvest, along with a shortage of railroad cars and barges, has created a glut of grain at some terminals. The Hannibal, Mo., grain terminal received permission from Mayor Harry Musgrave to temporarily store grain in the street. (AP Wirephoto)

Special JFK Assistant Expected to Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jerome B. Wiesner, special assistant to President Kennedy for science and technology, is expected to resign this winter, the Washington Post said today.

The Post said Wiesner, 48, is expected to return to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He left a position of teacher and research director there to take the White House job in 1961.

Scientists Will Continue To Keep Tab on Fallout

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the treaty barring all but underground nuclear weapons tests, American government scientists still see t need for keeping tabs on radioactive fallout.

For one thing, they want to be alert in the event of a break in the treaty.

Neither do they forsee any let down in the intensive research aimed at getting a better understanding of fallout and its possible — though still unproven — effects on the health of people now living or generations yet unborn.

Of primary interest is the fallout debris still lurking in the stratosphere, or long since fallen to earth, from past tests dating back nearly 20 years.

The fallout still aloft will continue to come down for about another decade, although the peak is believed to have passed just recently.

Vigilance is to be maintained for various reasons, including the possibilities that:

—Signers of the U.S.-British Soviet test-ban treaty might break it.

—France, a non-signer, might conduct enough tests to add significant quantities of fallout to the debris still aloft from past tests of all nations.

—Other nations, notably Red China, might develop nuclear weapons and start testing them.

—Unforeseen, but still conceivable, release of radioactive materials might occur from underground weapons tests still allowable under the treaty.

—Experiments designed to explore the fasibility of using nuclear explosions for peaceful uses, such as building canals and harbors, might release unexpected quantities of fallout.

— Accidents might occur among the growing number of nuclear power plants, and in the course of experiments designed to use nuclear energy in space vehicles.

In addition, the scientists say, there is a need to keep tabs on the fallout still aloft or now on the ground—and to conduct other kinds of radiation research—for these reasons:

1. Despite some 20 years of research, and plenty of controversy among scientists, there still is no firm answer to the question: How great — or how little — is the hazard to health from fallout in the relatively small amounts resulting from bomb tests so far? In fact is there any hazard?

2. There's a constant need to recheck on estimates of the amount of fallout still aloft, and upon predictions about its rate of falling to the earth and its distribution there.

3. There is a constant need of rechecking the accuracy of predictions and theories concerning how much fallout will get into the food chain and how much is getting in, or will get in, the bodies of people.

4. There is a need to develop practical and economic countermeasures for fallout — preferably short of actual condemnation of food contaminated with it — in case authorities ever should deem it necessary to order such countermeasures.

5. There is a need to develop radiation protection guides specifically for fallout, as distinguished from guides available now only for workers in the atomic energy industry. The Federal Radiation Council at the urging of Congress, has promised such fallout guides by June 1964.

But the council scientists stress that even when such guides are at hand, they will not constitute a magic line between radiation that is safe and radiation that is dangerous — anymore than do the guides that are now available for industry.

Rather, they would be designed as guidelines of exposure below which any risk to health might be deemed acceptable—and above which it would be deemed necessary to institute countermeasures even though those countermeasures might be very costly financially and possibly even pose health risks greater than those theoretically posed by fallout. That's why a lot of work is going on to develop safe and practical countermeasures.

As to the uncertainties about health hazards from fallout so far—at least in so far as degree of hazard is concerned — Dr. Paul Tompkins, executive director of the FRC, put it this way in testifying at the recent fallout hearings of the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee:

"We can't prove the presence of deleterious effects. We can not prove the absence. The possibility of deleterious effects is assumed. The existence has not been demonstrated. It is only the possibility which has been assumed."

All scientists are agreed that large amounts of radiation from fallout and other nuclear rays—as would be released in nuclear warfare — would be lethal or at least would cause sickness. They also know that excessive amounts of medical X rays can cause impairment.

But the questions that still plague them are these:

"Is there actual danger to the health of some people now living or to some among generations yet unborn from fallout radiation which so far at least, is much less than that always received by people from natural background radiation, such as cosmic rays?

"And, if one assumes — as we do — that there is such a possible hazard, just how little or how much fallout does it take to cause a disease, defect, or impairment that we can recognize, and can directly link to fallout?"

To date, there has been no proof of any mishap from fallout to anyone in the whole world, with the exception of about 230 natives of Rongelap Island in the Pacific who suffered bodily burns from large quantities of fallout accidentally swept over their island from a nuclear test explosion at Bikini.

Glen Eyrie Tour Slated for TV Viewers

Viewers will be shown thru Glen Eyrie during a Wednesday evening telecast on KKTV Channel 11. The Tudor-style Castle, nestled in Queen's canyon north of the Garden of Gods in Colorado Springs, was built at the turn of the century by General William Jackson Palmer, founder of the city.

In 1953 The Navigators purchased the Glen for use as international headquarters, and are now engaged in restoring the country home to its original beauty.

"Glen Eyrie and The Navigators" will be presented at 7 p.m. Wednesday; and the program will include interviews with Miss Alice Van Diest, whose father was in charge of the construction of the Castle; Rod Sargent, The Navigators executive vice president and other Navigator staff members. Old photographs of the construction during the days of General Palmer will be integrated into the filmed tour of the grounds and the building.

The program is another in a continuing series of public interest programs presented on Project 11 by Channel 11 News. Hal Kennedy is producing and narrating "Glen Eyrie and The Navigators."

During the program Miss Van Diest recalls firsthand some of the parties given at the Glen by General Palmer, and recounts some of her father's experiences during the construction of the historical building.

Sargent explains the basic aims of the Navigators and tells the story of the founding of the now world-wide organization.

Kennedy shows viewers thru the suite used by General Palmer on the second floor of the Castle, the bowling alley and old billiard table put in by the General and the dozens of fireplaces installed when the structure was built.

Largest Silver Mine Is Faced by Strike

KELLOG, Idaho (AP) — An executive of the nation's largest silver producing mine here said no talks have been scheduled between company representatives and the United Steelworkers of America to halt a strike at the mine.

Brad Johnson, vice president and manager of the Sunshine Mine, said pickets are expected back at the mine today.

Contracts talks begun Oct. 2 broke down Sunday night when the union refused to accept a company proposal to discontinue free bus service to the mine from surrounding communities. The steelworkers' contract expired last wek.

The mining company offered the nearly 400 miners 9½ cents an hour pay boosts. Union officials said the boost wouldn't compensate for loss of the bus service.

DON'T DEPEND ON HEADACHE REMEDIES TO RELIEVE NERVOUS TENSION

When everyday nervous tension drives you half-crazy... don't depend on headache remedies to relieve it... they just WON'T WORK!

Instead get ALVA-TRANQUIL tablets

Unlike aspirin and other ordinary headache remedies that merely relieve pain ... Alva-Tranquil tablets are specially formulated to relieve common nervous tension. Doctors often prescribe the ingredients used in the exclusive Alva-Tranquil formula. Here's why...

Aspirin and other ordinary headache remedies were never intended to relieve nervous tension. Alva-Tranquil Tablets with their effective sedative action, were especially formulated to relieve this simple nervous tension. Dissolve slowly over a long period of time for continuous release of medication so necessary to relieve nervous tension.

So when you feel depressed, jumpy, on edge, get Alva-Tranquil tablets. They're never habit-forming. So safe as directed, you don't need a prescription.

Don't depend on headache remedies to relieve nervous tension. Instead, get Alva-Tranquil* at all Druggists.

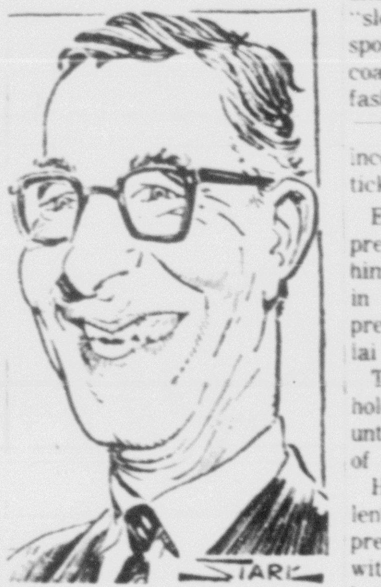
CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS



SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

WSHINGTON. — When Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) died suddenly last Aug. 10 it appeared that during his 24 years in Congress he had accumulated little in the way of savings to take care of his widow, Nancy, and their four children.

She was believed to be largely dependent on his $7,000-a-year Senate pension. Now it turns out from probate proceedings in Chattanooga, Tenn., that Kefauver owned about $300,000 in stocks and bonds when he died.

This fact was bound to cause some eyebrow-raising and to disturb many Americans to whom Kefauver was a sort of political idol for his crime busting and other investigations as a senator. Especially since at least $12,000 of these holdings were in stocks of drug firms. At the time of his death, Kefauver was carrying on an intensive investigation of the price structure in the drug industry.

It certainly behooves lawyers representing the family to clarify formally the circumstances surrounding this accumulation of a comfortable fortune. Until they do, there is bound to be conjecture about the senator's conduct in office. This is unfortunate, but it invariably happens when a national political figure, considered poor, dies rich.

An initial effort to find out how Kefauver got so much money in no wise indicates any wrong-doing. Proof of this, however, should be forthcoming from those who know all the financial facts. But what we have already learned deserves to be passed on to anyone wondering where Kefauver got the money.

His friends in Chattanooga are convinced that he made some of his investments while practicing law there in the 1930s. But the bulk of the fortune, according to a longtime family friend here, came from a somewhat eccentric aunt in Madisonville, Tenn., Estes' birthplace.

FAVORITE NEPHEW OF A WEALTHY AUNT

This aunt, Mrs. Charlotte Johns, is now in her 90s. She is the widow of a minister and the sister of Kefauver's father, a farmer.

The senator had been her favorite nephew. She had planned to leave all her money, estimated at a million dollars, to him. During the years when he was in Congress, however, she occasionally bought stocks and bonds in his name. According to this version, it was in this manner that the bulk of his holdings were acquired.

The senator had knowledge of this, it was said. On this basis he could well have been embarrassed by the fact that there were drug firm stocks in his name while he was investigating that particular industry. If so, it appears in hindsight that he would have been politically wise to sell them.

That he did not shows up now in the Tennessee Probate Court file. He owned, when he died, 200 shares of Rexall drug and Chemical worth now about $7,775, as well as 100 shares of Charles Pfizer (drug) Co., valued at $5,000.

LIVED UP TO LAST DOLLAR OF SENATE INCOME

Most intriguing is the general lack of knowledge of his substantial holdings. At one time, shortly after his death, there was an effort among his senate colleagues to raise a fund to help his family.

It was common knowledge in the Senate that Kefauver had lived close to the limit of the income from his office. He picked up a little extra on the lecture platform. His law practice in Chattanooga, once he was in Congress, was not a source of income. He was too busy politicking.

Every time he ran for office, presumably he had to strap himself financially, particularly in 1956 when he ran for vice president on the ticket with Adlai Stevenson.

The fact that Kefauver's big holdings never have leaked out until now is, in a way, typical of the way he often operated.

He was always a strangely silent figure who gave the impression of keeping secrets well within himself, and often for no logical reason.

We think it is only fair to put his finances in this perspective, pending disclosures from those sources which must know the facts. But until this is done, there is bound to be considerable whispering.

In the first place, it would have been impossible for the late senator to have built up such a fortune from his congressional pay alone.

When he came to Congress as a representative in a special election in 1939, his salary was $10,500 a year. It remained that when he went to the Senate in 1954. It was not until 1955 that congressional pay raised to $22,500 a year. That is still the salary. During those 24 years, Kefauver's total accumulated pay as a member of Congress was about $334,000 — little more than the $300,000 in investments he left.

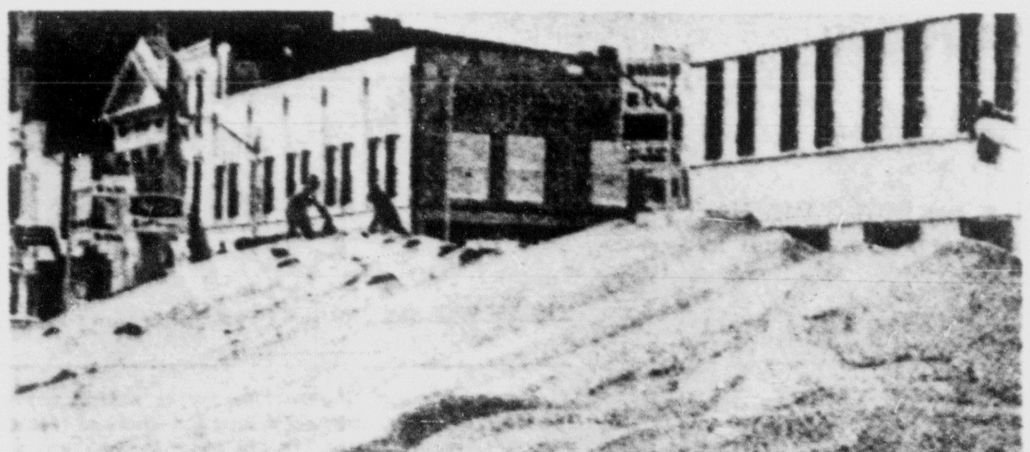
There are valid reasons why full light should be shed now on the Kefauver fortune.

One concerns the Bobby Baker case and the way this Senate Democratic flunky made a fortune on the side. Until congressional employes and members of Congress are required to give annual accounting of their sources of income, there will always be a breath of suspicion when a senator who came to Congress poor, dies rich.

Another concerns the present drive to raise congressional pay by $10,000 to $32,500 a year. The Kefauver case, until it is clarified, is going to suggest to cynics that it is possibe to get rich while struggling along on Congressional pay.

NIX TO NIGHTSHIRTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Newest men's fashions have preserved the "old-fashioned" nightshirt, but not the terminology. Now done with button-down collar and in gingham checks, the new "sleep - shirt" doubles as a sports shirt, robe or "shave-coat" but still loosk like an old-fashioned nightshirt.



ABUNDANCE OF CORN—An almost perfect harvest, along with a shortage of railroad cars and barges, has created a glut of grain at some terminals. The Hannibal, Mo., grain terminal received permission from Mayor Harry Musgrave to temporarily store grain in the street. (AP Wirephoto)

Special JFK Assistant Expected to Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jerome B. Wiesner, special assistant to President Kennedy for science and technology, is expected to resign this winter, the Washington Post said today.

The Post said Wiesner, 48, is expected to return to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He left a position of teacher and research director there to take the White House job in 1961.

Beauty Pageant Television Is Given Praise

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In a very special league, the annual Miss America Beauty Pageant is a standout.

CBS broadcasts of the pageant finals for the past three years are included in the Nielsen ratings list of the all-time top 10 television programs.

Tied at the top of the list, however, stands NBC's 1960 coverage of the presidential election returns. The inauguration of John F. Kennedy the following January as seen on NBC ranked 10th.

Two of the biggest audiences in TV history were rolled up on the first weekend of October when the World Series was telecast by NBC—the Nielsen estimate was that the final Sunday game reached almost 28 million homes, the same figure rolled up by the election night coverage.

Other all-time popular shows were the space flight of John H. Glenn and the 1963 Rose Bowl game last January, both on NBC, and last spring's Oscar awards show on ABC.

It is an interesting list that suggests the TV public, more than anything else, likes real-life drama.

After coping with such earnest themes as alcoholism, cheating, and racial tensions, NBC's "Mr. Novak" will try a comedy Nov. 19 with star James Franciscus playing it for laughs.

"East Side, West Side," CBS' sobersided series about a social worker, Monday night tried to show the dreary life of a young Negro couple trapped in a big city slum.

It showed teeming, garbage-littered streets and decaying, rodent-infested tenements. It raised the question of Negro job opportunities. And it showed the man's frustration and anger at his life. The show capped all this by having the couple's sleeping baby bitten by a rat.

The program ran into trouble because it tried to cram into the hour a treatment of the relationship of the young couple—to each other and to the world—after their baby died. There was too much going on to make any point clear.

Once the situation was exposed, the show left the audience feeling guilty and helpless about the lot of the couple, well played by James Carl Jones and Diana Sands.

Drunk Driving Count Brings $200 Fine

A Ft. Carson man, Cecil Robert Shadic, 8, was fined $200 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine, Monday for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The defendant was arrested Sept. 28 on South Wahsatch Avenue by Police Officer J. J. Iberg.

Reckless driving and being on the wrong side of the road Aug. 7 resulted in a $35 fine and costs for Edgar Marlan Jaquish, 26, of 1151 Manitou Ave. State Patrolman John L. Baker ticketed Jaquish on U. S. Highway 85-87.

James Lee Whiteman paid a $10 fine with costs for driving a defective vehicle on North Wahsatch Avenue Oct. 11. Whiteman, 42, of 440 W. Yampa St. was cited by G. L. Follmer of the police.

State Patrolman J. E. McDaniel gave a ticket to Perry Eugene Freeman, 36, of Yoder as he was following too closely. The violation happened on Southgate Road Friday and a $5 fine and costs was imposed.

Maynard Wayne Dow, 31, of 2613 Spur Dr. was charged with following too closely on North Nevada Avenue Thursday and fined $5 and costs. The officer was C. W. Hubbard of the state patrol.

Beauty Pageant Television Is Given Praise

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In a very special league, the annual Miss America Beauty Pageant is a standout.

CBS broadcasts of the pageant finals for the past three years are included in the Nielsen ratings list of the all-time top 10 television programs.

Tied at the top of the list, however, stands NBC's 1960 coverage of the presidential election returns. The inauguration of John F. Kennedy the following January as seen on NBC ranked 10th.

Two of the biggest audiences in TV history were rolled up on the first weekend of October when the World Series was telecast by NBC—the Nielsen estimate was that the final Sunday game reached almost 28 million homes, the same figure rolled up by the election night coverage.

Other all-time popular shows were the space flight of John H. Glenn and the 1963 Rose Bowl game last January, both on NBC, and last spring's Oscar awards show on ABC.

It is an interesting list that suggests the TV public, more than anything else, likes real-life drama.

After coping with such earnest themes as alcoholism, cheating, and racial tensions, NBC's "Mr. Novak" will try a comedy Nov. 19 with star James Franciscus playing it for laughs.

"East Side, West Side," CBS' sobersided series about a social worker, Monday night tried to show the dreary life of a young Negro couple trapped in a big city slum.

It showed teeming, garbage-littered streets and decaying, rodent-infested tenements. It raised the question of Negro job opportunities. And it showed the man's frustration and anger at his life. The show capped all this by having the couple's sleeping baby bitten by a rat.

The program ran into trouble because it tried to cram into the hour a treatment of the relationship of the young couple—to each other and to the world—after their baby died. There was too much going on to make any point clear.

Once the situation was exposed, the show left the audience feeling guilty and helpless about the lot of the couple, well played by James Carl Jones and Diana Sands.

Drunk Driving Count Brings $200 Fine

A Ft. Carson man, Cecil Robert Shadic, 8, was fined $200 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine, Monday for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The defendant was arrested Sept. 28 on South Wahsatch Avenue by Police Officer J. J. Iberg.

Reckless driving and being on the wrong side of the road Aug. 7 resulted in a $35 fine and costs for Edgar Marlan Jaquish, 26, of 1151 Manitou Ave. State Patrolman John L. Baker ticketed Jaquish on U. S. Highway 85-87.

James Lee Whiteman paid a $10 fine with costs for driving a defective vehicle on North Wahsatch Avenue Oct. 11. Whiteman, 42, of 440 W. Yampa St. was cited by G. L. Follmer of the police.

State Patrolman J. E. McDaniel gave a ticket to Perry Eugene Freeman, 36, of Yoder as he was following too closely. The violation happened on Southgate Road Friday and a $5 fine and costs was imposed.

Maynard Wayne Dow, 31, of 2613 Spur Dr. was charged with following too closely on North Nevada Avenue Thursday and fined $5 and costs. The officer was C. W. Hubbard of the state patrol.

Beauty Pageant Television Is Given Praise

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In a very special league, the annual Miss America Beauty Pageant is a standout.

CBS broadcasts of the pageant finals for the past three years are included in the Nielsen ratings list of the all-time top 10 television programs.

Tied at the top of the list, however, stands NBC's 1960 coverage of the presidential election returns. The inauguration of John F. Kennedy the following January as seen on NBC ranked 10th.

Two of the biggest audiences in TV history were rolled up on the first weekend of October when the World Series was telecast by NBC—the Nielsen estimate was that the final Sunday game reached almost 28 million homes, the same figure rolled up by the election night coverage.

Other all-time popular shows were the space flight of John H. Glenn and the 1963 Rose Bowl game last January, both on NBC, and last spring's Oscar awards show on ABC.

It is an interesting list that suggests the TV public, more than anything else, likes real-life drama.

After coping with such earnest themes as alcoholism, cheating, and racial tensions, NBC's "Mr. Novak" will try a comedy Nov. 19 with star James Franciscus playing it for laughs.

"East Side, West Side," CBS' sobersided series about a social worker, Monday night tried to show the dreary life of a young Negro couple trapped in a big city slum.

It showed teeming, garbage-littered streets and decaying, rodent-infested tenements. It raised the question of Negro job opportunities. And it showed the man's frustration and anger at his life. The show capped all this by having the couple's sleeping baby bitten by a rat.

The program ran into trouble because it tried to cram into the hour a treatment of the relationship of the young couple—to each other and to the world—after their baby died. There was too much going on to make any point clear.

Once the situation was exposed, the show left the audience feeling guilty and helpless about the lot of the couple, well played by James Carl Jones and Diana Sands.

Drunk Driving Count Brings $200 Fine

A Ft. Carson man, Cecil Robert Shadic, 8, was fined $200 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine, Monday for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The defendant was arrested Sept. 28 on South Wahsatch Avenue by Police Officer J. J. Iberg.

Reckless driving and being on the wrong side of the road Aug. 7 resulted in a $35 fine and costs for Edgar Marlan Jaquish, 26, of 1151 Manitou Ave. State Patrolman John L. Baker ticketed Jaquish on U. S. Highway 85-87.

James Lee Whiteman paid a $10 fine with costs for driving a defective vehicle on North Wahsatch Avenue Oct. 11. Whiteman, 42, of 440 W. Yampa St. was cited by G. L. Follmer of the police.

State Patrolman J. E. McDaniel gave a ticket to Perry Eugene Freeman, 36, of Yoder as he was following too closely. The violation happened on Southgate Road Friday and a $5 fine and costs was imposed.

Maynard Wayne Dow, 31, of 2613 Spur Dr. was charged with following too closely on North Nevada Avenue Thursday and fined $5 and costs. The officer was C. W. Hubbard of the state patrol.

Mountain-High Plains Oil Activity Hiked

DENVER (AP) — Activity in Rocky Mountain-High Plains oil fields has reached a new high for the year.

Petroleum Information reported today that the latest count showed 221 active rotary rigs in the area. In the previous week, 211 were working, and in the week before that, 203, each figure being a high for the year. The current rig count is nine more than at the same time a year ago.

Wyoming is the leader in the area with 72 rotaries running. North Dakota also has shown a boom with 21 rigs in action after reaching a low of six earlier in the year.

The industry publication gave these highlights in its weekly summary:

Wyoming — Pubco Petroleum Co. completed 15-22B Playa unit, C N WNE 22-20N-99W, in Sweetwater County for a calculated absolute open flow of 3.9 million cubic feet of gas a day. Production is from perforations in the Lewis formation at 3,443-49 feet. The discovery is four miles west of Almond gas production and nearly two miles north of oil production in West Desert Springs field. It is separated from production by dry holes.

Colorado — Occidental Petroleum Co. made location for 1 Antholz, C SW SW 30-9N-65W, a 9,300-foot test of Lyons northeast of Permian production on the west side of the Denver-Julesburg Basin in Weld County. It is five miles northeast of Pierce Field. Big Horn-Powder River Corp. made location for a one mile southeast stepout from Dakota gas production on the Robert Canyon Unit in Mesa County. It is 1-A Big Horn-Govt, NE NE 7-10S-97W, and is scheduled to Dakota at 6,800 feet.

Western Kansas — Empire Drilling Co. of Wichita has made location in Rawlins County for 1 Green, SE NE 24-1S-31W, a 4,300-foot test of the Pennsylvanian. In Decatur County, Burch Exploration of Wichita, scheduled 1 Torluenke, C NE sw 35-2S-29W, a half mile north of Oberlin; the Burch 1 May, C NE NW 32-2S-29W, a mile and a half north of Oberlin field, and the 1 Kump, C SE NW 10-4S-27W, a west offset to a producing well. All will go to the Pennsylvanian from 3,800 to 3,975 feet.

Nebraska — Arvel C. Smith has made location for 1 Walkington, C SE NW 8-4N-26W, a scheduled 3,500-foot test to granite in Red Willow County. It is eight miles north and slightly east of Sleepy Hollow Field. The nearest drilling is 1¾ miles to the west.

Mountain-High Plains Oil Activity Hiked

DENVER (AP) — Activity in Rocky Mountain-High Plains oil fields has reached a new high for the year.

Petroleum Information reported today that the latest count showed 221 active rotary rigs in the area. In the previous week, 211 were working, and in the week before that, 203, each figure being a high for the year. The current rig count is nine more than at the same time a year ago.

Wyoming is the leader in the area with 72 rotaries running. North Dakota also has shown a boom with 21 rigs in action after reaching a low of six earlier in the year.

The industry publication gave these highlights in its weekly summary:

Wyoming — Pubco Petroleum Co. completed 15-22B Playa unit, C N WNE 22-20N-99W, in Sweetwater County for a calculated absolute open flow of 3.9 million cubic feet of gas a day. Production is from perforations in the Lewis formation at 3,443-49 feet. The discovery is four miles west of Almond gas production and nearly two miles north of oil production in West Desert Springs field. It is separated from production by dry holes.

Colorado — Occidental Petroleum Co. made location for 1 Antholz, C SW SW 30-9N-65W, a 9,300-foot test of Lyons northeast of Permian production on the west side of the Denver-Julesburg Basin in Weld County. It is five miles northeast of Pierce Field. Big Horn-Powder River Corp. made location for a one mile southeast stepout from Dakota gas production on the Robert Canyon Unit in Mesa County. It is 1-A Big Horn-Govt, NE NE 7-10S-97W, and is scheduled to Dakota at 6,800 feet.

Western Kansas — Empire Drilling Co. of Wichita has made location in Rawlins County for 1 Green, SE NE 24-1S-31W, a 4,200-foot test of the Pennsylvanian. In Decatur County, Burch Exploration of Wichita, scheduled 1 Torluenke, C NE sw 35-2S-29W, a half mile north of Oberlin; the Burch 1 May, C NE NW 32-2S-29W, a mile and a half north of Oberlin field, and the 1 Kump, C SE NW 104S-27W, a west offset to a producing well. All will go to the Pennsylvanian from 3,800 to 3,975 feet.

Nebraska — Arvel C. Smith has made location for 1 Walkington, C SE NW 8-4N-26W, a scheduled 3,500-foot test to granite in Red Willow County. It is eight miles north and slightly east of Sleepy Hollow Field. The nearest drilling is 1¾ miles to the west.

New Mexico — Location for a 3,150-foot test of granite was made by Cities Service oil Co. at 1 Zuni-A. NE SW 5-9N-18W, McKinley County. It is in Galestena Canyon, 5 miles southeast of Zuni Pueblo. Nearest drilling is a 2,262-foot failure 1¾ miles to the northwest.

Utah — Tenneco Oil Co. ran intermediate casing at 6,665 feet at 2 Upper Valley Unit, NW NW 13-36S-1E, Garfield County. The well is scheduled as a 9,450-foot Mississippian test. It is 10 miles southwest of Escalante. Phillips Petroleum Co. made location for a Wasatch test which will be the sixth well in the Flat Rock Unit in Uintah County.

Montana — Phillips Petroleum Co. drilled at 9,354 feet at 1 Berreth-A, SE NE 25-24N-49E, a half mile southwest offset to and confirmation of Interlake production in Vida Field, McCone County. Cardinal Petroleum Co. made location for a 3,000-foot test of Madison at 13-12 State, SW SW 12-35N-5E, Liberty County. Nearest production is six miles to the north in Bears Den Field.

North Dakota — Tom Jordan and F. M. Ricks drilled below 4,848 feet at 1 Solar, C SW SW 16-160N-84W, Renville County. The wildcat is scheduled to the Madison at 4,950 feet. It is 13 miles southwest of Wiley Field and 15 miles southeast of recently discovered Madison production in Tolley Field.

Mountain-High Plains Oil Activity Hiked

DENVER (AP) — Activity in Rocky Mountain-High Plains oil fields has reached a new high for the year.

Petroleum Information reported today that the latest count showed 221 active rotary rigs in the area. In the previous week, 211 were working, and in the week before that, 203, each figure being a high for the year. The current rig count is nine more than at the same time a year ago.

Wyoming is the leader in the area with 72 rotaries running. North Dakota also has shown a boom with 21 rigs in action after reaching a low of six earlier in the year.

The industry publication gave these highlights in its weekly summary:

Wyoming — Pubco Petroleum Co. completed 15-22B Playa unit, C N WNE 22-20N-99W, in Sweetwater County for a calculated absolute open flow of 3.9 million cubic feet of gas a day. Production is from perforations in the Lewis formation at 3,443-49 feet. The discovery is four miles west of Almond gas production and nearly two miles north of oil production in West Desert Springs field. It is separated from production by dry holes.

Colorado — Occidental Petroleum Co. made location for 1 Antholz, C SW SW 30-9N-65W, a 9,300-foot test of Lyons northeast of Permian production on the west side of the Denver-Julesburg Basin in Weld County. It is five miles northeast of Pierce Field. Big Horn-Powder River Corp. made location for a one mile southeast stepout from Dakota gas production on the Robert Canyon Unit in Mesa County. It is 1-A Big Horn-Govt, NE NE 7-10S-97W, and is scheduled to Dakota at 6,800 feet.

Western Kansas — Empire Drilling Co. of Wichita has made location in Rawlins County for 1 Green, SE NE 24-1S-31W, a 4,200-foot test of the Pennsylvanian. In Decatur County, Burch Exploration of Wichita, scheduled 1 Torluenke, C NE sw 35-2S-29W, a half mile north of Oberlin; the Burch 1 May, C NE NW 32-2S-29W, a mile and a half north of Oberlin field, and the 1 Kump, C SE NW 104S-27W, a west offset to a producing well. All will go to the Pennsylvanian from 3,800 to 3,975 feet.

Nebraska — Arvel C. Smith has made location for 1 Walkington, C SE NW 8-4N-26W, a scheduled 3,500-foot test to granite in Red Willow County. It is eight miles north and slightly east of Sleepy Hollow Field. The nearest drilling is 1¾ miles to the west.

New Mexico — Location for a 3,150-foot test of granite was made by Cities Service oil Co. at 1 Zuni-A, NE SW 5-9N-18W, McKinley County. It is in Galestena Canyon, 5 miles southeast of Zuni Pueblo. Nearest drilling is a 2,262-foot failure 1¾ miles to the northwest.

Utah — Tenneco Oil Co. ran intermediate casing at 6,665 feet at 2 Upper Valley Unit, NW NW 13-36S-1E, Garfield County. The well is scheduled as a 9,450-foot Mississippian test. It is 10 miles southwest of Escalante. Phillips Petroleum Co. made location for a Wasatch test which will be the sixth well in the Flat Rock Unit in Uintah County.

Montana — Phillips Petroleum Co. drilled at 9,354 feet at 1 Berreth-A, SE NE 25-24N-49E, a half mile southwest offset to and confirmation of Interlake production in Vida Field, McCone County. Cardinal Petroleum Co. made location for a 3,000-foot test of Madison at 13-12 State, SW SW 12-35N-5E, Liberty County. Nearest production is six miles to the north in Bears Den Field.

North Dakota — Tom Jordan and F. M. Ricks drilled below 4,848 feet at 1 Solar, C SW SW 16-160N-84W, Renville County. The wildcat is scheduled to the Madison at 4,950 feet. It is 13 miles southwest of Wiley Field and 15 miles southeast of recently discovered Madison production in Tolley Field.

Major Oil Change Shown in Oklahoma

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma showed the only major change last week, accounting for a drop in U.S. oil production, the Oil and Gas Journal, said today.

Average daily production of 7,502,577 barrels last week was down 22,579 a day from the previous week, as Oklahoma output fell 31,500 barels a day to an average of 531,000.

Tougher Line Seen Against Indonesia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Kennedy administration has summoned its ambassador to Indonesia, Howard P. Jones, for consultations amid expectation the United States may take a tougher line toward President Sukarno.

Jones is due in Washington Nov. 12, after a conference with diplomats in the Philippines.

There has been some clamor in the United States for curtailing aid to Indonesia because of Sukarno's hostile attitude toward neighboring Malaysia.

ROCKET ENGINE READIED FOR LOADING—The first production model of the nation's most powerful rocket engine, the FL (center) is prepared for loading in Los Angeles onto the "Pregnant Puppy" cargo plane, the one that splits in the middle for loading purposes. The aircraft flew the production model to Marshall Space Center in Huntsville, Ga., for ground tests. The FL rocket engine produces 1.5 million pounds of thrust, compared with 360,000 pounds in the Atlas missile.

Electronic Flash Still Gaining in Popularity

By BART KINCH
United Press International

Electronic flash continues to climb in popularity as the main source of artificial light among amateur photographers and for good reasons

Recent improvements in design have cut down on size and weight, increasing their portability.

Other advantages of electronic flash units include:

—Minimum cost per flash.

—No flash bulbs to carry.

—The light closely approximates daylight making it possible to use daylight color films both day and night, indoors and out. The intensity of the flash will, in most instances, blot out extraneous artificial light.

—The flash duration is so short—1-10,000 of a second with some units—that camera shake is virtualy eliminated and subject action is "frozen."

—It generally produces better detail in shadow areas.

Before rushing out to your nearest camera supply store to purchase a speedlight there are several points worth considering.

How many flash shots do you now take? Would the number be substantially increased if you had an electronic unit?

If the answers to these questions indicate you would 'not' be taking a great many flash shots, you don't need an electronic flash unit.

The saving to a photographer—amateur or professional— in using electronic flash is found only with great usage. Professionals get their money's worth. Many amateurs do 'not' simply because they do not take enough flash shots to warrant purchase of a relatively expensive speedlight.

If you decide that you should have an electronic flash unit, obtain literature from various manufacturers and carefully compare their various products.

Compare guide numbers, watt-second input, the weight of the unit, the power supply and above all, the price. Then visit a camera store and examine the various units.

Bear in mind that a fast lens combined with a high speed color film will mean you can get by with a smaller unit and a correspondingly lower guide number. Such a unit also will have the added advantage of lighter weight and lower initial cost.

Generally speaking, the bigger the camera (film size) the bigger or more powerful unit you will need.

Another thing to consider is the angle of reflection of the flash head. If you plan to use wide-angle lenses, make sure the unit you purchase will cover the angle lens covers. Most speedlights are designed to cover the area covered with a camera's "normal" lens.

For more details on speedlights with particular emphasis on how to use them properly, see Peter Gowland's Guide To Electronic Flash (Amphoto) or any of the many other books on speedlights.

Quick Action Saves Giant U.S. Missile

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Two Air Force missilemen had a special interest in the latest Atlas ICBM launched at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Officials say their quick action last month probably saved the giant missile from destruction on the pad.

The Air Force described the incident this way:

As the missile was being serviced, a work platform struck it and punctured the skin.

Missilemen Edward Jackowich and Lawrence McClain rushed to the scene at the 21-foot level of the 75-foot missile and stuffed a field jacket into the hole to prevent escape of nitrogen gas.

The hole was later welded and the missile launched Monday.

Women Are Told Husband Should Be Well-Dressed

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph A. Daroff, President of H. Daroff & Sons., Inc., one of the giants of the men's clothing industry, says that any time he sees a badly dressed man he's "either a bachelor, married to a slob or to a woman who doesn't care."

Women should realize, he says that a woman's greatest asset is a well-dressed husband, "but all too often the contrast is a shabby one—a well-dressed woman and a poorly - dressed man — a contrast that destroys the image of a happy couple."

More often than not, he says, the family budget allows little for a man's wardrobe although he is the breadwinner who might, for example, be a salesman whose very success will depend on the impression he makes.

Daroff suggests a minimum wardrobe for a man who wants to be well-dressed:

Four suits, one tuxedo, three sport coats, four pairs of slacks, one topcoat, one raincoat, one formal wear shirt, eight business shirts, four sports shirts, two hats, one pair formal wear shoes, two pair dress shoes, one pair sport shoes and eight ties.

The ideal wardrobe would consist of eight suits, one tuxedo, five sport coats, seven paris of slacks two topcoats, one raincoat, two formal wear shirts, 10 business shirts, six sports shirts, four hats, one pair formal wear shoes, three pairs dress shoes, one pair sport shoes and 12 ties.

To achieve the basic wardrobe Daroff suggests a man pick through his wardrobe and decide what he needs to bring it up to par. On a budget of $4.50 a week, he says, a man can maintain the minimum wardrobe. For $8.27 a week he can maintain the ideal wardrobe.

With the wardrobe there must be good grooming and he cited figures by the Research Institute of America to prove it. The survey showed what men notice in other men's appearance—and it applies especially to salesmen.

Haircut, or the lack of one, ranked first at 100 per cent. Other figures: wil-creased trousers 72 per cent, gap between sock and trouser leg 41 per cent, good looking tie 20 per cent, poorly chosen tie 18 per cent, badly tied tie 79 per cent, cut and fit of suit, 59 per cent, its color, style and material 46, badly fitting collar 67 frayed collar or cuffs 88 per cent, soiled collar or cuffs 97 per cent, shoe shine 79, runover heels 59 and five o'clock shadow 83.

Another point he made is that a man's clothes should be becoming—they should make the most of his good points and minimize his bad ones. That means he should pick out a flattering suit style and choose colors and furnishings that do the most for him.

A second point is appropriateness of the clothes. For example, Daroff says active sportswear should never be worn in public places and "the man who wears casual clothes to work is making a mistake, in my opinion." He said surveys showed business executives don't take an improperly dressed man as seriously as they do one who looks well.

Daroff, whose Philadelphia firm manufactures Botany "500" and Worsted-Tex suits, sums up by saying:

"It takes an understanding wife. She has to put you ahead of the dog's flea powder and the kid's summer camp in the family budget if you are going to make the most of your appearance. It takes a little honest mirror watching. Stop kidding youself about 'making do' with outdated clothes. If you won't see the difference . . . somebody else can. It takes a little planning and some money."

Liquor Sale Hearing Slated in Durango

DENVER (AP) — A hearing will be held Nov. 13 in Durango on charges that the Tee Pee Pool Hall, Ignacio, sold alcoholic beverages to minors.

The hearing date was set Monday by Secretary of State Byron Anderson.

Anderson claimed in his charges the tavern sold alcoholic beverages last Oct. 13, to three persons under 18 years of age. The complaint also charges the tavern owners with not maintaining minimum sanitary conditions.

COWS NEED CUSTOMERS

WASHINGTON (AP)—At the present rate of milk consumption, a dairy farmer needs 55 customers for each 100 pounds of milk he sends to market, according to estimates by the American Dairy Association. The average milk cow produces from 60 to 90 pounds of milk daily and the average-size herd would contain from 40 to 60 animals producing milk at one time.

Tougher Line Seen Against Indonesia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Kennedy administration has summoned its ambassador to Indonesia, Howard P. Jones, for consultations amid expectation the United States may take a tougher line toward President Sukarno.

Jones is due in Washington Nov. 12, after a conference with diplomats in the Philippines.

There has been some clamor in the United States for curtailing aid to Indonesia because of Sukarno's hostile attitude toward neighboring Malaysia.

Electronic Flash Still Gaining in Popularity

By BART KINCH
United Press International

Electronic flash continues to climb in popularity as the main source of artificial light among amateur photographers and for good reasons.

Recent improvements in design have cut down on size and weight, increasing their portability.

Other advantages of electronic flash units include:

—Minimum cost per flash.

—No flash bulbs to carry.

—The light closely approximates daylight making it possible to use daylight color films both day and night, indoors and out. The intensity of the flash will, in most instances, blot out extraneous artificial light.

—The flash duration is so short—1-10,000 of a second with some units—that camera shake is virtualy eliminated and subject action is "frozen."

—It generally produces better detail in shadow areas.

Before rushing out to your nearest camera supply store to purchase a speedlight there are several points worth considering.

How many flash shots do you now take? Would the number be substantially increased if you had an electronic unit?

If the answers to these questions indicate you would 'not' be be taking a great many flash shots, you don't need an electronic flash unit.

The saving to a photographer —amateur or professional— in using electronic flash is found only with great usage. Professionals get their money's worth. Many amateurs do 'not' simply because they do not take enough flash shots to warrant purchase of a relatively expensive speedlight.

If you decide that you should have an electronic flash unit, obtain literature from various manufacturers and carefully compare their various products.

Compare guide numbers, watt-second input, the weight of the unit, the power supply and above all, the price. Then visit a camera store and examine the various units.

Bear in mind that a fast lens combined with a high speed color film will mean you can get by with a smaller unit and a correspondingly lower guide number. Such a unit also will have the added advantage of lighter weight and lower initial cost.

Generally speaking, the bigger the camera (film size) the bigger or more powerful unit you will need.

Another thing to consider is the angle of reflection of the flash head. If you plan to use wide-angle lenses, make sure the unit you purchase will cover the angle lens covers. Most speedlights are designed to cover the area covered with a camera's "normal" lens.

For more details on speedlights with particular emphasis on how to use them properly, see Peter Gowland's Guide To Electronic Flash (Amphoto) or any of the many other books on speedlights.

Quick Action Saves Giant U.S. Missile

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Two Air Force missilemen had a special interest in the latest Atlas ICBM launched at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Officials say their quick action last month probably saved the giant missile from destruction on the pad.

The Air Force described the incident this way:

As the missile was being serviced, a work platform struck it and punctured the skin.

Missilemen Edward Jaekowich and Lawrence McClain rushed to the scene at the 21-foot level of the 75-foot missile and stuffed a field jacket into the hole to prevent escape of nitrogen gas.

The hole was later welded and the missile launched Monday.

Longaker Defeats Pitcock In Landslide Manitou Vote

L. L. "Les" Longaker, was elected to a two-year term as mayor of Manitou Springs Tuesday in a landslide victory over incumbent Earl Pitcock.

Longaker polled an unofficial 575 votes to Pitcock's 242 and attributed his decisive margin to the "hot" water bond issue.

The voters had not been asked to poll their opinion on the $750,000 water improvement program adopted by city council, Longaker's election was regarded by arm-chair political scientists as a thumbs-down vote on the bond issue.

"Because of the definite stand I have taken against the $750,000 bond issue," Longaker said after learning of his victory, "the election returns indicate to me that the majority prefer a more conservative approach to the solution."

Voters not only ousted Pitcock, who has served one term as mayor and four on the council, but all candidates who favored and used the bond issue as a solid platform plank.

Only Mrs. Mabel Willie was re-elected to a seat on the council. Mrs. Willie, a former two-term mayor, was successful in her bid for re-election as alderwoman for Ward III. She tallied 143 votes in the ward and ran against Zenas A. Nevins, also elected, and Carl E. McCollam. Ward III was the one ward in which only three candidates were vying for the two council seats as voters had a choice of four in Wards I and II.

Mrs. Willie's victory seemed to be a vote of confidence and approval of her years of service to the city — rather than approval of her vote for the controversial water bond issue this fall. Mrs. Willie also had two write-in votes for mayor in Ward II.

"I am happy that the voters have confidence in me and chose to re-elect me as alderwoman," said Mrs. Willie Tuesday night. "I will to do my best to continue to serve our citizens and deeply appreciate their confidence in me."

In Ward I, former mayor Floyd Lee was elected to the council by a heavy 215 votes along with newcomer Frank Altman who tallied 131 votes. Incumbent T. E. Haas registered only 99 votes and Robb Cheney, who was elected to city council in 1961 and then resigned, received 107 votes.

Ward II voters elected William Cochran and Fred Jordan to city council posts while incumbent Jack McLean made a weak showing with 84 votes. C. A. Smischny, father of John Smischny who is now serving on the council, and an outspok-

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushhev said today that if the convoy dispute on the Berlin autobahn had continued there might have been shooting —perhaps total war.

Speaking to a group of visiting American businessmen, Khrushchev said it was good the argument had ended, otherwise "it is possible that you and I would not be here today."

He added:

"We could not have yielded and they would have had to move over our dead bodies."

Khrushchev said the dispute was solved only because the American convoy commander finally agreed to "observe the established procedure" regarding Soviet checking of the convoy.

In Berlin, U.S. authorities said precisely the opposite. They correspondents that the Russians —and not the Americans —had backed down. The argument was whether the American troops should get out of their trucks to be counted by Soviet border officials.

After the convoy finally arrived in Berlin, the Americans said they had not gotten out of their trucks.

Khrushchev warned that more trouble may be coming on the autobahn to Berlin. He said Western convoys "will be held up in the future" if American, French and British authorities

Murky Weather Covers Most Of Eastern U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—More murky weather — foggy, rainy and cloudy — covered most of the eastern half of the nation today and rain again splashed areas in the Far West.

There were only minor changes in the nation's weather pattern. Rain ended in most areas from the Mississippi River through the Rocky Mountain region, with generally fair to partly cloudy skies.

General rainfall was reported in the eastern third of the nation Tuesday with heavy falls in parts of the Southeast. Nearly two inches of rain doused Columbia, S.C., in a six-hour period during the night. Thunderstorms and hail swept across areas in northeastern Arkansas and western Tennessee.

The rainfall alleviated drought conditions and lessened further outbreak of forest fires in many areas.

Diem's Death Is Blamed On 'Accidental Suicide'

By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam's revolutionary government claimed today President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu committed "accidental suicide" —they were killed while struggling for a guard's pistol.

The latest official version of the death of the brothers contradicted widely believed accounts that they were murdered by rebel troops in an armored personnel carrier last Saturday after they surrendered at a Roman Catholic church.

The revolutionary junta announced on Saturday that Diem and Nhu, his closest adviser, shot themselves. Today Brig. Gen. Tran Tu Oai, minister of information in the new provisional government, gave this account to a news conference:

After the brothers surrendered, Diem entered the armored car but Nhu protested.

"Why are you using this armored car?" he asked.

A crowd had gathered and began shouting. The rebel officers were afraid that if Diem and Nhu were not spirited away, the mob would lynch them. An army captain tried to push Nhu into the carrier, but Nhu whipped around and grabbed the captain's pistol. As they wrestled for the weapon, the officer managed to drag Nhu into the car.

Oai gave no further details but said: "Their deaths occurred after Nhu took the pistol from the captain."

The bodies have been turned over to relatives for burial, the junta spokesman said. The bodies reportedly have been hidden awaiting burial instructions from another brother, Roman Catholic Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc, who is attending the Vatican Ecumenical Council in Rome.

Asked if the junta would request the extradition of Nhu's widow, who is in the United States, Oai said: "Our military people don't make revolutions for the sake of avenging or revenging.

"We are not paying any attention to questions of this sort, but as a courtesy we have sent her three children to Rome."

In Los Angeles, Mrs. Nhu said she had changed her mind about flying to Rome to join her three children and would try instead

Carter welcome the delegates and thanked them for helping the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center grow to the point where it needs a new home.

Dott, campaign fund chairman, pointed out that $160,000 must be raised in the next few months so that matching funds may be received from the government to build a total comprehensive Rehabilitation Center to house all departments providing care for the handi-

Mrs. Nhu Plans to Settle In Los Angeles Area

By DORIS KLEIN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu was expected to move out of her $90-a-day hotel suite today and set up housekeeping in the Los Angeles area for herself and her four children.

South Viet Nam's widowed former first lady changed her mind late Tuesday about joining her three younger children in Rome today. She said she would have them fly here instead as soon as possible.

Mrs. Nhu said she "could not endure the trip at this time," according to George White, manager of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel where she has been staying.

Mrs. Nhu has been offered use of the home of Allen Chase, an associate of television star Art Linkletter, in the exclusive Bel-Air district. Mrs. Chase said she had received no definite word as yet whether Mrs. Nhu will accept the offer.

Chase, who has business connections in Australia and the Orient, met the late President Ngo Dinh Diem several times in Saigon, Mrs. Chase explained.

The children, ages 15, 11 and 4, were flown to Rome Tuesday with permission of the new government of South Viet Nam.

Mrs. Nhu had been scheduled to leave this morning on a polar flight to Rome with her eldest daughter, Le Thuy, 18, and her Vietnamese secretary Nguyen Thi Tuan, 29.

Informed sources said Mrs. Nhu's decision to remain in the United States may have been influenced by financial problems, possible difficulty in re-

Colorado School Law Rewriting To Be Proposed

State Rep. Ruth Clark (R-Fort Collins) said Tuesday that the state legislature will be asked in January to rewrite the body of Colorado school laws.

Mrs. Clark, chairman of the Joint Senate-House Education Committee on Recodification of School Laws, said the recodification bill may be on Gov. John Love's call to the short session of the legislature in January.

The lawmaker spoke to joint conventions of the Colorado Association of School Boards and the Colorado Association of School Administrators meeting at the Broadmoor Hotel.

The recodification bill, she said, would ask that Colorado schools operate 12 months a year. Mrs. Clark said several counties are interested in conducting 12-month schools. State law forbids this now.

The bill will also seek to per-

Industry Support Of Quality in Education Urged

Colorado is in a strong position to take advantage of the current technological revolution but it has not fully recognized the importance of its universities in the total picture of economic growth.

These were two of the main conclusions reached at a two-day University-Industry Liaison Conference which ended Tuesday at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Shelby Harper, manager of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, summarized the eight speeches and 12 seminar sessions in which leaders of business, industry, finance, education and government from thruout the state participated.

The conference was sponsored by the University of Colorado, University of Denver and Colorado State University to discuss steps which might be taken to

Church Authority Discussion Faces Heated Debate

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Proposals before the Vatican Ecumenical Council to extend the powers of Roman Catholic bishops beyond their dioceses promise to generate intense heat.

The issue is where to draw the line.

The 2,300 council fathers today began their second day of general discussion of a schema titled "Bishops and Government of Dioceses." Tuesday's 12 speakers all were dissatisfied with the draft.

The cardinals, bishops, abbots and other prelates probably will try to work out extensive amendments rather than call for the rewriting of the schema.

At the heart of the schema is the national or regional episcopal conference, a periodic meeting of all the bishops of a country or geographic region.

At present there is no body with real power between the Vatican Curia — the church's central administration—and the bishop in his diocese. National episcopal conferences are encouraged by canon law, last revised in 1918. But canon law says nothing about such bodies possessing authority.

Most speakers were eager that the diocesan government schema, which was written last April, reflect two recent major developments—Pope Paul VI's address on Sept. 21 calling for reform and decentralization of the Curia's vast powers, and the council's test vote last week showing most members favor a theological concept that all bish-

Nobody Seriously Hurt As Wallendas Collapse

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A wire snapped beneath the Great Wallendas circus troupe as it practiced "the seven," a human pyramid. Six were injured or bruised, but none was seriously hurt.

Karl Wallenda, 57, leader of the troupe, said the wire, stretched between two trees at winter quarters, was only 12 feet off the ground.

"All we know there was a big crash," he said. "Something gave. If we had been high, at least two would have been killed."

It was the first time the Wallendas had tried "the seven" since the pyramid came apart high above the concrete floor in the Detroit Coliseum in January 1962. Two were killed and one was injured so badly he will never walk again.

The troupe started rehearsing Tuesday. Jenny Faughnan was just easing into the chair to form the top of the pyramid when the wire snapped.

Gunther Wallenda was struck under the chin by a shoulder pole and suffered facial cuts. Louis Murillo, 29, received wire burns. Karl Wallenda was X-rayed for possible pelvic injuries.

Paul Jordan, 33; Herman Wallenda, 62, and Jenny were bruised. Andy Anderson, 28, was not hurt.

The accident was captured on film by a NBC television cameraman who was filming the rehearsal as part of a show on the circus troupe.

The troupe has a date to perform the pyramid at Fort Worth, Texas., for 11 days beginning Nov. 20.

Boulder Voters Narrowly Defeat Sales Tax Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boulder voters narrowly defeated a proposed 1-cent sales tax.

Pueblo citizens roundly whipped a measure that would have repealed the liquor occupation tax, but approved four bond issues totaling $5,340,000.

In Trinidad, voters maintained the city's record of never having re-elected a mayor under the city manager form of government.

These were among highlights of municipal elections Tuesday in those Colorado cities that schedule November voting. Other city elections will be held in April.

The Boulder election brought out a lighter vote than had been expected. Only 8,248 of the 13,700 registered citizens cast ballots. City officials had expected a vote of 9,500.

The university city's proposed sales tax was rejected, 4,223 to 4,025. Boulder officials had counted on the tax to finance raises for policemen and firemen. The city has reached its charter limit on property taxes.

Three incumbents and three newcomers were elected to the Boulder City Council. Those elected are Robert Knecht, Paul Crouch and Mrs. Janet Roberts, incumbents, and Howard Klemme, Jack McDermott and Les Newkirk.

Pueblo citizens approved bond issues of $4 million for water system improvements, $750,000 for library facilities, $455,000 for municipal parking and $135,000 for a swimming pool. They elected Dr. Jack Osburne, James Watson and Marion Hunter to the city council, and defeated the liquor tax repeal, 9,042 to 3,465.

Trinidad's mayor, Harold O. Merson, was beaten 1,079 to 982 by D. Wandle Day in his race for re-election to the post of councilman at large. Council members later will choose a mayor.

Other councilmen elected at Trinidad were John Cha, Ralph E. Anderson, Frank E. Mason, Rudolph Mazza, Thomas A. Anselmo and William Lovato.

Dogs in Trinidad and in Alamosa, were the subjects of propositions on ballots. Voters in both cities approved leash-and-confinement laws.

Florence's mayor, John R. McFall, was defeated by Charles G. Cristelli. Other councilmn chosen are Gale Decker, B. A. Lopez, Thomas Wilson, Dominic

Cristelli Elected Mayor in Florence Vote

Incumbent Jack McFall was defeated Tuesday by 64 votes in his bid for a third consecutive term as mayor of Florence.

Charles Cristelli, who was unsuccessful in his bid to unseat McFall in 1961, received 401 votes Tuesday to 337 votes for McFall.

The two men were actually running for the councilman-at-large seat on the seven-man board. Traditionally, the councilman at large is elected mayor by the council at a later meeting.

Ironically, two men running for council on the Progressive Party ticket with McFall were re-elected in their respective wards.

Tom Wilson received 140 votes in Ward 2 and Leonard Lloyd gathered 135 in Ward 3.

Also elected to the council were Gail Decker and B. A. Lopez who received 159 and 176 votes respectively in Ward 1; Dom Vento, who received 134 votes in Ward 2, and Roy Palmer who gathered 179 votes in Ward 3.

All ran on the Independent ticket. Vento was the only incumbent. He had previously been elected on the Progressive ticket but switched sides for this election.

Defeated in the election was former councilman L. L. Tripp who showed 114 votes in Ward 2 and Walter McFadden who gathered 133 votes in a close race with Lloyd in Ward 3. Both were independents.

Girl Who Faces Surgery Flees From Hospital

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 14-year-old girl walked away from Metropolitan General Hospital Tuesday night, only hours after a Juvenile Court judge gave permission for surgery which doctors say is needed to save her life. She has cancer of the hip.

The girl is the daughter of a British war bride, who is divorced. The mother opposed the operation, which could have led to amputation of a leg.

The girl ran away from the hospital wearing only a bathrobe, nightgown and shoes.

"She read in a newspaper about the court approving the surgery, and was very despondent when she learned she might lose a leg," a nurse said.

The mother was not in the courtroom when Judge Walter G. Whitlach made his decision granting permission for surgery. She was represented by a court-appointed attorney.

Doctors say that without the operation the girl faces certain death, but that with it and the strong possibility of losing her leg—she has a 20 per cent chance of complete recovery.

Juvenile Court has jurisdiction in the case because the girl has been under the care of the county since she was sent to Blossom Hill School a year ago for running away from home.

Kennedy Given Advance Notice From Russians

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy got several hours advance notice that the Soviets were going to lift their armored-car blockade of a Berlin-bound U.S. Army convoy.

From whom the word came was not clear, but informants said it was not flashed over the famed "hot line" set up for swift emergency communications between the White House and Kremlin.

As the hours passed with the 44 GIs boxed in on the East German stretch of Autobahn, the hot line apparently clattered into life only for its hourly test messages.

However it came, officials said the information was passed to the President during a 50-minute White House meeting on the Soviet-American confrontation on the road to Berlin.

With Kennedy were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen.

GOP Claims 'Dramatic Inroads' in Demo Areas

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats kept control today of such keenly contested posts as the Kentucky and Mississippi governorships and the Philadelphia mayor's chair.

But tallies from Tuesday's elections were such as to lead the GOP to speak of "dramatic inroads" into Democratic strongholds.

The Blue Grass State race was close down to the finish line. Mississippi Republicans, mounting their first serious attempt on the governorship since Reconstruction, rolled up a considerable vote in defeat.

In Philadelphia, Democrats kept their grip on City Hall by about 67,000 votes—but this was their smallest margin in a mayoral race in 10 years.

In all of these races—plus some others—the issue of civil rights figured, though in somewhat different ways.

Politicians will be studying the tallies for 1964 omens—to learn, for example, whether a so-called "white backlash" against the militant Negro drive aims, will hurt President Kennedy next year.

Republicans could look with satisfaction on such states as Indiana—where dozens of mayors' posts switched from Democratic to Republican. The Indianapolis City Hall stayed Democratic by a narrow margin.

In San Francisco, Rep. John F. Shelley, D-Calif., apparently won out for mayor in an election officially billed as non-partisan. His opponent was Supervisor Harold Dobbs, Republican. The retiring mayor is George Christopher, Republican.

In New Jersey, the Republi-

Catholic Church Dilapidated in Czechoslovakia

By HANS BENEDICT

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) —Under the pulpit in Prague's St. Vitus Cathedral, a lonely woman kneels in silent prayer.

A tourist guide, his voice echoing through the near empty nave, points out the 600-year-old Gothic splendor to a group of visiting Russians. One lights a cigarette in studied boredom.

An old priest shuffles about in the shadows.

The pulpit is closed by an iron grill with a rusty lock. It has been empty nearly 14 years. The last to preach from it was the Most Rev. Josef Beran, archbishop of Prague and Roman Catholic primate of Czechoslovakia.

Communists took over Czechoslovakia in 1948. On a Sunday in June 1949, Archbishop Beran preached from his pulpit that "there is but one ruler above us —God." He was arrested on the spot.

The regime released the 75-year-old archbishop last month. Officially a free man, he is still barred from resuming office. Defiant and in indomitable spirits, Archbishop Beran now awaits the outcome of negotiations between the regime and the Vatican. He lives in a Catholic old-age home in the nearby village of Mukarov. On Sundays he celebrates Mass on a tiny altar flanked by wooden statues of Holy Mary and St. Joseph and covered with coarse linen.

His way from the gilded magnificence of St. Vitus, through police interrogation and solitary confinement to the little house in Mukarov symbolizes the course of Czechoslovakia's Catholic Church.

Places of worship throughout the country, save a few serving as cultural showpieces, are dilapidated. Many have been closed. The clergy, robbed of revenues sine all church property was socialized, lacks funds for repairs. Parochial schools were shut down long ago.

Officially, parents are free to send their children to religious lessons but few do. "I would lose my job if I let my boy go to the priest," a Prague factory worker said.

Of the country's 7,000 Catholic priests before the Communist takeover, less than half are allowed to practice their vocation. The others are believed to be in jail or to have taken jobs in factories or collective farms.

The Protestants, concentrated mainly in Moravia and the western part of Czechoslovakia, are relatively better off than the Catholics. With the help of Protestant officials holding influential positions in the economy, they managed to work out a kind of truce with the regime on a live-and-let-live basis.

Jockey Wins Race at Last; Decides to Quit Racing

By DICK WEST

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—The "It's a small world" phenomenon works very well in Puerto Rico. I had been here only a few hours when I ran into Irwin Tress.

Yes, I said Irwin Tress. You were expecting maybe Judge Crater?

I knew Tress about 15 years ago when he was a photographer for the International News Service in Miami, Fla. It was in Korea, however, that he became a living legend.

After the outbreak of the Korean War, Lee Ferrero, an INS man in Seoul, began petitioning the home office for additional reporters. Finally, he was notified that help was on the way.

Event Immortalized

But Ferrero's joy turned to consternation when his reinforcement arrived. In fact, the event was immortalized in a journalistic folk song, the first verse of which went like this:

"My name is Lee Ferrero
"And I work for INS.
"I asked for correspondents
"And they sent me Irwin Tress."

Tress is now public relations director at El Commandante, the San Juan race track. It appeared to me that they were made for each other.

Only someone like Irwin could fully appreciate El Commandante. And vice versa.

Tress conducted a tour of the track one afternoon for me and several other mainlanders from a group of about 500 who came here as guests of the Sheraton Corp. for the opening of a new resort hotel.

"See that floral horsehoe in the track infield?" he said. "That is where Camerero is buried.

"Camerero won 56 consecutive races, more than any other horse in history. Then he developed ulcers and died.

"El Commandante also is the home track of Pedro Juan Vinales, a jockey who rode for 11 years without winning a race. He lost 390 races in a row. People said he was the only jockey in the world who could have lost on Camerero.

"Finally one day, when there were only three other horses in the race, his horse won. The crowd went wild. They rushed out of the grandstand, hoisted Vinales on their shoulders and threw him in the infield lake.

"Vinales donated his purse to charity and never raced again. He wanted to quit a winner. Unlike Camerero, he is still alive and hasn't a trace of ulcers. There may be a moral there if you care to search for it."

I can believe all of this story except the last part. I bet on seven horses that afternoon and I strongly suspect that Vinales rode them all.

Senate Demos Elect Majority Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Francis R. Valeo, a mild-mannered scholar from the big city, was elected unanimously by Senate Democrats Monday to succeed Robert G. (Bobby) Baker as their majority secretary.

Baker resigned the $19,600-a-year post Oct. 7 when his wide-ranging business ventures came to light. The Senate Rules Committee presently is investigating to see whether conflict of interest laws were violated.

Valeo is a 47-year-old native of Brooklyn, N.Y. Unlike Baker, he is almost shy and his political knowledge is mostly academic. He took a degree from New York University and developed his academic speciality —Asia—while serving in the China-Burma-India theater during World War II.

MIAMI (AP)—Sunday school teacher C. Pete Stephens Jr. has boosted attendance at his Palmetto Presbyterian Church classes with official - looking subpoenas.

A typical summons says: "You are commanded to appear at Pete Stephens' Sunday School to testify on behalf of yourself. Bring with you the Holy Bible."

Bail Is Refused For Two Held On Spy Charges

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A federal district judge refused to set bail today for an American engineer and a Russian chauffeur held on spy charges.

Judge Thomas F. Meaney rejected bail requests in view of "the nature of the charge." The judge also took into consideration a promise of speedy presentation of the case to a federal grand jury.

U.S. Atty. David M. Satz Jr. said he will go before the grand jury Wednesday with evidence against John William Butenko, 38, of Orange, control administrator for the International Electric Corp. of Paramus, N.J. which handled secret Air Force contracts, and Igor A. Ivanov, chauffeur for a Russian trading company.

Attorneys for the two men objected and said they wanted a hearing on the bail matter, but Meaney pointed out that a hearing probably could not be held before the grand jury gets the case.

Butenko and Ivanov have been held without bail in Hudson County jail, Jersey City. FBI agents arrested them in Englewood last Tuesday night. U.S. Commissioner Theodore Kiscaras first set $100,000 bail but revoked it Wednesday.

Three men in the Soviet Union's U.N. delegation also were alleged to have taken part in the plot.

Congressman Judd Is Not Candidate

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Ex-Congressman Walter Judd says he isn't a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, but he's going along with plans to promote him as the nominee.

Judd, who is visiting Michigan, said GOP leaders in Minnesota, his home state, are supporting him.

"I haven't sought the nomination and I don't seek it now," Judd told a news conference. "But I have consented to this effort to promote me."

Judd lost his seat in the House in the 1960 election.

Teacher Dispute Arbitration Said School Danger

tion by Wisconsin and California state legislatures which have brought in outside labor arbitration boards to adjudicate problems between teachers and school boards.

"I think it's a step backward," he told a closing session of a joint meeting of the Colorado Association of School Boards and the Colorado Association of School Administrators at the Broadmoor Hotel.

"School boards are apprehensive and concerned lest this outside arbitration limit their legal and constitutional responsibilities. They are universally opposed to infringement on local control of the schools, a basic tenant of U.S. education," he said.

Burbank said, there is also "a considerable degree of insecurity among superintendents, who don't like to see pressure being put on school boards, and who don't know their own rules as a new image of teachers groups appears.

"But change is inevitable," he said. "What school boards must do is to realize that teachers want to be heard, above all, and to listen with an open mind. Teachers are tired of begging an audience from iron - faced board members. There must be more rapport between the members and the teachers."

Burbank said teachers, on the other hand, "must become fully conversant with affairs of the local school district — especially the financial affairs. They must state clearly that they recognize it's the duty of the board to decide on professional negotiations."

Burbank said that superintendents, by the same token, are expected to advise both groups and be actively involved in problems to them.

The AASA president said he regarded the New York City teachers' strike in 1962 as a catalyst which struck interest in professional negotiations in other parts of the country. He said there had been little interest on the subject in his own Boulder system until late last year.

"Now the Colorado Education Association has a committee on professional negotiations which is one of the best committees," he said.

Constant pressure from teachers unions, Burbank said, will in the long run "keep us honest and on our toes. I must be sure that what I say is professionally sound, fair and reasonable. As a superintendent I will do a better job as an administrator because of the constant pressure from teachers' unions.

"All of us must give serious thought to the question of preserving local responsibility for our schools which makes our American educational system unique," he said.

Kennedy Given Advance Notice From Russians

Curtis LeMay—subbing for Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—and others.

"There were no concessions on our part," a State Department spokesman said after the Soviets released the 12-truck convoy, detained since early Monday.

The dispute was over Soviet demands that the 44 men dismount from the trucks and be counted. The American officer in charge refused.

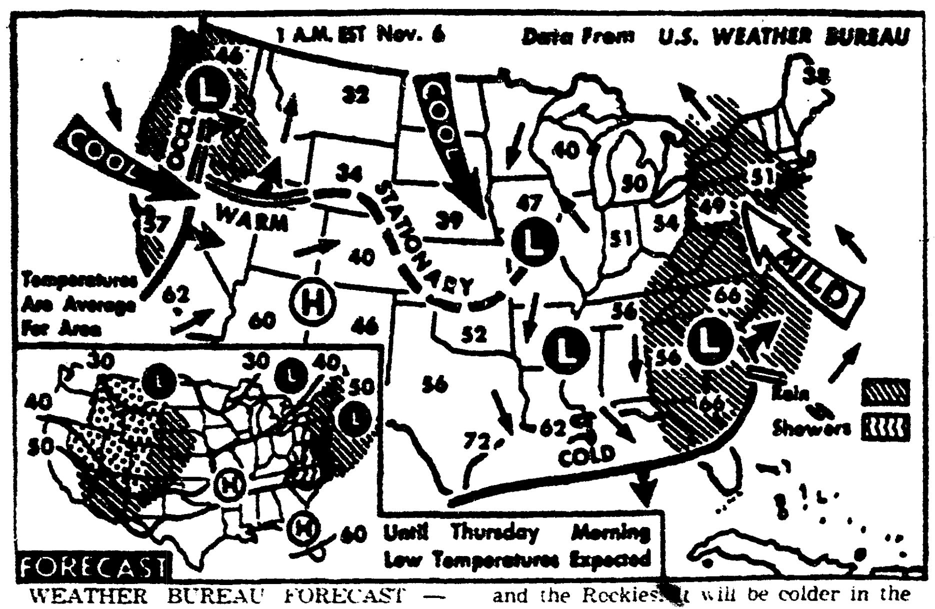
Washington has told Moscow, officials said, that if a convoy carries more than 30 passengers —excluding drivers and assistant drivers—the soldiers will be permitted to dismount and go through a head-count at checkpoints, but not if there are less.

The United States branded the blockade as a "completely unacceptable" Soviet attempt to take complete control over access to Berlin.

Before the convoy was freed, the United States, Britain, France and West Germany were reported to have agreed on what steps would be taken if the blockade was not lifted.

There was no report or hint of what the steps might be in the situation which officials had said carried the seed of a serious confrontation. Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, had demanded in a Senate speech that force be used to barrel through the blockade.

Earlier in the day Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin bumped into each other at the State Department when the Russian dropped in on another matter. The two were reported to have discussed the convoy incident for 20 minutes.



WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Rain is expected Wednesday night over the middle and north Atlantic states as well as in parts of the northern Plains while snow will cover most of the Plateau and the Rockies. Diem's Death Is Blamed On 'Accidental Suicide' to bring them to the United States.

The three children—Trac, 15; Quynh, 11, and their sister, Le Quyen, 4—were flown by a U.S. military plane to Bangkok, Thailand. A U.S. Embassy official accompanied them aboard a commercial airliner to Rome, where Archbishop Thuc took charge of them.

Mrs. Nhu has been on a lecture tour of the United States with her oldest daughter, Le Thuy, 18. She said she could not endure a trip to Rome, but a source close to her indicated she could not afford the trip.

It was also believed that she might not be able to get back into the United States if she went to Rome. U.S. officials said she would have to have a new visa and this in turn would require a passport from the revolutionary Vietnamese government.

Gen. Oai refused to say what the revolutionary government has in store for another brother of Diem, Ngo Dinh Can, who was turned over to the junta after he sought asylum in the U.S. consulate in Hue Tuesday.

Can was his brother's overlord in central Viet Nam and is widely hated there. U.S. officials said the junta assured them he would receive "due process of law."

The official news agency Viet Nam Presse announced that the revolutionary government had formed a 12-member executive committee of generals headed by Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, leader of the coup that toppled Diem and the new chief of state.

Maj. Gen. Tran Van Don, who also is minister of defense in the civilian cabinet, was named first vice chairman of the executive committee.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

Widespread fog, drizzle and occasional showers encompassed the nation this morning near and east of the Mississippi River.

In direct contrast, fair, dry weather extended across the plains and southwest.

Some cloudiness was found in the northern Rockies while the Pacific coastal region is having occasional rain and showers.

Precipitation has been locally heavy and widespread in both the eastern and western sections of the country. Several localities reported over one inch of rain. One of the heavier amounts received was in Wilmington, N.C., with 1.84 inches of rain.

During the past 24 hours, one of the larger amounts fell on the west coast where Cape Blanco, Ore., received 4.13 inches for the period.

Mrs. Nhu Plans to Settle In Los Angeles Area

turning here, an outpouring of sympathy for her in thousands of messages from Americans and profitable offers of speaking engagements and magazine articles.

Mrs. Nhu also was believed to be worn out by the emotional strain brought on by the downfall of the Diem government, the deaths of Diem and her husband, Ngo Dinh Nhu, the country's political strong man, and her anxiety over the welfare of her children. She also was recovering from the effects of a minor eye operation performed last Thursday night. A doctor who removed a cyst from her eyelid took out the stitches Tuesday.

A source close to Mrs. Nhu said that she left Saigon five weeks ago with $5,000 spending money for herself, her daughter and her secretary. He said she had no money banked abroad.

There have been rumors in Saigon, however, that Mrs. Nhu and her family had large sums of money banked in France and in New York.

Should she need money, however, Mrs. Nhu has had many offers of paid speaking engagements, although she has accepted none so far. She also was reportedly offered large sums of money for exclusive rights to her story by at least one American magazine and one French magazine.

Mrs. Nhu has received offers of assistance from the Los Angeles County Young Republicans, a group dominated by conservative elements.

Mrs. Nhu might have had visa trouble had she left the United States and wanted to return. Washington officials said she was traveling on a diplomatic passport issued by the defunct Diem regime. She would need a new visa, they said, which could not be supplied unless she had a valid travel document issued by the new Vietnamese government.

In her brief appearance on the way to the doctor Mrs. Nhu answered only one newsman's question—whether she felt defeated.

"Never!" she shouted. "I have always felt the immortal soul is much more important than the flesh."

Industry Support Of Quality in Education Urged

accelerate the development of the state's industrial-scientific complex.

Harper pointed out that the word "quality" appeared thruout the discussions and that many speakers emphasized that the new space-age industries are attracted to localities which have strong universities and an intellectually stimulating atmosphere.

Steps which Harper said the discussions indicated Colorado should take included:

—Industry must support quality in education.

—Atmospheric research should be emphasized as an area in which Colorado is achieving international prominence.

—Better communications are needed between industries and between industry and the universities.

—The gap between research and its practical uses should be bridged.

—Universities should make more current research available to industry.

—Provincialism must be avoided. There is more to Colorado than the Front Range.

—The state's businessmen should know its resources — academic and otherwise.

—The state has enough taxes now but the problem is priorities in the distribution of tax dollars.

In the final speech of the conference Dr. George L. Simpson Jr. of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that the technological revolution of which the mastery of space is a part will bring vast physical, economic and social changes.

The task of communities, states and regions, he said, is to harness science and technology, "to master it rather than let it master you."

Simpson, who is NASA's assistant administrator for technology utilization and policy planning, said the problems being considered at the conference are worrying business leaders thruout the U.S.

"You are in the same boat with everybody else and you probably have a better oar than most people," he said.

FREE TICKETS COSTLY

DALLAS (AP) — A lot of tickets were given away at the Jefferson High-South Oak Cliff football game, but sports fans weren't happy about receiving them.

Dallas police handed out nearly 500 parking tickets for cars illegally parked on a dirt median. Before the end of the game, officers were forced to send an emergency call to headquarters for a new supply of ticket books.

Boulder Voters Narrowly Defeat Sales Tax Plan

A. Vento, Roy Palmer and A. Leonard Lloyd.

Monte Vista citizens re-elected Henry Archer and Harold E. Deacon to the city commission.

La Junta's so-what election had eight incumbents running for the council with no opposition. Only 277 of the 789 registered voters bothered to go to the polls.

Fort Morgan elected Ted Pollock as mayor. Victorious councilmen are Reuben Peif, Robert Hall and John Hamlin.

Longmont's mayor, Ralph Price, was re-elected. He and Virgil Cliff Wagoner Jr., who won election as councilman, favor assessing a tap fee against industry using city water. But two others who were elected Dwight Brownewell and Archie Larkin — oppose the ordinance, and its future remains doubtful.

Greeley incumbents had hard going as only the mayor, Gordon Rissler, was re-elected. Ernest Scott, Floyd B. Otis and Richard A. Boetticher won council posts, defeating incumbents Richard Brown, Ole Kirk and Clair Somerville.

At Lamar, Robert Northrup, the mayor, and Councilmen S. V. Hixson and Robert Wolford were re-elected.

Sterling voters elected Horace Acre, Earl Franklin Jr., Ken Bellrose and Ellis Jones to the council and passed a $180,000 sewer bond issue.

Brighton voters elected Lee Montoya, Kenneth Mitchell, Earl Knox, Kenneth Weickum, Charles R. Gilkey and Lyle R. Dirrim to the council.

Las Animas citizens elected Leonard Hudnall, a feed store proprietor, as mayor and J. F. Canfield, Albert Sisneros, Lloyd Netherton, Lester Palmer, C. P. Bryant and C. L. Cline as councilmen. In an election that attracted perhaps more public interest, Robert L. Harris defeated Dr. Durbin Cover 517 to 498 for a place on the municipal power board.

In Loveland, voters approved a $290,000 bond issue for construction of a new library and a $160,000 bond issue for a new police and fire station on the heels of a half-million-dollar fire.

Mayor Ray L. Patterson was elected councilman at large in Loveland 1,375 to 1,239 for Darrell Chambers. Patterson is president of the mayor and council division of the Colorado Municipal League.

Eight council members were elected.

By COLIN FROST

BERLIN (AP)—A solid display of Allied unity brought a Soviet backdown on the East-West autobahn today, and a U.S. Army convoy rolled triumphantly into West Berlin.

A two-day war of nerves over Allied rights ended in the small hours after the British and French sent units on to the 110-mile autobahn in support of the American convoy blocked since Monday by the Soviets.

The British and French convoys went through without interference. Early today the Soviet officers dropped their demand that the 44 American soldiers submit to a head count. Then they pulled back the armored cordon blocking the autobahn near the West German border, and the Americans rolled through.

Soon after dawn the 12-vehicle convoy arrived in West Berlin. The convoy's 25-year-old commanding officer, Lt. John Lamb of Wewanitchka, Fla., was erect and unsmiling in the lead Jeep. There was no interference at the Soviets Babelsberg checkpoint just outside the city.

A big crowd waited through a cold and foggy night to cheer the convoy.

As soon as the convoy was safely through, the U.S. Army sent 56 more men on to the autobahn, traveling from West Germany to West Berlin in four vehicles.

This convoy, unlike its predecessor, dismounted for counting by the Soviets at Marienborn on the western end of the lifeline highway.

No erosion of Allied principle was involved, however. The Allies accept counting when a convoy carries more than 30 men in addition to the driver and co-driver of each vehicle.

With the autobahn tension at least temporarily lifted, the Army reinstated a Berlin exercise which had been twice postponed. More than 5,000 Americans, the entire U.S. brigade in Berlin, were ordered into their annual fall maneuvers to test city defenses.

Presently the Rehabilitation Center is occupying premises at 2536 North Logan, the Evangelical Presbyterian Church at 2511 North Logan, and the Sheltered Workshop at 211 East Harrison. It provides physical, occupational, and speech therapy, special education, and a Sheltered Workshop.

All checks for the building fund drive should be made to Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center Building Fund and mailed to the center, 2536 N. Logan St., Colorado Springs.

Cristelli Elected Mayor in Florence Vote

Ward 1 failed. Write-ins for Arthur Jansen totaled 81 while write-ins for Al Windweh totaled 80.

Only 745 voters out of a total registration of 1,076 cast their ballots Tuesday. This compares to 897 cast in 1961 out of a total registration then of 1,064.

In that election, McFall defeated Cristelli by a vote of 505 to 392.

There were no major issues debated during the campaign.

The Progressives ran on the water improvement project started under McFall's administration which resulted in a $260,000 water plant with another $80,000 to be spent in reservoir and water line developments.

The Independent Party pledged closer cooperation among local government and civic agencies.

LETHAL BEANS—The decorative but poisonous jequirity beans are displayed by John A. Brown, chief of the Sanitation division City-County Health Department. Brown said the lethal beans were found in a novelty store. They are dangerous playthings for children.

Jequirity Beans, Potentially Lethal, Found in Area

Potentially dangerous jequirity beans have been found in the Colorado Springs area, it was reported Tuesday by John A. Brown, chief of the Sanitation division of the City-County Health Department.

He said the lethal beans were found in a novelty store and a check is being made to determine if there are others in the region.

The beans are grown in Haiti and resemble a lady bug in size and coloring. They are slightly elongated, scarlet in color and there is a black patch around the hilum near one end.

These seeds are employed largely for the making of rosaries and other ornamental purposes. They are very decorative.

Two necklaces and other ornaments containing the jequirity beans were found in Colorado Springs a little over a year ago.

And from time to time in the past few years, Brown said, the beans have been used as eyes in Haitian voodoo dolls, which have been carved from cashew nut sheels.

Brown said the jequirity beans are dangerous playthings for children and that there are on record "a number of cases of poisoning which have occurred in this way."

Poisoning may result from the taking of the seeds internally, tho not in the same small doses which will produce it when introduced directly into the blood stream.

The beans taken internally by a baby could cause serious and possibly fatal illness. The shell of the bean is rather thick and hard and is not always fully digested after being swallowed. Forty seeds have been ingested, with serious results, but there was final recovery, Brown said.

The beans have a notorious history in India as an agent in criminal poisoning. This practice has been directed chiefly against cattle and other livestock, but the poisoning of human beings has not been infrequent. The poisonous mixture is affixed to the end of a stick and the point is used to prick the skin of the intended victim, with promptly fatal results.

Anyone interested in seeing the beans may inspect them at Brown's office at the health department, 500 N. Foote Ave.

Also, Brown said, anyone having the beans should contact him at the health department.

The advisory vote on the home rule government proposed for Manitou Springs proved to be the only really close contest. A total of 326 voters said "yes," the city should pursue the possibility of Manitou becoming a home rule city, and the "no" lever was pulled 295 times.

A total of 1,246 residents were registered to vote and totals indicate that only some 700 went to the polls, compared to 1,061 votes cast in 1961 out of a 1,330 registration.

The prediction of early returns were accurate as judges in all three wards completed their count by 7:50 p.m. Ward I, which had the largest number of voters, was the first to report to city hall and arrived at 7:30 p.m. with the abstract.

GOP Claims 'Dramatic Inroads' in Demo Areas

cans kept control of the State Senate by a sweep, and moved toward taking over the Assembly from Democrats.

In Kentucky, a still-incomplete count showed Democrat Edward T. Breathitt Jr. the winner for the governorship, but by only about 15,000 votes out of some 860,000 votes thus far counted.

His Republican foe, Louie B. Nunn, charged voting irregularities and asked supporters "to stand by the voting machines and ballot boxes."

Nunn, after first conceding defeat, said "the race is not over yet." But it appeared the uncounted precincts could not change the outcome.

Nunn, in his campaign, had borne down heavily in criticism of an order, issued by retiring Democratic Gov. Bert Combs, barring racial discrimination in businesses licensed by the state. He also had roundly criticized the Kennedy administration.

Kennedy could take no comfort from the Mississippi governorship result because both the winner, Democratic Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, and the loser, Republican Rubel Phillips, made a point of opposing him and integration.

The Republican vote was smaller than Phillips hoped for—with 1,580 of 1,877 precincts counted it stood: Johnson 172,237, Phillips 101,605. But it's something new for a Republican to get that many votes for Mississippi governor—in any event.

has even tried with any seriousness since Reconstruction days.

The victor in the Philadelphia mayoralty fight was Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate, for whom Kennedy made a campaign sortie. Loser was James T. McDermott, 37-year-old lawyer who never has held public office.

Racial overtones got into the campaign. Tate accused McDermott of playing for the white vote. Denying this, McDermott said part of the racial unrest in the trouble city could be laid to indecision on the mayor's part.

Surveying these and other elections Tuesday night, the Republican National Committee said "there is cause for solid Republican satisfaction." It saw "a definite Republican trend" in much of the balloting.

"We gave our opponents a real run for their money in Philadelphia and Kentucky," the statement said, and "in Mississippi a great stride has been made toward the establishment of a two-party system."

In New York City, voters plumped 3-1 for a proposal to legalize off-track betting on the horses. Since the vote was only advisory, any action will be up to the state legislature.

New Jersey rejected Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes' plan for $750-million bond issues to finance mental institutions, schools and highways.

Maine citizens ratified two constitutional amendments: to give city dwellers more representation in the State House of Representatives, and to forbid racial discrimination against any person.

Among hundreds of mayors elected were:

Salt Lake City—Mayor J. Bracken Lee, right-wing, Republican, re-elected in non-partisan race.

Boston—Mayor John F. Collins re-elected in non-partisan contest.

Indianapolis—Democrat John J. Barton elected to mayor's chair which his party has held for eight years.

Columbus, Ohio — Former Mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner, Democrat, elected in a comeback.

New Haven, Conn.—Democrat Richard C. Lee won his sixth consecutive term.

Negro Loses Bid for Georgia Council Seat

OCILLA, Ga. (AP)—The first Negro to seek public office in this south Georgia community lost the race for a city council seat.

Clarence Davis, 43, owner of a dry cleaning establishment, was soundly defeated in Tuesday's Democratic primary by John W. Wingate, a furniture dealer and former mayor.

Wingate received 639 votes and Davis 166. The incumbent, R. J. Hennekin, an automobile parts dealer, was third with 19 votes.

Church Authority Discussion Faces Heated Debate

ops share with the Pope in responsibility for governing the entire Church.

James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles, however, was more concerned with the schema's idea of putting teeth into national and regional episcopal conferences by defining a juridical status for them.

He said a radical change in church structure and a danger to internal church unity could result.

Archbishop Leo Binz of St. Paul, Minn. told newsmen he thought Cardinal McIntyre's thinking — an apparent reluctance to have to accept as binding whatever a national episcopal conference should decide—would prove to be the feeling "of about two-thirds of the United States bishops."

Archbishop Binz suggested one possible solution would be for the decision of an episcopal conference to be binding only when it has the approval of two-thirds of the bishops and the concurrence of the Pope.

Colorado School Law Rewriting To Be Proposed

mit districts to pay teachers on the merit system; propose abolishment of the State Board of Vocational Education and turn its duties over to the State Board of Education; standardize school board terms at four years; withold automatic salary increases for teachers whose work is unsatisfactory; and permit school boards to build residences for teachers.

The Colorado Association of School Boards went on record Tuesday for the recodification bill, endorsing the abolishment of the State Board of Vocational Education, and turning its duties to the State Board of Education.

Under president Walter Zimmerman of Pueblo, the members also resolved:

To standardize school board terms at six years;

To oppose any further sale of state school lands until the legislature appoints a committee to make a survey of public school land management;

To seek legislative repeal of the Colorado law which permits the county treasurer's office to charge a one per cent fee for collection of school taxes;

To urge the legislature to utilize school finances to increase the state's share in the cost of education;

To impose a financial penalty on teachers who resign without giving 60 days notice except in cases where the consent of the school board is given;

To initiate a study of the inspection practices of the State Industrial Commission as they relate to the schools in Colorado;

To request Gov. Love to consider development of an educational television system for the state, giving consideration to both primary and secondary schools.

The school board members also agreed to a sales tax resolution which recommends that if funds are derived from an additional sales tax, "the money should be deposited in the state's general fund in order that public schools and other necessities of government may be supported in proportion to recognized need as determined by the General Assembly."

Solons to Wait With Probe of Indian Bureau

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Chairman Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., of the House Interior Committee said Monday the committee won't investigate the manner in which the U. S. Indian Bureau administers affairs on the Navajo Reservation unless more pertinent information turns up.

A majority of the members of the Navajo Tribal Council recently submitted directly to Rep. James Haley, D-Fla., chairman of the Interior subcommittee on Indian affairs, a request for such a probe.

Referring to this original request, and to a telegram to Haley signed by two Navajo council members complaining that Indian Bureau officials had seized tribal records in Window Rock, Ariz., Saturday, Aspinall said:

"We're charged with seeing that the Indians have the protection of the laws. This Navajo trouble seems to be a matter of client - attorney relationship, which is an administrative matter.

"We're not going to move fast into this situation. The executive department has its responsibility and we have ours. I'd take offense at any one trying to trespass into our field of responsibility."

Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall last Friday announced the suspension of Norman M. Littell, Washington attorney, as general counsel for the Navajos.

Udall said the action was taken as a result of a controversy which has arisen over who is to handle legal matters on the Navajo Reservation, which sprawls over 15 million acres in New Mexico, Arizona and Utah.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Origin of Evil

In our discussion of freedom and some of the enemies of freedom we came yesterday to the question of morality.

What is obviously desirable, is a society having the highest possible level of moral conduct.

We will suggest at this point that the largest percentage of positively immoral conduct arises from the ranks of those who wish to impose their particular brand of morality on others thru some agency of force. The effort to legislate and enforce "right" conduct is as old as government and sin.

First, let us take immoral conduct by those who are NOT seeking to be moral. Such occurs, of course. There are always thieves and murderers, and despoilers in our midst. Persons of this ilk provide a sort of backwater to the tide of the human species. In areas of social stagnation and under brackish moral conditions (which incidentally have nothing at all to do with the financial or economic status of the persons involved), persons exist who are either immoral by choice or who are amoral in the sense that they cannot tell the difference between moral and immoral conduct.

It is probably true that persons of this character or lack of character are usually at the lowest economic levels. But let us set the record straight. It is not low economic activity that creates this condition. It is rather immoral people who fail to engender sufficient moral energy to improve their economic status. Poverty does not engender immorality; it engenders production. But immorality DOES engender poverty.

The immoral scion of a prominent family, if given the opportunity, will spend himself into the poor house. But a poor man who also happens to be moral, may very well produce sufficiently well to establish a family of means and position. The economic condition which pertains in a given case does not determine the character of the person. On the contrary, it is the character of the person which tends to determine the economic condition.

In any examination of moral conduct it becomes at once apparent that only a tiny segment of the human species is congenitally or basically immoral or amoral. Were this not the case, what we consider to be correct conduct would be the reverse. Among those who are immoral, immorality cannot be evil. Thus, were the bulk of humanity immoral by nature, it would follow that the projects to which men lend their support and their names would also be immoral. So, we would find on every hand, organizations fostering cruelty to children; favoring arson as a national sport; designed to employ torture and death as fixed policies; aimed at the despoiling of women and the destruction of all human virtue.

Pick up any telephone book and find if you can a single such organization among the listings. They do not exist.

If men were basically evil, they would exist. Further, man would be intent on destroying all other men, and who would object if all men were similarly motivated?

Thus, it must be that men who are either immoral or amoral exist in only a small minority. And that can only mean that the evil we find in the world, which does exist in large measure, is evil created not by immoral but by moral men.

In other words, the sum total of evil provided by positively malignant men or positively amoral men who cannot tell the difference between right and wrong, is a drop in the bucket compared to the sum total of all evil.

Name Him

Seriously now, whom do you know that you wish to grant the power to run your affairs and spend your money?

Evil Thru Good Intentions

We are still concerned with discussing the nature of a free society.

And we have demonstrated above that the evil in a society arises only in a small way from men who are basically evil in nature. So let us now consider the basic source of evil: good men who employ force in an effort to compel all men to a kind of conduct which they believe to be moral. Here is the real source of our problem.

As we have demonstrated earlier, man, by his nature, individually controls his own energy. This means that individually, man is responsible for his conduct. The entity capable of making a decision regarding the release and the generation of his own energy is the only possible responsible source of that energy. No other can exist.

But men are not perfect. And, as we have conceded, there are a few men, always in our midst, who are basically immoral.

It is in attempting to deal with these who are basically immoral that the bulk of the human race comes to grief. For despite the obvious fact that such men are only a tiny segment of the species, we have employed the force of law and government in a monstrous way to compel specific behavior, not from these unfortunate creatures, but from all persons, lest some of them inadvertently be also immoral.

Thus, we have invoked violence without any limit whatever in an effort to cope with the few who are immoral or amoral. It is one of the greatest tragedies of the species to date that such employment of violence has NOT in the least reduced the numbers of those who are immoral or amoral.

On the contrary, it has increased the number, made violence a way of life, and has served as a gigantic justification for the application of every conceivable kind of cruelty on all of our kind, only to attempt to curtail the actions of a few of our kind.

[illegible] herein is a philosophic [illegible] that cannot be overlooked. The moral man is not he who is FORCED to behave in a moral manner. The moral man is he who CHOOSES to behave in a moral manner. The man who performs properly because no choice is open to him may be moral or he may be immoral. We can never really know. Only he who is free to choose AND who then chooses a moral course is the moral man.

Thus, if we are to have a free society, it must be a society based upon morality. For immoral conduct would reduce our ability to have a free society. And a society existing without restraint imposed by the individuals in it upon themselves, would not necessarily be either free or moral. The moral man, like the free man, is he who chooses his own course of action and assumes full responsibility for his choices and his actions. Thus, moral conduct, like free conduct, is a matter of self-control rather than a matter of control induced by others.

It is from this recognition that we have finally discovered (in some quarters) that moral conduct cannot be legislated. When efforts have been made to compel all persons to be moral: i.e., to obey what is construed as the moral code of the times (to wit: thou shalt not drink, own or transport alcoholic beverages; thou shalt not expose the body, nor any portion thereof to public gaze; thou shalt not read words nor look at pictures which awaken prurient reactions), the result has been an increase of alcoholic consumption, an increase in public nudity, an increase in bad taste in literature and various art forms.

To seek to ENFORCE a particular kind of behavior and to PREVENT other kinds has reacted negatively.

Thus, we discover (belatedly) that to reduce alcoholic consumption means to encourage the individual to refrain from drinking as a matter of self-control; to reduce questionable exposure means to encourage self-control and personal virtue; to reduce the circulation of questionable printed matter mean to encourage taste and judgment on an individual basis.

Real control comes from the person, not from the state.

To The Point

A Case of Snobbery

By RUSSELL KIRK

In essence, a snob is a person who pretends to be something he isn't. Thus, a haughty man isn't necessarily snobbish — supposing he really has qualities to be haughty about. General de Gaulle, tho no snob, is haughty: he doesn't pretend to be superior; he actually is superior.

England — a land for which I have much affection — is said to be the great stronghold of snobbery. (Englishmen themselves do most of the reproaching of the English for this vice. Thackeray wrote a whole angry book about snobs.) I do not dissent from this view. Here is a case-history.

Some few years ago, I sat in the parlor of the White Hart at Stratford-on-Avon, after a long day's walk, reading Santayana's "Reason in Religion" by the fire. (I was passing thru Stratford, on my way to more interesting places.) Two Englishmen on the other side of the hearth.

One of these was a Birmingham businessman, who (I suspect) had grown rich quickly after the Second World War — one of Stanley Baldwin's "hard-faced men who look as if they had done well out of the war." He knew himself to be important. His companion was a diffident young man who, I think, expected to become the entrepreneur's son-in-law. They eyed me.

"Do you know who that chap is?" inquired Birmingham, of his son-in-law. He did not speak softly, for the English snob generally assumes that foreigners cannot comprehend his mastery of his language.

"No, sir," said the son-in-law.

"He's an American." (This with a certain disdain.)

"Why, how do you know, sir?"

"Notice his socks, Fred — an odd plaid. And his tie. And that book — he's not really reading it, you know."

Tired from my day's walk, I had dozed off now and again, there beside the fire, tho I kept Santayana in my hand. Bending closer, Birmingham looked at the title of my book: this seemed to disconcert him, for probably he had expected it to be one of the works of Mr. Mickey Spillane. Faintly chastened by the mysterious name of Santayana, Birmingham sat meditative for a moment. Then he spoke more words of wisdom to the diffident son-in-law:

"Well, Fred, after all, we musn't be harsh. One day, this chap's son, or grandson, may be an officer and a gentleman."

Being descended from a good many recorded generations of officers and gentlemen (some the one, some the other, some both), I was tickled pink by this prophecy. The Birmingham gentleman's gentility, such as it was, extended back no further than a somewhat inferior boarding-school, if I am any judge of English types.

A gentleman, it has been said, is a person who never calls himself one. And a snob is a person who always does — without knowing what the word means.

The Old Mountaineer

Thoughts by the Wayside

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

On every hand we hear the query as to where the days and the months and the whole year have gone. In our mountain west we have had month after month of calm and loveliness and that may have much to do with our feelings respecting the passage of time. We do know that war years drag interminably and seem never-ending. Other years of repeated storms, deep and long-covering snows, varying season lengths, and oddities of nature, all affect our feeling as to the passage of time, and yet time itself never varies. The lengths of the days and nights are fixtures, the equinoxes have their fixed and allotted places in the scheme of things.

And does this year which has passed so quickly for some seem age-long to others? We may all agree that the days of youth pass in rather normal fashion, but as the age of the human draws closer to the inevitable end, the flight of time swiftens and the months seem jet-propelled. Actually, time itself does not vary in its passage, and human feelings and experiences alone gauge the speed of its flight. So we ask again, where has this year gone? Where are the yesterdays of the calendar? Time is the track upon which your race is run. One instant of time is the start, another single instant is the end, and between is the record of your successes and failures. There is no turning back; there is no repeat performance; there is no practice session; when your race is run, it is the grand finale.

These thoughts arise because it is startling to realize that the next national election is just about one year away. Where have the past three years gone so hurriedly? They have been years of promises and anticipations, of talk and debate and quarrelsome interludes, of aimless wanderings to the far corners of the earth, and of extreme and frightening national fiscal irresponsibilities. Within the year the administration will have run its race upon time limits fixed by the people. In the meantime, there may be hasty moves to retract wrongful things which have been done, there will be frantic actions to set political houses in order which have been sadly scrambled, and proper paths of rectitude will be sought by those who have in the glory of their power strayed into unworthy theories and projects and conduct. The administration will have to face up to its record, explanations and exercises will not suffice to an intelligent electorate, and the issues this next year will be brazenly clearcut and not easy to escape.

The span of time will soon cut short the current presidential term, and the administration will rise or fall upon the record which it has made. By its own acts, the administration has created the clearcut issues to be determined. There are many subsidiary problems but in the main our people must vote yes, or no, upon the three following clearcut issues:

1. Shall we continue to give Cuba and Latin America over to the communist world?

2. Are we still a union of SOVEREIGN states?

3. Shall we continue to spend ourselves into national bankruptcy?

If these issues are determined on the basis of sound American principles, all minor problems will fall into place and solve themselves. If our people stray and wander into the dreamland of wild theorists and foreign ideologists, all will soon be chaos within our land.

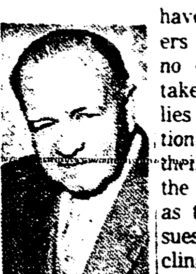
The Cuban fiasco should be kept to the forefront at all times during the campaign. No honeyed words, no specious claims of missile victory should be allowed to becloud the issue. We have suffered an ignominious defeat which is perhaps the worst in our history. There has been collusion within our ranks, and no doubt an element of downright treason. We have been sold down the river, as have the people of Cuba. While the Monroe Doctrine is being destroyed, and we are losing our own independent birthright, we sit like weaklings on the sidelines. It will take a strong hand, but the troops and technicians, and tanks and submarines, and all ideological clap trap must go, or even be driven from our shores. Prestige, where is thy sting; oh defeat, thy victory?

Do we, in each sovereign state, run our own affairs according to our own local conditions, according to our own likes and dislikes, or shall we continue to kow-tow to bayonets from Washington? Shall a voracious central power continue to tell us when to sow and when to reap? Shall a Supreme Court continue to tell us when to pray and where to worship and to legislate us away from our own legitimate desires? Alabama is not Colorado, nor is Oregon, Maine. We each love our own soils, our own climatic conditions, our own way of life, and we do not want to become one with the faceless peasants of the Russian steppes. Are we to remain free or become slaves? Are we to lose the heritage which our forefathers fought to preserve, or do we become subservients suppliant to Washington for the very freedoms which are ours? Perhaps the original colonies did not have the perfect answer to these things, but they founded a political and economic house which is as near perfection as man has yet attained. If we do not retain these values in our hearts, we shall have to fight for them again in the future, over and over again.

Bankruptcy is misery, and don't you ever forget it. Bankruptcy leads to hunger in the body, to yearning in the soul and to hopelessness in daily human life. If hard-earned dollars are expended wildly on foolish things, there will be none left for food and clothing and the comforts of life to which we have become accustomed. Going to the moon may some day become a practical thing, but in the present state of our exchequer it is nothing more than an obsession of impractical immaturity. Let us now resolve to spend wisely only that which we have earned. Debt is a terrible taskmaster.

Going for Broke

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD



The socialist conglomerate is pretending it believes it has a one-government world by the ears on a downhill pull. A few of the more knowing among the members of the conglomerate paused to take a look behind them and they discovered the juggernaut which had gathered steam in a manner which will engulf them all if they are unable to do something about it. They will attempt to ride the monster and tame it but they are trying to enlist a lot of help to give them a hand. They'll even accept a little help from the few Americans who know what socialism is and find it detestable.

On a round-the-clock basis, over radio, TV and via any other news-disseminating media they can manage, the line goes like this: There are still some foolish people in this country who don't know when they are well off. Some of them recklessly believe this country should get out of the United Nations. Sure, the U. N. has made some mistakes but it's the last hope for peace in this world. Other extremists want to do away with the graduated federal income tax but they present no alternative methods of taxation and are hopelessly out of touch with the times. Among the most radical of the extremists, we find people who believe we should halt all aid to the free countries of the world, refuse to deal commercially with the U.S.S.R. and some even criticize our great social security system. The worst express a desire to see our great and powerful government weakened in these times of grave international crisis — and on and on.

After so many years, the socialist conglomerate has worked up enough courage to name a few issues because it is frightened and confused. The leaders have decided to go for broke and among those leaders are many who obviously yearn for a strong and successful opposition to socialism. The reason? They have run out of time and blinders for the people and they want no one to be in a position to take a close, clear look at what lies ahead. They need opposition on which they can blame their abysmal failures and the need has become so urgent as to force them to present issues to which opposition may cling. It's the craziest political performance I have ever seen and it will not be successful. There is no "other side," per se. There is no courageous opposition to the socialist conglomerate, there are only political weaklings and hypocrites.

There is not a single strong force or individual available to take over the reins of a government so bloated it cannot be reined and a recognition of this fact should encourage all who believe in the right of human beings to stand in freedom. The socialists will find it almost impossible to do anything but stew in their own juice.

This, believe me, is a time for respectable people who are not a part of government or the problem of government, to begin paying strict attention to their own responsibilities. This is the time to ignore every bribe of the socialist conglomerate and to institute a personal boycott in connection with every political entity, personally, socially and politically. It is a time to learn to take care of your own garbage or employ the market place to attend to the matter. It is a time to refinance FHA and GI loans with market place lending institutions and to encourage private enterprise at every opportunity.

And, this is a time for private enterprise to live up to its heritage of creative and productive genius and daring. It is a time for the market place to show its independence and its ability to give customers a good run for their money.

The socialist conglomerate is punchy from its own insensate lust for power, its childish schemes and refusal to face the economic facts of life. This is a time to insist upon your absolute right to life, liberty and the pursuit of your own happiness without let or hindrance from government.

It's a time to recognize socialism for the nefarious confidence game it is, a time to quit doing business with the monster who will devour you!

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

Question No. 360: "Are there really any property rights?"

Answer: There are no such things as property rights. Property is not a unit that is self-motivated, not a unit that plans ahead and makes decisions of a momentous nature.

It is a loose way of speaking. It is used, undoubtedly, to reduce words. It really means man's right to own and control 100 per cent the property that he has acquired honestly. Of course, if it is not acquired honestly, it is not really property, it is loot or plunder.

This loose method of talking about property rights leads to the oft-repeated question whether a man puts property rights before human rights. The answer to that is that there are no property rights, there are only human rights, so therefore there isn't any question as to whether a man should put "property rights" before human rights. It is just a method of loose thinking or fooling the public, that is, making the masses of people believe that there are such things as "property rights." There would be no property if there were no human beings.

So the next time you hear a man talking about putting "property rights" above human rights, try to get the man to see that there isn't any such thing as "property rights," it is only man's rights to own and manage his own property.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

ECONOMIC SENSE

To the Editor:

While cursorily reading some of my long-dormant college notebooks i found some lecture notes on economics that could have been appropriately entitled "Some Elements of Economics in One Easy Lesson," which, with some revision, I offer for your consideration, because they are quite apropos at this time.

1. Money: A medium of exchange; receipt for or a claim to a part of the stockpile of wealth.
2. Wealth: Any useful material thing owned by somebody; the combined production of material things by land, labor, and capital.
3. Land: All resources except labor.
4. Labor: The human expenditure of physical and mental energy required by production.
5. Capital: Wealth used to produce more wealth; the tools of production.
6. Capitalist: One who provides the tools of production.
7. Capitalism: An economic system in which the tools of production are privately owned.
8. Socialism: An economic system in which the tools of production are owned or controlled by government.
9. Margin: The employment of one more less-productive unit.
10. Rent: Production over and above that produced on the margin.
11. Interest: That part of wealth produced by capital.
12. Wages: That part of wealth produced by labor.
13. Rent, interest, and wages are determined by the margin. The margin is determined by the behavior of the population. The behavior of the population is determined by the wants, and by the satisfaction of these wants, of the people.
14. High cost of living is another name for high rent, low wages, and low interest.
15. Tax: A forced contribution of a part of the stockpile of wealth, a part of rent, interest, and wages, to the government.

One of the great errors of science, one that has caused endless confusion, is the unfortunate choice of some of the terms used in economics. Rent, interest, wages, capital, etc., usually connote money matters and only money matters to too many people, and their economic meanings, sometimes prefixed by "real," make no sense at all. Thus, we find that a common everyday science, handicapped as it is by ambiguous terms, is not generally understood by the vast majority of people.

For example, take the term "capitalist." Entirely too many people think that a capitalist is a banker, a business tycoon, an industrial manager, an opponent of organized labor, a rich man, etc. Too many people erroneously associate the term capitalist with the terms financier and speculator. A capitalist is one who supplies the tools of production. An owner of corporate stocks and bonds, a carpenter with his hammer and saw, a painter with his spray gun, a draftsman with his T-square, a tailor with his sewing machine, a farmer with his livestock, a machinist with his micrometer, an engineer with his slide rule, a surgeon with his scalpel, a scientist with his electronic computer, an owner of a small factory, and so on thru a long list of occupational titles — these are the capitalists in our economy! It is apparent that a capitalist and a laborer may be one and the same person at the same time, and that one cannot exist without the other.

It is also apparent that some confusion in the understanding of economics may be blamed on the semanticists who were asleep at the switch when the pioneering economists, who were without the benefit of proper labels for their ideas, were developing the principles of economics. The rest of the confusion may be blamed on the pioneering economists who neglected, thru carelessness or ignorance, to choose proper terms and to properly define them. Perhaps it is asking too much of economists for them to become semanticists!

And underlying the whole structure of economics is the following principle, stated in simple terms: "Man's wants are without limit, and he will seek to satisfy these wants with the least possible effort."

Does this easy lesson in economics make sense?

LOSING THE TRIANON

To the Editor:

It was such a lovely day when I awoke. I have been sitting here having my coffee and reading the paper. Suddenly the day was not nearly as appealing to me.

I am referring to the article, in the Thursday paper, concerning the Trianon.

Do you realize what we will be throwing away if this art work goes to auction? Maybe you do, more so than I. Then why haven't you tried to help?

I have three small sons whom I raise by myself, most of my energy is devoted to the feeding clothing and teaching of these children.

When it all starts to get me down, a good book, a dash to C.C. campus for an outdoor art exhibition or a leisurely stroll through the art center is enough to revive me. In the face of beauty a person soon forgets they are tired and afraid.

If we lose the Trianon, we will lose a part of that which gives us a reason for living.

When I first heard of the plans to auction everything and close the Trianon, I really felt bad. I'm very angry at this moment, angry that clods who don't care can take from people who do care.

Am reminded of a book written a long time ago by Ayn Rand. It is titled "Anthem." If you can not envision life without art, beauty, hope and love, do yourself a favor and read this book.

To me, losing the Trianon is just another step up the long ladder to nothingness.

LEST WE FORGET!

To the Editor:

1956 BUDAPEST, HUNGARY! The Russian tanks and troops were in full retreat from the city. The Hungarian patriots who had forced them to flee thought their revolution won. Alas, they had much to learn about Russian Communists.

Khrushchev, surrounded by his beaten, disorganized troops, opened negotiations with the Hungarian military leaders on the withdrawal of Russian troops from all of Hungary. It was too bad that the Hungarians did not know that at the same time he ordered Russian reinforcements of tanks and troops rushed to Budapest.

The heroic military leader of the revolution, Col. Pal Maleter, and his chief of staff, Gen. Istvan Kovacs, trusting in Khrushchev's guarantee of safe conduct, proceeded to the Russian camp for the negotiations. Upon arrival they were seized and to this day no one but Khrushchev and their executioners knows how or where they met their death. One report leak ed out that, even under the most terrible torture, both officers refused to name any other leaders of the revolution (Page 149, "The Hungarian Revolution," by George Mikes).

With the Hungarian military leaders in his hands Khrushchev sent his reinforced tanks and troops back into the city and turned it into a shambles.

Could anyone so vile, as this historical proven fact shows Khrushchev to be, ever change his spots? No! He will smile and smile over his glass of vodka—and be a villain still.

This is the MONSTER on one end of the hot telephone line with Kennedy on the other.

This is the MONSTER with whom Kennedy carries on a continuous exchange of letters — Kennedy's Pen Pal.

This is the Monster with whom Kennedy forced the United States into a test ban agreement—an agreement that the whole world should know will be honored by the Russian Communists only as long as they consider it to be in their interests. Honor? They have none, as they have proven to the world time and time again.

HUMAN DIGNITY

To the Editor:

In a recent political speech it was stated that the Negro wants freedom. Complete freedom is not possible where man - made government exists. Man-made government is instituted solely for the purpose of using police power to force citizens to do something that they would not do if given individual choice.

The Constitution and Bill of Rights was written for the expressed purpose of guaranteeing the individual citizen freedom from encroachment of the government on his God-given right to own and control his life and property.

A careful examination of the added amendments to the Constitution will reveal that they were measures to enable the government (lawmakers) to pass laws encroaching on individual freedom.

Every citizen, including the Negro, is under the laws of our government, equally. The troubles the Negroes are having in getting what they want cannot be eliminated by another law. The trouble comes from how the men in government intrepret the law. We have so many laws now that obedience to the law is impossible, and consequently we have a government of men.

It seems to me that the Negro really wants recognition and honor as a human being. Since our God and Creator is the only one who is no respecter of persons, the honor and dignity of human beings cannot be brought about except thru the thoughts and actions of God-fearing men. And this must be wrought thru the actions of individuals and not political action.

God's laws were ten in number. How many do we have on the books of our country and what happens if we keep adding them?

DEER SHOOTS HUNTER

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) —The deer shot back.

Hunter Bruce Beasley of Idaho Falls bagged his buck Sunday, but the deer got his revenge.

While Beasley and a companion were carrying the deer out of the Fall Creek area east of here, one of its hooves tripped the trigger of a .357 pistol the Idaho Falls man was carrying.

Beasley was in good condition today with a bullet wound in his right leg.

That ubiquitous black satin envelope of an evening purse just won't do this season. There's a return to "old world" elegance in accessories and the revival definitely goes for handbags, too, says Ivan Kessler. Kessler, a handbag manufacturer, recommends the beaded bag — the brighter the colors the better. (Josef Bags).

A new synthetic wig for women started as a roll of Dynel fiber, 22 inches long and 54 inches wide. The material looks like a shaggy rug. The cloth is cut into strips, using furriers knives. Individual strips are sewn togeher then—as a mink coat is sewn, to form a shape patterned to fit milady's head. A piece of elastic is stitched inside, making the wig adjustable to fit every head size and enabling the wearer to tuck her own locks inside easily. The wig, which is washable, gets its shape this way: it's put on a wig block. The next steps: brush, comb and lacquer it into a variety of styles.

A new vinyl oversuit is a handy addition to any gardening damsel's wardrobe. It comes in bright yellow and is waterproof. Good also at car washing time. (Ann Campion, New York, N.Y.).

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Have a 'Family' Discussion!

DEAR ABBY: My husband works the second shift, which means he leaves home at 2:30 in the afternoon and comes home after midnight. By the time he wakes up in the morning the children have gone to school. He doesn't even know he has a family. I have all the decisions to make and all the discipline problems. I am fed up with the full responsibility. Do not tell me he is earning a living for "his family." He has plenty of seniority where he works and could get on the first shift by asking for it. What do you think I should do? —FED UP TO HERE

DEAR FED UP: I think you should tell your husband what you have told me. Unless you have already told him so many times he thinks you're kidding.

DEAR ABBY: Just read "ALL MAN'S" letter. He said, "Women drivers, bah!"

I am a woman driver who has been driving since the age of 16. I am now over 60 and have yet to be involved in any kind of accident, stopped for speeding, or given a ticket for overparking or wrong parking. Show me a man with the same record!

I find that most men are "weaver boys." They weave in and out of traffic to get ahead, and when you reach the next stop light, they are sitting there —waiting. —ALL WOMAN

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative (through marriage) who is far from poor. In fact she is a lot better off financially than I am. But this woman gives used things for gifts. And she doesn't even bother to have them gift-wrapped. She just puts them in a paper sack. Last week she gave me a "birthday gift." I gave it to a needy person. She could have bought me three new powder puffs for 25 cents and I'd have appreciated it more. What is wrong with people like that? —HURT

DEAR HURT: It's hard to say. If she's off her rocker, you shouldn't be critical. But if she is simply ignorant, continue to accept the gifts without comment and pass them along where they will bring some joy.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "M.W.": A man should never be ashamed to admit that he has been in the wrong. It is another way of saying that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

FELLOWSHIP AND FUND RAISING

FREEBURG, Ohio (AP)—For 11 years, the women's and men's fellowships of the Freeburg Church of The Brethren have joined forces to make about a thousand jars of apple butter, including some without sugar for those on restricted diets.

The fund-raising project is a family affair, with men, women and children working in the church basement and "apple butter house." They say that "Fellowship — people working toward a common goal — is really the important thing" in the project.

Plain baked custard becomes extra special when it's served with a topping of spiced whipped cream. Adding a suspicion of nutmeg and cloves to the sweetened cream does the trick.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Ladies:

When you are measuring shortening for a cake or anything else for that matter . . .

Heat your aluminum measurer (whether it be a measuring cup or that old ice cream dipper), hold it under your hot water faucet for a few minutes until it gets real hot, then— measure your shortening.

You won't have any sticky "goo" in that measuring cup! The heat (which the aluminum absorbs) will melt the shortening slightly when it touches the cup and it falls out onto whatever you are mixing.

This also works when dipping or measuring molasses. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I remove stains and mildew spots from my rubber toilet tray with diluted bleach, then soak it in hot water and then rinse it off well.

While it is still soaking in the hot water I put an all-purpose dye in the water and dunk the "still-hot" tray in the colored water. Any color you choose may be used.

There must be enough colored water to completely cover it. In about a minute you have a nicely tinted tray to match your bathroom decor! —Mrs. A. Borobicha

Now, aren't you clever? —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I keep some vinegar in a bottle labeled "For Cleaning Only."

Vinegar is wonderful for taking off the lime ring in enamel pans. Be sure the vinegar covers the ring. Let stand until it softens the ring. It washes clean, and the pan is like new. —Clare Meade

Dear Heloise:

For those who make their own boxed pizza and have ever dropped a full can of cheese in one big mess on your masterpiece . . . then this suggestion can help you.

Just take a scrap of your famous nylon net material and place across the opened can of cheese, fastening it securely with a rubber band. Then sprinkle your pizza. The net controls an even "mist" of cheese. The scrap of net may be used over and over again. —Heather McConnell

Dear Heloise:

For the readers who live in areas where black iron furniture or the legs of other parts of black metal furniture rust . . . try using black shoe polish to touch up the rough spots or places where the finish comes off. It is so simple and it really works. —Claire Runge

Ladies:

This will not remove the rust. I suggest you take a piece of tin foil from any package, or the kind that comes in a roll, and wad it up in a ball. Briskly rub the rusted places first, then use this method. We found this works. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have the answer for those who remove ice cream from cartons and place it in their refrigerator trays, but soon find that crystals form on top of the ice cream . . .

Tear off a piece of waxed paper and wrap around the tray before putting it in the ice compartment of the refrigerator. There will never be any crystals on top of the ice cream.

Wax paper is inexpensive and once a portion of the ice cream is removed, the wax paper can be folded over again, again and again. —Sue Walters

Dear Heloise:

Our family happens to like baked apples. Since my mother-in-law told me to bake them in my muffin tin, I believe that in-laws are worth their weight in gold. Apples have much nourishment.

My muffin tin is a twelve-cup size. Since I only bake six apples at a time, I fill the other cups with water. The steam makes better apples! —Sandra Larns

DIAGNOSTIC

NEW YORK (UPI)—A woman patient who repeatedly tells the doctor during his compilation of her case history that her husband is "just wonderful" is a neurotic. So reported Dr. Leonard L. Lovshin to the West Virginia Academy of General Practice.

"I'm a husband," said Lovshin. "Most of my friends are husbands and I don't know of a wonderful one in the lot. If your patient will admit to herself that she's married to a typically inconsiderate slob, chances are she's normal."

CHURCH CANCER?

SELINGROVE, Pa. (AP) — The recently re-elected president of the Luther League, Fred Berkobin, 23, of Nutley, N.J., says that adults—parents and clergy—have attempted to discourage Lutheran youth from participating in struggles for racial justice in areas of tension.

At the annual convention of the group, the youth auxiliary of the Lutheran Church in America, he said adults try to keep "young people from getting involved in situations where giving a Christian witness contains an element of physical or social danger. Such respectable cautiousness can best be defined as cancer in the church."

The small slam contract in spades is a sound undertaking and, on a day when all suits break, declarer would experience little trouble in winning all 13 tricks. South was well satisfied to be in a slam, however, and he was willing to invest the price of an overtrick to protect himself against adverse distribution.

West opened the queen of hearts which was ducked around to the declarer who ruffed with the five of spades. A club was trumped in dummy, and South reentered his hand by overtaking the jack of spades with the queen. He ruffed another club, led to his king of diamonds and drew the remaining trump with two more pulls.

With two losing clubs left in his hand, there might be a temptation to run dummy's diamonds for, if that suit divides three-two, as expected, South will have a parking place for his small clubs and can claim 13 tricks.

Declarer was willing to forgo the opportunity to score every trick, however, in the interest of assuring his contract. When he led a small diamond from his hand and West played the eight, the latter was permitted to hold the trick as dummy followed with the three. When East showed out, South's small investment was revealed to have paid a handsome dividend for, had he gone up with North's queen of diamonds, he would have been unable to run the suit, and there would be no way to avoid the loss of two club tricks.

West returned a heart which declarer ruffed. The ace of clubs was cashed on which North's last heart was discarded and another diamond led. The ace and queen picked up West's remaining diamonds, and dummy's six took the last trick.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Customer calisthenics in supermarkets create sales resistance, even though they help physical fitness.

This conflicting state of affairs was revealed in a consumer study by progressive Grocer, a trade publication. The study showed that sales dropped in proportion to the amount of stretching, stooping and squatting a customer has to do to reach products above or below her eye level.

The study involved 12,000 customers of a large food chain (Colonial Stores) that operates in 10 states. The results were revealed at the 30th annual meeting here of the National Association of Food Chains.

Here's how the typical shopper was pictured:

She is 35 years old, has two children, a car and an annual income of $5,850. About 3 p.m. on Friday, she drives to the market—at least half the time taking the children—to do her major shopping of the week.

Once there, she's a fast worker. In 12 minutes, she passes 3,800 grocery items at a speed that allows her about one-fifth of a second to see and decide on any single item. She always chooses at least one item from a special display and is more likely to buy from eye-level, basket and special displays than from those above or below her normal vision.

She spends half of her total of 19 minutes in the store buying perishables — meat, produce, baked goods, dairy and frozen foods.

The man-made leather is said to "breathe," in addition to being scuff and abrasion resistant. (Corfam, Du Pont Co., Wilmington, Del.).

The manufacturer reports a new clear plastic measuring shoe takes the guesswork out of fitting baby's shoes. THAT GOLDEN GATE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Why isn't the famed Golden Gate Bridge painted golden?

James Adam, bridge district manager, gave this explanation:

"Gold paint has been tried on parts of the bridge.

"And every once in a while some aggressive paint salesman wants to put a gold finish on the big span.

"But we have been of the opinion for years that it hasn't held up well under wind, sun, rain and fog."

The bridge district's building and operating committee approved Adam's recommendation that the bridge's existing deep orange color, known as international red, be retained.

Nowadays cottage pudding is often served with chocolate or butterscotch sauce. But if you want a proper old-time accompaniment to the pudding, serve it with a red-jelly or lemon sauce.

Plenty of Extra Fuss Seen in Motel Business

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — The curfew, like the poet says, tolls the knell of parting day; the motorist motelward wends his weary way . . .

But if he thinks he's going to buy a simple roadside lodging without the extra fuss and bother of an in-city hotel, he's got another stanza coming. And so does the motel industry.

In the past decade the U.S. motel has turned the highway into the nation's biggest give-away entertainment and the night into a many-splendored thing from swimming to family counselling—and all for free.

But whether it has been such a good idea is another matter. It all began, old-timers will recall, with the addition of free television to the basic unit of bed, bath and parking area 10 years go. Since then:

In Laguna Bach, Cal., you get the use of a yacht if you take the Congress Motel's executive suite.

In San Francisco you can get a motel dog-sitter for your pup.

Many communities have motels that offer free: tickets for the movies, tours of local scenic delights, trading stamps, life insurance policies (for the stay only) baby sitting, loan of a camera, valet service, sauna baths, lending library.

In a motel in Cape Coral, Fla., you get a built-in ironing board with attached steam iron. If you've got a teen-ager with you, he gets a free key to the local teen Ky Club.

In New Orleans, you can get a motel room and water skiis with a launching ramp and motorboats waiting for you at your doorstep.

None of these magnificent developments include such obvious extras in the motel spectacular as landscaping, interior decor, color television, free snacks, conference and banquet rooms, closed circuit television, and ramps and wheel chairs for invalid tourists.

Now, what does it all mean?

In part, this roadside extravaganza reflects boom and competition. In the past decade an average of 1,000 new motels has been added to the landscap yearly while thousands have been remodeld and expanded.

There are today more than 62,000 motels in operation with a total capital investment of $11.5 billion. The only way to make them pay off is by luring the passer-by with extras he is frequently too tired to use.

But has it worked? Net profits to motels from room sales have declined from 26 per cent in 1952 to about 9 per cent last year. Occupancies are down, too—5 per cent lower last year than the year before.

To brake this slippage, motels have had to make up for their giveaways by increasing room rates and by getting around the four - letter word "free" with profit-making vending machine extras.

And so it comes to pass that the grand motel is changing its decor again—this time to the coin slot on everything from the bedtime snack to a machine that gently vibrates your bed until you fall asleep.

No, it's not free any more, but at least you don't have to drive into the motel late and tired and then toss and turn all night, sick with regret because you're not out there swimming, water skiing, yachting or riding around in the free wheel chair.

WIDER USE OF CIDER

HARRISBURG, Pa (AP) — Steps are being taken to expand Pennsylvania's cider industry and encourage production of quality cider for year-round marketing. In this way the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture hopes to "unmask" cider from its traditional Halloween connotation and make it a year-round drink for many occasions.

NOW, THE WAY I SEE IT—This is Snowstar, a resident of Washington National Zoo. And according to head keeper Ralph Norris, Snowstar is a pretty reliable weather forecaster. The bear's coats this fall is real thin, says Norris, evidence that Snowstar expects a mild winter. Autumn activities of squirrels and hairy caterpillars also tend to support this theory, a survey shows. The weather bureau? Conservative—no long range forecast. (AP Wirephoto)

Polish Priests Told to Prefer Martyrdom

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Polish Catholic Primate Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, in a strong challenge to his nation's Communist government, has told priests to become martyrs rather than serve political ends that conflict with their religion.

Wyszynski, here for the Ecumenical Council, Monday night made a forceful speech in St. Peter's Basilica which virtually amounted to a call to Polish seminarians to defy a government action ordering them into military service.

News of the Polish government order leaked out Friday. Wyszynski was reported at the time to have sent a strong protest to the Polish regime, which in recent months has been increasing its harassment of the Catholic Church.

In one of his sharpest clashes with the government to date, the Warsaw archbishop Monday night denounced attempts to turn the clergy into "chaplains of the party or of a certain political orientation."

He warned that "the healthy religious instinct of believing people has always reacted against every policy of dependence of the priests on a secular power. The people fear every 'caesarpapism,' every totalitarian nationalization of consciences."

The 62-year-old cardinal, most outspoken voice of the "church of silence" behind the Iron Curtain, spoke at a ceremony marking the fourth centenary of the Council of Trent which established seminaries to train young men for the priesthood.

Pope Paul VI and 6,000 seminarians from all over Europe attended the ceremony.

Mice Become Addicts to Marijuana

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It seems that the mice which make their home in the Hall of Justice have become addicted to narcotics.

Peter J. Talmachoff, chief deputy of the criminal division, explained Monday that the mice find their way into a closely guarded room where several hundred pounds of marijuana and other narcotics are held as evidence in pending cases.

"Those mice are addicts," he declared. "They run riot all night, then stagger off to their nest, leaving the floor littered with marijuana."

Protection From Flu

Influenza is an old disease: it was so named by ancient Italians because they believed it developed as the result of the influence of natural conditions, such as cold. While it is true that the infection is more prevalent during the colder seasons of the year, we now know that viruses are responsible.

Since 1510, 31 pandemics have been described but we never will know their exact nature, including the 1918-19 calamity. The first causative flu organism (A) was not discovered until 1933: since then, several types have been isolated. The latest is the Asian, which is known as A2.

Influenza may produce a slight fever or the prostrating illness so common in epidemics. The majority develop cough, dryness or soreness of the throat, nasal congestion, headache, backache, and fever. The victim, when seen by the physician, usually has a flushed face and reddened eyes; he is lying in bed and coughing occasionally. He moans every time he turns because of aching.

Can influenza be prevented? The vaccine is the best method but the duration of protection seldom extends more than a year. Most of the flu vaccines contain several strains of the causative virus (polyvalent). They are said to be up to 70 per cent effective and are recommended for all persons over 45, pregnant women, victims of chronic heart and lung disease, and groups in health and community services such as physicians, policemen, firemen, and bus drivers. Immunization programs are common in school, institutions, army camps, and industries where large numbers of people live or work together.

In addition, the usual precautions should be followed to minimize or prevent respiratory infections. The flu viruses are transmitted via the air and on contaminated fingers or other objects. Avoid crowds during epidemics and wash the hands frequently.

Once infection occurs, the only thing to do is go to bed and stay there. Aspirin will reduce aching and fever, cough medicines will ease hacking, and abundant fluids will help the body, especially when the sufferer cannot eat.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

It may be a bit too late but you can try by holding the head high, the neck straight, and the shoulders back.

Fats and Gall Bladder

R. M. writes: Do dairy products aggravate a gall bladder condition?

Reply

Dairy products rich in cream may do so but more likely culprits are fried or greasy foods, heavy gravies, and vegetables such as cabbage.

Sees Spots and Lines

Mattie writes: Do many people in the world see spots before the eyes? The reason I ask is that I started seeing black and white spots and lines when I was 10 years old. My mother took me to an eye doctor and he recommended glasses. I was better for a while but now, at age 14, they are just as bad. I think I have some kind of eye disease.

Reply

Yes, this condition is relatively common. Floaters are regarded as spots before the eyes but they may not respond to glasses. You ought to return to your ophthalmologist because new lenses may be needed or an eye disease may be present. Meanwhile, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on spots before the eyes.

Terrorist Bomb Kills Policeman In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A policeman was killed and eight others were wounded by the explosion of a terrorist bomb in a police jail holding 40 Communists and pro-Communist prisoners. Police said they believed the bomb was planted in a wastebasket by a blonde woman who visited the jail.

The bombing occurred Sunday in Barcelona in the western interior of Venezuela. Police reporting the incident today said the Communist prisoners and members of the Movement of the Revolutionary Left (MIR) jailed with them shouted out slogans of the Armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN), a pro-Communist underground organization, after the bomb went off.

The prisoners had been jailed in President Romulo Betancourt's crackdown on Communists and their terrorist allies. FALN has increased its activities in an attempt to scuttle the presidential election scheduled for Dec. 1.

Virginia Gets Credit For Thanksgiving

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia's claim to the first Thanksgiving has received official notice from a man from Massachusetts — John F. Kennedy.

In his Thanksgiving proclamation, President Kennedy said, "Over three centuries ago, our forefathers in Virginia and in Massachusetts far from home in a lonely wilderness set aside a time for Thanksgiving—"

John J. Wicker Jr. of Richmond, who has waged an almost single-handed campaign for recognition of Virginia's Thanksgiving, said: "Oh, I'm dleighted."

"That marks the very first time since 1863, that we have received official national recognition of the historic fact that America's first Thanksgiving was celebrated in Virginia."

Wicker claims Virginians celebrated Thanksgiving at Berkeley Plantation on Dec. 4, 1619, more than a year before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

Cubans Charge U.S. Is Recruiting Spies

HAVANA (AP)—Two Cubans claimed to have been recruited by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency for a mission of espionage, sabotage and subversion have been killed, the Cuban press reported Tuesday night.

Juan Armestoy Rodriguez, one of the alleged agents, was killed by police several days ago, the announcement said. Two companions, Francisco Duenas Landin, a native of Perico in Matanzas Province, and Genario Rios Perez of Jovellanos were captured, the report continued.

Duenas Landin was executed by a firing squad Monday, the report said. Rios Perez was given a 30-year sentence.

Officials said Armestoy was sent on at least four missions to Cuba by the CIA.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

(© 1963, By the Chicago Tribune)

CARROLL BAKER TO PLAY ANOTHER BABY DOLL ROLE

Hollywood, Carroll Baker will play another baby doll, Jean Harlow, on screen. She's ecstatic over being back in civilization after Monument Valley, where John Ford's filming "Cheyenne Autumn": "You name it — newspapers, radio, TV, telephone — we haven't got it." But she met up with desert spiders, those ugly creatures with bodies the size of silver dollars and legs to match. Even tho they aren't poisonous, Carroll panics when she sees one crawling up her wall: "This does have advantages. Every time I scream, a handsome man comes in and kills one for me — Ricardo Montalban, Pat Wayne, Dick Widmark. Gilbert Roland swears I have a box of spiders and when life becomes dull, I slap one on the wall and yell for help."

Our state department is after Gene Kelly to take an American dancing group to tour Europe and the iron curtain countries. He's willing if he can find time.

James Woolf flies from London for Larry Harvey's opening in "Time of the Barracudas." He and Harvey own film rights to it. Joan Cohn will hostess an after-play party for them.

Tom Tryon, star of "The Cardinal," goes to the Paris opening via Madrid to have a session with Sam Bronston, who wants to star in "Paris 1900," the story of the Eiffel tower. Did you know that Paris refused to let Mr. Eiffel build the tower for the great world's fair? They thought it would toppel over. So he bought the island on which it stands, built it himself, and he and his heirs have lived handsomely off it ever since.

Jimmy Stewart and Sandra Dee won't have a bit of trouble selling "Take Her, She's Mine." Parents of all teen-age girls will want to see what happens to old dad when his pretty daughter goes to college. You might say they both got everything except dullness.

George Hamilton's dropping everything to tour the world with "The Victors." Carl Foreman made him a star with this picture and he aims to make the most of it.

Jock Mahoney bids farewell to Tarzan. He will film two dramas, "Amuck" and "Walls of Hell," for Robert Lippert in the Philippines.

The location for "The Bedford Incident" will be for "The Byrds." James B. Harris of "Lolita" fame will take his actors to the arctic circle.

Ever since Romanoff's closed its doors, Dave Chasen's has been the only place to eat. With the opening of the Bistro in Beverly Hills we have a choice. Sixty-five fellows — among them Tony Curtis, Dean Martin, Frank Sinatra, Louis Jourdan, Bob Stack, Laurence Harvey shelled out $3,000 each to back Kurt Niklas in the new venture, and most showed with their wives and sweethearts for the opening, a very merry affair.

Director Billy Wilder and his art director decorated the place. Billy beamed as tho he's just become a father. It's like a small French restaurant, and very important for Hollywood, arranged so all the customers can see each other. The menu's on the blackboard; delicious food buffet style.

Dean Martin started singing. His pal, Sinatra said, "You should have done that today when we trying to learn that rondolet for 'Robin.'" It wasn't their kind of music, and when they began to swing it, Sammy Cahn cried.

Al Bloomingdale picked me up. His wife was out with the children on trick or treat business. She was a late arrival, but Cesare Danova was later.

American Venezuela Refinery Sabotaged

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—An American-owned refinery operated on oil reserves today after terrorists sabotaged its twin pipelines to Lake Maracaibo in an attempt to shut it down.

A blast knocked out the second of the two pipelines Tuesday as workmen were beginning repairs on a companion line blown up the previous day.

It was the seventh and eighth time the pipes were sabotaged. The pro-Communist Armed Forces for National Liberation were blamed for the attacks.

One Levittown Gets Its Old Name Back

LEVITTOWN, N.J. (AP)—By a 102-vote margin, the electorate of this central New Jersey township has decided to change the municipality's name to Willingboro, the community name from 1688 to 1959.

Tuesday's referendum, in which the name change was favored 3,093 to 2,991, reduced the number of Levittowns from three to two. There is one on Long Island, and another in Pennsylvania.

The three Levittowns were built by housing developer William Levitt & Sons.

Rodeo "Rookie Of the Year" Named by Pros

Billy Kornell, freckle-faced, 19-year-old cowboy from Palm Springs, Calif., became pro rodeo's "rookie of the year" Friday for 1963.

Kornell, leading contender for the season's championship in bull riding, was named at conclusion of the Rodeo Cowboys Association's week-long board meeting at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

Bestowed on the newcomer showing most competitive prowess during the year, the rookie title's only tangible reward is a seven-foot high trophy to be presented Kornell in January during the National Western Rodeo here.

Kornell, in his second season of full-time competition, has won $13,323 bidding for the bull riding crown, which will be decided during the sport's title playoffs, Nov. 26-Dec. 1 in Los Angeles. Kornell has a $1,276 edge in latest national standings.

The young Californian's sudden climb into prominence for the title, with a grim-faced desire to win first every trip, recalls to older pros the meteoric start of the great Jim Shoulders and Harry Tompkins, who dominated bull riding from 1948 thru 1960.

Winner of the 1962 rookie award was Jim Houston, Omaha, Neb.

A slender 145 pounds, Kornell competed in high school rodeos, entered his first professional contest in 1961 at Palm Springs.

Agronomy Meet To Feature Water Symposium

A symposium on water research, bringing together top North American scientists working on water, will be a feature of the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy in Denver Nov. 17-21.

Such a group of distinguished scientists has never before been brought together for a discussion of research on water problems in agriculture. Speakers will look at the critical research needs of the future and discuss in depth present promising research efforts.

The symposium will be sponsored jointly by the Soil Science Society of America and the Soil Conservation Society of America. It will be held on Nov. 19 in the Grand Ballroom of the Hilton Hotel, the ASA meeting headquarters.

Dr. G. M. Browning, associate director of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, Ames, and president of the Soil Conservation Society of America, will be the keynote speaker. United States and Canadian scientists will discuss water storage, transmission, use, conservation, and management.

More than 2,000 persons are expected to attend the 1963 ASA meetings, which will have numerous section meetings at the Hilton and Brown Palace hotels. Almost 600 research reports, 100 more than last year, will be presented at the week-long Denver meeting.

LAUNCH MINUTEMAN

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI)—The Air Force launched a Minuteman intercontinental ballistics missile Saturday from this Pacific Coast base.

A spokesman described the operation as a routine training launch by a Strategic Air Command missile combat crew, but in keeping with Air Force policy further details were not disclosed. It was the 20th Minuteman launch from the base.

Right Sign Stops Theft of Apples

CHURCHILL, England (AP)—Irked at the persistent theft of his apples, farmer Claude Bache put up a sign on his orchard fence saying:

"Keep out. Trespassers will be prosecuted."

The apples continued disappearing. So Bache took down the sign and put up one that said:

"Thou shalt not steal."

The thefts stopped.

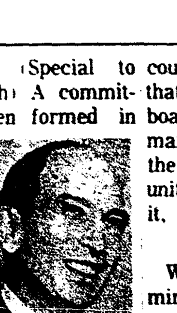
Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN



WASHINGTON (Special to Gazette Telegraph) A committee has now been formed in Washington among retired officers to take the 1958 pay act and the 1963 pay act to the Courts and all of the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary to test the legal position under the 1926 pay act of those retired prior to the 1958 pay act but were denied recomputation.

The 1926 act said that whenever there is a permanent increase in pay for the active forces those then retired would have their retired pay recomputed. The contention of the retired officers now is that they acquired certain rights which Congress illegally took away in 1958. Behind this simple statement is a mighty big problem. If the courts should say "No.", then present active duty personnel really have no assurance that the Government will continue retirement benefits. It could also eliminate survivors benefits without warning.

It was one of the few instances Congress did not retain the savings clause in the 1958 pay act to protect the rights of any one then retired.

In the 1958 pay act eliminating full credit for computation of retired pay for nonactive duty time for Reservists, Congress very carefully said in its savings clause that no one then on active duty would be denied this retirement benefit and only those coming on active duty on and after that effective date. This means that the drop in retired pay for Reserve officers on 20-year retirement — 20 active and 10 in the reserve — from 75 to 52 per cent would not be effective until 1978.

In addition to the court action, the committee of retired officers here is planning to ask Congress to make the 1963 five per cent increase, or recomputation provision, retroactive to July, 1958 rather than as of October 1, 1963.

The whole hassle is one that concerns every officer and enlisted man, active and retired. Those interested in detailed information on the legal action should write to Col. Charles W. Yuill, 5909 Ramsgate Road, Washington 16, D. C. 20016, a 1917 graduate of West Point for the information brochure prepared by the committee.

House approves, with only Republican member from Missouri, Thomas B. Curtis voting negative, the compromise military construction bill, which includes $685 million for family housing.

The House approved the amended bill as it came from Senate. It was $237 million less than what the Pentagon asked for. The Air Force is in for $488 million, the Navy for $202 million and the Army for $199 million.

Ft. Carson was authorized $7,355,000 for operational and training, maintenances, supply and community facilities, and utilities; the Air Force $677,000 for operational facilities, and medical facilities at Ent AFB, and $7 million for operational facilities at NORAD Hdq, Colorado Springs.

In family housing authorization Ft. Carson was included for 280 units and ENT AFB 200 units.

Politicians usually use two languages to answer questions. The President told his press conference that we will not cut back our forces in Germany. But was he saying that we could not call home units, and that present "strength on board" of these units would be maintained? Or, could it be that the strength will be cut and the units left "operational?" Would it, in the end, be the same?

With retirement of Vice Admiral Edward N. Parker as the Assistant Director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Washington is wondering as to identity of his successor?

It was not just the cost of the proposed atomic powered aircraft carrier that threw decision in favor of conventional power, but the view held by the Defense Secretary and the President that all ships in the accompanying train be atomic powered at same time as the flattop.

The final draft of the military construction bill is not expected to retain the provision authorizing private industry to build rental housing units on military installations. If it is not retained, the exclusion of this provision will eliminate the planned construction.

Paris gave out word to the press that the Third U. S. Cavalry would be returning to Ft. Meade. When this word was received in Washington, Army Secretary Cyrus Vance told the press that the Army had no intention of bringing home an armored regiment. Looks like the State Department and the Pentagon should get together on policy.

Parents of an officer or enlisted man, who receive social security benefits, may be ruled ineligible for dependents quarters allowance.

Looks like retirees will get their next increase in 1965. Price Index reached 107.1 in August 1963. When it reaches 108.4 the increase is automatic.

The House Armed Services Committee has approved the measure to give each Chief of Service a four-year tour. If passed by Congress, the White House is expected to veto it.

The House Civil Service Committee has approved a bill calling for a 6 to 24 per cent increase in pay for Federal employees and a flat $10,000 increase for members of the Cabinet, and Congress.

Col. Frank Kowalski, USA retired, 57-year-old native of Connecticut, and a 1930 graduate of West Point, has been confirmed by Senate as a member of the Subversive Control Board for a term expiring August 9, 1966. He is a former member of Congress from Connecticut.

Under pressure from Pakistan, the U. S. State Department put the heat on the White House and Defense to cancel a proposed visit of Army General Maxwell D. Taylor, Chairman of the JCS, to New Delhi, to observe a joint Indian-American Air Defense exercise.

Total active duty strength of the Armed Services as of September 30 was 2,695,373. The Army had 961,211, Navy 688,185, Marines 190,067, and the Air Force 875,910. The manpower strength includes cadets and midshipmen.

A 2,500 nautical — 2,875 statute — mile range Polaris A-3 missile was fired October 26 for the first time from a submerged submarine, cruising about 30 miles off Cape Canaveral.

The escort ship, Garcia, launched by the Navy October 31 at San Francisco, was named for Pfc. Fernando Luis Garcia, first native of Puerto Rico to be awarded the Medal of Honor. He received it for saving the life of another Marine in 1952 in Korea.

The Navy will close its New York Oceanographic Office January 31 as part of the Defense economy drive. Branches also closing will be Baltimore, Boston, Seattle, Chicago, Galveston, New Orleans and San Francisco. The New York office first opened in 1884 as part of the U. S. N. Hydrographic office.

Politics is strange and makes for good stories. The Republican members of Congress are all for economy in the present budget provided it "doesn't touch home." The reported plan of the Pentagon to close down the Schenectady, N. Y. Army Depot caused New York Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating to become "deeply disturbed."

Defense has approved a standardized overseas tour for civilian employees of two years with the exception of Guam and Saipan and Okinawa which will be 18 months.

When the U. S. begins withdrawal of some of our troops now in Europe, the first major move will be the recall of some Air Force units.

The Pentagon study of retired pay of the military, viewed alongside that of Federal employees, may bring some surprises when the 1964 pay recommendations are sent to Congress. Idea is to revamp benefits to attract more officers and men to make services a career.

As we reported many columns ago, the old rumor of raising the 20 year retirement to 25 years is again making the rounds. There would be exceptions to the rule. As the problem is made known to Congress and the budget, it does not tell the whole story inasmuch as it does not show the number of regulars and the number of active duty Reserve officers of the Army have any choice of staying on or applying for retirement.

One hears around the Pentagon that Gen. Creighton (Task Force Abrams) Abrams now in Europe, may get the next vacancy as Army Chief of Staff when present C-S Earle G. (Buzz) Wheeler returns to Paris as successor to Army Gen. Lemnitzer in 1964. In the term, Abrams may replace Gen. James Collins as "CG" of US Army Pacific.

Washington is getting ready for a "news break" on an American style Christine Keeler when hearings get under way on Senate's former majority secretary Bobby Baker. The woman in the case is now back in Germany.

As we previously reported Army Gen. Paul Adams of STRIKE COMMAND, will get jurisdiction of Africa plus the strategic Mid-East. The Navy loses in the transfer but could not counter-balance the improved airlift which gave the edge to Adams. No decision has been made as to whether the Navy and Marines in the areas will come under the command of General Adams.

The Pentagon pay study is expected to call for a raise in basic pay and a raise in subsistence allowances in 1965.

As a service benefit, there may be some unique recommendations forthcoming with respect to dental care for dependents, probably in the form of dental insurance.

Antartica, Bahrein Island, Barbados, Chichi Jima (Japan) Cyrus, San Salvador Island, and Turks Island are now on list for foreign duty pay; personnel, all Naval.

The Air Force has issued a directive that stops the shipment of household goods at Government expense when no entitlement to free shipment exists. When the shipment of household goods is not related to movement of dependents, the overseas commander must give approval to such shipment prior to making shipment.

Chief of Staff of the Air Force has approved the idea for a US Airmen's Home, for "the disabled and aged" along the lines of the US Soldiers Home. Next step will be to come up with firm plan for the proposal.

No Such Thing as Right Or Wrong, Defendant Says

"A very eminent psychiatrist impressed upon me that the concepts of right and wrong are non-existent," a defendant testified Tuesday in District Court.

John C. Deitz, 44, of 226 S. Cascade Ave. says he is legally insane. The state says he is legally sane and back the assumption on examinations conducted by two psychiatrists.

Dietz is charged with forgery, and has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. The trial is on the sanity issue only.

His remark on the concepts of right and wrong came during cross-examination conducted by Deputy District Attorney Herman A. Ratner. It is alleged the defendant signed his mother's name, Kathleen Deitz, to a $35 check which he gave to Golf Acres Liquors, Mary 7. He told the court it was neither right or wrong to sign his mother's name on checks.

He refused to define the terms "right and wrong." "I place very little importance on any concepts," he said airily, adding "I can think of nothing that is important to me."

Jury selection for the trial started Tuesday morning and continued until after lunch.

First witness to be heard was Dr. John B. Farley of Pueblo, for the defense. He said he had been acquainted with Deitz for 25 years and described him as having "a compulsive neurosis" concerning checks. He was also "utterly abnormal" the doctor stated.

He started writing bad checks around 1937 the witness continued, had been in various penitentiaries and mental institutions and his life had consisted of jail, institutions and a few months after freedom, more bad checks and more punishment.

Several times, Dr. Farley went on, he had "tried to straighten him out" and find him a job. On one occasion, the doctor added, he had recommended the defendant be returned to the state hospital and never releasd.

He also said Dietz was "unable to overcome his compulsions," and after Brian Mullet, counsel for the defense, read aloud the Colorado statute defining legal insanity, the witness stated he believed him to be insane according to the definition.

Dr. Farley also related the numerous occasions Mrs. Dietz had got her son out of trouble, how she had suffered grave embarrassment and had frequently been forced to quit her job and move to another part of the country.

On the witness stand Dietz said he wrote his first bad check when he was about 15, and that since 1937 had spent about nine years in various penitentiaries and five in mental institutions. He had received a discharge from the navy for mental illness.

During cross-examination he said he had no recollection of visiting the Golf Acres Liquors where he is alleged to have passed the forged check. "There's a period of several months of which I have little recall." The only occasion he recalled signing his mother's name on a check was in 1937.

Under further probing by Ratner, Dietz admitted two previous felony convictions. He admitted serving two and a half years in the state penitentiary for armed robbery but while he remembered the trial he had no recollection of the robbery Dietz felt he had no control over his actions.

The court recessed at 5 p.m. and reconvened this morning at nine thirty. The presiding judge is Hunter D. Hardeman. Richard Webster is also representing the district attorney's office with Ratner, and Gary Herbert is appearing with Mullet for the defense.

Trial Dates Reset for Defendants

Two defendants had their trial dates vacated in District Court Tuesday morning and re-set for later in term.

The first, Charlie J. Ward, 24, of Ft. Carson, will be tried Dec. 16 for grand larceny. The defendant was originally charged with larceny from a motor vehicle, but the district attorney's office, represented by Herman A. Ratner and David Webster, amended the information Tuesday and the defendant pleaded innocent to the new charge.

It is alleged he stole a camera and light meter worth $75 from a car belonging to Laird Bartels April 10.

The second defendant, Earland Ralph Laughlin, 40, of 3026 N. Hancock Ave., has already pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to indecent liberties. He has been found legally insane by Dr. Richard Conde and the sanity issue is scheduled to be heard this morning.

According to information, he enticed a 7-year-old girl into a men's restroom in Manitou Springs Aug. 10 and made an indecent attack upon her.

The presiding judge was Hunter D. Hardeman.

Judge Dismisses Charges Against Woman, Man

Careless driving charges against a man and a woman were dismissed by Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher Tuesday because the complaining witnesses could not appear in court.

The two who had been charged were Howard Wilson, 39, of 1002 Pike Dr. and Mary Frazier, 45, of 510 E. Uintah St. Both had pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Charges of riotous conduct and breach of the peace against Frank Archuleta, 26, of 311 W. Cimarron St. were also dismissed.

John Thompson (no age given) of the St. Charles Hotel forfeited a $25 bond on a charge of drunkenness when he failed to appear in court.

The judge imposed a 15-day suspended sentence on Joyce Perry, 56, (no address) after she pleaded guilty to vagrancy.

Charges of disorderly and riotous conduct against Melvin Stanback 44, of 412 S. Cedar St., were dismissed at the request of the complaining witness.

Larceny Charge Filed Tuesday

A charge of larceny of a motor vehicle was filed in District Court Tuesday against Curtis Bonell Stevens, 23, of Pueblo.

According to information the defendant took a car valued at $500, Friday which belonged to Loren L. Swaim.

Bond was set at $2,500 by District Judge G. Russell Miller.

Brown Jr. (left) to the annual ARADCOM Chaplains Conference here Tuesday. The three-day conference is being conducted by Chaplain (Col.) Arthur H. Marsh (right), command chaplain. The original bust is the work of Mrs. Suzanne Silvercouys Stevenson.

Among those attending the presentation will be Gen. and Mrs. Doolittle, Rep. Walter C. Norblad, Oregon; Sen. Frank Moss, Utah; and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

All members of the presentation group will attend the Academy-UCLA game as guests of Gen. Warren.

Elks Lodge Seeks Hides for Disabled Veterans

The Colorado Springs Elks Lodge No. 309 is seeking deer and Elk hides for disabled veterans.

An appeal is being made to all hunters in the Pikes Peak Region to donate the hides from game animals shot during the hunting season. The hides are to be used by disabled veterans.

Hides donated to the Elks are processed at the Elks' Lodge expense and are sent to the veterans hospitals in Colorado for use in vocational therapy programs. Last year some 120 hides were received by the Elks. After being processed, they were sent to the veterans hospital at Ft. Lions.

Sam Baughman, 1117 W. Kiowa St., is the Elks committee chairman. Members of the committee are Maj. Cecil Shields of Ft. Carson and Ray Moyle, 1425 W. Platte Ave.

Maj. Baughman has asked that those interested in donating hides call the Elks Club, 3400 N. Nevada Ave. The telephone number is 633-1727.

Arrangements will be made for a pickup. It is preferred that the hides be salted down.

Religious Cooperation Cited by Chaplain General

Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Charles E. Brown Jr., the Army's chief of chaplains, said Tuesday in Colorado Springs that he considers the chaplaincy "the grass roots of the ecumenical movement today."

Chaplain Brown addressed the opening session of the annual Army Air Defense Command Chaplains Conference at ARADCOM Headquarters.

He said that the chaplains in uniform represent the greatest "practical demonstration" of the ecumenical movement, because there is among Roman Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish chaplains an outstanding spirit of "cooperation without conformity". This spirit of cooperation "is the strength of the practicing ecumenical movement today," according to Chaplain Brown.

He said that he urges support of the movement on the part of the Army's more than 1300 chaplains, and he praised the Military Chaplains Association, which draws its membership from Army, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard chaplains.

There is "no other organization in the world today," according to Chaplain Brown, which encompasses so much in a practical demonstration of religious unity.

He said that the military chaplaincy has given "great impetus" to the ecumenical movement and has done much to combat the "onslaught of atheism and materialism in the world today."

Chaplain Brown stressed the importance of the role of the Army chaplain in going out into the field to minister to soldiers in their "natural habitat." The mission of the chaplain, according to General Brown, is "to carry God to men and bring men to God."

Senior administrative chaplains attending the three-day conference were urged by Chaplain Brown to concentrate their attention on assisting younger chaplains "to see that their mission goes well."

Academy Training Evaluated by AF Retired Officers

Three retired Air Force general officers are this week evaluating the Air Force Academy military training program. Meeting with Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong and his staff are Gens. Earl Partride, Emmett O'Donnell and Truman Landon.

The evaluation is part of a program calling upon impartial and well qualified experts from outside the academy to review and modernize the academic, military and athletic programs.

Adequacy and content of the military training programs will be considered by the three generals.

In session until Friday, the group will receive general briefings on the three main academy functions — academic, military, and physical training — and detailed breifings on the many aspects of military training under the commandant of cadets.

Among the subjects to be covered are: cadet personnel, cadet material, basic cadet training, 4th Class command training etc. The Cadet Wing training program will be discussed by Cadet Wing Commander James C. Ingram and his training officer Thomas E. Kullgren.

The generals will also meet with first classmen several times during their study and with Cadet Honor Committee representatives.

Other groups scheduled to evaluate Academy operations include the General Officers Advisory Committee which will begin a general review of all activities Nov. 21, a group of leading educators selected to review the educational program late in the year, and the White House appointed Board of Visitors scheduled for a visit early in March 1964.

Prior to his retirement Gen. O'Donnell served as commander-in-chief of the Pacific Air Forces; Gen. Landon was c-i-c of U.S. Air Forces in Europe, and Gen. Partridge was Continental Air Defense Command commander and commander of the Air Defense Command.

CONCERT FEATURE — Featured performers during Sunday's concert by the Air Force Academy Band include (front row, left to right) Airman 1.C. Robert Stanfield, tuba; SM Sgt. Preston Wood, French Horn; and M. Sgt. Arnold Schafer, T Sgt. Stan Wrobelski, and S. Sgt. Daniel Eaton. Scheduled for 3 p.m. in the Arnold Hall theater, the concert is open to the public. Built around the theme, "Say It With Music," the concert will also spotlight Lt. Col. Paul P. Weckesser, chief of Air Force Bands, as guest conductor. (Air Force Photo)

Items Valued At $370 Taken In Burglary

Thieves entered the home of Rodger Lee Thornton, 1340 Iowa St., Tuesday and stole a TV set, a phonograph, a camera and a bag containing a flash attachment and film, police reported.

The estimated value of the items is $370. Mrs. Thornton told police she left the house Tuesday afternoon and when she returned at 7:30 p.m., she discovered that the kitchen door was standing open.

She said the thieves had locked her dog in an upstairs bedroom.

Police said the thieves had entered the home by jerking open the storm door to the kitchen and then opening the kitchen door which was unlocked.

In other thefts reported this morning, a purse was stolen from Anita Arcadia Castaneda, 922 S. Baltic St., while she was in the Metropole Cafe early this morning.

Miss Castaneda told officers she was sitting in a booth at the cafe, which is located at 113 E. Colorado Ave., when one of two men she was with got up and ran outside.

She believes that the man took her purse with him. She told police she did not know either of the men.

Two vending machines were pried open and change taken at the Penny Saver Laundromat, 3040 W. Colorado Ave., Tuesday night. Vivien Harold Guymon, the owner, told police the loss and damage was $20.

Rodney Russell Buchanan of Kansas City, Mo., reported that a briefcase containing rolls of change was stolen from his car Tuesday night.

Buchanan, who is staying at the Albany Hotel, said the car was parked in front of Ruth's Oven Restaurant, 220 N. Tejon St., when the theft occurred. The briefcase is worth $8 and it contained $30 in change, police said.

Four hubcaps worth $34 were stolen from the car of Joseph W. King, 1013 Rainier Dr., between Monday evening and Tuesday evening. The car was parked in front of King's home at the time of the theft, police reported.

John E. Humphrey resigned his job with the police department effective today in order to accept a higher paid police job with the Anaheim police department in California.

Prices Slump Following New Payment Rules

By ED MORSE

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices slumped today after the down payment requirement for stock buying was boosted.

Trading was very heavy with the ticker tape trailing floor transactions for a two-hour stretch.

A Federal Reserve Board order issued Tuesday, when the big board was closed for election day, means that an investor will have to put up a minimum of 70 per cent cash when buying stock. The old rate was 50 per cent.

Some brokers expected the higher margin to result in at least a temporary setback for the market and a drag on trading volume.

In the first hour of trading 1.86 million shares changed hands, heaviest since Oct. 17 when 1.88 million shares were traded.

Losses of key issues ranged from fractions to about a point with some wider movers dotting the list.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had lost 2.0 to 278.0 with industrials off 3.4, rails off 1.0 and utilities off .7.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 3.51 to 745.71 after having been down 6.69 shortly after trading opened.

Steels and motors declined fractionally and most other groups joined in the drop. Chrysler and General Motors cut early losses by about a point. It was the first time since General Motors had been traded on the New York exchange since it boosted its yearend dividend after the close of trading Monday.

Losses among the wider movers included 4 points by IBM, Polaroid more than 2 and Control Data about 2.

Xerox, down 9 points at one time, bounced back and shaved its loss to less than a point.

Declining about a point were Sears Roebuck, AT&T and Merck.

Rails were off. Sugars fell as world sugar futures prices sagged. American Crystal and Central Aguirre lost more than a point.

Raytheon moved against the trend, gaining a point.

Pries declined in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were lower.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Granville Market Letter points out that "the Dow-Jones industrial average at this time is completely misleading."

"A few blue chips run up sharply to new highs thus pushing the industrial average to a new high. The average person sees this and thinks things are booming on Wall Street. However, what they may not know is that almost half of all the stocks on the big board are within one to three points of making new lows," Granville observes.

Walt McKibben of Forbes Investographs, Inc., says that "barring a rash of unfavorable national or international developments, it seems quite likely that Dow-Jones industrials will reach 800 in the months ahead. "However," he adds, "the watchword is selectivity."

Reynolds & Co. continues to feel that "the market is resting on a solid foundation and a positive investment attitude is advisable."

Hamphill, Noyes & Co. says that "business looks very good and is showing signs of getting better. It seems possible that psychology and fundamentals might carry the general market higher for the rest of this year and into 1964."

Fire Chief Has Word of Winter Warning

Colorado Springs Fire Chief Fred H. Lausch had a warning word of caution to offer today about heating appliances during cold weather.

"Furnaces, hot water tanks and heaters should be checked, oiled and cleaned now before cold weather puts a load on these appliances," he said. Furnace filters should be cleaned or new ones installed.

Special inspection should be made of all vents that carry off fumes, the chief said, because clogged vents can cause serious ill effects from carbon monoxide fumes settling in the house instead of being carried out thru the vent.

"Unvented appliances can be very dangerous," Lausch said.

He urged that qualified inspectors be called if any doubt arises about appliances.

Police Sergeant Lauded for Work in Course

Sgt. Vern F. Wilson of the Colorado Springs police department is doing excellent work in a 90-day course he is taking at the University of Southern California.

Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick has been informed of Wilson's progress by William L. Ritzi, deputy district attorney for the County of Los Angeles, one of the instructors.

Ritzi is teaching a course entitled "The Legal Aspects of Delinquency Control," which is just one aspect of the Delinquency Control Institute Wilson is attending.

"Wilson has added immeasurably to the course by his conduct and discussion, and I am certain that the additional knowledge and techniques he is acquiring will be of considerable value to your department," Ritzi has written McKissick. "He is doing excellent work in class."

Wilson is expected to complete the course in the next 30 day and return to his job as co-head of the department's Juvenile Bureau along with Dorothy Heller.

E. T. Roebken has been filling in for Wilson on the Juvenile Bureau and has "been doing a fine job," according to the chief.

New Directors Elected to Manitou C of C

Seven new directors have been elected to the Manitou Springs Chamber of Commerce but the board failed to elect officers as expected.

Directors from the two organizations will meet Friday to discuss the proposed merger.

Elected to serve on the board of directors were Vera Wilson, Charles Johnson, Helen Hoskins, Glen Thomas, David Priddy, Joe Mandel and Ben Herman.

Hold-ever board members are Jim Miller, Russ Wolfe and Joe Graham.

CIG Proposes To Reclassify, Issue More Stock

Directors of Colorado Interstate Gas Co. proposed Tuesday that each outstanding share of common stock be reclassified into 1.4 shares, retaining the present par value of $5 per share.

Directors said they planned to apply soon for listing of common stock on the New York Exchange.

Colorado Interstate directors also declared regular quarterly dividends at the Tuesday meeting on common and preferred stock.

Fourth quarter dividend of 31¼ cents per share on the common stock will be paid Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 1.

Dividends Sure To Hit Record With End of Year

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) This is going to be the best year yet for the pocketbooks of the nation's stockholders.

Dollar totals of dividend payments, already well ahead of last year, are sure to hit a new record as the yearend outlays sweeten the take.

And lucky holders of favored issues that have shot up on the stock exchanges will have sizable capital gains if they cash in, or paper profits if they hold on.

Corporate earnings seem likely to set a record high. They're running well ahead of last year and the present quarter prospects are good. Even profit margins, pinched since 1957, are on average back to the level of 5 per cent of the sales dollar.

Many companies seem in the mood to pass along the good times to the shareholders. General Motors' decision to pay out more than a billion in dividends this year, some $424 million of that a yearend bonus, is the biggest but not the only example. Many other companies are expected to extend seasons greetings in a like, if a bit more modest, manner.

For one thing, many corporations have ample cash on hand —GM has $2 billion in cash or marketable securities. They've been able to take care of more growth financing by themselves without going to the money markets. So yearend dividends can be paid without embarrassing the company treasurer's standing at the bank.

The outflow of dividends will help many small stockholders in planning their own yearend spending. Many look upon an added payment as an extra goodie to be spent at once. And retailers won't frown on that.

But much of corporate dividend payments will go to institutions of various sorts.

Among those rejoicing over the steady growth count is the federal tax collector. He gets around 52 per cent of the increase in corporate profits, and then he will be on hand when the individual stockholders figure up their total incomes for 1963.

Sanborn Company Now Division of Hewlett-Packard

PALO ALTO, Calif., — Hewlett-Packard Company has announced a corporate reorganization whereby its largest subsidiary, the Sanborn Company of Waltham, Mass., will become a division of the parent firm.

David Packard, HP president, said Sanborn's transition to divisional status "should be achieved within a few months, pending completion of necessary legal arrangements."

Hewlett - Packard, founded in 1939 and headquartered in Palo Alto, is a major designer and manufacturer of electronic measuring instruments. Sanborn, founded in 1917, produces a broad range of medical and industrial instrumentation. It became a wholly-owned Hewlett-Packard subsidiary in 1961.

Packard said the conversion of Sanborn into a division of HP is "part of a planned program of gradually divisionalizing our corporate structure."

"The purpose of this program is to achieve greater flexibility thruout the corporation and to improve our overall operating efficiency," he said. "By divisionalizing, we've been able to utilize our resources more effectively and have strenthened our entire organization."

Packard also announced that W. Bruce Wholey has been named general manager of Sanborn. He succeeds Alfred E. Lonnberg, who recently resigned as chief executive officer of the company to take a year's leave of absence.

Wholey joined Hewlett-Packard in 1945 and for the past three years has served as general manager of the company's Microwave Division. John A. Young, formerly sales manager of the Microwave Division, has been appointed general manager, succeeding Wholey.

Why crystal clear Smirnoff makes a better, smoother drink

Every drop of Smirnoff is filtered and refined through 7 tons of activated charcoal. That's 14,000 lbs! Literally a "mountain" of charcoal. Far more charcoal filtration than other vodkas use.

This "black magic" removes most of the congeners. No wonder Smirnoff is the world's finest liquor–smooth and flawless. Smirnoff blends perfectly with the flavor of fruit juices or soft drinks. Smirnoff leaves you breathless!

Today breathless Smirnoff outsells every brand of scotch and gin. Try it yourself, on the rocks or in a Martini, and find out why.

It leaves you breathless!

Record Not Indicative of UCLA

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

It's all too easy to base prospects of an upcoming football game on the bare records of the two combatants. And in the case of this Saturday's meeting of the Air Force Academy and UCLA in Falcon Stadium, it appears that the AFA should have an easy time.

Simple won-lost records this season show the Falcons have won four of their seven games, while UCLA claims only one win in seven tries. But this week the AFA coaching staff is busy trying to erase the memories of last weekend's all-important game with Army in Chicago, and bending all thoughts of the Cadets on their next opponent.

"This season UCLA has taken on the world," was the way scouting coach Ski Ordway put it. "They've played nearly every one of the top teams in the country."

The AFA spy was quick to point out that Coach Bill Barnes has a much better team that the record would indicate. He said that the Bruins' first unit will stack up with just about any of the teams on their schedule, and that if there is a weakness it probably would be in lack of depth.

This only points to a tough game this weekend for the Falcons, who seem to have somewhat the same problem. The Air Force starters have proven they can play with the best, but the team sometimes runs short in the final stages of the game as against Army's legions last week.

The AFA has always been proud of the intra-continental schedule it puts on the books each fall. But even the Cadets can't come up to UCLA's rugged slate

This season the Bruins have played the likes of Pittsburgh, Penn State, Stanford, Syracuse, Notre Dame, Illinois and California, in order. They close out against the Air Force, Washington and Southern Cal.

If you have to pick a "breather" from that group it would probably have to be Stanford—the only game they've won, by a hairline 10-9 margin.

But among the others was a team that's currently rated No. 2 in the entire nation, the Fightin' Illini, which is the co-leader of the Big Ten. And in that one the visitors from the Midwest were mighty lucky to sneak away from the Bruins' den with a 18-12 decision

In other words, if the No. 2 team in the nation is only six points better than UCLA, the Falcons appear to have their hands full this week in the next to last home game of the schedule.

The way Ordway tells it, the outcome against Illinois could have gone the other way except for a crucial decision on the part of the UCLA quarterback, veteran Larry Zeno. The Bruins held a 12-16 margin in the final period and were driving for another near the Illini 25. But on fourth down the Uclan quarterback went back to pass. The center of the line opened up and he had clear sailing for at least the first down and possibly the score that would seal the upset of the year.

However, just as Zeno rambled toward the line of scrimmage, he stopped short and threw. The pass went incomplete. Illinois took over and went nearly the length of the field in 16 plays to pull out the victory.

This was the word of warning put before the Falcons this week as they took the day off Monday and then settled down to work against UCLA's plays on Tuesday on the chilling practice fields of the Academy. Actually, the Falcons came thru last weekend's disappointing game with Army with more bruised feelings and real injuries and all hands should be ready for play this Saturday.

They face somwhat the same situation as a year ago, however, and this next game will be vital in either making or breaking a successful season.

In the 1962 season, the Air Force came into the final two games as heavy favorites to win over a Baylor squad that had won only two games before meeting the AFA, and against a Colorado U. team that had only one victory into the finale.

However, Baylor upset their plans with a 10-3 loss and then CU followed up with a 34-10 shocker. Air Force had appeared needed for a 7-3 finish—but ended up with only a even 5-5 mark.

The same thing could easily happen again. Right now the Falcons are favored (by a touchdown this week) to win their last three against UCLA, New Mexico and Colorado for a finishing 7-3 record. But, depending a lot on Saturday's pivotal game, it's quite possible the last three could go down the drain for even a 4-6 year.

The Bruins from Los Angeles playing for the first time in new Falcon Stadium, are led by Zeno, a 192-pound junior who paces the team in total offense with 790 yards—715 by passing. He is probably one of the more versatile athletes the AFA will meet this season.

This is the second season UCLA has used the T-formation and about now they should be getting the timing and polish to make it click. Last year they won only four of 10, but their improvement has been obvious altho it doesn't show in the record book because of the rugged competition.

The Uclans will be hungry for Falcon filet, not only to make up for defeats this fall but also to avenge for last year's 17-11 defeat by the Cadets. Overall, the Bruins own a 3-2 edge on the Fliers in one of the oldest rivalries on the AFA's books.

BRUINS' TOP THREAT — Quarterback Larry Zeno, a 185-pound junior letterman from Santa Paula, Calif., has been the leader in the UCLA attack all season. The six-foot signal-caller in Coach Bill Barnes new T-formation is rated one of the best passers in the western part of the nation, having completed 75 of 119 attempts for 715 yards and five touchdowns. He is also the Bruins' total offense leader. UCLA will visit the Air Force Academy's Falcon Stadium this Saturday, looking for their second victory in eight games.

UCLA's Leading Runner May Not Start at AFA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA Coach Bill Barnes said Tuesday the Bruin's leading ground gainer, fullback Jim Colletto, may not start Saturday against the Air Force in Colorado Springs.

Barnes said Colletto is hampered by an injury to his left knee received several weeks ago against Syracuse. The coach said junior fullback Warren Jackson may start in Colletto's place.

Jackson has a 3.05 yards-per-carry record in seven games.

Practice Tuesday involved defensive work against Air Force plays, and wound up with a 45-minute offensive drill. Right halfback Bobby Richardson looked good during offensive play.

The Bruins leave Thursday afternoon for Colorado Springs, and will hold a practice before leaving.

Jim Owens Named Top Grid Coach

By ELDON BARRETT
United Press International

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The state of affairs was unusual, to say the least, when Jim Owens of the University of Washington football team was informed that he had been named United Press International Coach of the Week.

The Huskies, by Owens' own admission, had played their toughest football game of the season when they clobbered defending Big Six Conference champion Southern California 2-7 Saturday, but there was only one man on the trainer's treatment table seeking physical repair.

That man was Owens himself.

Owens, who demands — and gets—physical conditioning from his players on a scale that probably would satisfy even President Kennedy looked up and grinned sheepishly. "It is just a twinge in my back. Got it last Friday night."

Owens admitted the twinge might have been aggravated when his happy warriors carried him off the field after they had upset the Trojans. And dunked him, suit and shoes, into the showers "but it was worth it."

He said the victory gave the Huskies a giant step in the direction of the Pasadena Rose Bowl.

"I have never been prouder of any team than I am of this bunch," Owens said of his current squad.

Hank Majeski Signs As Baseball Scout

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former American League infielder Hank Majeski has signed a contract with the Houston Colts as a scout in the New York area, the club announced today.

POWDER-PUFF PRELIM—Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston make like they mean business as they signed for their upcoming fight for the World's Heavyweight boxing title. The two signed in Denver to battle it out in February for the crown, altho the site of the fight is not yet decided. Speculation is that either Las Vegas or Chicago will be the scene of the real fight. Here, Liston is displaying a pair of fur-covered gloves "So your pretty face won't get hurt." Liston, Clay Agree On Bout in February

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER (AP) — Mid-February is the time and Los Angeles is probably the site for Sonny Liston's defense of his heavyweight boxing championship against Cassius Clay.

In a zany setting Tuesday, they signed contracts for a 15-round title fight expected to gross a record $6 to $8 million.

Two separate Los Angeles groups, one headed by former champion Joe Louis, offered guarantees of more than $1 million for the right to stage the battle.

Jack Nilon, Liston's advisor, said other bids have been received from Minneapolis, Chicago, Miami and Las Vegas. He said the site will be announced within two weeks.

Clay, unbeaten since turning pro in 1960, will get 22½ per cent of the receipts — described as a record for a challenger. Liston, who received 21½ per cent in his challenge fight against Floyd Patterson in Chicago, will get 40 per cent.

Spontaneous comedy spiced the contract signing at the Denver Hilton.

Shouting, "I'm the greatest, here comes the next champion," Clay swaggered in the room.

He first refused to sit beside Nilon, who was seated beside Liston. "I don't want to be near him," Clay said.

Liston, who alternately frowned and smiled, got into the act by pulling out a pair of rabbit fur-coated boxing gloves and asking Clay if he wanted the champion to wear those for Clay's safety.

Clay seemed at a loss for words before waving off the offer with his oft-repeated:

"I'm the greatest, I ain't scared of nobody."

Liston scored one-round knockouts over Patterson in winning the title at Chicago and in their return match at Las Vegas last July. The second victory over Patterson was his 28th straight and his 35th in 36 bouts. Liston has knocked out 25 opponents.

Clay has recorded 19 victories since turning pro after winning the light heavyweight crown in the 1960 Olympics. In his last appearance he stopped Henry Cooper, British heavyweight champion, in the fifth round last June 18 in London.

'Most Wanted' Prep Star Skates With CC Freshmen

A big break for Colorado College's hockey team came more than 10 years ago when two small boys started playing cub hockey together at International Falls, Minn.

One of these boys was James Amidon, the "most wanted" high school hockey player in the nation last year, who decided to attend Colorado College to be with his lifelong friend and teammate, Richard Haugland.

Amidon previously had announced his intention of attending the University of Minnesota before Haugland persuaded him to come with him to the independent college in Colorado Springs.

The 18-year-old freshman, selected by the U. S. Amateur Hockey Magazine as the All-American high school center last year and voted the number one high school hockey player in Minnesota, said he was influenced by Haugland but he also had other reasons for choosing CC.

"Colorado College has a good hockey program and I also feel I can get the type of education I want," the Minnesota hockey star said. Amidon, who played center at Falls High School in International Falls, is interested in studying geology at Colorado College, now in its 90th year.

Amidon is an example of Coach Bob Johnson's recruiting policy of trying to bring the best American hockey prospects to the CC campus. Amidon and Haugland are but two of 12 outstanding freshmen hockey players at the school this year.

The Tiger freshmen will take on the varsity at the Broadmoor, Nov. 22-23, and Johnson predicts the freshmen will offer a real challenge.

Former Player Fined $50 for Placing Wager

DENVER (UPI) —A former University of Colorado football player was fined $50 Tuesday on a charge of placing a wager, but Superior Court Judge Paul V. Hodges suspended the fine.

The youth, John (Skip) LaGuardia, 20, of Denver, had been accused earlier of participating in a football bookmaking operation, but the district attorney's office decided not to press this charge. Dep. Dist. Atty. Al Zinn said LaGuardia was only a customer caught by police in a raid Oct. 12 at the Denver home of Carlo Polniak, 25.

Polniak and Gerald Middleton, 25, of Denver were charged with maintaining the gambling operation, which police said was grossing an estimated $50,000 a week. They pleaded innocent.

LaGuardia, a starting guard on the Colorado team last year, pleaded "no contest" to the wagering charge. He has not been playing football this year, apparently because of a knee injury suffered in spring practice.

Clay Recites New Ode Telling Liston's Fate

DENVER (AP)—Cassius Clay recited a space-age ode here after agreeing to fight Sonny Liston for the world's heavyweight boxing championship in February.

"For those of you who won't be able to see the Clay-Liston fight," Clay told newsmen, "here is the eighth round, exactly as it will happen:

"Clay comes out to meet Liston and Liston starts to retreat,
"If Liston goes back an inch farther he'll end up in a ringside seat.
"Clay swings with a left, Clay swings with a right,
"Just look at young Cassius carry the fight.
"Liston keeps backing but there's not enough room,
"It's a matter of time until Clay lowers the boom.
"Then Clay lands with a right —what a beautiful swing,
"And the punch raised The Bear clear out of the ring.
"Liston is still risin' and the ref wears a frown,
"But he can't start counting until Sonny comes down.
"Now Liston disappears from view; the crowd is getting frantic,
"But our radar stations have picked him up somewhere over the Atlantic.
"Who on earth thought when they came to the fight,
"That they would witness the launching of a human satellite?
"Yes, the crowd did not dream when they laid down their money,
"That they would see a total eclipse of The Sonny."

State Class C Football Playoff

GROVER, Colo. (AP) — Weldona, 13-12 playoff victor over Wellington for the Columbine Conference title, now faces Crook in a state Class C quarterfinal game.

That contest is scheduled for 1:30 p.m Saturday.

An extra-points run by Phil Parachini provided the margin of victory for Weldona. Larry Taylor set up the decision by blocking a punt and recovering in the end zone.

Wellington scored again with 17 seconds left. But a pass for extra points was knocked down.

Texas Rated TD Choice Over Baylor This Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — Top-ranked Texas was selected today to beat Baylor by seven points in a Saturday meeting that could break their first place tie in the Southwest Conference standings.

Texas, which has won its last three games by the margin of Shoeless Tony Crosby's kicking, has a perfect 7-0 record for the college football season. Baylor has been impressive in its last two victories that were led by Don Trull, the nation's leading passer.

The country's two other major teams with unblemished records are slim picks to go through another Saturday unscathed. Auburn, 6-0 and ranked 5th nationally, is a three-point choice over Mississippi State. Princeton, also 6-0, is favored by the oddsmakers to beat Harvard by at least seven points.

Illinois, the nation's No. 2 squad, is a 9-point pick over Michigan in a Big Ten battle that could give the Illini the impetus for a Rose Bowl trip. The contest also has a personal touch. Pete Elliott coaches Illinois and brother Bump is the Michigan mentor.

Navy 14 over Maryland

Mississippi, rated third, isn't even on the boards for its cross-sectional game with Tampa. The Rebels are prohibitive favorites.

Jolly Roger Staubach and a Navy team steaming toward a mythical Eastern championship are picked to beat Maryland by 14 points. The No. 4 Middies are out to hand the Terps their sixth loss of the season

The remaining top teams are expected to win, but only Oklahoma (No. 6) is a big favorite. The Sooners are rated 17 points better than Iowa State. Michigan State, ranked eighth, is a field goal choice over Purdue and No. 9 Pittsburgh is figured to defeat Notre Dame by the same margin.

Nebraska, tenth, is a touchdown favorite against Kansas Seventh-ranked Alabama is idle

Defensive Backs Star In Big Eight

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)— Here's a cheer for the most overlooked men in Big Eight football—the defensive backs

It isn't often one finds himself the big man on the campus, as Nebraska sophomore Bruce Smith must be this week. Smith broke up a two point conversion pass to save Nebraska's 13-12 victory at Missouri.

Some have become too valuable on defense to play much offense. Missouri's Gus Otto, a 217-pound fullback, is in this category just like his predecessor, Andy Russell of the Pittsburgh Steelers. Otto beat Iowa State 7-0 with a 50-yard pass interception run and set up a TD against Northwestern.

Some are former offensive stars pressed into service because of manpower problems such as Colorado senior Leon Mavity.

Others are a trifle too small at 165 to 180 pounds to become offensive standouts, but smart at reading the other team's offensive and deadly tacklers. Among these are Charley Mayhue of Oklahoma and Vince Tobin of Missouri.

Mayhue and teammate Virgil Boll helped to contain Southern Cal's potent passing game in Oklahoma's 17-12 victory.

At least one of the league's top defensive backs didn't even have an athletic scholarship when he enrolled. He's Phil Doughty, Kansas 175-pounder. At first, Kansas coaches told him he was too small and better off on the sidelines. He was 160 then.

But Doughty had lived dangerously before as a drag racer in his hometown of Oelwein, Iowa. He still loves to tinker with ancient cars.

Portland Gets Win In Overtime

By United Press International

Ron Leopold of Portland helped bite the hand that once fed him Tuesday night.

The ex-Los Angeles Blade contributed an assist to Tommy McVie when the latter blinked the red light at 3:37 of an overtime period at Los Angeles. That gave the Bucks a tense 5-4 decision.

Portland's Pat Hannigan and McVie and Leo Labine of the Blades all had one goal and one assist each. A crowd of 5,488 watched.

The teams were tied at the end of every regular period, 1-1, 3-3, and 4-4, which symbolizes the closeness of the Western Hockey League teams this season. It's still only a four point jump from last to first place.

Vancouver is at San Francisco tonight in the only WHL game.

Meanwhile, latest league scoring statistics including last Sunday's games show that veteran Phil Maloney of Vancouver is the loop's hottest scorer with 22 points.

He surpassed Guyle Fielder, who still has the field all to himself in assists, with 18. Vancouver's Buddy Boone has scored 10 goals to top that department.

Portland's Don Kelly leads the goalies with a remarkable 1.2 average in slightly more than two games. His teammate, veteran Don Head, is in third spot with a 2.92 average.

YAL Football Slate Closes Out Saturday

Young America Football will end this Saturday, Nov. 9, with 12 games being scheduled at Memorial Park. Games are scheduled for 8:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. Boys are reminded to check in their equipment on Saturday or during the week at the Recreation Division office, 1400 N. Glen Ave., 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Those boys playing this Saturday may check in their suits at Memorial Park before noon. Dressing rooms are provided so they may change into their street clothes.

Two games will be played this weekend which will determine championships in the Lightweight and Heavyweight Divisions. At 8:30 a.m. on Field No. 8, the Eagles and the Broncos will meet for the Lightweight title. The Eagles won the National League by averaging 27 points per game while allowing their opponents 5 points per game. The American League was won by the Broncos who averaged 32 points per game while holding their opponents to 4 points. On that basis, the game should be a close one with the Broncos getting the nod.

In the Heavyweight Division, the Indians and Rams will meet for the title. Both teams have won five games. The Indians from Cheyenne Jr. High have totaled an average of 37 points on offence while playing defensive ball allowing 17 points per game. The Rams of East Jr. have scored 28 points per game while holding their opponents to 9 per game. It shapes up to be the Indians on offence and the Rams on defense. This game is scheduled for field No. 7 at 10 a.m.

Armijo Leads SCL Scoring

Speedster Bob Armijo, who was one of the main villains in Centennial's victory over Wasson last weekend, continues to top the South Central League scoring altho the Bulldog dandy tallied only one touchdown.

Armijo's T.D., his sixth in league competition, gave him 36 points for the campaign and kept him a slim five points ahead of Wasson's Mike Teague who scored his team's lone touchdown last Saturday. Both runners complete their regular campaigns Friday night.

Sharing third place in the current standings are Clay Chambers of Wasson and Jim Toupal of Trinidad. Both have 20 points. Four players are tied for fifth with 18 each.

Indianapolis Ice Team To Play at Cincy

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indianapolis Capitals, who lost their home hockey rink in the explosion at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum last week, were moved Tuesday to Cincinnati for the remainder of the Central Professional Hockey League season. Other teams in the league are St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha.

U.S. Hockey Team Schedule

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) United State Olympic hockey team will play a 25-game domestic schedule to prepare for Olympic Winter Games at Innsbruck, Australia, in January and February.

The schedule of 24 games in the U.S. and one in Canada will include contests with teams of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

Coach Eddie Jeremiah, on leave from Dartmouth, will start practice in South St. Paul, Minn. Monday after names of eastern and western squad members are announced. Seventeen players will make up the winter games squad.

The schedule includes:

Nov. 26, at Colorado College; Nov. 27, at Denver University; Nov. 30 at Colorado College.

For some things...there are no substitutes

To end up with a bottle of an unknown brand when it's 7 Crown you set out to buy, is to forego the taste that has brought more pleasure to more people than any other whiskey in America. That's a fact it's good to remember next time you're in your favorite liquor store.

BACK

Harrison halfback Lonnie Mayo, who leads the Pikes Peak League in rushing with 1,002 yards, is the unanimous choice for Back of the Week honors.

The Gazette Telegraph sports staff selected the 155-pound senior for his performance against Manitou Springs last week. Mayo scored 40 points against the Mustangs as he tallied six touchdowns and four PAT conversions. In addition he spearheaded the 47-6 win by accumulating 300 yards rushing.

Mayo took over second place in the PPL individual scoring race with 91 points on 13 TDs and 13 conversions. The lightweight speed merchant should exceed the total rushing yardage record set by former Widefield star, Rusty Henninger (1,300 yards). Mayo has compiled nearly 1,300 yards in nine games, and the Panther back should break that barrier this Saturday against winless Leadville.

Also included in the voting were: Mike Teague, Wasson; Dave Adamson, St. Mary's; Rob Stockhouse, Academy High Gary Graham, Cheyenne; and Rodney Coates, Widefield.

LINEMAN

Dave Grantz, 180 pound senior end of the St. Mary's Pirates, has been named Lineman of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for his outstanding play in the Bucs' 6-0 victory over St. Francis last Sunday.

In addition to his usual fine game as a blocker and on defense, Grantz played a key role in the Pirates' passing attack which carried them to victory against the Gremlins. Grantz caught three passes for a total of 41 yards, including two vital receptions in the fourth quarter drive for the game's lone touchdown. One aerial for 18 yards from quarterback Mike Fisher set up the score and a second for 10 yards from Jerry Knauf on a fourth down play accounted for the six points.

Others considered for the honor this week were Tom Elliott, who turned in an outstanding game for Harrison against Manitou Springs. Roderick Ross of Palmer, Hal Meller of Wasson, John Luksic of Academy High and Doug Sharpe of Harrison.

Cheyenne's Gary Graham Leads PPL Scoring Race

Cheyenne Mountain's triple-threat quarterback, Gary Graham, moved back into the leading role in the Pikes Peak League individual scoring race with 93 points via 10 touchdowns and 33 PAT conversions.

The 160-pound poised signal caller, who has directed the Tribe to the PPL championship with eight straight victories, spearheaded the Indians' 27-0 triumph over Florence last week to officially wrap up the league title. Graham tallied two TDs and three conversions to climb ahead of his teammate, fullback Greg Cramblit.

Cheyenne's ramrod-fullback viewed last week's encounter against the Huskies from the sideline because of an infection, but the 182-pound junior maintained the third place position with 90 points. Cramblit, who was converted from tackle to fullback last season, has accumulated 15 touchdowns and has compiled 100 yards per game rushing.

Harrison's talented halfback Lonnie Mayo shot into second place when the lightweight speedster scored six touchdowns and four conversions to lead the Panthers over Manitou Springs, 47-6. In addition to his scoring, Mayo also picked up 300 yards rushing, and upped his total offensive rushing yardage to 1,002 in seven league games. Mayo has gained over 1,300 yards in nine games this season.

Rodney Coates, the Gladiators' consisted ground gainer, is lodged in fourth place with 75 points on 11 TDs and nine conversions. Teammate Claude Burke commands fifth place with 52 points, followed by Air Academy High fullback, Roger Karolick, with 49 points.

Bronco End Suffers Injury; But Will Play

DENVER (AP) — End Lionel Taylor suffered a heel bruise Tuesday in the Denver Broncos' first practice since absorbing a 30-28 loss to Buffalo in American Football League play Sunday.

Taylor's injury came on a 71-yard touchdown pass play from quarterback Don Breaux.

Taylor, a 215-pound end, has caught only 40 passes this season. But seven were for touchdowns. He is tied in scoring passes with Lance Alworth of San Diego and Chris Burford of Kansas City for the conference lead.

The injury isn't expected to keep Taylor out of Saturday night's repeat performance at Buffalo. A capacity crowd of 36,500 is expected.

Thunderbirds Prepare for East; Hope for Upset of Centennial

Football teams representing Wasson High School the past two seasons have been remarkably similar. Neither figured to do much at the start this fall, each has been in on one of the worst defeats in the school's history, and both have contributed outstanding records by the conclusion of the respective campaigns.

Last year's South Central League champions were not given much chance of finishing higher than third or fourth in pre-season predictions but instead became Wasson's first gridiron title-holder in history. This fall, a small and inexperienced team was again expected to have to battle to stay in the first division but as of this date has second place clinched.

The 1962 squad absorbed a 34-0 blasting from Lakewood which ranked as the worst defeat on Wasson's record books but bounced back to win eight in a row before losing to the same Lakewood club by a single touchdown in the state playoffs. Last Saturday, the Thunderbirds were defeated by a similar margin, 41-7, by Pueblo Centennial. Once again the 'Birds are expected to bounce back.

That has been the primary characteristic of Gib Funk's teams of the past two seasons. Their ability to recover from what seemed like disastor has been remarkable. Following that 34-0 loss to Lakewood in 1962, the Thunderbirds went on to compile an 8-3 mark which is the finest in the school's annals. A rebound against Pueblo East Friday would assure this fall's team of an 8-2 record, which would be affected only if Centennial were to lose to Pueblo South the same evening.

Funk has always termed the ability to play from behind as one of the necessary ingredients for a champion. This 1963 team has perhaps been the finest exponent of that theory that a coach could have. Down two points with less than two minutes to go, the T-Birds marched from inside their own territory to defeat Trinidad on a last second field goal in their opening league contest.

The following week they were down 6-0 at half time but rebounded to defeat Pueblo South, 14-12. Behind 12-0 at halftime the next weekend, they came back to upend Pueblo Central in the final minutes, 13-12. Even last week, after being completely blown out of the stadium the first half as Centennial posted its 41-7 lead, the Thunderbirds came back to play the inspired Pueblo team a scoreless second half.

These are some of the reasons Funk and his staff expect the Thunderbirds to surge back Friday against the defensively-tough Eagles. "I think the kids are ashamed of the score in Pueblo," Funk said early this week. "I don't think we'll play that way two weeks in a row."

The Wasson coach did point out that the 'Birds will need a strong effort to win, however. "They are as tough on defense as any team in the league," he said. "And they have improved greatly on offense recently."

Despite last week's loss, the East game carries special significance. Wasson must win to keep alive any title chances. Centennial winds up its regular season the same evening and should South upset the Bulldogs it would provide the Thunderbirds with an opportunity to tie for the crown and force a playoff for the berth in the state.

Friday's outcome will not affect one item. This year's Wasson team is certain to rewrite a number of records and one of the most prized has already been eclipsed. Mike Teague, the T-Birds' tremendously competitive fullback, socked his way to another 86 yards against Centennial to bypass the one season rushing record. Teague now has 888 for the campaign (the old mark was 869 by Doug Dienelt in 1961) and has a reasonable chance of beating the 1,000 mark with a top performance Friday.

Teague also leads the scoring with 50 points and will definitely establish a career scoring mark as well as the career rushing record. The Wasson star scored 72 points as a junior and gained over 800 yards in that same campaign.

Quarterback Clay Chambers continues as the second leading scorer with 31 points and also has completed 35 of 86 passes for 492 yards. End Hal Meller has caught 11 for 83 yards and offensive players with 390 yards average. Halfback Ji m Smith Ron Nighswonger 10 for 174 yards. Meller is also the top punter with 13 kicks for a 36.8 average. Halfback Jim Smith continues as one of the top offensive players with 390 yards rushing and 157 yards on six pass receptions.

Terrors Face Scrappy Wildcats in Pueblo

Their once awesome offense slowed to a near halt in the last four games by a combination of key injuries and starchy competition, the Terrors of Palmer High face a situation this week in which they well either have to regain early momentum or drop out of the first three places in the final South Central League standings.

This Saturday night Coach Bill Westbay takes his Terrors into Pueblo for their final game of the season, against the always scrappy Wildcats of Central.

A victory in the windup would assure Westbay's warriors the third place spot, despite defeat in three of their last four games and it would drop Central out of a tie for that spot with Palmer and into fourth or lower.

Palmer and Central currently have broken even in SCL games this season with the Terrors now owning a 3-3 mark and the 'Cats are at 2-2-2, including last weekend's 7-7 deadlock with Grand Junction. Palmer hit the height of the season's frustration by knocking repeatedly at Trinidad's goaline, but then gave way to a 7-0 whitewash by the visiting Miners.

That was the second straight shutout of the season for the Terrors after the 27-0 loss to Wasson the week previous, and now they have scored only two touchdowns in the last four outings. That, certainly, is far off the pace set in the initial five games in which the Tribe was one of the state's most prolific teams in 136 points for an average of over 27 points per game.

They'll probably have to return to at least a facscimile of that this week if Palmer is to capture third in the SCL. Central has one of the finest defensive averages in the league, allowing only 59 points against them in nine games, or an average of only a touchdown per game.

Much of Palmer's late trouble has come thru multiple injuries thruout the starting unit, and a lack of substantial depth for replacements. Fullback Ray Cool and halfback Jim Glaskin, the Terrprs' one-two punch all fall, have both been hampered over the last half of the season and their production has been slowed accordingly.

In addition, the Terrors now will have to finish out of the schedule without the services of their fine end, Terry Elliott, a senior transfer from last year's state champs from East Denver. Elliott, who has been wrapped like a mummy thru most of the campaign due to an assortment of bumps and bruises, now has finished his high school career because of a shoulder separation that will keep him out of the Central affair.

Cool, despite a knee bruise which has plagued him since the 7-6 squeeker against league-leading Pueblo Centennial, continues to lead the Tribe and just last week was the top gainer against Trinidad with 46 yards in 11 carries. That brought his total for the season to 546 yards in 111 tries or an average of nearly five yards per call.

As for the loss to Trinidad, Westbay said "we had a world of breaks in the first half, but couldn't take advantage of them. Then in the second half when the team started to play as they should, we couldn't get another break."

This weekend, there will be 16 seniors playing their last for Palmer. Among them are nine (not counting Elliott) who have been starters all season. Besides Cool and Glaskin in the backfield quarterback Hylton and halfback Alan Snyder will also graduate this year. In the line, seniors include center Roderick Ross, guard and co-captain Don Breeding, tackles Ron Moon and Phil Calkins, and end Bobby Joe Williams.

Along with a crippled running attack, Palmer's passing game has also taken a dip from the potential it had early in the season. Last week Hylton completed six of 11 attempts—but three of them went into the arms of Trinidad defenders. The loss of Elliott, one of the better receivers on the squad, didn't help this cause any. Hylton now has completed little over 40 per cent of his attempted aerials for 407 yards or but 45 yards per game.

The lone sparkling statistic of the past few games has been the continued fine punting.

AFA Fall Schedule Resumes

Everything's nearly back to normal this ewek on the Air Force Academy's fall schedule with most teams returning to action after a week's break for last Saturday's varsity game with Army in which the entire wing of Cadets witnessed in Chicago.

Besides the varsity's return to Falcon Stadium this week against UCLA, other home contests will see the freshman football team tackle the Brigham Young U. Frosh at 3:15 p.m. Friday, the soccer squad has games today and Sunday, and the cross-country team takes on UCLA and Colorado State U. this Saturday morning on the Eisenhower gold course at the Academy.

The only team not back in action yet will be the Junior Varsity gridders, still catching their breath after a fast start. Their next outing will be a trip to Durango to meet Ft. Lewis A&M, Nov. 16.

With only three games left—all of them "homestands"—the Frosh will be hoping to shift the win-loss ledger this Friday when they host the Brigham Young Freshmen at the Cadet lighted field. The game will be open to the public without charge.

The Frosh, now 1-3 for the season, got their first win Oct. 25 in a home game against the CSU Forsh.

Also coming out of mothballs, after the Air Force-Army weekend, is the AFA cross country team, which will pick up its campaign again, Saturday, by hosting the UCLA and Colorado State U. harriers at 11 a.m.

The squad is now 3-1-1 for the season, but in all meets Cadet Jim Murphy has placed first, and—in each case—set a new course record.

The only other Academy team active last week besides the varsity gridders, was the soccer team, which—like the gridders—suffered a defeat at the hands of the Black Knights of West Point.

In a game played just prior to the Soldier Field classic, Coach Bob Strickland's squad was defeated for the sixth time this year, bowing to the Cadets 4-1.

This afternoon the Falcons were to host Colorado School of Mines on the Academy Soccer Field. The game was slated for 3:15 p.m.

Sunday, the Falcon booters host a rugged University of Wyoming squad in a 2 p.m. encounter. Both contests are open to the public, and there is no admission.

Jaycees to Select 1963 Best Young Farmers

The outstanding young farmers in approximately 1,000 communities will be recognized this Fall as the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce conducts its annual Outstanding Young Farmer competition.

During the next few months the records of thousands of young farmers between the ages of 21 and 36 will be examined by local judges to select one young farmer in each community who has made the most progress during the year, contributed the most to his community and carried out the best conservation program.

Each local winner will be honored in his community and be eligible to compete for the title in his state. State winners advance to the national finals to be held next April in Madison, Wis. The Four Outstanding Young Farmers of America will be named at that time.

Co-sponsor of the national OYF program for the second successive year is the National LP-Gas Market Development Council.

Last year over 750 chapters of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce conducted local programs and examined the farming records of over 6,500 young farmers. Many more Jaycee chapters are expected to conduct OYF programs this year.

Support Climbing Foliage Plants

Climbing foliage plants can be properly supported by wrapping sphagnum or peat moss around a broom handle and covering with meshed hardware cloth. Anchor the pole firmly in a sturdy, tip-proof clay pot.

You'll also find attractive professionally grown climbing plants that come with their own supports of bark, cedar, redwood or bamboo cane.

D.C. WASH

By G. VAN DER HEUVEL

WASHINGTON — At the rate the Kennedys take up new abodes, the houses JFK has lived in may one day outnumber the beds George Washington slept in.

The latest, Annandale Farm in Newport, R. I., known sotto voce as Kennedy's capitulation to his in-laws, brings the count to nine — not counting stop-overs in the homes of friends and relatives.

The Kennedys, as other First Families before them, have a penchant for getting away from the White House. It's a wonderful place to visit — some 27,000 people do so every week, Tuesday thru Friday — but nobody wants to live there day in day cut.

Even its first occupants, the John Adamses, made off for Quincy, Mass., as often as they could. But at that time, the house wasn't finished and the President had to put up with such inconveniences as Abigail's wet-wash hanging in the East Room.

SAGAMOR HILL AND OTHER SAMPLES OF SANCTUARIES

Most Presidents naturally have gone for retreats away from Washington. Theodore Roosevelt spent seven presidential summers at Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, L. I. For Herbert Hoover there was Camp Rapidan in Virginia.

Franklin Roosevelt had his Shangri La in western Maryland and the little White House on the side of Pine Mountain at Warm Springs, Ga. Harry Truman went to the Naval Base at Key West, Fla., when he didn't go home to Independence, Mo.

A strange alliance of man and property, however, was Calvin Coolidge's retreat to Game Lodge in the Black Hills of South Dakota. Here the taciturn, unbending New Englander took up riding and wore gaudy shirts and cowboy chaps and boots. It caused his personal secretary, Edward Tracy Clark, no end of consternation lest the voters "misunderstand."

"It seems to me that for the first time in his life he is actually playing," Clark concluded in a letter to a friend, adding cautiously: "I think it will turn out all right, if it is not overdone, but the line between the fine and the ridiculous is very narrow."

THE EISENHOWERS ALSO GOT AROUND

Ike and Mamie Eisenhower, accustomed to the nomadic life of the military, ventured from Augusta, Ga., to Gettysburg, Pa., to Denver, with stopovers, of course at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., and also at Camp David.

The Kennedys, however, have already set an alltime record in this game of house-hopping.

They started out conventionally enough with only two houses, one here in Georgetown and a summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass. On moving into the White House they gave up the house on N St., selling it at a nice profit, which only proves there is added value in houses lived in by Presidents.

(This moving about could, in fact, be a profitable occupation for the First Family except that they hardly ever buy and sell—they mostly lease or let.)

The Kennedys did build, however, their new house on Rattlesnake Mountain in Atoka, Va., but it was rented out twice before they had ever occupied it.

This caused a few raised eyebrows among the sentimental a-man's-home-is-his-castle set, but the Kennedys, who have so many castles at their disposal, blithely moved in last weekend confident that all the bothersome quirks of a new house had already been discovered and remedied.

The house at Atoka, designed by Mrs. Kennedy, is the second residence the family has had in the Virginia hunt country. The first was Glen Ora, the leased 400-acre estate at Middleburg owned by Mrs. Raymond Tartiere. These two houses have provided the Kennedys' spring and fall retreats from the rigors of White House living. For a change at any time they of course have that FDR-Ike retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains, Camp David.

Mid-winter finds them in Palm Beach and for the last two seasons they have taken over the oceanfront mansion of Col. and Mrs. Capton Michel Paul. The Paul estate is just a mile or so down the road from the President's father's home where JFK has spent winters since his boyhood.

Summers find the entire Kennedy clan at Hyannis Port.

NOT USING THEIR HYANNIS PORT PLACE

For reasons best known to the Kennedys, but also for some of the obvious reasons such as convenience for the President and privacy for his father, who suffered a stroke two years ago, the JFK's have temporarily abandoned their own house on Cape Cod in favor of more secluded rental properties nearby.

They have also spent a few days or weeks at Newport each summer at the home of Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss.

Next year, however, in what observers interpret as a victory for Jackie over the Kennedy combine — the First Family will spend two whole months, August and September, in Newport.

RIGHT NEXT TO JACKIE'S GIRLHOOD SUMMER HOME

The leased 22-acre Annandale Farm adjoins the Auchincloss estate, Hammersmith Farm, where Jackie spent her summers as a young girl.

The house was first offered to the President in late 1961 as a permanent summer White House. The $250,000 price tag was to have been raised by private subscription in Rhode Island, but the President declined that kind of a gift.

However, he and Jackie and Caroline and John Jr., five dogs, one chef, one nurse, a maid and valet, a passel of Secret Service men and an assortment of secretaries will take up residence at the seaside mansion (or nearby accommodations) come next August.

Cragmor Cub Pack Holds Chili Supper

The chili supper sponsored by Cub Scout Pack 71 on Oct. 30 was highly successful. The event was held in the Katherine Lee Bates School gymnasium and was attended by over 500 people. Entertainment was furnished by the El Paso Gunfighters and cub scouts of the pack. Prizes were awarded to children in the best Halloween costumes.

Thomas J. Smith, committee chairman, and Byron Martin, cubmaster, wish to thank the many people who contributed to the success of this event. Pack 71 is sponsored by the Katherine Lee Bates PTA and has a membership of approximately 75.

Bankers Support Colorado 4-H

Thru the Colorado Bankers Association, member banks throughout the state are now making their annual contributions to the Colorado 4-H Foundation, according to Neil L. King of Denver, state foundation chairman. Banker support to the foundation has been continuous since its establishment in 1952.

Foundation assistance provides challenging opportunities to Colorado's 23,646 members and re-enforces the efforts of the more than 4,100 adult leaders who assist 4-H members voluntarily in local clubs.

A portion of the banker's contribution assists the National 4-H Foundation in conducting National and International programs in which Colorado members participate.

Included are the International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) now in its 16th year, and Citizenship programs for leaders and members at the National 4-H Center in Washington.

Colorado bankers through the years have been leading co-operators with the Extension Service of Colorado State University in supporting 4-H work at the local and county levels.

The current program is being conducted through the efforts of K. M. Hall of Colorado Springs, president, and James C. Scarboro of Denver, executive secretary, of the Colorado Bankers Association. Armin B. Barney, president, Colorado Springs National Bank, and many other bankers thruout the state.

SPITBALLS

CHICAGO (UPI) — When baseball outlawed the "spitball" in 1920 only 17 pitchers registered as spitball throwers and were allowed to use the pitch as long as they remained in the game. Many others failed to register because they thought the rule wouldn't stick.

STUDEBAKER rips up the record book!

No other auto maker now holds as many USAC records!

Studebaker bucked the world's toughest test course and walked away with the record book. Now, more than 300 world, national and American stock car records belong to Studebaker's stable of pace setters—stock 6- and 8-cylinder convertibles, sedans, Hawks and Avantis. ▸ Our thrifty Skybolt 6 averaged more than 100 mph for 1,000 miles over a rutted salt course without adding water or oil. Our experimental Avanti averaged 196 mph over the flying mile—fastest time ever recorded by USAC for a stock bodied passenger car. Why did we do it? To prove that safety is bred in the bone of our cars. Safe in the hands of experts at these speeds, and doubly safe for you on the nation's turnpikes. ▸ These tests were sanctioned by the nation's most respected record keepers, the U.S. Auto Club. We are proud of our Bonneville record breakers and you will be too. See these spirited 1964 beauties at your Studebaker dealer today.

CC Student Variety Show Features Folk Singers

BY JOHN FETLER

The emergence of folk singing as the most popular musical exercise on college campus is in evidence at the 16th annual Student Variety Show "Odds and Ends" at Colorado College.

The show was launched Tuesday night at Perkins Hall, and will be given every evening thru Friday night.

To be sure, various other kinds of variety and entertainments and attractions are featured as well, such as a group of Colorado College dancers, the CC Glee Club, the Homecoming Queen, the Alpha Phi Gamma Phi Betas, Delta Gammas, and others.

But, as the evening developed among the lines of a "variety" show, it seems quite clear that the folk song singers have it, here, as they do on other campuses thruout the nation. It is a rather interesting phenomenon the importance of which may be easily overlooked as just another "talent show." Even though it does take talent to tackle the sometimes difficult strumming of the guitar and other instruments, still the emergence of folk songs on campuses may be considered to have a deeper importance than the mere talent shows of yesteryear.

A decade or two ago, a folk singer, even on a campus, would not have gotten as much as a nod from the English or music departments. Popular tunes such as "By the Old Mill Stream" were the ones which the students sang when they felt in a mellow, popular mood. Times have changed. New needs arose, and the result is one which in all probability will not be merely a fad - as it is, undoubtedly in many cases now - but will survive with some deeper implications in the development of the American psyche.

True, this kind of interpretation would seem perhaps a "reading into" the subject more than the credit it generally gets these days, but there is precedence of a similar nature in similar fields and areas.

Technically speaking, the folk singers seem to show better guitar work than vocal work - as a rule. Which, of course, is a stage of development, since the guitar work is basically for rhythmic purposes - although it is used for interpretation as well. But the interpretation properly belongs to the voice, and that some of the folk singers have made a good stab in that direction can be seen from their performance, whether they appear singly, in twos and threes, or in even larger groups, as they do in this show.

The point is that unlike some talent shows of yesteryear, many of the folk singers take this type of musical activity very seriously: Some for the artistic challenge which it presents, but many more for the "message" and for the human relatedness which it makes possible, whether in protest songs or the nostalgic, run of the mill folk songs which are by now familiar to almost everybody.

Combined with this element of folk songs (including some old-fashioned country-made music in the second half of the show) the student show for the United Fund benefit is a brisk, well-paced production with bright, colorful variety.

PLENTY OF NUTTIN'

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — The Surrey Downs Elementary School has its own filbert grove, and every year the pupils harvest the crop, package the nuts and sell them to parents and friends.

When the school was built in the middle of an old filbert grove, it was decided to keep all 312 trees surrounding the school. Proceeds of the sales go to the student - body fund for purchase of playground equipment and instructional material.

City Civil Service Exam for Firemen Set Nov. 27

A city civil service examination to create an eligibility list for the Colorado Springs fire department will be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 27 in the main arena at the City Auditorium. This will be a written examination.

Those who successfully pass the written test will be given physical and oral examinations at a later date, according to C. L. Heitman Jr., city personnel director and secretary of the civil service commission.

The current eligibility name list has been depleted and 13 men will be employd as firemen starting Feb. 1.

Heitman said the starting salary for a fireman is $370 a month. But this will be increased automatically to $400 the second year, $430 the third year and $510 to start the fourth year.

The fire department will need 12 new men to man the city's No. 7 fire station, now under construction at Palmer Park and Academy Boulevards. The 13th man will be to fill a vacancy on the department because of the recent retirement of Capt. Al Edwards.

The new fire station won't be ready for use until March 1 but the new men will be given a month of intensive training at other stations before being assigned to their new posts.

Applications to take the written examination must be filed on or before 5 p.m. Nov. 22 at the office of the city manager at City Hall. Application blanks can be obtained at that office.

To be eligible to take the exams for firemen, candidates must be not less than 5 feet 8 inches in height, weigh not less than 140 pounds and have reached their 21st birthday but not their 30th birthday.

Also, Heitman said, a certified copy of a birth certificate must be submitted with the application.

Applicants must have had at least two years of high school or the equivalent thereof. The diploma or transcript of credits must be presented with applications.

A veterans' preference of five points is figured in overall grading system. Discharges must be presented with applications.

The birth certificates, high school credits and discharge papers will all be returned to applicants.

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The Belle of Louisville, a steamboat used for Ohio River exursions, had a collision with a car. When the Belle returned from a fall sight-seeing trip, her gangplank brushed the side of a new car parked at the edge of the wharf by a woman hurrying to get on the boat. The sternwheeler is owned by Louisville and Jefferson County.

MY ANSWER

QUESTION: It grieves me not to be able to give my children things they want so very much. I have never been able to earn much money but as I come from a poor family I am used to doing without things. —P. D.

ANSWER: Our Lord told His disciples: "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." If you are a Christian and have a Christian home, you are giving your children the most precious things to be had, things which make life worth living now and which will last for all eternity. One of the worst things which can happen to children is to have their minds filled with material things to the exclusion of eternal values. The Bible says: "Godliness with contentment is great gain. Having food and raiment let us be therewith content." I can well understand your desire to give things to your children. But, if you teach them to know the joy of the Lord and to distinguish between true values and the things which perish with the using, you will be giving them something worth infinitely more than if you were showering them with presents. Let them be conscious of your love and let them see the joy you have in the Lord. The Bible says: "And be content with such things as ye have: for He hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee." If faith in Christ dominates your home, it already is a foretaste of heaven.

Insurance Fund Meet Slated in Denver

DENVER (AP)—The State Compensation Insurance Fund will be the subject of a public meeting of the Governor's Committee for the fund Nov. 19 at 1:30 p.m. in room 320 of the State Capitol.

Rep. James Braden, R-Colorado Springs, said the meeting is the last one planned before the legislature meets in January. The committee expects to recommend several changes in the law.

Braden said the hearing will look into the failure of several counties to keep up their payments to the fund. Among them is Costilla County which is $13,000 in arrears.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

We received a nice rain and snow last Thursday. It really came down most of the morning and made the roads rather bad for a while. We had two pretty good freezes finally, but the trees still haven't shel all their leaves.

Rosie Marie Baker received an injured knee while roller skating Saturday, Oct. 28, in Colorado Springs. Bill Baker took her to the doctor on Monday and they operated on her knee and put her leg in a cast. She returned home from the hospital Friday, Nov 1. Her mother came home from Dodge City after she received word of Rosie's injury. She got here Tuesday evening.

Robert Chisman received word of the death of one of his buddies at Bell Rose, La., Saturday, Oct. 28. He had visited here a couple of times. He worked on the highway in Louisiana and was crushed to death at work. The Robert Chismans had visited him and his relatives in August. Several of the Army buddies were as close at brothers when they were so many miles from home.

Word was received from Troy Gaines that he was coming along very nicely since he had surgery. It will take quite a little time to get back to his old self, but he was doing real well.

Congratulations to the Scott Chismans, who celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary Wednesday, Oct. 25. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman visited there that day. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Lebron Heid, and Mr. and Mrs. Knoll Heid, of Augusta, Kan., were also there. They also called at the Frank Paradays and Leland Thurmans. The Thurmans used to run the Farmers Creamery.

We were sorry to hear that Rev. Walter Schaefer has been in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Chisman had recently returned from a month's trip to California, where Scott did some deep sea fishing.

Harold Chisman has recently been in the hospital also, and had some surgery.

Ruth Chisman spent Halloween night with the Robert Chisman children. Sunday, Nov. 3 Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chisman, Dennis, Brenda Bonesteel and Myra Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman Brenda and Sheryl of Colorado Springs Robert, Judy, Marvin and Ramona Chidman, of Pueblo, and James Bruce, of Fountain, visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman.

The Youth Talent service was held at Hanover Church Sunday evening, Nov. 3. The Black Forest and Hanover young folks had a roller skating party in Colorado Springs Tuesday evening, Nov. 5.

Homer Carpenter got to come home from the Veterans Hospital in Denver a little over a week ago.

Debra, Gary and Teressa Dickson of Colorado Springs spent the weekend with Grandma and Grandpa Dickson. Wayne and Donna had gone hunting. They returned Sunday evening for the children, and Al and Irene Vette all had supper with the Dicksons.

French Public Service Workers Stage Strike

PARIS (AP) — Nearly two million public service workers staged a one-day warning strike in France today, cutting the electric supply, mail deliveries and garbage collection.

Many teachers also struck, closing a number of public schools. Military personnel were rushed into airports when control tower workers walked out.

The workers claim they are caught in a wage-price squeeze caused by the government's anti-inflation campaign launched last September. The government has offered to grant certain wage adjustments but has refused to meet all union demands.

Cascade News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

A traditional Halloween party was given Cascade residents Thursday evening Oct. 31, at Fire House Hall, financed by the Volunteer Fire Department and the CPOA. Between 60 and 70 persons attended. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dugdale and Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson were the judges for deciding who wore the most unusual and original costume. Prizes went to Kim Wilson, junior girl; George Henson Jr., junior boy; Erna Nittamn teen-age girl; M. Potter, adult man, and Donna Heisch adult lady. A fish pond was in charge of Mrs. Donna Kohl and Mel Schumacher, the dart game was conducted by Sharaon Ernst, and Eleanor Pole the apple dunking. Frank Delp, of the Country Store, contributed candy and prizes for the children. Co-chairman for the affair were Carol and Jean Sanborn, assisted by Grace Wilson, Louise Weiman, Penny Doran and Miss Jacobs.

A called board meeting of the Cascade Property Owners Association was held Oct. 21 at 7:30 at the fire house. It was voted to send a letter to the Recreation Committee asking for a formal statement concerning their status in the proposed Park and Recreation District under consideration for the area. The next regular meeting of the CPOA will be the second Tuesday in December.

Ricky Ernst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ernst, celebrated his eighth birthday by inviting all of his schoolmates in the third grade at Cascade School to come to a costume party at his house Wednesday, Oct. 30, right after school. Forty girls and boys attended and enjoyed games and refreshments, especially the decorated cake with a "witch" on top and the noise makers. Winning prizes for the best costumes were George Henson Jr., dressed as a girl; Grag Bartley., as a "Mummy" and Mitzie Sanders and a "Leopard". Bobbing for apples was lots of fun when you got one with a dime or or nickle stuck inside. Mrs. Mary Nittman Mrs. Barbara Patterson and Mrs. Donna Heisch assisted the hostess with the games, etc.

Den 1, Cub Scouts, Pack 33 met Tuesday after school at the firehouse with Den Mothers Joyce Woolston and An Rasner. Each answered roll call by repeating the Scout law. Only one member was absent. Larry Hey conducted the Flag ceremony. Serving for the next three months as Denner will be Marvin Slaven and Assistant Denner Bruce Howard. The Den Mothers were given "DYBS" for the Halloween treats, and pumpkins brought by Mrs. Rasner that were carved into Jack o Lanterns by the cubs. The meeting closed with the Living Circle ceremony.

Den No. 2, Cub Scouts, met at the home of Mrs. Faye Schumacher, with Mrs. Francine Nelson co-den Mother. Johnny Pole, a new member, led the Flag ceremony. Real pumpkins were brought by each Cub Scout to be carved into a Jack-o-Lantern. Randy Hey furnished the cider and doughnuts for a treat. Den 2, will prepare the skit for the November Pack meeting.

Den No. 3, with Mrs. Polly Bartley and Mrs. Sharaon Ernst Den Mothers, met at the Ernst home for their meeting last week in celebration of Rickey Ernst's eighth birthday, with all members present. Three "Howls" were given Rickey for his birthday and to George Henson for being the Safety Patrol at school last week. The November theme is to be "World of Sound". Face masks were made at the meeting to use for Halloween, and the party enjoyed Halloween treats and games.

Room Mothers at Cascade School this year are Mrs. Bette Beal and Mrs. Noni Phelps, in First Grade; Mrs. Elva Warner, teacher; Mrs. Donna Kohl and Mrs. Templeton, second grade; Mrs. Millie Van Kirk teacher; Mrs. Faye Schumacher and Mrs. Sharbutt Owens, third grade, Mrs. Ruby Lee Thomson teacher. Mrs. Maragret Brooks is a room mother in fifth grade at Manitou Springs, Mrs. Pat Heltemes, teacher.

Lance Huffman was given the spotlight in last week's "Prospector," Manitou Springs School paper for his dedicated interests in promoting school activities. Besides being president of the Student Council, he is co-captain of the football team, a member of the Pep Club and Letterman's Club, and participates in sales campaigns for the Prospector and Mustang.

Mrs. Carla Foresyth and Mrs. Helen Quinn were among six ladies who attended the YBA school held Saturday afternoon, Nov. 2, at the Peak Bowl from 12 till 3 p.m. Their previous status as junior counselors has been changed to qualified bowling instructors. They will wear an official patch on their shirts as identification.

Mrs. Janet Lewis attended the October 28 meeting of Ruhamah Temple No. 71, Daughters of the Nile, held at the Shrine Temple in Pueblo. A tea was held on Sunday, Oct. 27, celebrating the golden anniversary of the Daughters, which is one of the 123 in the United States and Canada.

Sugar Creek House, pyramid Mesa residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hutchens, was the scene of a double ring ceremony Saturday evening November 2 at 7:30, uniting Sgt. Glenn Koski of Durfield, Ill., and Pauline Woody, of Colorado Springs. Attendants were Retha Guier, matron of honor, and Leslie Guier, best man, both of Cascade. The newly-weds will reside in their new mobile home at Pike Village Trailer Court. The marriage was solumnized by the Rev. Paul Hutchens, pastor of the Ute Pass Bible Church.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

PRICE WARNING: President Kennedy's top economic advisers have warned that consumers face higher prices if Congress passes "quality stabilization" legislation.

A bill passed by the House Commerce Committee and pending before the Rules Committee would allow manufacturers of trade-marked merchandise to set a minimum retail price.

"With price competition eliminated, manufacturers would tend to set uniform prices at or near—or in some cases above—the top of the present range," the council said Tuesday in an analysis, which had been asked by the Senate-House Economic Committee.

ATOM COSTS: The Atomic Energy Commission isn't saying if a drop in operating costs for developing nuclear weapons means a cut-back in weapons production.

The AEC announced Tuesday that it spent nearly $697 million for such work in the fiscal year that ended last June 30. This represented a drop of some $9 million from fiscal 1962 when such costs were nearly $706 million.

Costs had risen steadily from the $250 million in fiscal 1954, the first year figures were released publicly, until 1962.

In its financial report for fiscal 1963, the AEC listed total operating costs at $2,713,207,000—compared with $2,695,936,000 the previous year. Weapons development took the biggest slice—nearly 26 per cent.

Your Garden Should Be Cleaned

Cleaning your garden in the fall not only will make your spring chores easier, but it will help prevent plant diseases from surviving the winter.

Let's consider the disease aspect. Some diseases go south, then return on air currents in the spring, emulating seasonal tourists.

Other plant diseases survive by burying themselves in seeds to withstand the cold. One kind lives as condensed fungus tissues in the soil and may come through several winters. Others may survive on the surface or inside the seed coat as fungus spores, threads or bacterial cells.

More specifically, bean anthracnose, bean blight and some cabbage diseases carry over as fungus threads or bacterial threads in partially decayed crop residue left in the garden after the harvest.

Plant viruses often survive in flower bulbs and corms or cuttings taken from plants, or in the roots of common weeds.

Tools, machinery, bags and crates, storage bins and cellars also are havens for disease. Bins should be cleaned thoroughly of old stems before storing vegetables.

Buying treated seed or treating it yourself is another preventative measure. Exercise care and buy from reliable seed dealers.

Fall plowing will help reduce diseases by burying and hastening rotting of plant residue.

Vaccine May Be Effective Against Colds

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

AH-CHOO: Science believes it may finally have a toehold on one of man's most elusive and potent foes.

Government scientists have developed the first experimental vaccine against one of the platoon of viruses believed to cause the sniffles type of common cold.

Successful testing of the vaccine was done on volunteer prisoners at the federal reformatory at Lorton, Va.

Dr. Robert Huebner of the National Institutes of Health called it an encouraging first step in the quest for a "shotgun vaccine" that could be turned against all the various cold viruses.

But such a weapon may be years in the making, if it can be developed at all, Huebner said.

ON THE JOB: The Senate has officially named a successor to Robert G. Baker as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority.

By voice vote and without word of dissent Monday, it promoted Francis R. Valeo to the post vacant since Baker resigned Oct. 7 under allegations he used the job to promote his business dealings.

Valeo, a former employe of the Library of Congress, has been administrative assistant to Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The Senate has opened an invetigation into Baker's dealings.

COST OF DYING: In the government ledgers, the cost of dying will be counted as part of the cost of living beginning next year.

Funeral costs will be added to food, rent, clothing and other selected items in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index.

Asst. Commissioner Arnold Chase said the bureau made the decision nearly a year ago, "before all this furor came along."

The furor is the controversy stirred up by two recent books, "The American Way of Death" and "The High Cost of Dying."

The furor is the controversy stirred up by two recent books, "The American Way of Death" and "The High Cost of Dying."

The first funeral cost figures will come out in February.

General Motors Will Pay Richest Dividend

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) —General Motors Corp. will pay common stockholders $1,136,000,000 in 1963, by far the richest dividend distribution ever made by a business enterprise.

Directors of GM, the world's largest industrial concern, voted Monday to dip into record high earnings for a special $429-million Christmas season disbursement.

The extra dividend, second of the year for GM, was in addition to a regular quarterly payment of more than $143 million. Checks will be mailed to be received by the 1,060,000 stockholders Dec. 10.

The melon-slicing stemmed from prospects that promise to make this automobile industry boom year the best in production, sales and earnings in GM's 55-year history.

At the half-way and three-quarters marks, the company reported profits never before equaled by any business.

On a per share basis, the 1963 dividend amounts to $4, half of it in regular quarterly payments, half in "extras." The extra declared Monday amounted to $1.50 a share.

The huge payout was expected to have bullish influence on the stock market when trading resumes Thursday after an election day recess.

Excepting American Telephone & Telegraph Co., no other company has nearly as many stockholders as General Motors. GM leads AT&T and all the rest in shares outstanding with 28[illegible] 516.705.

Convention activities will actually begin three days before the opening of the main session.

They are the Executive committee, Agriculture committee, National Welfare Committee and Grange Land and Good of the Order Committee.
